FARM NOTES.

—Laurel Fern is another new fraud, not because it is absolutely worthless, but because it is of very low grade and is put out with unfounded claims.

—Currants thrive in the cold sections of this country, and a regular but little labor and care compared with some crops, yet they are rarely seen on farms.

—Do not reduce the food because of a scarcity, but buy bran and linseed meal, Economy in the saving of food means a loss in the product.

—Top dressing in the fall is an excellent way to treat the wheat and to preserve the manure from loss.

—Slug Shot, so largely advertised, contains less than 20 per cent of arsenic and a little copper oxide.

—A new insecticide has been advertised under the name of Bug Death, and great claims are made for it also as a fertilizer.

—It has been demonstrated that a cow will eat as much as 75 pounds of green food in one day.

—When the crops are removed from the garden, burn the ground over so as to destroy weeds and seeds.

—Keep the stock off the pasture and spread manure over the surface, so as to protect during the winter and give the grass a good start early in the spring.

—Such implements as harvesters and hay loaders are costly, and too much care cannot be given them when they are out of use.

—Concentrating the manure on a small area may appear as a waste, but results have always been in favor of so doing.

—If eggs were sold by the pound there would be more care given the fowls and a greater interest taken in the breeds of poultry.

—The cyclists have a new form of jacket, with a yoke piece strapped into the back like a Russian coat.

—The question of whether artificial fertilizers should be used with manure can be settled only by farmers in their individual capacity.

—Butterine cannot compete with good butter. There is no such thing as medium butter.

—How to prepare autumn leaves for winter decoration.—On a fine dry day gather the leaves as soon as they have turned brown.

—Care of Umbrellas.—After using an umbrella on a wet day never leave it open to dry, as it causes the silk to crack.

—To take out paint marks.—Paint marks upon woolen materials may be removed by applying a little turpentine.

FOR AND ABOUT WOMEN.

The textiles destined for winter wear are lighter and thinner than they have been for years.

Drap amazons, drap-cachemire, taupelinet, a smooth surfaced moleskin, cachemire-veloute, popelaine de laine, popelaine de soie and a new rep showing an uneven surface of one fine and one coarse rib alternately are among the most favored of the new fabrics for fall and winter.

In shades, gray, from palest pearl color for house wear to thunder cloud for the street, will retain its popularity.

In regard to the fashioning of gowns, the Devey flounce may be safely predicted to last through the entire winter.

In Paris the Empire model has many partisans, as has also the Princess robe.

Both will be worn to a greater degree than here. So far our American women have given these scant favor.

There will be a perfect craze for decoration, that will not confine itself to the bodice and skirt alone, but will extend to capes, coats, peleries and fur garments.

The shapes in fall hats have a decided tendency toward the small sizes.

The broad-brimmed hat will be entirely passe. The Tyrolean or Alpine shape in various modifications will continue to be la mode for utility wear.

Young women with slim waists draw the wide black Liberty satin sashes twice around the body knot the streamers one and pin with a jeweled brooch.

The novelty in umbrella heads has taken a step toward reviving the old style of hammered silver in pompadour designs of various round-shaped heads.

The cyclists have a new form of jacket, with a yoke piece strapped into the back like a Russian coat.

Coat bodices differing from the skirt are now being worn, or the coat and skirt correspond and there are three and four skirt panels of different material.

If Parisian styles catch on here this winter coats will be very diversified and those for late autumn wear have rounded fronts and long tails.

Got the Suit She Wanted.

"I didn't quite know what my husband's attitude would be on the bathing suit question," said the Juno-like girl who was only married last fall.

"How do you like my bathing suit? I asked him. 'You ought to have seen the funny one I gave me.' 'Do you call that a bathing suit?'

"Well, I didn't say anything, but yesterday I went down and got just the kind of a bathing suit I wanted, and when I put it on last night and showed it to George he said I looked like one of the colored supplement pictures in it, and that it was all right, all right."

"No, not exactly an accident," he slowly replied. "Then the head of the barrel fell out?" "No, it didn't exactly fall out."

"Don't say anything to get her excited," "I should say she had! She's the wife of the county clerk, and as I was busy and couldn't wait on her for a box of baking powder the minute she came in, she pranced out here and knocked in the head of that barrel."

"The yoke corn bread is prepared in the South places among the dainties, to a man who loves good things, and if people do not forgo it for breakfast, besides the biscuits, there is set near the head of the family a plate upholding a thin square of egg bread, with a crust as brown as oysters fried in the French market at New Orleans."
