THINGS ABOUT TOWN AND COUNTY

—The "Rivals," at Garman's, on Monday night.

—To-night Dr. L. M. Colfelt will lecture in the Presbyterian church.

—The ice on the river at Lock Haven moved off on a six foot flood, on Sunday. No damage was done.

—Forty-one applications for license have been filed this spring. Thirty-eight are now enjoying the privilege.

—It is reported that 20,000 bushels of grain were shipped from Coburn, this county, during the month of January.

—The Adams Express company has established a branch money order office at Parrish's drug store, in order to catch up town business.

—W. Harrison Walker, Esq., of the law firm of Fortney & Walker, was appointed a notary public by Governor Hastings, on last Saturday.

—The venerable James Hamilton, of Willowbank street, is not in good health and his friends are fearful lest he will not recover. He is past 94 years old.

—Lawrence, the seven year old son of A. B. Chover, of Fillmore, broke his right collar bone on Thursday evening. He fell while doing a chore for his mother.

—Geo. T. Bush returned from St. Louis, on Saturday evening, and said he had a fine time as state delegate to the L. A. W. convention in session there.

—John Brachbill is clerking in Sourbeck's confectionery in place of Willie Keichline who has taken charge of the new bicycle department in McClure's Bishop street store.

—Delia Wingard lost her pocket book, while on her way home from the United Brethren church, corner High and Thomas streets, on Thursday night. It contained a sum of money.

—Are you going to hear Dr. Colfelt lecture on "Assyrian Discoveries," for the benefit of the ladies' mite society of the Presbyterian church? The lecture will be delivered to-night.

—A three year old daughter of Jake Simler, of Phillipsburg, got its thumb caught in the cogs of a clothes wringer, while Mrs. Simler was washing, and the end was cut off clean.

—At a meeting of Gregg post, held on Saturday night, John P. Harris, A. O. Furst and Chas. Smith were initiated as members. The first two were three month men. Mr. Smith served throughout the war.

—Tom Beaver and Rufus Strohm, both well known in Belleville, will appear in "The Rivals," on Monday night. Tom will take the character of Mrs. Malaprop, while Rufus will be imperturbable as Lydia's maid.

—John D. Sourbeck has sold his confectionery and green grocery store, on High street, to his son Fred. John will devote his entire time to the cafe he is running in Brooklyn in conjunction with Maurice Yeager.

—At a meeting of the Tyrone shoe company, on Saturday evening, the directors voted to increase the capitol stock by an addition of $5,000. Three fifths of the amount was immediately purchased by the old stockholders.

—Owing to the press of other business, A. Lester Sheffer has sold his bicycle agency. L. C. Wezel has purchased the supplies he had on hand and Runkle and Kennedy will look after the interests of the Columbia machines in the future.

—The College boys will appear at Garman's, on Monday night, in Sheridan's "Rivals." They will be assisted by the College mandolin and glee club and a pleasing entertainment is assured. It will be quite a society event in the town. Seats are now on sale at Parrish's.

—They had a hot old time at the election in the 3rd ward of Tyrone. While the board was burning the old ballots and papers of the preceding election the flue of the polling house took fire and the place was burned. The flames spread to an adjoining stable and burned it before they were gotten under control.

—H. W. Shaffer, for several years a book keeper in Van Dyke's hardware store in Lock Haven, has accepted a position as traveling salesman in the wholesale department of Jas. Harris & Co.'s hardware in this place. The Harris hardware is getting bigger every day and the business the firm is doing is something remarkable.

—C. E. Dorworth, stenographer in the department of agriculture at Harrisburg, came up home, on Monday morning, the first visit he has made since accepting the position. He likes his work but holds the opinion of most everyone else that were it not for the danger of creating a fissure in the earth Harrisburg might just as well be dropped out of it.

—The double frame dwelling house at Mill Hall, owned by Charles Armstrong and occupied by he and Clarence Fisher, was burned on Sunday morning. The fire caught from the stove pipe in a lower room. Both occupants saved most of their household goods and both had insurance. Armstrong had $1,000 on the building, which is said to have been worth half again as much.

ANOTHER OF OUR PROMINENT CITIZENS GONE.

The death of Col. William Shortlidge occurred at his home, on Thomas street, on Tuesday evening, at half-past nine o'clock. For two years he had suffered with kidney trouble, but his condition was never considered serious until the day before his death.

Apparently a robust man his friends were little concerned when he was confined to the house on Saturday, but on Sunday he had recovered sufficiently to take a short drive. Monday morning he suffered a congestive chill and then his true condition presented itself, but immediate danger was not feared.

Tuesday morning he had another chill and sank from that time until the time of his death, though just before his death he had inquired as to the result of the local elections. The physicians say that heart failure superinduced by the kidney affection precipitated the end.

Funeral services will be held in the Presbyterian church this afternoon at 2:30. Rev. Dr. Laurie will officiate. The pall bearers will be his nephews. The honorary pall bearers will be H. C. Valentine and Henry Lowery, from the council; F. H. Thomas and D. F. Fortney, from the church trustees; H. Sechler and John Meese from the Masons; and John P. Harris and John Ardell from the citizens.

William Shortlidge was born in Chester county, February 20th, 1831, making his age at the time of death, 66 years, 11 months and 26 days. He was the son of George and Martha Shortlidge, who gave him a good education at Greenwood Dell, Chester county. Forty-two years ago he came to Centre county, accepting the position of book-keeper at John Irvin's iron works, at Howard.

Soon after he accepted a similar position at the Valentine iron works in this place, where he remained for a number of years. Upon retiring from the Valentine service he began the manufacture of lime at what is now known as the Morris Pike kilns. The late Bond Valentine was associated with him and after a successful start they began handling coal and grain, which they continued until the lime industry was sold to A. G. Morris.

Shortly after that Mr. Shortlidge got control of the famous "Sunny Side" lime kilns of the Alexander brothers and the firm of McCalmont & Co., was organized with him as manager. The extensive lime, coal and implement business that has been built up by that firm being due almost solely to his business acumen. To-day it is one of the largest enterprises in the county and has a branch at State College, with agencies in all parts of the county.

On May 25th, 1856, he married Rose McCalmont, who survives him, and to them were born six children, four of whom are dead. His two remaining children are Elizabeth Shortlidge Walker, wife of John Walker, and Anna Shortlidge, at home. He leaves three brothers, namely, Prof. Joseph Shortlidge, of Conoverville, Del.; Prof. Swithin Shortlidge, Leeds, England; Dr. E. G. Shortlidge, of Wilmington, Del. Two sisters also survive him. They are Lydia Norris, Woodstown, N. J.; and Anna Walker, Hockessin, Del.

Politically Col. Shortlidge was a Republican and numbered among his personal friends many of the prominent politicians of the State. Though he never sought preferment he was many times a delegate on state convention floors and only two weeks ago was a representative from Centre county to the Bourse meeting in Philadelphia. He was a member of Constans commandery K. T., a trustee of the Presbyterian church, president of the board of health and president of the board of trade of Belleville.

He was a public spirited, progressive man, thoroughly considerate of those about him and devoted to his family. In his death Belleville has lost one of her truly prominent men. His every association was with the town and whatever of success he had was accomplished here, so that the prominence that was his at home was the testimonial of good citizenship bestowed by admiring neighbors. In every movement in which the welfare of the town was in question he was earnestly interested and his work in the councils was given, not for personal aggrandizement nor from selfish motives, but for the public weal.

With his family, employes and neighbors Col. Shortlidge was a type of man seldom found. Kind to a fault, considerate of all and a christian gentleman he goes to his grave, not having lived in vain, and leaving a profound sorrow in the hearts of those who knew and esteemed him.

A FINLANDER KILLED IN McCALMONT'S QUARRIES.—"Big Jack," whose right name was Jacob Yarie, was instantly killed while working in the quarries at McCalmont & Co's lime kilns below town, last Saturday afternoon. He was standing on a ledge of rock up along the face of the work barring out stone when his footing suddenly gave way and he fell to the bottom of the quarry with a great mass of rock and dirt after him. Stunned by the fall he could not drag himself out of the way of the avalanche of rock that swept over him and when taken from under it he was found to be dead. His leg was crushed and nearly severed from the body, his left foot entirely severed and his head was badly crushed. He leaves a wife and six children in Finland. Burial was made on Sunday morning.

"Big Jack" had been in the employ of McCalmonts for several years. He was, like the other Finns down there, a hard working, inoffensive fellow and enjoyed the reputation of being strictly honest.

—Mrs. Barbara Long died at her home, at Penns Cave, on Friday night, after a long illness with cancer. She was 92 years old. Interment was made on Monday.

CHARLES H. MOORE DEAD.

The death of Charles H. Moore, which occurred at his home, on South Allegheny street, was indeed a blessing to an afflicted man. Nine years ago he suffered a stroke of paralysis that made him a helpless cripple and most of the time since then he has been confined to his bed.

Deceased was born in Buffalo run valley, May 25th, 1850. Shortly after locating in this place he became agent for sewing machines and carried on that business until paralysis rendered him unfit for further work.

He is survived by a wife and one daughter, Lydia. Burial was made yesterday morning, services having been conducted at the house by Dr. Stephens and Rev. Jas. P. Hughes.

MISS MARY K. BLAND'S DEATH.—Mary K. Bland died at her home, on south Allegheny street, on Sunday evening, after a long period of suffering with asthma and pneumonia.

Deceased was born at Howard, this county, December 23rd, 1840, and when she was a little girl her parents moved to this place, where she has lived ever since. Her sister Tamazine and brothers James and Cornelius survive. She was a good woman, a pleasant neighbor and an earnest christian.

Being a member in good standing of the S. B. V., of St. John's Catholic church, the society turned out in a body to her funeral, on Wednesday morning. High mass was said for her remains and interment was made in the Catholic cemetery.

The venerable Thomas Taylor, of Benner township, died on Thursday, February 3rd, after a prolonged illness with kidney trouble. He was born on the 10th of September, 1810, and is survived by eight children. Interment was made in Myer's cemetery, on Saturday, the 5th, Rev. Wren, of the United Brethren church, having officiated.

John Long, of Penn township, died on Wednesday, Feb 9th, after an illness of about six months. Burial was made last Sunday morning. The services were in charge of Millheim lodge 955, I. O. O. F. of which he was a member. Interment was made in the Reformed cemetery at Aaronsburg.

Rhoda Shearer, daughter of Mrs. Tom Shearer, out along the pike, was married recently in Berwick to George H. Croll.

Samuel N. Harter, a former resident of Mackeyville, died at Brayton, Iowa, on February 1st. He was 82 years old.

Sheriff and Mrs. Cronister are receiving the congratulations of their friends because a new boy has arrived at their house.

It is reported that the Millheim electric telephone company has sold out to the Bell company. The deal has not been closed yet, but it is almost certain that it will be.

Ed. J. Meyer, of Lock Haven, has patented a lawn sprinkler and will receive a royalty on all sold by the Du Bois manufacturing company, which is now at work on an order for 100,000 of the appliances.

The formal transfer of donated land was made by the citizens of Mill Hall to the Clinton county fire brick works, on Tuesday evening. It is part of a consideration through which Mill Hall hopes to secure an extensive new industry.

The municipal election in Lock Haven resulted in a great Democratic victory. They won the councils and school directors, giving them a majority in each. The Republicans elected their candidate for city treasurer. Three of the four wards went Democratic.

John Filer, employed at the Beech Creek railroad station in Phillipsburg, had his right hand pinched between the ends of two oil barrels, last Friday morning, and the middle finger was almost cut off. The surgeon at the cottage hospital amputated the injured member.

The K. L. C. E. of the United Evangelical church, of Howard, will hold an oyster supper in the Brickley homestead, on Main street, Feb. 22nd and 23rd, 1898. Sandwiches, ice cream and other refreshments will also be served. All are cordially invited to attend and help a good cause.

Mr. and Mrs. William Easton, of East End, Pittsburg, have sent out invitations for the marriage of their daughter Etta and George Wilmer Martin, which is to take place Wednesday, March 2nd, in the Shady Side Presbyterian church. The groom elect, when a student at State College, was familiarly known as "Buck" and his popularity still continues.

The employes of the South Williamsport nail works will resume work, next week, after a three weeks' idleness, but they have been notified that a reduction of from five to ten per cent. will be made in their wages. The Williamsport suspender factory has been seized by the sheriff on executions aggregating $4,500. More prosperity for you.

Miss Ida Hall, a daughter of the late Robert Hall, of Dix Run, Union township, died at the home of her sister, Mrs. Fred Schele, in Phillipsburg, on Wednesday afternoon, Feb. 9th. She had been ill with pneumonia since the preceding Sunday and erysipelas developed causing her death. She had made her home with her sister and the remains were taken to Unionville for burial on Friday morning.

NIGGER HIGHWAYMEN HOLD-UP A MILESBURG HOTEL KEEPER.

Milesburg is having more than her share of excitement. The people down there had hardly recovered from the scare the big fire gave them, a few weeks ago, when six nigger highwaymen walked in on them and gave them such a shock as they won't soon forget.

About 7 o'clock last Thursday evening five niggers entered the bar of Kohlbecker's Central City hotel, at the Milesburg station, and each with a brace of long barreled 38 calibre revolvers demanded that the occupants give up their money or their lives. Alois Kohlbecker was behind the bar, and Jerry Everly, Jacob Mayes, William Watson and Henry Kohlbecker were sitting about the place. As none of the men showed any signs of disarming the highwaymen proceeded to send a few shots about the place to intimidate them.

Then two ran behind the bar and a third one jumped over it to get at the safe and cash register. The safe was open and the register was tapped but "Koly," with rare presence of mind, kicked the safe shut, knocked the register drawer in, punched the three niggers and grabbed back his watch from one of them all at one time. If the other fellows who were in the place had been half as brave as he was they could have licked a whole regiment of such highwaymen, but instead of that they sat still, all except Watson, who scooped up a flight of stairs and made for the stable. As he fled four balls followed him, but all of them went wide of the mark.

For a while there was a perfect fusillade in the bar, but strange enough no one was hit and not a particle of glass broken, except one of the lights in the door. Mayes gave up a plug of tobacco to the robbers but had $12 in his pockets. Kohlbecker had $140 in the safe and cash register, but the only thing the robbers got was the tobacco. When they left the place they covered their retreat until they got out into the dark street, when they fled up the railroad. Kohlbecker's son then hurriedly brought him his Winchester and he sent ten shots after them. The bullets struck the old stone house away up at Wallace's old brick yards and the man who lives there says he saw one of the highwaymen nearly breaking his neck, tumbling over a fence to get out of range.

The five fellows who entered were all light colored, wore long dark coats and looked young, but the sixth who remained on guard at the door, was an ugly black one. The men who witnessed the attack say that when the robbers entered they had their guns on a perfect alignment and presented a dazzling appearance. It is evident that though so much shooting was done they had no desire to hit anyone. Unless the one shot fired at Mr. Kohlbecker when he had three of them down behind the bar was intended to hit. It passed between his body and arm, but did no damage. It was fired by one of the two who remained covering the other men in the bar.

It is believed that the fellows boarded a west bound freight train at Snow Shoe intersection and got away to Tyrone. They were located near that place next morning, but officer Curtin undertook to arrest them all himself and they got away from him after a lively exchange of shots.

A HOLD-UP ON NITTANY MOUNTAIN.—The stamping ground of such notorious banditti as the James boys, "reckless George Gordon" and the other desperadoes, whose exploits have filled dime novels for years and made the South and West famous as the land of highwaymen, seems to be changing and the East is becoming sharer in whatever fame such high handed proceedings bring.

In all of the eastern States and in all parts of Pennsylvania the last year or so has developed a class of desperate men, who are a menace to liberty and terrors to the people. The frequency and boldness of hold-ups has undoubtedly an explanation in the armies of men who are driven to it for want of honest employment, but while this thing has been going on around us for some time we of Centre county never dreamed that our soil, that has known nothing of the sort since the days of Lewis and Connelly, would ever bred or harbor such characters.

It has, however, and two bold hold-ups have occurred within a few days of each other. The first occurred at Milesburg, when Kohlbecker's hotel was stormed, the other on Nittany mountain, on Saturday night.

Samuel Runkle and Mrs. William H. Runkle, of Centre Hall, were returning to their home in a buggy. They had spent part of the day in this place and had just reached "the watering trough," on the way up the mountain, when a man ran up and attempted to climb into the back part of their buggy. Mr. Runkle whipped his horses and started up the mountain as fast as he could go, but had advanced but a few rods when he discovered two men standing in the road apparently ready to halt him, and suspecting their motive he quickly wheeled the team about and dashed back down the mountain as fast as the horses could go.

It was about half-past eight o'clock, though not so dark that he could not discern the figures in the road. None of the men had uttered a sound and while he might have been mistaken it was quite evident to him that the fellows intended to hold him up. When they reached the toll house on the out skirts of Pleasant Gap, they told their experience and were invited to spend the night, which they did and went on their journey, in the morning, in safety.

—Thos. Fox, of Cedar Springs, suffered a slight attack of paralysis, on Sunday.

—New spring goods at lowest prices at Lyon & Co's.

—Washington's birthday comes each and every year on the twenty-second day of February, and is celebrated in various ways. But it is not the privilege of every generation to enjoy such a supper as will be served by the ladies of the Port Matilda Presbyterian church, in Hoover's hall, in that hamlet, on the evening of that day.

Among the many articles employed to tickle the palate will be found such delicacies as ice cream, pork and beans, pumpkin pie made out of squash, etc. To all good citizens who have spent years in quest of a square meal for twenty cents, this presents an opportunity never presented twice to one generation.

Ransom's entertainers were here on Monday night and thoroughly restored the People's popular course to public favor. Several of the later entertainments had not been worth listening to, but the Ransoms effaced the unsatisfactory memory and scored a hit for themselves. Elmer P. Ransom, the prestidigitator, entertained the large audience at Garman's with a decidedly clever bit of work. His tricks were clean, some of them new and quite up to the work in legerdemain done by Kellar and Powell. F. E. Hansell proved a very attractive feature with his whistling specialties, some of his performances being really marvelous. His duet rendition of "Almost Persuaded," in which he whistled air and alto as clearly and with as perfectly blended tones as if two artists were doing it, captivated the audience and won an enthusiastic encore for him. Miss Dasa Harman is a good mandolinist and pleasing as a reader. Her numbers met with favor on all sides. Miss Cornell, soprano, sang "Ben Bolt" and "In May" to very good effect, both winning a recall for her. The next and last attraction in the course will be John Clark Lewis on the passion play at Oberammergau.

ROCK MILLS BURNED.—Early last Saturday morning the fine roller flour mill at Rock Forge caught fire and burned to the ground. The fire was undoubtedly of incendiary origin and started in the basement of the mill from which it spread to all parts of the structure and soon destroyed it.

The mill was the property of Col. W. Fred Reynolds, of this place, and was one of the best equipped in the county. The original structure was built by Gen'l Philip Benner, in 1792, and had been in continuous operation up to the time it was burned. It had been in the hands of the Reynolds for over half a century. The total loss is estimated at $30,000. Col. Reynolds had $5,500 insurance and the Wagner boys carried $4,000. They had been operating the mill and had about 4,500 bushels of grain in storage. The mill had not been running for two months, except to grind grists for the Reynolds' farms in that section.

It is not likely that it will be rebuilt, unless merely as a grist mill. While the Rock Mills flour was always of a superior grade the distance from the rail-road made it almost impossible for the mill to market its product at a profit in competition with the low prices that flour is now commanding.

News Purely Personal.

—Miss Mollie Goldstein, of Lock Haven, was the guest of Miss Sara Baum, of Bishop street, over Sunday.

—Misses Emma and Myra Holliday will leave for Pittsburg today for a visit of several weeks with their aunt Mrs. Jack McClelland.

—Mrs. Frank Crosthwaite, of State College, is down in Philadelphia with her little son Tom, having him treated at clinics for curvature of the spine.

—Mrs. F. W. Crider has gone to Washington with her sister, Mrs. Jacobs, to attend the annual meeting of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

—Miss Daisy Brisbin has been appointed on the teaching staff of the Chester Springs state orphan's school and will leave for that place about the 28th.

—H. D. Rumberger, of Phillipsburg, spent Wednesday night with his parents in this place. He is still representing W. H. Denlinger & Co., oil brokers, and says his business is running along as smooth as ever.

—Mrs. Charley McCue and her children, who have been spending the winter with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Montgomery, on Allegheny street, left, Tuesday, for Pittsburg, where Mr. McCue is now located.

—Aaron Lutz, of Linden Hall, was in town on Monday. He lives on the farm which his uncle, Christ Houser, owns at that place, and when Aaron doesn't make it produce big crops none of his neighbors have any either.

—Mrs. Anna C. Woodcock is the guest of Mrs. Stevens at the Methodist parsonage. She has been in Philadelphia and Williamsport for three months and intends going back to Williamsport to stay until her sons get home from college.

—John Larimer left for his home in Omaha, Nebraska, on Tuesday afternoon. He had been in Belleville for a year, stopping at the home of Gen. J. I. Curtin, on Linn street, and expected to remain longer but the illness of his father, Dr. Larimer, called him west.

—Governor and Mrs. Hastings, and Helen, Attorney General McCormick, Mrs. McCormick and their daughter and Senator and Mrs. J. Henry Cochran, of Williamsport, are contemplating a trip to California as soon as the Governor can get the state capitol commission to understand that he represents the people and must be respected.

—R. H. Kreamer, of Nittany, and his brother W. C. Kreamer, of Milesburg, were in town Tuesday night, but not hunting election returns. They were here settling up some of the business of their deceased father's estate. Both of the boys are Jacksonian Democrats, the former the boss track maker of the Central and the latter about as expert at carriage painting as anyone need be.

—Jos. D. Mitchell left for Lewistown, on Tuesday morning, where he has accepted a position with the Standard steel works company. Very few of his friends knew that he had such a change in view and were quite surprised when it became known that he was gone. Joe's success in his new position will not be a matter of much concern to Bellevillians, as they all know him so well that it goes without saying that he will prove satisfactory in whatever trust he is given. That laugh is a guarantee of his popularity.

PEOPLE'S POPULAR COURSE.

Number eight, last but not least. One hundred dissolving view illustrations with a wonderful descriptive lecture on the "Passion Play of Oberammergau" by Rev. J. J. Lewis, is alone worth the price of the full course ticket. General admission 50c to all parts of the house. Course ticket holders can secure their seats by paying 10 and 20 cts. extra and in no case will any one be admitted to lower part of house without payment for reserve seat until every seat on the balcony is occupied, this move being necessary to protect the bank, as at the last entertainment there were two hundred and forty-seven twelve and a half cent admissions when most of them should have paid the extra rate for reserved seats. Sale for seats opens Monday at 9 a. m. at Parrish's drug store.

WITH THE GRAND ARMY.—Twenty-five stall fed turkeys, as comrade Sammy Williams says, will be the principal part of the big dinner that Gregg post, G. A. R., is preparing for the people of this community on Washington's birthday anniversary. The turkeys were bought several months ago and have been specially fattened for this dinner. With all the seasonal accompaniments the dinner will cost only 35c.

In addition to the dinner the all day restaurant will be run. Oysters, turkey, salads, vegetables and desserts will be served ala carte. An interesting literary and musical program has been prepared so that those who spend the day with the Vets can expect to have a good time.

WHY NOT HAVE A PUBLIC RECEPTION FOR THE PHOTOGRAPHERS.—Next week, from the 22nd to the 25th, the Pennsylvania photographers association will meet in this place and what are our people going to do to make their stay among us a pleasant one or to send them away impressed with Belleville?

It is to be hoped that it will not be with the photographers as it was with the dentists, who, unfortunately were induced to come here last year and came with most exalted ideas of Belleville, but left thoroughly disenchanting. Our citizens permitted them to come into and go out of the town without giving them the slightest recognition and in that case a golden opportunity to exploit Belleville was lost.

Looking at it from a purely business standpoint we have everything to gain by paying some attention to such visiting delegations. There will be between two and three hundred photographers here next week. They will represent all portions of Pennsylvania and many of them will visit Belleville for the first time. It is to the interest of the town that they depart, carrying with them the memory of having had a nice stay here. Advertising through such mediums is the very best and no one can say that good might not come out of it.

Aside from the selfish purpose to be served local pride demands that we do something in recognition of the presence of our guests next week. We were grossly inhospitable when the dentists were here and it behooves us not to let it occur again.

The WATCHMAN suggests that a public reception and dance be given in the armory next Wednesday night by either the burges and town council or by the board of trade and in addition to this on a day suitable to the photographers the citizens should send their carriages to the armory to take them driving about the town.

Let the burges or the board of trade take the initiative and the citizens will respond in a hearty fashion.
