THINGS ABOUT TOWN AND COUNTY

Work was begun on the plant for the new Mill Hall brick works on Saturday.

Millheim and Spring Mills had a two inch fall of snow on Tuesday morning.

James Miller, operator of the flour and feed mill at Bald Eagle, has moved his family to Tyrone.

W. A. Boal has moved from Centre Hall to Tyrone, where he will become a permanent resident.

Thomas Hosterman, of Woodward, this county, has bought a bakery at Selinsgrove and will move there at once.

Mercant John P. Condo, of Millheim, and his daughter, Miss Elizabeth, are in eastern cities buying spring goods for his store.

Cases from this county that will be carried to the Supreme court will be heard before that body during the week beginning April 18th.

Gypsies are on the move. Tuesday morning was one calculated to keep them moving very fast to make out-of-door life comfortable.

John Myers, an old veteran living in Huston township, was found dead in bed Wednesday morning of last week. Burial was made on Friday.

Frank Rupp, a son of George M. Rupp, of Anaronsburg, has been admitted to the U. S. navy and ordered to report at Philadelphia next Monday.

If war with Spain should actually break out there are scores of fellows in Bellefonte who couldn't go because no one knows their meat routes.

Horse buyers shipped two car loads of horses from Coburn to New York within the last two weeks. They bought any kind of plugs, worth from $3 up.

Reports from all parts of the county are to the effect that peaches and cherries are frozen stiff, everywhere except on the mountain farms, where the buds were not far enough advanced to be hurt.

Dr. J. P. Furey Larimer, of Omaha, Neb., a native of this county, where he has many relatives, is reported to be so seriously ill that his recovery is not expected and it is thought that he will not survive long.

Harry McKinney, of Port Matilda, has been appointed agent and operator for the P. R. R. company at that place. The appointment took effect on last Friday. He had been merely operator before his promotion.

H. B. Shaffer, the photographer, has purchased Coulter's gallery in Tyrone and now has places in Altoona, Bellefonte and Tyrone. Charley Moore will probably be sent up from here to manage the Tyrone place.

The Undine Easter assembly to be given in the armory, on Monday evening, will be the first of the after lunch dances in Bellefonte. The Undine orchestra will furnish the music and before the dance the Undine band will give a promenade concert of an hour.

Alfred Calhoun, of Phillipsburg, will hereafter draw a pension of $6 per month; Biles Price, of Millsburg, has had his increased from $12 to $14 per month, and Mrs. Anna M. Delige, of Benore, is a new Centre county name added to the list at $8 per month.

J. C. Weaver has moved his insurance office from his former location in the Reynolds bank building to the office vacated by Dr. J. M. Locke, on the opposite side of the street. Dr. Locke has his office at his residence on north Spring street.

Two Penn township girls recently hitched up their horses themselves to drive to Coburn to meet a friend who was coming on a train. When they got to Coburn a man called their attention to the fact that they had forgotten to put the collar on the horse and had merely buckled the harness around its neck.

Will Hockenberry, a thirteen-year-old boy of Nigh Bank, met with a painful accident with a .38 calibre revolver. He was loading and unloading it when it was suddenly discharged, the ball entering his right leg above the knee and taking a downward course almost to his ankle, where it lodged under the skin and was removed by Dr. Fisher.

The Phillipsburg Ledger began its fifteenth year on April first and a tidy semi-weekly it has grown to be. Next year will be the last of the Ledger's birthdays to be heard of; not that we predict a calamity for it, for, in truth, we hope that it will grow and flourish like the proverbial green bay tree, but we fear that that feminine failing that attacks nearly every girl will pass from the fair editor to the Ledger and it will have no more birthdays after it is sixteen.

Miss Agnes Wagner has the agency for the only authorized history of the "Beautiful Life of Frances E. Willard" and is now selling the work by subscription. It is proving a ready seller because it is bound so nicely, printed on fine antique paper, with large, plain type and profusely illustrated. The sale of the book is intended to put funds into the hands of the National temperance organization and it would not only be encouraging a deserving young woman, but be helping along a great work by purchasing the book that is full worth the price of subscription.

COUNCILMANIC DOINGS.—Eight members of council were present on Monday night when the regular semi-monthly meeting was called to order to transact the following business:

Charles Tripple the new member from the West ward was sworn in after which communications were heard. Daniel Snyder, of North Allegheny street, appeared to know what council purposes doing in reference to his request for an alley at the rear of his lot. He was informed that the Street committee had been given power in the matter and would act just as soon as it was thoroughly investigated. Harris Heylman was the next complainant to be heard. He announced that his father, having rented the Curtin property, corner of Allegheny and Howard streets, was desirous that council rebuild the fence at the rear, which had been taken down when the new public building was in course of construction. Under the fence law council will have to erect one half of this fence.

Jacob Runkle's request for permission to erect an awning over the pavement in front of his store on the northeast corner of the Diamond was granted. His awning is not to be a solid one. It will be a skeleton frame, with a rolling canvas cover. The Street committee reported the cleaning of several streets and alleys and the general spring cleaning up in progress. The Water committee reported everything in that department in good order and asked for a small appropriation for flowers and shrubs to beautify the small park about the spring. Council very commendably made the appropriation and while it was at it the Street committee should have been instructed to plant the trees which the Village Improvement society is so anxious to provide for the walk from High street to the Spring. The failure of council to act on this suggestion is really a surprise. There is no quarter of the town that needs beautifying more than Water street and there is nothing that would add more to it or be more permanent than a row of elms.

At the suggestion of Mr. Gerberich, H. B. Pontius was appointed water assessor for the year. Permission was given to Wallace Keeler to sprinkle on Allegheny street and to George Gross to sprinkle on High street during the summer months. It was reported that William Gares had declined to act as a supply police. William insists on being on the force as a regular or not at all.

Overpaid taxes to the amount of $9.90 were ordered refunded to Mrs. Catharine Fennell of the West ward. With this done council listened to overseer of the poor Daniel Eberhart who wanted to know why it is that when men are given poor orders and put to working on the streets the poor department is not re-imbursed from the street appropriations.

The question is a knotty one and has been before council a number of times. To the ordinary mind it is six of one and half a dozen of the other, for the tax payers have to make up both amounts any way. The real contest lies in the desire of both poor and street departments to keep their respective millage as low as possible. If the street department would re-imburse the poor department for the work done by it the latter could get through with a less millage, but the former would have to lay more. Then the street department insists that it can employ more efficient labor at the same price that the poor department sends it the most inefficient, but the latter answers it says: We don't ask you to pay our men by the day, simply pay them for what they actually do; and there the controversy rests.

What should be done, however, is to make every able man or boy who receives one cent of aid from the borough work it out on the streets, whether the poor department pays for it, or the street department. This would certainly make a saving in the street expenditures and it would reduce taxation to that extent. We would like to see Messrs. Everhart and Trafford inaugurate a reform in this matter; whether council co-operates with them or not. Require every man or boy who gets aid to work it out on the streets. No matter how much council objects take a section of a street and fix it up with their own men and the tax payers will back them up. Though there is no warrant of law for it the common sense and economy of the move would recommend it to everyone.

After approving bills to the amount of $925.52 council adjourned.

IN CELEBRATION OF LEE'S SURRENDER.—On next Tuesday just thirty-three years will have elapsed since Gen. Lee laid down his arms at Appomattox and blasted the forlorn hope of the confederacy. All through the North the event is to be commemorated in some way or other. In Bellefonte Gregg post has taken the matter in hand and a public meeting has been called to be held in the court house tomorrow, Saturday, evening.

Dr. Geo. W. Atherton, president of the Pennsylvania State College, will preside and make the opening address; former judge A. O. Furst will give personal reminiscences of events that occurred between the fall of Richmond and the surrender of Lee; Col. D. F. Fortney will recite the thrilling scenes incident to the capture of Jeff Davis and the assassination of Lincoln; John M. Blanchard Esq., will retell "Sheridan's Ride" and a number of old Vets. who were present at the surrender will explain their versions of it.

The music will be furnished by the public school teachers of the town and the Undine band. A special train will be run from Pine Grove Mills and intermediate points, returning after the meeting, at a round trip fare of 25cts.

—Frank Page, the Salona blacksmith, has moved to Renovo.

—Next Monday night the Undine Easter assembly will be given in the armory.

—W. A. Kesner, of Dent's Run, is the new undertaker who has located at Mill Hall.

—A special freight train of thirty-three cars, carrying six thousand Monarch bicycles, went through Tyrone Tuesday morning.

—Gen. Jesse Merrill, of Lock Haven, suffered a slight stroke of paralysis while walking on the street in that place Tuesday evening.

—The family of J. M. Bunnell is moving from Phillipsburg to Johnstown. The Phillipsburg music store will be continued by Mr. Bunnell, however.

—James Wilson, an old veteran of Flemington, had the hiccoughs so bad last week that it was thought he would die. He hiccoughed continually for six days and six nights.

—Nothing is more suitable for an Easter gift than growing or cut flowers. Miss Barrett has a lot of beautiful lilies, hyacinths, carnations and daffodils in the Bush Arcade for sale.

—Dr. Henry T. Fernald, professor of zoology at the Pennsylvania State College, has been appointed state economic zoologist vice Dr. Warren, removed for taking an active part in the politics of Chester county. Dr. Fernald will not resign his professorship at State College. The salary attached is $2,500, with a clerk at a salary of $1,500.

BOUGHT THE KERSTETTER BAKERY.—On Tuesday night a deal was closed between W. R. Runkle, agent for J. P. Gephart, and John Harrison by which the former transferred to the latter the bakery and confectionery of Web Kerstetter, on Bishop street. Mr. Harrison will restock the store and keep it going on a fine scale. He will employ an expert cake and bread baker, so that he will be able to cater to the trade in a satisfactory manner. It is Mr. Harrison's present intention to give up teaching, as the work is too confining for his health. If he does this he will devote his entire energy to making his new store good and will very likely succeed.

MORRISON-PARKER.—The marriage of W. Galer Morrison, former recorder of Centre county, and Miss Mabel M. Parker, of Roland, was celebrated at the home of the bride's father, J. M. Parker Esq., on Monday evening at 6 o'clock. Only the immediate friends and relatives of the bride and groom were present to witness the ceremony which was performed by Rev. A. P. Wharton, of the Methodist church. It was very simple, but pretty; the bride looking particularly sweet in a traveling suit of light brown covert cloth. She was given away by her father and attended by Miss Kathryn Parker, a sister of the bride, and Miss Velta Williams, a cousin of the groom. The maids wore reseda green and blue silk gowns with cream trimmings. The parlor of the Parker home was artistically decorated with arbutus and other spring flowers.

A wedding supper was served immediately after the ceremony, and then an informal reception was held after which they were driven to this place, where Mr. Morrison had a cosy home already furnished for his bride.

TIED OF LIFE BUT FAILED AS A SUICIDE.—The town of Howard was thrown into a fever of excitement last Friday morning by the attempted suicide of Mrs. Mary Miller. The woman had been suffering with melancholy for some time and had frequently lamented the fact that she had no home. She brooded over the matter until her mind evidently became unbalanced and the attempt to destroy her life resulted.

She had been living with Mrs. Conrad Long, in Howard, as a nurse and companion, ever since last summer, having gone to Howard from the lower end of Nittany valley, and though she was more or less morose no thought was entertained by any one that she would be rash enough to resort to such an extremity as suicide. Soon after they had breakfast, on Friday morning, Mrs. Long missed Mrs. Miller. She called her repeatedly, but no response greeted her calls. When she had waited until she could not understand what was keeping her companion from her side she went to the kitchen, thence to the summer kitchen, where a horrifying sight awaited her. Dangling by a heavy rope that had been fastened to a joist above hung the limp body of Mrs. Miller by her neck. Life was apparently extinct and Mrs. Long was unable to take the body down, so she ran to her porch and called Mr. Rishel, the miller at Long's mill, who went to her assistance. After the rope had been cut physicians were summoned and the work of resuscitation begun. It was hard work, but after they had been at it for a few minutes signs of returning life were discovered which encouraged them to renewed efforts. Finally she was brought to life and seemed rather disappointed that her attempt to die had been frustrated.

Mrs. Miller is about 65 years old, a widow and is a native of Nittany valley and has had a pleasant home at Mrs. Long's, who is a widow also and enjoyed having her as a companion. It is quite clear that despondency so unsettled her mind as to lead her to believe that the surest escape from a life in which there seemed so little for her was by the rash means she resorted to.

DEATH OF MRS. KEPHART.—The death of Mrs. J. Miles Kephart, at her home in West Philadelphia, on last Friday morning, was an unexpected sorrow to her friends here, who had no idea that she was dangerously ill. She had not been well for several weeks but nothing serious was apprehended 'till the Saturday before her death, then her sister, Mrs. Butts, went down and after bronchial pneumonia developed she suffered greatly. She was buried on Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the family burying ground at Milroy.

As Emma Graham she is remembered by the older residents as one of the most beautiful girls that ever visited the town. At that time her father, Walter Graham, kept hotel at Milroy, which seemed far closer to Bellefonte then than it does now, for it was our nearest railroad station and one of the principal posts of the old stage route, and in the two counties there was not a young woman better known or more admired for her graciousness and gentleness. After the death of her father and mother she married McClellan Wakefield and lived in Lewistown until he died. Then she came here and made her home with her sister, Mrs. Butts. Her marriage, on the 25th of March, 1890, to J. Miles Kephart was the culmination of a romance that had its beginning many years ago, and their devotion and love for each other has been remarkable. When Miles secured a position in the Mint they moved to Philadelphia and since then have had a comfortable house on Market street, where they have entertained most kindly many of their friends.

She was 56 years of age, a Presbyterian and a member of Dr. White's church at Milroy. Her husband, her sister and her nieces and nephews are her only surviving relatives, but many will hear of her death with sadness.

DEATH OF THE OLDEST MAN IN THE COUNTY.—When Jonathan Tressler Sr., died at his home at Linden Hall, last Friday, an old patriarch, indeed, had answered the final summons. He was born in Berks county, May 21st, 1801, consequently his age was 96 years, 10 months and ten days. He came to Centre county in 1828 and located in Brush valley, where he remained some time, but later he moved to Linden Hall, where he has lived ever since and where his frugal habits, untiring energy and strict integrity bore fruit in a fine home and a position of affluence. His connection with the Evangelical church covered a period of seventy-five years and it was largely the fruit of his labor that built the old church at Linden Hall thirty years ago.

He is survived by four children: Isaac and Daniel, of Linden Hall, at the home of the former he died; Mrs. Duck, of Centre Hill, and Joseph, of Pleasant Gap. Rev. Romig, of Rebersburg, officiated at his funeral, on Monday, and it was one of the largest seen in that community in many years.

ONE OF PHILLIPSBURG'S OLDEST RESIDENTS GONE.—Early Sunday evening Wm. Allen Faulkner, aged 87 years, died at the home of his son, former judge C. A. Faulkner, in Phillipsburg. He had been in a feeble condition for several years, but neuralgia of the heart was the cause of his death. Deceased was a native of Massachusetts. Having located in Phillipsburg in 1856, he has been identified with that town ever since. At one time he was proprietor of the famous old Moshannon hotel. The judge and Mrs. B. Frank Morgan, of State College, are his surviving children. Funeral services were held on Tuesday afternoon.

The news of the death of Harry Grove, the only son of J. B. Grove, of East Liverpool, Ohio, was received here Monday morning. He died in Somerset where he has been working for some time and was buried at that place. The Groves formerly lived in Bellefonte and when Harry was employed in P. F. Keichline's cigar store in the Brockerhoff house. He died of nervous prostration. Harry Walkey, a cousin, went out to the funeral from here.

Measles and pneumonia were the cause of the death of Vertie, the youngest daughter of N. W. Ream, of Penn's Cave. She died last Friday afternoon; having been sick just a week. She was seven years old. Interment was made Monday morning.

Mrs. E. N. Crain, who was a Miss Kate Caldwell, of this place, before her marriage, died in Altoona last Friday and was buried Sunday.

AN EVENT OF INTEREST AT THE GLOBE.—The high estimation in which the millinery department of the Globe is held by the ladies of Bellefonte was well attested by the throngs which visited that establishment on last Monday and Tuesday, the dates of their annual millinery spring opening. The keen interest displayed by the delighted visitors amply repaid Mr. Katz, and his corps of assistants for their untiring efforts to make this display a "Red Letter" day in the history of their establishment.

Miss Lanier, who has charge of this department, represents the highest perfection of millinery art. The artistic taste displayed in arranging the various articles which tend to make a handsome hat and the superb blending of colors, made it very difficult to make a choice from the many beautiful hats exhibited. The extreme affability with which visitors were received and entertained was not the least part of this delightful opening.

ARRESTED ON A SERIOUS CHARGE.—On Monday a deputy United States Marshal arrested Jacob From at his home, in Centre Hall, and took him to Williamsport, where he was charged with extracting money from a letter addressed to another person that he had lifted at the post-office and also with sending obscene matter through the mail. From gave bond for his appearance for trial before the United States circuit court and was released.

From what can be gathered by our correspondent it appears that last September Mrs. John From, of Ohio, came east on a visit, and while here stopped to see her brother-in-law Jake From. A letter containing money was sent to the Centre Hall office for the woman and was handed to From, who told the postmaster, Charles Meyer, that she was stopping at his place. Instead of delivering the letter to Mrs. From, Jake is said to have broken the seal and given the money free circulation, and in addition wrote Mrs. From's husband an indecent letter concerning his wife.

The post-office authorities were advised of this act and in a short time an agent of the department came on to consult with postmaster Meyer. Evidence was collected at the time and since then sufficient has been discovered to warrant From's arrest, which was made on Monday as stated. Ex-postmaster Meyer accompanied the Marshal to Williamsport as a witness.

From is a laboring man over at Centre Hall and though he has been a pretty good sort of a fellow, his past record will be against him. Several times he has been hauled up for petty thieving and one night he received a gun shot wound in the leg that was generally believed to have been a mark of the kind of reception he got while prowling around some other person's henery.

News Purely Personal. —Frank Shugert is in Phillipsburg spending a few days with his friends in that place. —Mrs. Charles Calaway left, yesterday morning, for an extended visit to Harrisburg, Philadelphia and other points. —Miss Blanche Cook, of Linn street, is home from Miss Gordon's school in Philadelphia for her Easter vacation. —Miss Birdie Noll, of Bishop street, is in Clearfield visiting her brother Charles, proprietor of the Wilmer Inn. —Miss Lulu Brew, of north Spring street, is in Pittsburg visiting. She left for that city on Monday afternoon. —Dr. and Mrs. Thomas R. Hayes are back from spending the winter in California to stay the summer in their comfortable home on Allegheny street. —J. Fearon Mann Esq., returned from an extended tour through the West on Tuesday evening. He is traveling for the American axe and tool company. —Clarence Achenbach, son of B. C. Achenbach, formerly of this place, left Lock Haven, on Saturday, with his grandfather, to make a long visit at Farmington, Kansas. —Mrs. Thomas Moore and daughter Helen and Mrs. Clayton Brown are in Philadelphia spending Easter with Mr. Brown, who is located in that city. They went down on Tuesday morning. —Mrs. Rebecca Pugh is home from her visit to Atlantic City. Her sister-in-law, Mrs. Harry Valentine, who went down with her, will remain a month or two in hopes that the change will be beneficial. —J. Malcolm Laurie left for Scotland, on Wednesday evening. It wasn't curiosity to investigate Ian MacLaren's "Bonny Brier Bush," but to see the home of his birth and say good-bye to his sister who will be married while he is there and start for South Africa. Mac expects to be gone for two months. —John T. Fowler, of Martha, was a WATCHMAN office visitor Monday morning and as has always been the case with him he saw to it before leaving that his subscription figures were all right. He has been a reader of the WATCHMAN almost since the day it was started and certain it is that there are no more intelligent or appreciative ones. —Dave Kelley came home from Philadelphia, on Monday morning, having resigned his position as confidential clerk to Michael J. Cassidy, deputy surveyor of the customs for the port of Philadelphia, which he had filled so satisfactorily for four years. He came back to take A. Lester Sheffer's place as shipping clerk for A. G. Morris here. Lester will go to Easton, where he will take charge of a lime operation. —Auctioneer Jos. L. Neff was in town a few hours on Friday morning and enjoyed immensely the little let up from the hard work he has been doing crying sales ever since the early part of February. There is no doubt about Joe's being the biggest auctioneer in the county and when the number of his sales and the amounts that he realizes on them are considered there is no gainsaying that he is one of the best. —Former poor overseer Isaac Miller was home to spend Sunday with his family, but went back to Erie Tuesday night, to remain there until June. He is superintending the remodeling of the home that C. P. Hewes Esq., will occupy in the suburbs of that city and says it will be a beautiful place when completed. Certain it is that no more trustworthy mechanic could have been selected for the job by Mr. Hewes. —John Strouse, late of Taylor township, now a resident of Benner, was in town on Friday taking his first look around from the point of view held by a farmer who lives only a mile and a half out. He had just moved from the big John T. Fowler farm in Taylor township, the day before, and said that, though it took them fourteen years to drive the moving down, his first impression of his new purchase, the Shively farm, just above Roopersburg, was a good one. —Some people are of the opinion that an extensive correspondence is burdensome. We are not and would be perfectly willing to write a note to every one of our readers if they would only encourage us by writing first and enclosing a little of the very necessary. Now such letters as we have received within the last few days from William Houtz, of Franklinville, and William H. Lambert, of Wolf's Store, are just the kind that tickle and no one would object to answering them with a receipt and a thank you. —Saturday wasn't the first of April but it was the next thing to it so William Biekel, our old friend down at Mill Hall, came to town to look after some business, just as he has been doing so methodically for the past sixteen years. He is one of the crack farmers of that section and being a progressive, wide awake man has been profoundly convicted of the necessity of a change in our currency if the condition of the farmer is to be permanently effected. Well, you know he couldn't have found a more congenial place to talk such a theory than right here in the WATCHMAN office and that accounts for the pleasant chat we had on Saturday evening. While in town Mr. Biekel always looks after some business for J. J. McKibben, of Abdera, and George Berry, of Mackeyville, both esteemed friends of ours, and part of that business is to see that they are in the front rank of our star subscribers.

AT ST. JOHN'S REFORMED CHURCH.—Rev. Joseph H. Dabbs, D. D. of Franklin and Marshall college will be in charge of the Easter services at the Reformed church. These services will begin with preparatory services on Good Friday morning at 10:30, and services on Friday evening at 7:30. Services on Sunday morning and evening at the usual hours. The Lord's Supper will be celebrated in connection with the regular services on Sunday morning. Dr. Dabbs is one of the leading divines in the Reformed church, and has the reputation of being a very fine pulpit orator. All are cordially invited. The choir is rehearsing special music for the service.

EASTER SERVICES IN THE LUTHERAN CHURCH.—The services in the Lutheran church on the coming Easter Sunday, will be of unusual interest. After a short address by the pastor, there will be a reception of church members, and the holy communion administered at 10:30 a. m. In the evening at 7:30 an "Easter and church extension service" will be rendered by the Sunday school and congregation. Special music has been prepared for all these services, and the church tastefully decorated with flowers and potted plants. You are cordially invited.

SONG SERVICE AT BOALSBURG.—The choir of the Reformed church at Boalsburg is rehearsing a program of special music for a song service that will be held in that church on Easter Sunday evening. It will begin at half-past seven o'clock and a cordial invitation is extended to the public to be present.

AT THE PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.—Easter services in the Presbyterian church will be characterized by several special numbers by the choir. The soloists for the morning and evening services will be Mrs. J. C. Meyer and Miss Henrietta K. Butts.

THE METHODISTS WILL OBSERVE EASTER.—The Bellefonte Methodist Sunday school will observe Easter with a special service in the church in the afternoon. At the regular morning and evening services special music will be rendered by the choir.

Rev. Dr. Colfelt, of State College, preached to his old congregation at Bond and Oxford street, Philadelphia, on Sunday last. He has been "officially" called back to the pastorate at that church, but whether he will accept the "call" is a matter still undetermined. The doctor is very much in love with his work at the State College, but not more so than are the people of this entire section with his correct life and devout christian teachings, and it is yet possible that he may elect to remain where he can continue the good work he has been doing up at the College.

Don't forget the musicale in the Presbyterian church next Thursday evening. It will be well worth hearing. Miss Neubaker the organist from Philadelphia will be assisted by Miss Furst, of Lock Haven, Mrs. James Scarlett and Mr. Lyon, of Danville, a good elocutionist and J. W. Gray, of Pittsburg, who is the bright particular star in the musical world at State College. He does play the violin charmingly and if the others measure up to his standard the musicale will be delightful and high class.

The memorial service for Miss Frances E. Willard, in the Methodist church, on Sunday evening, attracted an unusually large congregation. Dr. Stephens eulogized the dead temperance worker as the greatest woman of the age.

The corner stone of the United Evangelical church that is to be built on the mountain, three miles from Spring Mills, will be laid on Sunday, April 24th. Rev. J. J. Lohr will officiate. Services will begin at 10 o'clock.

P. McCaffrey has been re-elected overseer of the poor and market clerk for another year in Lock Haven. The best evidence in the world that he must be considered the right man is shown in the fact that though he has been a straight Democrat all his life a Republican council never hesitates to elect him.

The post office at Tusseyville was discontinued on March 31st and all the belongings transferred to the office at Potters Mills. It was according to a departmental order, but it is quite likely that it will be replaced, for such an arrangement would make it very inconvenient for the people of that vicinity.
