Slow in Appearing.

Few of the Leaders of Either House of Congress

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—Members Congress are unusually slow in putting in their appearance here for the regular session, which convenes next Monday. Few of the leaders of either House are here yet. With the exception of the pronounced and radical pro and anti-Cuban Congressmen. the members of both Houses as a rule seem to be holding their judgments in abeyance until they ascertain from official sources exactly what the situation is. In the matter of currency it seems already established that the Democrats and their free silver allies will oppose stubbornly anything the majority is likely to propose and the fact that the opposition in the Senate seems insurmountable inclines many of the Republican members to the opinion that it would be wisdom not to attempt any legislation

This is the opinion of chairman Cannon. of the appropriations committee, who arrived to-day. He said so long as the Senate is anti-Republican, as at present, all efforts to get currency reform legislation will be so much waste of time and energy

Mr. Cannon further said : "I believe in a liberal but not extravagant policy in making appropriations, and until our revenues increase I shall oppose entering upon new enterprises requiring the expenditure of government funds."

He thinks that by the beginning of the next fiscal year the Dingley tariff bill will afford revenue sufficient to meet the legitimate demands of the government. He believes the coming session will be a comparatively brief one, as there is little to do beyond passing appropriation bills. He added that the appropriation committee will report the legislative and pension appropriation bills to the House before the Christmas holidays.

When the Last Pensioner Will be Gone. From the Altoona Tribune.

The revolutionary war ended bly more than a century ago. Yet there are still sixteen surviving pensioners of that fund, all widows or daughters of men who were soldiers in the revolutionary The youngest of the sixteen is 76 years old. The two oldest have arrived at the mature age of 97. Two of the survivors, Susannah Chadwick, aged 82, and Sarah C. Hurlburt, aged 79, are residents of Pennsylvania. Seven survivors of the war of 1812 still linger on earth and are honored recipients of the nation's bounty. They are Hosea Brown, of Oregon, aged 105; Hiram Crook, of New York, aged 97; Elijah Glenn, of New Jersey, aged 101; James Hooper, of Maryland, aged 94; John Lumberson, of Maryland, aged 91; Eleazer Smith, of New Hampshire, aged 101; Isaiah B. Sexton, of Michigan, aged 92. Judging from analogy the last survivor of the war of the rebellion will not pass away before 1950. Indeed, if a lad of 15 who entered the army in the last year of the war should live to be as old as Hosea Brown he would still be here in 1955. As for the widows and daughters, they will have representatives on the pension roll up to the last quarter of the twentieth century. The ism of children's grandchildren.

From the Altoona Times. In the New York World the astounding statement is made that since the outbreak of the rebellion in Cuba, in February, 1895, the deaths from starvation in the island have reached 400,000. It is difficult to believe that this story is correct. The World maintains, however, that it is and alleges that the deaths from starvation, claimed to be 400,000, do not include the women and children who have perished by exposure, diseases and massacre. Nor does it take an account of those who have lost their lives in battle. The total loss of life in Cuba, since the beginning of the war, and on account of it the World claims will amount to more than 500,000. The majority of these people were, it is further averred, friendly to the Spanish cause. The population of Cuba, in 1895, was placed of imperial impulsiveness. at 1,500,000. One-third of the then population, according to the World, has been wiped out in less than three years, a record for destructiveness of human life which it would be difficult, if not impossible, to find a parallel for in the world's history.

State Department Officials Won't Talk About the Complication Between Hayti and Germany.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30 .- State department officials refuse to discuss the complication between Germany and Hayti, growing out of the arrest of Lueders, or to indicate what course it will pursue in the matter, though it is evident that they do .not regard it as likely to have serious or permanent results. Confidence is expressed in the intentions of the German government not to act unjustly towards the little republic and it is felt that with the gunboat Marblehead at Port Au Prince, to its intention to construct a third track watch over our interests in the event of from this point to Gallitzin. This will trouble, all has been done in the way of preparation that can be done.

Rioting Assumes A Grave Aspect.

PRAGUE, Bohemia, Dec. 1 .- The rioting, which has continued here last night and to-day, has assumed a very grave phase. The town streets are crowded with soldiers. but their presence has had little effect towards intimidating the rioters. The soldiers were eventually forced to fire and several persons have been killed. The torch has also been resorted to, but thus far no great damage has been done by fire. Last night the windows of the German schools, German theatres, restaurants, residences newspapers offices were broken. The troops cleared the streets and many persons were injured. A number of arrests were made. The university buildings have been so threatened by the rioters that large bodies of police are protecting them. Troops have been drafted to Judenstadt, where the mob is growing threatening.

The synagogue windows were smashed and also the windows of the houses of Jews displaying German trade signs in several streets of the Jewish quarter. Since 6 o'clock this evening the streets have been held by twelve battalions of infantry and a squadron of hussars. All traffic is suspended and the shops and business houses are

MARTIAL LAW PROCLAIMED. PRAGUE, Dec. 1.—As a result of the riots and disorders of the last twenty-four hours, the authorities have proclaimed the city under martial law. The chief of police, who is a Czech, was discovered encourag-ing rioters, and has been suspended from office. It is now known that the number of injured Germans reaches 300. They are being cared for at the various hospitals. The disturbances to-day amounted to almost a rebellion. Thousands of Czech miners streamed into Prague to-night from the surrounding villages to assist the rioters. The scientific instruments in the German university and high, school have been destroyed and valuable archives, preserved for a long time at Kinsky palace, the largest in the Altstadt, have been burned.

It has been dangerous for Germans to venture into the street, as any use of the German language meant certain assault. A meeting of the German society in honor of the 80th birthday of Professor Theodore Mommsen was prohibited by the authorities, who feared it might provoke a colli sion with the Czechs.

To-day's riot would have been less serious but that the troops avaible early in the day were insufficient to cope with the rioting over so extended an area.

MUCH DAMAGE DONE. PRAGUE, Dec. 1 .- During the night the palace of Baron Von Alrenthal, a representative of the German landowners in the Reichsrath, was boarded up, but the rioters soon removed the planks and threw large stones through the luxuriously furnished rooms, smashing valuable objects of art and costly furniture. Damage to the amount of many thousands of florins has been done to German firms, clubs and other institutions having German proprietors or patrons. No performance was given at the German theatre to-night. The constant cry of the rioters was, "Down with the Germans!" "Down with the Jews!" Ladies venturing on the street were oblighed to wear the Slav tricolor in order to avoid being attacked. Nobody dares to utter a word in German. The Kinsky palace was plundered of its furniture, which was thrown through the windows, heaped in the street and set on fire, the mob preventing the brigad approaching. The Wenzelsh-Platz, where chief centre of excitement. It is about sixty yards in width and 750 yards in length and will hold 100,000 people. The police and military have made 200 arrests and it is reported that altogether eighty persons have been injured.

German Reichstag Meets.

It Was Opened by Emperor William. He Wants

BERLIN, Nov. 30.—Emperor William opened the session of the reichstag to-day and made an address devoted mainly to the development of the German navy. He urged that the home fleet of battleships be strengthened and the number of vessels for foreign service increased "in order to gain firm ground for urgent measures, which cannot longer be postponed.' Referring to the naval demonstration in Kiao Chaubay, China, Emperor William said : "The murder of the missionaries in China and the attacks upon mission stations which have been placed under my imperial protection, and their welfare, which I have at heart, have compelled me to cause my squadron in eastern Asia to proceed to Kiao Chaubay, the point nearest to the scene of the outrage, and land troops in ite slave and told him to make three wishes order to obtain full reparation and security and he would see that they were carried against a recurrence of similar lamentable events.

After reading his speech, the emperor added that two years ago he had sworn to boots." preserve the empire, as he took it from his grandfather, "and to protect and safeguard its honor abroad."

"You have all thus become parties to my oath," he added, "and I pray in the name of the empire and in the presence of Almighty God that He will assist you in your work to protect the honor of the empire abroad, which I have not valued too ow to give my only brother in pledge for

This addition is extensively criticised as virtually undoing the effect of the unusual moderation of the official speech, which was conspicuous by the presence of such phrases, "My army," "My navy," "My empire," and similar customary evidences

Engineers Begin Work on a Highway to Connect With the Baltimore and Ohio

EBENSBURG, Nov. 30. - The work of cunning lines for the recently chartered Johnstown, Ebensburg and eastern railroad was commenced last week, and is being pushed across the mountains from Ramey. n Clearfield county, the junction with the Beech Creek road, to Johnstown.

Joseph.C. Marston, chief engineer of the recently chartered road, was here last week. He spent the time driving out noting the topography of the country and examining ways. Mr. Marston was reticent in giving out any information for publication, but from what could be learned the new road will run from Ramey, in Clearfield county, to Glasgow, in Reade township, this county, which is the top of the mountain. From there the road will follow down one of the small tributaries of Clearfield creek until it reaches that water, when it will follow up the main stream past Ashville to the ead waters of the creek in the vicinity of Munster. It will then follow the ridge as nearly as possible until it reaches the head waters of Blacklick creek, near Ebensburg.

From Ebensburg the new road will follow the course of Blacklick creek until it reaches Twin Rocks, when it will leave one of its tribcrossing the Pittsburg pike and Laurel Hill, near Mundy's, and then follow one of the small tributaries of the Connemaugh river to Johnstown.

One corps of engineers is now at work between Ramey and Glasgow and another corps between Ashville and Ebensburg, and the work is being pushed as rapidly as possible in order that the right of way may be secured this fall and the work of construction commenced early in the

When completed the new road will be about sixty miles in length, and, by a con-nection being made with the Baltimore and Ohio road, the Beech Creek company will have a line across the State and be able to connect with Pittsburg and other western cities. This route takes the road through one of the largest and richest coal fields in Pennsylvania, and will secure for it the transportation of the coal. It has been rumored that the Cambria iron company is interested in the proposed road.
