

We trust that spring is here in earnest. And that the frosty breezes shall deal gently with adventurous vegetation, etc. We trust that they shall not come in haste and repent at leisure. But how glad we will be to welcome the approaching emancipation of vegetable life.

Dr. John Feltwell, of Altoona, a practicing physician, and an ordained man of God, is with the people of this place. He is giving illustrated talks from God's word, and they are free to all. Dr. Feltwell is a marvelous man, having been rescued from atheism. He now takes delight in telling of the wonderful change. He uses an immense chart, for his work, effectively illustrating Biblical material. No telling how long he will stay, but till further notice shall be given. Many souls will be given to God, because of his coming. After he is through here. He expects to hold meetings in the P. O. S. of A. hall of Julian. He is working in conjunction with Rev. W. O. Henderson.

Pine Grove Mention.

H. A. McKee interviewed his political friends here on Wednesday.

Levi Krebs is enlarging his peach orchard with four hundred new trees.

Our merchant D. H. Weaver is now safely on the pension rolls, where he should have been years ago.

H. A. Hartwick tumbled down the stairs and as a result is laid up with inflammation of the kidneys.

George Harpster has moved, as he says, for the last time to Center Line onto the farm his father recently purchased.

Charles Thomas is laid up with a stiff knee, which he cut with an axe and then a heavy cold settled in it, causing him much trouble.

The Gardner sale was largely attended. Stock and implements sold well. The sale amounted to a trifle over one thousand dollars.

Isaac Walker, who has never fully recovered from his injury, has quit farming and moved into the Pennington house just west of town.

The Julia Musser mansion, on Main street, makes a very nice appearance in its new coat of white and green paint. J. R. Smith was the painter.

Charley Everts, the Lemont druggist, has purchased the Dinges drug store at Boalsburg. Mrs. Everts will conduct the store at Lemont while Mr. Everts will over-see his new property in person.

Miss Mary Ward left for Bellefonte on Tuesday, where she will take a course in short hand. Mary is a charming young girl and an apt scholar and we commend her to the good people of the county metropolis.

Mr. and Mrs. Hezekiah Ewing have decided to give up farming and take possession of their new home at State College, where they can live a retired life and enjoy their much needed rest. C. J. Johnson goes onto their farm.

J. B. Heberling and wife are up at Huntington Furnace helping Perry Gates fit into his own home near the cross roads above Warriors-Mark. Mr. Gates has been a very sick man for the last month but fortunately he is on the mend.

Mrs. Mary B. Gates is home from an all winter's visit in Illinois and New York. She was perfectly delighted with the surprise that awaited her, and Irvin Reed says he is willing to paint the entire town red if some one will furnish the stuff.

J. D. Wagner has rented and taken possession of the Oak Hall mill. Jake is an excellent miller and a good citizen but a straight out and out Quayite. Other movers are Prof. J. A. Weaver, who goes onto the G. W. F. Gray farm, at Fairbrook, which he will till in addition to his music lessons; Wm. Stone will be G. B. Campbell's right hand man and live in the old Carter home; Newton Hartwick goes into his own home at State College; George McWilliams takes possession of the Oliver farm at Graysville; Newton Nideigh goes into Squire Ewing's house at Baileyville; John Lindsey goes onto the Schadman property at Erbtown; Harry Frantz onto the Jonathan Musser farm; D. C. Shuey onto the old Robert Meek farm at Fairbrook, where he will continue the post office; W. S. and J. D. Tanyer will occupy their recent purchase, the Wm. Musser down town property; Wm. Eckley, the Sausserman property on Main street, which he now owns and Charles Smith goes to his father-in-law, Henry Krebs, for the time being.

Roland.

Mrs. Annie Johnson, of Lock Haven, is spending a couple of weeks at Mr. John Parker's.

Jerry Glenn, one of our young farmers, is moving to a farm back of Howard, near Marsh Creek.

Mrs. Price, of Port Matilda, spent a few days with her sister Mrs. Bion Williams, of this place recently.

The meadows and flat land along the Bald Eagle Creek were much washed out by the flood last week, and many fences were taken away.

Thos. Neff is moving to the farm near Kennedy school house recently vacated by his nephew, George Neff, who moved to Johnsonburg.

Jack Barnhart stays home quite closely, the last two weeks, to entertain the new arrival at their house. She came to stay, and he is delighted because this is number five, and the first daughter.

Samuel Barthurst Jr., has gone to McKeesport, and is clerking in a mercantile house. We wish him success in his new undertaking, and know the merchant had an eye to business as Sammy is obliging and active.

A protracted meeting is in progress at the Evangelical church. Services every night this week. Rev. Heiney is minister in charge, and preaches excellent sermons. With the assistance of the church members it is to be hoped much good will be accomplished.

Jacob Leathers, an old resident near this place, has moved with his family to Mt. Eagle. Mr. Leathers was born and raised in this neighborhood, and it is altogether likely he bids adieu to the old home with regret, as many tender memories are connected with events occurring while living so long in one place. He is now nearly eighty years of age.

The closing exercises of our school were witnessed by quite a large gathering on Friday afternoon the 18th. Many recitations, songs, and solos were listened to attentively. The "Amulet" a well gotten up paper was a marked feature in the exercises. It was well read. The pupils acquitted themselves creditably, and much is due the teacher, Mr. Zeigler, for his labor in so large a school. Addresses were made by Mr. Hancock, a teacher in the township; Mr. Waite, teacher from Blair county; director Swartz and others. A beautiful handkerchief case was a gift from the scholars to their teacher, the presentation speech being made in a lady like manner by Velta Williams. An address by the teacher, closed the exercises.

Books, Magazines Etc.

The April number of The Century will have an important group of papers devoted to the Pennsylvania coal-fields. Henry Edward Wood, in "A Polyglot Community," describes the coming of the Italians, Slovaks, and Poles, who have so largely taken the places of the English-speaking miners. He also takes up the sociological side of the question, and tells of the mode of life of the foreign colliery operatives, of their festivals and merry-makings, and finally considers what has been said for and against the "company store." Jay Hambridge gives "An Artist's Impressions of the Colliery Region." Mr. Hambridge visited the Lattimer region and has drawn a number of illustrations for his own and Mr. Wood's article. There are several pictures of Lattimer and its surroundings, as well as typical portraits of the miners and their families, illustrating the peculiarities of the different races. Mr. Hambridge's article describes in a graphic way the picturesque phases of life in the foreign quarters. Edward Atkinson, the noted economist, writes of "The Advantage of England and the United States in the World's Commerce"—England from its manufacturing power, and the United States from its vast deposits of coal and iron. Edward W. Parker, statistician of the United States Geological Survey, gives figures showing "The Supply of Anthracite Coal in Pennsylvania."
