Maine disaster but did not get in then so he when the horses started to run and he got and Thos Bartges went to Bellefonte and his horses until they ran against a tree, uptwenty, is good born and well behaved. He has the good wishes of many friends that he will win honor and renown and return after Spain is routed in good health. A regiment like Sandoe would scare the Spanish into hysterics.

THE WATER QUESTION .- It is with much satisfaction and pleasure your correspondent | years she has been in delicate health but able is able to announce that the water question to oversee her household duties and attend has been settled by the Supreme court offer- to her church and charitable work. Her ing the decision of the lower court, which maiden name was Heston and she was born means that Judge Love was right when he at Hartleton 71 years ago. When quite a decided Centre Hall could, if it wished, young girl she came to this town and fortyerect its own water plant. The decision of five years ago was married to Geo. Eckle, the court was received Monday shortly be- who died three years ago. Of her three chilwhistles of the manufacturing establishments | the two daughters having died some time were announcing the victory so vociferously ago. She was an aunt of Prof. John Heston, that people outside the town were sure that now of the State of Washington, and a little Admiral Sampson had sent the whole Span- grandson will miss her kindly ministrations. ish fleet down to join McGinty. While they | She was buried on the morning of the 12th, were disappointed in this the news they and her pastor Rev. Black of the Reformed heard was equally acceptable.

The manufacturers were not the only ones who rejoiced-every resident of the town except the water stock owners were jubilant. The war was forgotten for the time and the eight inch' gun at Grange Park bomed forth the good news until the town and valley fairly echoed while the anvils on the diamond repeated the story. If any one says spite and jealousy are at the bottom of the scheme for Centre Hall to own and operate its own water plant you can put it down as altogether false. The citizens of the town were driven to it in self defense. Talk about spite and jealously! talk about furthering the town's interests! and then remember that the water company asked and would have taken twenty-two thousand dollars for a plant, which when described before the Supreme court caused a general smile.

The people are duly thankful to the lawyers, who so ably defended them and to the borough authorities who stood without flinching for the right. Providentally or incidentally C. P. Hewes, attorney for the water company, was in town Monday when the whistles let loose their shrieks of triumph over the cause he was championing.
