FARM NOTES.

—If a strange hen is brought into the flock she may bring lice with her; the bodies of the hens protect lice during the coldest weather, hence the dust bath is important. Another difficulty is the fact that the large grey lice are nearly always found on the skins of the heads and necks. A few drops of olive oil, once a month will, destroy them.

-A writer to the household columns of a northwestern paper gives this recipe for making a liniment for man and beast: Drop a cracked egg, shell and all, into a pint of strongest cider vinegar. Keep covered from dust and allow to stand till the shell and egg have disappeared. Shake well and strain, adding a gill of turpentine. Always shake well before using, as the turpentine does not combine well with the

-The best way to exterminate those little mites called chicken-lice is to take a teaspoonful of sulphur to about three of lard (any kind of grease will do except tallow; that is too hard) mixed together; then pour in boiling water, stir until it is melted, and with a cloth wash the perches and all the insides of the boxes where they sit and lay. Tear up the cloth and wrap it about the roosts where lice are likely to hide. Do this two or three times, and you will soon be rid of the pests.

-So-called scratches, if not too inveterate, will soon be brought to healing by keeping the horse on a dry and clean floor, out of water, snow, mud and manure, and by making twice a day to all the sores a liberal application of a mixture of liquid subacetate of lead, one part, and olive-oil, three parts. If the affected parts need cleaning it is advisible to do it dry or with out using any water. A thickening of the skin, caused by degeneration of its tissues, must be looked upon as permanent.

-Those who buy wheat and corn for fowls should try millet seed. The seeds are very small and are more perfect as a ration for laying hens than grain. An advantage in using millet seed is that the fowls must eat slowly, as they will be compelled to hunt for every seed, and by so doing will have more exercise. The cost of the commercial seed should be no greater than for wheat, and every poultryman should grow a small patch of millet if the seed is difficult to procure. Millet is a summer plant and need not be seeded in until May or June.

-Early in the spring the hens will begin to set and young chicks hatched. It is important to keep the chicks warm until they are feathered. They are hatched at a temperature of 103 degrees, and when exposed to an atmosphere at a temperature of 50 or 60 degrees become chilled, from which they seldom recover. Bowel diseases, which is ascribed to faults in feeding, is more frequently the result of lack of warmth. Late in spring, when the weather is warmer, the chicks can have more liberty, but in winter, when the early ones are hatched, shelter and protection from cold draughts will be necessary to prevent loss.

-Wherever lawns are highly manured. as most well-kept lawns are apt to be, a dressing of salt sometimes during the winter will greatly benefit them. Salt in small quantities, as it must be used when applied to land, is one of the best solvents known. We are so used to putting salt in extra amounts to harden and pickle vegetables that we are apt to forget that in very small amounts it rots them. Try it on some cut potatoes for seed, as we knew a farmer once to do, and see the effect. He one says that they are soothing to the eyes and to the nerves, another declares that rotted a whole row of potatoes in this way, so that two-thirds of them never came up. blue or a red room is not. The former is too cool for Winter, the latter too warm the more health you distribute through their sys-Salt is especially valuable to release mineral fertilizers that have become inert in

-To keep apples sound, laying them on a dark, dry shelf is one method. But when so kept many will be found to lose larity of mahogany-tinted hair accounts for their beauty and shrivel; if packed in boxes or barrels with dry sand, however, the flavor and soundness are not only preserved, but their original beauty and firmness are also maintained. We do not recommend saw dust or barn, as these are liable to get damp or mouldy, and thus injure the fruit. Pears may also be preserved in this way, but as these undergo a slight fermentation, after becoming ripe, the effect of which is shown by a kind of greasiness on the skin, they should be left a week in the store-room before the method of preserving here pointed out is commenced.

-Can anybody explain why our farmers are so reckless concerning the encroachments of weeds? The wild carrot might easily have been headed off if we had the right sentiment among our land-owners. The only difficulty now in eradicating it is the fact that there is so much of it. It is easily pulled before going to seed. I would much rather deal with it than with the hawkweed, which is spreading through the fields of New York state and elsewhere. The best way of dealing with this pest, as well as with moneywort, where it gets lodged in the lawns, is to sow liberally with salt. Buy a barrel or more of damaged salt, which you can generally find at any country store and obtain for less than half price. While the salt kills the weeds it fertilizes the grass. Apply three or four times in order to thoroughly reach every

-The beginning with a garden should be really in the fall, as such plants as spinach, kale, salsify, dandelion, cress, etc., can be seeded down in the fall, covered with mulch and be brought on the table very early in the spring. A patch of turnips left in the ground in the fall will provide the best kind of early "greens," and the same may be done with cabbage stalks, which, if planted in the the fall in a of the material or of ribbon will be more of the material or of ribbon will be more compact bed, will take up but little room and throw out sprouts early in spring before any other green crop comes. Later on radishes, lettuce and rhubarb will be in order, as they are hardy and can be had before summer crops are seeded. Asparagus comes almost by the time frost is out of the ground. Half an acre in a garden which has been heavily manured will provide an enormous supply of vegetables, as one crop can go in as soon as another is removed of some kinds. Peas and onions, as well as early potatoes, may be had with but little difficulty if the ground is sandy and warm, but to secure early crops the cultivation must be deep and thorough and the land well drained, not by having a heavy sur-

FOR AND ABOUT WOMEN.

Mrs. S. J. Atwood, who runs a Labor Bureau in Denver, has hired over 40,000 men in the last thirteen years for work on Western railroads. She is said to be the only woman railroad employment agent in the country.

To remain young a woman must keep her joints limber; if neglected they become painful and stiff. Women groan with rheunatic pains, when, if they exercised properly, rheumatism would be unheard Women sit by a fire and shiver with a cold. when, if they encouraged gymnastics, the blood would circulate vigorously through the body.

The following four simple exercises will greatly help to develop and preserve physical symmetry.

1—Stand erect, with hands outstretched on a level with the shoulders, and slowly raise yourself on your toes as far as possi ble. Retain this position for an instant, and then sink back on to the entire foot. Do this 20 times a day at first, and increase each day to a reasonable limit.

2—Place the hands on the hips, and resting all the weight of the body on the right the foot up. Repeat this 10 times at first. Then stand on the left foot and repeat the exercise in reverse.

3-Stand erect and lean over at the hips without bending the knees and try to touch the floor with the fingers. Day by day you will come nearer and nearer the floor. This exercise will make the body supple and strengthen the back and will encour-

4—Extend the right arm and placing the left on the hip bend to right side as far as possible, and then reverse the exercise, which should be repeated 10 times at first, and, like the others increased from day to day as much as circumstances will admit. This is an excellent general gymnastic. No woman should indulge in any exercise to such an extent that even the slightest strain is possible. Fifteen minutes a day spent in exercise at home should result in muscular development and greatly help to retain health.

Gloves should fit easily—neither too tight nor too loose. In the first instance they make the hand appear clumsy, besides stopping the circulation of the blood, caus-ing cold extremities and a variety of other complaints which follow in its wake; and in the latter case they wrinkle. Both extremes are to be avoided.

In trying on gloves, which should be as carefully fitted to the hand as corsets are to the body, the hand should be dry-entirely free from perspiration. The fingers are first inserted, and the nicest care should be taken that they are properly pushed in, for the future wear and fit of the glove depend upon how it is first put After the fingers are worked on thumb is inserted, and then the upper part of the glove receives attention. Both gloves should be put on before either is buttoned. Begin at the second button and fasten the glove, and then return to the first and no trouble will be found in closing it.

In removing gloves they should be pulled off from the wrist, thus turning them inside out and giving them an opportunity to dry and air. Light-colored gloves give the hand a

To have a green room is apt to stamp one as very up-to-date and an artistic person as well, says a New York exchange. The decorators have all sorts of answers to the question: "Why, are green rooms the fad?" low, and in that case the rich effect, which is the first charm of the red room, is missed.

the new born love of green rooms. The green room of the present day fancy is either in dark shades, with light oak woodwork, or in silvery, sage green, with mahogany, teakwood or black oak furniture. Occasionally a brilliant splash of red is permitted in wall border, couch pillows or candle shades, and huge, drowsy poppies are the popular design. A green room in which a man of not appallingly studious mind spends most of his time has very effective book shelves of white wood to match the old-fashioned white marble mantelpiece. "Pull your pretty last year's waists apart," advises a woman famous for the success of her shirt waist designs, "and take out much of the fullness of the front and some from the sleeves. This is to render the waists comfortable when worn beneath the tight little tailor-made bodice coats which were so popular in the Autumn, and which will be worn again just as soon as furs and heavy coats are unnecessary. When the time comes for the shirt waists to make their appearance uncovered by any coat the fronts will grow fuller, and new wrinkles appear. But for the present the fronts should be rather skimpy, so that the snugly fitted bodice will close over them nicely, and just as little fullness as possible should be allowed in the sleeves." In order to fully renovate the last year's waist which is to do duty for the opening of the Spring season or for the present one, since everybody is wearing cotton waists already, even if they haven't worn them all winter, the cuffs must be made a trifle narrower. They should be so arranged as to button with regular studs or cuff but-tons instead of links, and the corners should popular than linen collars for a month or because linen is very unkind to soft throats when the weather is chilly.

The wearers of the first shirt waists of The wearers of the first shirt waists of 1899 will find the question very hard to settle, each side of the matter having its own good points. The stiff color of white linen always looks trim and natty, and it allows endless possibilities in the way of liberty scaffs and so on, but the ribbon collar or stock is often much more becoming, and the beauty of the throat is far more graciously preserved by its use.
Striped materials, in passing, are to be more popular than any others, then plaids, and both in bold patterns and colors.

So, for the benefit of the woman who face flow, but by the water going down quickly. Warmth is secured by the air following the downward flow of the water tronize exclusive shirt makers, here are a may be prevented by keeping the blood pure and the system toned up with Hood's Sarsaparilla.

The winds, by one information of the less fortunate comrades. Choose pink, purple or white materials, striped, plaided or figured, but never, unless you select white as your color, absolutely plain; make them up in lengthy outlines of the kind herein described, with all the stripes going down the figure instead of across, as in other sea-sons; look well to the fashioning of your cuffs and collars and insist upon a mediun long and well-fitted yoke, together with some little fulluess in the front, no matter what the fashion articles say.

Pepper Pointers.

The Difference Between the Black and the Whi

Very few house wives seem to understand the difference between the black and the white pepper, and why the latter is su-perior. The black pepper is the most com-monly used in seasoning. This is the coarse pepper made by grinding the pep-percorn with the outer shell or husk on it. White pepper, on the contrary, is made of perfectly ripened peppercorn after the husk has been removed, and is in every way superior in flavor to black pepper, though it is not quite so pungent. White pepper costs but a trifle more than black and does not disfigure a white soup or sauce as black pepper does.

It is interesting to recall the fact tha this simple condiment was so costly in the foot slowly raise the left leg, and extend it in front of the body. Then bend at the knee, pointing the toe downward and bring the toe downward and bring at certain times. The term "a pepper-times." corn rent" still lingers in modern jurisprudence, and means a nominal rent.

The Portuguese, who formerly controlled the pepper market of the world, were in fluenced more, it is said, by their desire to obtain an abundant supply of pepper than by anything else in their effort to discover a short passage to the Indies.

In 1498, when the passage round the Cape of Good Hope was finally discovered pepper went down in price.

Nepaul pepper is a delicious, delicate kind of red pepper.

The red pepper known as cayenne pep-per takes it name from Cayenne, a seaport town, and the capital of French Guiana, on the northwest extremity of the Island of Cayenne, and near the mouth of the river of that name.

OTICE TO THE STOCKHOLDERS OF THE JENKINS IRON & TOOL CO.—
By a resolution of the Board of Directors of the Jenkins Iron & Tool company, a meeting of the stockholders of the said corporation will be held, at its office in Howard, in the county of Centre, on Tuesday the 14th day of March, A. D. 1899, for the purpose of holding an election to decide whether or not there shall be an increase in the capital stock of the Jenkins Iron & Tool company, which proposed increase is twenty thousand dollars. Th!s notice is given by the undersigned in pursuance of the resolution aforesaid.
S. W. MURRAY, Pres. The pepper is not prepared from a pep-percorn, but from the dried fruits of var ious species of plants know as capsicum. All these fruits have a very strong, pungent flavor. The annual or common capsicum—the Guinea pepper plant—was taken to Europe by the Spaniards and grown in England in 1548.

Cayenne pepper is manufactured from the ripe fruits, which are dried, ground, mixed with wheat flour and made into cakes with yeast. These cakes are baked until hard like biscuit, and then ground and sifted. The pepper is sometimes pre-pared by simply drying the pods and pounding them fine in a mortar.

Quaking Custard.

Soak one quarter of a box of gelatine in one-quarter of a cup of cold water. Beat together the yolks of three eggs with onehalf cup of sugar, and one pint of scalded milk and stir in a double boiler until it thickens. Take from the fire, stir in the gelatine, flavor with one teaspoonful of vanila, strain and pour into one or more wetted moulds; when cold, turn out and serve with the whites of the eggs beaten stiff with the whites of the eggs peacen sum one hundred and twenty-second year of the line with three tablespoonfuls of sugar and a pendence of the United States.

Books, Magazines, Etc.

WHAT NEXT?—It does seem as though the seedsmen would stop somewhere, but here comes a work of art. Think of it, twenty-four pages litho graphed in colors, upon an entirely new plan. This, in itself, is enough to turn every woman's head. Then follow about one hundred more pages, filled with handsome half-tone illustrations of flowers, fruits and vegetables, photographed from nature, all printed on fine paper and enclosed in an elegant cover of white and gold. Vick's Garden and Floral Guide also contains ful descriptions and directions for planting flowers and vegetables, plants, small fruits, etc. It explains a new departure in selling vegetable seeds by weight in place of old style of packets; also a grand offer giving customers credit for full amount of purchase to apply on order for implements and useful articles. This splendid work of art will be mailed with a due bill good for 25 cents worth of seeds, for only 15 cents. Write James Vicks Sons, Rochester, N. Y.

The event of the literary year will be, undoubt edly, the great novel upon which Count Tolstoi has been laboring in order that he may devote he proceeds to the transportation to Canada of three thousand Russian Quakers. It is generally believed by his friends that this work will probably mark the conclusion of Count Tolstoi's literary career. Not merely on this account, but because of the subject treated, it will attract the widest attention, the world over. It is a profound study of the life of man and woman, and treats of the three phases of love—that of the youth, that of the young man, and that of the man in mature age.
