Danish Cow Stables.
They are Carefully Constructed and Sanitary.
Danish cow stables are kept always snowily whitewashed without and within, and between the two rows of stalls is a central gangway for the passage of a hay cart to distribute forage to the mangers. Large stalls accommodate two cows each. The animals being prevented from access, however to each other's food. In a trough above the mangers clear water runs from end to end, and the ventilation and light are excellent. The cattle have two or three feeds daily of mangel wurtzel, a middy feed of hay, and night and morning are fed with a mixture of rape cake and brass. In summer they are turned out to grass. The calves are carefully cared for, and also the multitude of pigs which fatten on the dairy waste, making bacon of such superior quality that it is in great demand abroad, 132,000,000 pounds having been exported last year.

Dunn's Review of Trade.
While failures were the smallest ever known in any quarter since 1892, and business payments through banks the largest by $268,000,000 ever known in September, the speculators who profess anxiety about Cuba, or fever at the South, or a municipal election, still have some influence. Helping them just now is the fact that after extraordinary purchases for replenishment of stocks from any section or town there must necessarily be for a time less buying from that quarter. Yet business is still increasing, the productive force steadily enlarges, the distribution of wages affords an increasing fund for purchases, and the foundations are laid for a larger business hereafter. The week's exchanges are 8.8 per cent. larger than in 1892.
Crop reports who have widely differed now agree in putting the yield of wheat about 580 to 590 million bushels, which is nearly 200 million bushels more than will be required for home use, keeping stocks as they were July 1st, the lowest for seven years. As foreign reports indicate a larger demand, and exports since July 1st have been nearly as heavy as in the best past year, with 2,985,784 bushels from Atlantic ports, flour included, for the last week, against 2,240,571 last year, the recovery of 1 1/2 cents in price for the week is not without reason. Western receipts continue to exceed last year's, 8,001,220 bushels against 7,243,969 for the week. With less favorable reports of yield, corn exports fall short slightly with small difference in price. Cotton is unchanged in price with larger consuming demand, though big crop estimates do not appear to be disputed.
Heavy crops mean greater business for railroads, and earnings have been increasing each week in September compared with last year, so that the aggregate of returns for the month, 12.8 per cent. larger than in 1896, are 1.8 per cent. larger than in 1892. Trunk lines show a gain of 4.3 per cent. and western roads a small loss compared with that year. Chicago east bound tonnage for the quarter was but 1 per cent. smaller than in 1892, and west bound freights have been unusually large. Stocks have been held back by successive attacks, in spite of some buying for investment and on European accounts, closing 38.81, per share higher than a week ago for railroads and 35c. per share higher for trusts. Efforts to create distrust regarding foreign relations or the monetary future appear to have little influence.
A large increase in the production of pig iron, with heavy realizing sales of lots held on speculation, have caused a decline of 15c. to $10.00 for Bessemer at Pittsburgh, though Grey Forge there has advanced 25c., and pig is stronger at Chicago and eastern markets. But finished products grow stronger, with a demand outrunning the capacity of works in operation in many branches, so that delays in delivery are in sheets and tin plate bars embarrassing, and in some other branches orders cannot be filled within one or two months. Building of more vessels on the lakes and sea coast, heavy orders for sheets, bars, rods and pipe, have caused advances averaging half of 1 per cent. for the week on all classes, but the general gain is yet not quite 10 per cent. from the lowest point. Reports of combination in steel are denied, and it is said that only three large producers will agree on prices, while the rod and wire compact appears to be still in the future.
Wool has now reached an average of 20.37 cents per pound for 100 quotations of domestic by Coates Bros., of Philadelphia, showing a rise of 8 cents since a year ago, with a much heavier rise on some qualities, but following an average decline of 11 cents from March, 1893. Speculative sales still account for most of the aggregate, which has been at the three chief markets 14,337,000 pounds for the week, of which 8,955,890 were domestic, but manufacturers are purchasing some wool for mixture with the cheaper wool held for some months past. The rise has so greatly exceeded the advance in prices of woolen goods that the mills might have to pause but for the very large stocks purchased in advance. Goods are strong, with a further advance in some grades, but in the aggregate thus far not 20 per cent. from the lowest point against 60 per cent. advance in the average price of wool. Dealings in cotton goods are delayed by weakness in raw cotton, but neither print cloth nor other goods have declined since last week, and though the mills are not quite fully employed, a continued increase in consumption is with reason expected. The disastrous influence of the great rise in boots and shoes and in leather during the fall of 1895 still checks dealings in those products, and slow business has now brought a slight decline in the average price of boots and shoes, and also in prices of sole leather, while hides are again a shade lower at Chicago.

The exports of merchandise from New York show an increase so large that, notwithstanding heavier imports than have been expected, an enormous merchandise balance is assured which must continue for months to come. It is to be remembered that the outward movement of cotton has but just begun. The shipment of $7,850,000 from London this week, like the two large shipments from Australia which preceded, is distinctly warranted in settlement of merchandise balances, and with foreign purchases exceeding sales of securities for some weeks past, the amount to be paid by specie imports is large. The complete returns of failures for September and the quarter, both by States and by branches of business given on Saturday, form the most encouraging report which it has been possible to make for several years. Failures for the week were 212 in the United States, against 296 last year, and 29 in Canada, against 46 last year.

Save the Lives of the People.
It has long been manifest that the honor, financial and best good of the State of Pennsylvania demand that the Republican party be voted out of power. Recent events show that course to be essential even to the protection of the lives of the working people. The corporations control the Republican party through contributions of the funds with which its shameless campaigns are prosecuted. The Democratic party controls the State, the big cities and most of the counties and, as a consequence, sheriffs' deputies armed with deadly Winchester and the military forces of the State stand ready at the call of the corporations to shoot down their workmen whenever the latter display the temerity to ask for redress of their grievous conditions or an increase of their miserable wages.
The recent brutal murders of miners at Lattimer are the most flagrant instances in point, but are liable to be repeated any day and in any of our great industrial sections unless the government at Harrisburg shall be revolutionized by Democratic success. What is needed is Democratic legislation to make laws for the people instead of for the corporations and a state executive power independent in all its departments of every obligation excepting to the people. And as a first step to the achievement of this object all who are opposed to such infamous and cruel subordination of the powers of the State to the rule of individual greed should unite in helping this year to elect the Democratic candidates for state treasurer and auditor general. Excepting for the tardy and partial revolt of the Governor the official forces on capitol hill constitute a solid phalanx for plunder of the taxpayers and battle against the wage workers in their attempt to secure something like decent treatment from their corporation masters. The election of Messrs. Brown and Ritter would be a break and an important break in the cabal. The exposures they would be in a position to make, the reforms their offices would enable them to accomplish would, beyond question, put the way for an entire cleaning out of the dirty and disreputable mess within a very few years. Every taxpayer, every workman has deep interest in this good work. It is the one and only opportunity of escape from a rule that, for rottenness and recklessness of popular rights, we make bold to say, is without parallel in our political history.

Open the Books.
The State of Pennsylvania is in the anomalous condition of practical bankruptcy as to the current needs of its schools and other lawful dependencies, while at the same time the owner of millions of money which is being held and manipulated for the aggrandizement of favored banks in the several leading cities. There has never been, is not now, and never need be any lack of funds with which to promptly meet every demand that may legitimately be made upon the resources of the State. Whatever injury or inconvenience may accrue from tardy payments, proceed from the downright dishonesty and reckless profligacy of Republican rule.
Flagrant as were the steals that have been already exposed, and that have been known of all within the State, the whole disgraceful truth will never be revealed so long as the state treasurer's and auditor general's offices are allowed to remain in control of the Republican party. The bookkeeping methods in these departments are so devised as to cover up and conceal many of the disreputable transactions by which the tax-payers have been and are being fleeced to reward the horde of hangers-on of the party to whom the dirty work of its campaigns is assigned. There is a crying necessity that the records of these offices should pass under the control and be open to the supervision of men fitting of the Republican party, but solemnly pledged to retrenchment and reform. The distribution of the treasury balances to particular banks without the exaction of interest; the maintenance of scores of unnecessary and useless offices on and around capitol hill and through the State; the reckless extravagance in the purchase of the fittings of the departments and the legislative chambers; the numerous costly and useless so-called investigations; enormous waste in the item of public printing; the leakages between the treasury and the statutory beneficiaries of the unwarranted payments—these and kindred divergences of the people's moneys from the purposes for which they are constitutionally intended, have probably made up from twenty-five to fifty per cent., if not more, of the $12,000,000 or $13,000,000 of the State's annual expenditures. Each year adds to the astounding total of the steals, the awful magnitude of these wrongs. And each ensuing year will continue to add to them, so long as the people remain indifferent to their golden opportunities as the Democratic party has this year, in the nomination of Messrs. Brown and Ritter, afforded them for such a change as will mean a definite return to honest and economical government.

Wanted in Short Order.
Curious verification is said to have been given not long ago to the tradition that no man is allowed to become a member of the Vassar faculty unless he be married. If an unmarried man make application for membership the rule is to first inquire if he be married. The proverbial exception to this rule occurred in the case of a young man who sought to fill the Vassar chair of history not long ago, and was so acceptably in every way that his examiners forgot to inquire into the most important thing of all—his state of double or single blessedness. Not until the day for opening the college was at hand did any one of them recall how shockingly they had left undone those things which they ought to have done. The young man, by that time arrived, had to confess that he was a bachelor. Well, there was nothing for it but the one thing, so the faculty hemmed and hawed a bit and finally got it out that the young man must get married.
"We'll give you just two weeks," they said; "otherwise you'll have to resign your place. Sincerely you know of some girl that you can get to marry you within two weeks?"
It was now the turn of the poor young man to hem and haw, but he saw that there was no alternative, his whole professional future depended upon it, so he permitted himself to be hustled off the campus before any of the susceptible students caught sight of him, promising to return within a fortnight married. He was as good as his word, though he had a pretty hard time fulfilling the contract to the letter.

A VAGABOND SONG.

There is something in the autumn that is native to my blood—
Touch of manner, hint of mood:
And my heart is like a rhyme,
With the yellow sand the purple and the crimson keeping time.
The scarlet of the maples can shake me like a cry
Of bangles going by.
And my lonely spirit thrills
To see the frosty asters like smoke upon the hills.
There is something in October sets the gypsy blood a-fire;
We must rise and follow her,
When from every hill of fame
She calls, and calls each vagabond by name.

The Reeder Collapse.

Only One Topic Discussed Among Northampton Politicians.
EASTON, Pa., Oct. 9.—The Reeder-Weiss-Luchenbach habes corpus fiasco is still the leading topic of conversation amongst the people of this city and Northampton county. Go where you would, in the hotels, at the clubs and even at the county fair, at Nazareth, during the week, it was freely discussed. For weeks past General Reeder had been telling how anxious he was to have an opportunity to show up the people who were prosecuting and defaming him when it came to the time for the habes corpus hearing the anxiety of the defense seemed to have been in its side of the case, the only Judge Scott ruled that the law required the exact reverse of this in habes corpus proceedings, and directed that the hearing of testimony be proceeded with. This settled the matter, and the petition for the writ was withdrawn and leave asked for the defendants to enter bail for their appearance at the November court, without hearing another word of the prosecution's case to come out.
The argument and final summing up in the contested election cases, about which so much has been said, was commenced before examiner R. C. Stewart on Friday morning. It is rumored that the contestants will prove sufficient errors to seat at least two of the contestants, but of this more will be known when the matter gets before the court of final adjudication.

The Anniversary of the Death of Edgar Allan Poe.

The seventh of October was the anniversary of the death of Edgar Allan Poe. In 1849, on the 7th of October, the author of "The Raven" closed his career in Baltimore. His modest monument in the old churchyard at the corner of Greene and Fayette streets, in that city, bears the date inscribed, and flowers may not be missing on his tomb upon the annual return of the day. But it is not only in this city, where one of the foremost of American poets found a home and a grave, that his memory will be recalled to-day. All over the globe, says the Baltimore Sun, wherever the English tongue is spoken or known, he will be remembered in the closet of the student and in the academic halls of literature, as well as in the minds and hearts of lovers of genuine poetry. It is true that "the who wants to understand the poet must go to the poet's land" of thoughts, experience and feelings, then the "martyr genius of American poetry" will only be fully appreciated by those who, like him, learned to suffer; for as he was one of the most brilliant, so he was one of the most unhappy poetical intellectualities the New World has produced.

Strike Again at Hazleton.

Men Go Out at the Scene of the Late Murderous Riot.
HAZLETON, Pa., Oct. 8.—The Lehigh & Wilkesbarre breaker employs on the Southside are again on strike. They were given their checks to-day, and are to be paid to-morrow afternoon, but when the breaker hands found that they had been granted less than what they claim they were promised at the time of the settlement of the recent strike they all refused to work and say that if the officials offer no satisfactory explanation or give no advance, the 2,500 men of this company who were out during the difficulty will again be idle.
This practically resumes the strike, because if the breaker hands are idle the inside men, who have received an advance, cannot work.
The Wharton vein in the Cranberry mine is on fire to-night. The officials are on the ground, but up to a late hour the extent of the fire was unknown.

Phillipsburg Three Score Years Ago.

From the Phillipsburg Journal.
Thomas S. Dixon, formerly of Jeffries, Clearfield county, and who for many years was one of our subscribers, and who tells us that he is now staying at the Clearfield county home, has been spending a couple of days here with old friends and relatives, and made us a call yesterday afternoon. He is now in his 79th year, and is a remarkably well preserved man. We found him to be very conversant with the early history of Phillipsburg and vicinity. He first passed through Phillipsburg with his father 75 years ago. They were then on their way from Wallace Run, this county, to their new home in Bradford township, Clearfield county, where his father, Samuel Dixon, had purchased a small tract of land. When a boy he frequently came to town, and when he grew to young manhood worked in this neighborhood. When about 17 years old he was employed at Mum's old Allegheny forge, on the Six Mile run, near Bilger's. He remembers well the old forge at Cold Stream, the old screw factory, and never forgot a visit to the latter place when a boy of eleven years. Soon after entering the factory the boys employed therein began throwing screws at him, and the boss, observing the attention he was creating, told him he had "better be getting out." His reference to some of the old landmarks in the shape of the first hotels, residences, etc., long since torn down, is full of interest, as well as his mention of people who were the early pioneers of this section and have been gathered to their reward. He was acquainted with Hardman Phillips, remembers well a funeral address he made at the burial of one of the old settlers, and says he can recall often having seen his daughter riding through the streets of the then little village on a spotted Shetland pony. His description of a visit he made with his brother when a boy on one of the big days, when the Phillipsburg militia, made up of the young men of this place and neighborhood, were undergoing review, was especially interesting to us. The occasion brought to town many persons for miles around, and the old town was in gala attire and full of excitement. As he walked through our streets, yesterday, and noticed the vast improvements, handsome residences, mammoth store buildings, paved thoroughfares, manufactories, etc., he could hardly realize that he was in the burg. Truly the years have made lasting changes.
—Don't think that your liver needs treating if you are bilious. It don't. It's your stomach. That is, your stomach is really what causes the biliousness. It has put your liver out of order.
See what's the matter with your stomach.
Sick stomach poisons liver and then there's trouble. Shaker Digestive Cordial cures stomach and then all's well. That's the case in a nutshell.
Shaker Digestive Cordial is no secret. Formula on every bottle. But its the simple honest way it is made, the honest Shaker herbs and other ingredients of which it's composed, and that makes it so efficacious.
Any real case of indigestion and biliousness can be cured with a few bottles of Digestive Cordial. Try it.
