West Sunday in a state of wreck. Everybody was sick, some more so than others. Even the naval men did not escape. From the crowded decks of the Olivette hearty cheers went up as the launch from the Fern with the correspondents and consular agent on board put ashore.

The Olivette had 249 refugees on board. Forty of these landed at Key Westand the remainder proceeded to Tampa. Among those on board for Tampa were Miss Clara Barton, Dr. Elwell, Dr. Eagan and four Red-Cross sisters, composing, with others, the regular Red Cross party. Dr. Brunner, United States sanitary inspector at Havana, and Dr. Dud-ley, his assistant, and Messrs. Law-ton and Childs are also among the passengers bound for Tampa. With few exceptions they were either negroes or Cubans, and spoke the tongue of the land from which they had just fled. A good sized crowd greeted them, and much kissing setting on the heak and jubbered well. "Years" sake the action of Congress had been delayed. Among the few educated persons on board the Olivette considerable surprise was exhibited at finding themselves once more in their native land. Even up to Saturday morning they had searcely here. Saturday morning they had scarcely believed it would prove necessary for them intention of going, the people believed a crisis at hand. HAVANA WAS SHOCKED

Under instructions from General Lee who went on board the Fern immediately after his farewell call on Captain General Blanco, the consular people and the correspondents went quietly on board in twos and threes. No one was molested or insulted, but the people stared curiously as the newspaper men, to whose presence all had grown accustomed, rode down to the dock with their grips, canes and other hand baggage, showing their intention to depart.

Nineteen refugees were landed from the Bache at Key West and 100 from the Evelyn.

In fact Havana was kinder than the out-

A significant occurrence took place Saturday, when the Fern, with Consul General Lee and other Americans, was passing Morro Castle. In reply to the Spanish rabble on the wharves, who hooted, "Death to the Yankee swine," the correspondent of the London Times, who was on the Fern, remarked loudly: "May every Yankee shell kill 50 of the Spanish dogs." shell kill 50 of the Spanish dogs.

Captain Barnett has been detached from the Bache, and ordered to Washington. Lieutenant Commander Davis will be temporarily in command of the vessel. The American consular staff, which acompanied Consul General Lee, is held here awaiting further orders, and the implication is that the staff may return to

Those That Do Well in the South Are Not Found

on Most Northern Lists, The advice so often given to those about to plant, to look about them and inquire of those living in the vicinity as to what kind of trees do well in the neighborhood, should be well heeded by those who intend to plant evergreens in the South, says the Practical Farmer. A planter there, taking the catalogue of a northern nurseryman and planting the sorts recommended in it would be apt to be grievously disappointed. The general list of evergreens available for the far South is not to be found in north-ern lists. The pines, Japanese retinisporas, common arbor-vitæ and junipers are of no use in the South, and many others of our northern favorites can be added to the list. What is called the Chinese arbor-vitæ section is the one from which come the kinds that are suited to the South. The common Chinese arbor-vitæ, its varieties au-rea and Rollinson's golden, are three that thrive admirably. These do well right down to the sea coast, a something the native arbor-vitæ, loving the colder clime of the North, will not do. The several true cypress of Europe also do well, such as the Cupressus sempenirens and torulosa. Ceodar and other true cedars are also at home there, growing so that the northern man becomes envious when he thinks of the fact that these beautiful trees are scarcely hardy north of Pennsylvania. What is called the white cedar of California, the Libocedrus decurrens does well in the ex-treme South, and so does the Lanson's cypress. The monkey puzzle, an evergreen from Chili, and one which delights so many visitors to Europe, grows well South. It will stand a temperature of 10 to 15 below the freezing point and even more when in the shade. It is the Araucaria imbricata. much further North, than supposed, were it planted in a favorable place. It is in the broad leaved evergreens that the South excites the envy of the North, the laurels, sweet bays, alaternus, ancubus, enonymus, veronicas and laurestinus of Europe are at home there, mingling with the unsurpassed native, magnolia grandiflora. It is to broad-leaved evergreens that so much of the beauty of European gardens is due. There are more of these that could be planted North than are used. The common English laurel

The Evelyn had already passed Morro Castle when the Olivette weighed anchor. The Bache was close behind, and the Fern was the last of the line. The wharves and boats on both sides of the narrow entrance to the harbor were crowded with Spaniards who hissed and jeered as each boat passed

As the Fern rounded to, heading for the open sea, she passed near the Maine wreck. The group on deck had been laughing and talking, expressing their satisfaction at leaving Havana. With one accord each man doffed his hat in salute to the brave dead, while silence fell on all for the space of several minutes. General Lee being on board the Fern made that boat a target for redoubled hisses, groans, cat-calls and whistles from the crowds on shore.

"Get out, Yankee swine," was among the mildest expressions used. This seemed to strike every one on board as ludicrous. Vice Consul Springer, who had been in the island 30 years, waved his hand to a particularly abusive group, saying in tones loud enough for all to hear: "Wait, wait, my friends. We shall all be back soon."

BRITISH TARS' SYMPATHY.

There was one pretty incident. On the Cabanas shore a British steamer was unloading at her wharf. As the Fern passed the union jack was dipped, while the English crew gave a hearty cheer. It is needless to say that the compliment was returned with all possible gusto.

Havana seemed dazed when the people found that General Lee was really going and that all the Americans were going with him. Not to see a single United States flag floating from the staff at Casa Nueva struck many residents as little less than a calamity. The correspondents were besieged with eager questions as to the intentions of the Americans, and was likely to commence.

The government officials seemed as much The government officials seemed as much at a loss as all the rest. A Spanish officer the case of the statute it is the will of the of high rank besought a correspondent law giver printed on paper and not the pato tell him if he had any news not made per -Silver Night Watchman. public affecting the future of the city.

The fact that Mr. Gollan, the British consul, called with General Lee on Captain General Blanco also puzzled many, some believing that this meant an English alliance had been settled. The truth is that the Havana newspapers have been under such close surveillance for months, have been made to publish so many untruths, and washing on the line." have printed so many tales of the United States backing down at the demand of Germany, Italy, Austria and Russia, that the residents take no stock whatever in anything published. Fifty-Cent Dollar.

Whoever saw a full legal tender 50-cent dollar? The fact that no such dollar ever existed or ever can exist does not seem to embarrass the gold bugs when they make the assertion that the silver dollar under free coinage would be a 50-cent dollar. Every dollar issued by the government which is a full legal tender for all debts, public and private, is and must be a 100cent dollar, whether it be made of gold, silver or paper, because every full legal tender dollar will pay the same amount of debts and perform exactly the same amount of service as every other dollar in circulation, and when the gold bugs use this argument we call upon them to state how there could be a 50-cent dollar when only full legal tender dollars are issued by the government and each will pay a dollar of taxes or other government dues, and will also pay a dollar of any description of private debts, and that one dollar will pay no more debts or taxes than any other full legal tender dollar. All dollars that are full legal tender are precisely of the same value. What difference does it make whether the material upon which dollars are stamped or printed is of the same value? It makes no difference, because when the law of legal tender is stamped upon any material it can be used for no other purpose while it is used for money; it has but the one use while it is used for money, and having that use, which is the money use, all full legal tender dollars are equal. No one would contend that it would be wise to was made out of a diamond it would only pay a dollar of indebtedness, and would perform no higher or greater money function than if it was engraved on paper. Nearly all the confusion in considering monetary science grows out of confounding the law of payment, which is legal tender, and the material used upon which money is stamped or printed. The material is no to the intentions of the Americans, and when the fleet expected a bombardment was likely to commence.

The government officials seemed as much is the will in the case of money it is the

Plantatious in Jamaica

Largest in the World and Owned by Americans. The largest fruit plantations in the world are in Jamaica, says the Buffalo Evening Times. They are owned and operated by an American company, the area of whose fruit farm is 44,000 acres. They own 28,-000 acres and the other 16,000 acres are held by them under lease. Their principal crops are bananas and cocoanuts, and last year they shipped 3,000,000 bunches of bananas and 5,000,000 cocoanuts, besides other fruits to America and elsewhere, employing twelve steamers belonging to the company. Near Olden, on the Ozark mountains, in Southern Missouri, there is one of the largest and finest fruit farms in the world. It consists of 2200 acres of land, owned by a syndicate formed of the members of the Missouri Horticultural Society, and on which are planted 61,000 peach, 23,000 apple and 2000 pear trees, with 40 acres in small fruits. There is an orchard at Santa Barbara, in California, belonging to Elwood Cooper, of an area of 1700 acres, containing 10,000 olive trees, 3000 English walnut trees, 4500 Japanese persimmon trees, 10,000 almond trees and about 4000 other nut and fruit trees.

The Population of the World.

Hubner's statistical and geographical tables, as a result of the latest investigations, give the population of the world at 1,535,000,000. This is an increase over the figures of 1896 of 23,000,000. To this increase Europe is credited with contributing 5,700,000; Asia, 6,200,000; Africa, 7,500,000; America, 3,200,000. The building north of United States, with its great growth, estimated by this authority at 2,800,000, and its present population placed at 72,300,000, represents more than 53 per cent. of the entire population of North and South America—a circumstance adduced as highly significant, and occurring in no other part of the earth.

REMARKABLE RESCUE---Mrs. Michael Curtain, Plainfield, Ill., makes the statement, that she caught cold, which settled on her lungs; she was treated for a month by her family physician, but grew worse. He told her she was a hopeless victim of consumption and that no medicine could cure her. Her druggist suggested Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption; she bought a bottle and to her delight found herself benefited from first dose. She continued its use and after taking six bottles, found herself sound and well; now does her own housework, and is as well as she ever was. Free trial bottles of this Great Discovery at F.
