Freaks of the Missouri.

Farmer Who Find their Fluids Have Disappeared Over Night.

In the May "St. Nicholas" Frank H. Spearman has a paper entitled "A Shifting Boundary," which is particularly timely just at present, as it tells of the way the Missouri river has a habit of suddenly changing its boundaries. Mr. Spearman says: Of course you've heard of the curious freaks of the Missouri river—the "Big Muddy"; how the sudden, treacherous mountain waters roll down in mighty floods from Montana and Wyoming, ricochet from side to side of the broad valley they have eaten deep into soft prairies, and pour headlong into the Mississippi near St. Louis; how, night and day, winter and summer, the twisting torrent shifts its channel, catches the muskrats, keeps the fish studying guide-posts, worries the bridge guards, and sets the farmers crazy. For, just think of it: the Nebraska farmer whose land stretches along the river goes to bed thinking he will cut his broad acres of golden wheat in the morning; but lo! in the night that madcap river has entered his waving fields, and like snow they have melted away. Grain, fences, trees, buildings, land—are gone! And a great, sullen, yellow flood boils and eddies where his harvest smiled yesterday. Next week, very likely, the reckless stream will make his neighbor across the river a present of a hundred or more acres, just because he doesn't need them. Of course it was natural for a man who lost his land that way to look longingly across the river, and think, after a while, that the newly made land over there belonged to him; and many a wearisome lawsuit has been begun to recover title to "made" land which lies, maybe, exactly where the lost farm lay, but on the other side of the river. Perhaps there is some equity in such a claim; but the trouble is, that sort of thing is going on all the time, and the courts said they couldn't keep track of such grants; that lands acquired by accretion—mark that word—should belong to the farmer who owned the river bank where they were thrown up; that if the river took your farm, you would have to fish out of the stream you lost it in; at least, you needn't ask the courts to give you another if it.

Miss Columbia's Overgrown Infant.

I believe in protecting infant industries, but when the infants get to be six feet high and grow whiskers, and when they threaten to kick the end out of the cradle if they don't get more pap, I think it's about time to take the bottle away from them.—Colonel R. G. Ingersoll (Rep).

Protecting the Few Woolgrowers.

Suppose the Dingley duties on wool would give the woolgrowers all the protection claimed and that the price of wool would actually go up the full amount of the duty, which, of course, is absurd. What would be the effect upon the country at large? Mr. Edward Atkinson, statistician, estimates the annual wool product at $55,000,000 out of a total of $19,200,000,000 produced by all the workers of the country and the persons dependent on the wool industry at 800,000 out of a total population of 73,000,000. The wool product then means that out of every 240 persons 239 are to be "held up" for the benefit of the other one. This is a sample of what protection does. Of course more than 800,000 persons may sometimes raise a few sheep, but the interests of these others are more those of the consumer than of the sheep raiser, and they would lose more because of increased cost of woollens than they would gain by the increased price of wool. The protective tariff system is a farce when considered in connection with the farmer or the workman. Will they ever fully appreciate it?

Why We Shiver.

It is true that woollen clothing, underwear and blankets will be out of the reach of people of moderate means when Dingley has his way, but just think how sweet it is to suffer for one's country and to shiver in order that the robbers' hands may continue to wax fat and contribute to the "legitimate" expenses of the g. o. p.—Louisville Post.

Lincoln's Private Car.

The War Relic is Now Abandoned and Consigned to Decay.

The war car of President Lincoln, the one in which Lincoln made his visits to the army in the Virginia campaigns, in which he held consultations with Grant, Sherman, Sheridan and other leaders, and in which finally he was borne to his last resting place, is now abandoned and left to decay in an out of the way corner in the Union Pacific car shops at Omaha. The most magnificent car on the rails in its time, its now cracked, weather beaten sides, its shattered windows, rusty brass railings offer a mournful contrast to its departed grandeur. The car was built specially for Mr. Lincoln in the military car shops at Alexandria early in 1864. It was 42 feet long by 8 1/2 feet wide, and was divided into three compartments. The entrance was by a corridor extending the entire length of the car. From this passageway doors opened into the three compartments. The one at the end of the car was larger than the others. This was Mr. Lincoln's office and study. It was furnished with tables and a sofa and reclining chairs. The sofa was a combination affair, made of unusual length to correspond to Mr. Lincoln's physical requirements. It was used as a sofa or lounge during the day, but at night could be adjusted into a double bed or two berths. The walls were furnished with rich colored crimson silk upholstery, and the frieze displayed painted panels of the coats of arms of the several states. The car was adapted to the exigencies of the times, being ironclad, armor plate being set between the inner and outer walls to make it bulletproof. From this circumstance its weight was so great that it was thought necessary to place it upon four wheel trucks.

The car was sent with a quantity of war material to Cincinnati to be sold in 1866. Sidney Dillon of the Union Pacific purchased it with other cars and equipment and it passed to Omaha. Its connection with Mr. Lincoln and the fact that it was one of the finest private cars then in existence gave it great temporary public attention. It was used as a directors' private car for awhile, but its great weight and peculiar construction later caused it to be laid aside. Even as a dining car for a construction gang it proved unsuitable, and for years it has been disintegrating in idleness in the shops at Omaha.—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

Returning to the Fold.

The editor of the New York World is at last coming to his senses. It is evident from a recent issue of that excellent paper the following appeared as a double-headed editorial: The Republicans are in supreme control of the national Government. They have had ample opportunity to try their hand, but prosperity has not come, nor do we see any sign of its coming, and we cannot even see the shadow of it under the far horizon. Month by month the silver sentiment is steadily growing and strengthening and the figure of Bryan as the Man of 1900 looms larger and larger.

PHYSICIANS ENDORSE IT.

Physicians have been for years interested in cycling and they pronounce it beneficial. There has only been one drawback and that has been the saddle. There has been but one perfect saddle on the market which they could recommend, that is the CHRISTY ANATOMICAL SADDLE. The base is made of metal that cannot warp or change its shape. It has cushions where cushions are required to receive the pelvic bones and a space so that there can be no possibility of pressure on the sensitive parts and positively prevents saddle injury.

COLUMBIAS, CLEVELANDS, STERLING'S, STEARNS, and all other high grade bicycles will come fitted with the CHRISTY SADDLE if you ask for it. High grade makers have adopted and will furnish the CHRISTY without extra charge.

SPALDINGS,

WHY? Simply because upon careful examination they have come to the conclusion that it was necessary to offer to their buyers a saddle that would not prove injurious and hurt cycling—and their decision was without hesitation in favor of the CHRISTY Anatomical Saddle built right.

SLEEPLESS NIGHTS.

RUN DOWN IN HEALTH—CONSTANT PAINS IN ARMS AND SHOULDERS—A VALUABLE GIFT—HEALTH, APPETITE AND SLEEP—PAINS ARE GONE. "I was run down in health and could hardly keep on my feet. The least exertion would cause palpitation and I would feel as though I was being smothered. My nights were sleepless and I felt worse in the morning than when I retired. My liver was out of order and I had constant pains in my arms and shoulders and numbness in my limbs. I was sometimes dizzy and would fall. My son gave me two bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla and they proved of more value than a very costly gift. In a short time after taking Hood's Sarsaparilla I had a good appetite, sleep came back to me and the pains all left me." Mrs. ANNIE E. STEETTER, 621 Marietta Ave., Lancaster, Pa. "Everything I ate seemed to produce gas in my stomach. Friend advised me to take Hood's Sarsaparilla. When I had taken four bottles I was able to eat and feel no distress. I could attend to my household duties without the fatigue I formerly felt." ADA McVEIGH, White Hall, Pa.
