FARM NOTES.

-No plant will long survive if its leaves are cut off, hence the way to destroy Canada thistles or other plants that persist in growing is to keep them cut down. As fast as they appear above the ground cut them, and as they will become weaker after each cutting there arrives a time when they can no longer grow.

-Bad butter is frequently caused by keeping the cream from one milking too long while saving it for the next churning, as is sometimes done when only one or two cows are used. Ripe and unripe cream should never be churned together. The sooner the cream is churned after it is separated from the milk the better.

-The squash vine borer eats into the The squash vine borer eats into the stem and does damage because it cannot be reached in the vines. The only remedy is to watch for them as they appear and destroy them. For the striped cucumber beetle the kerosene emulsion, sprayed on the hills early in the morning, is claimed to give good results, the ground to be also a woman of ample proportions can select, and, furthermore, the length of these coat skirts cut off so much of the needed length of the dress skirt beneath. -Manure should be spread over the surface of the field as soon as it is hauled, for the reason that when dumped in heaps it may be leached out by a rain, which leaves the field richer in spots and deprives the manure intended for other portions of the surrounding ground of some of its soluble plant food. Manure cannot be as well and evenly spread when it is dumped on the fields as from the wagon.

—Rape may be now seeded in and will grow rapidly. It is what may be termed a loose-headed cabbage, judging by its appearance, and really belongs to the cabbage family, but may be seeded in rows or by broadcasting like kale. The dwarf Essex variety is preferred, and it is highly relished by cattle, hogs, sheep and poultry, growing again as fast as it is eaten off the land, and providing a large amount of green food at a small cost in proportion to

-For raising early vegetables now is the time to begin work. Make a hotbed and have good sized hardy plants ready for the open ground as soon as the weather will admit of their being put out. Place sever looking and more "goody" looking eral loads of horse manure in a flat-topped pile and give it a good wetting. After sev-eral days it will be steaming vigorously and should be forked over into a similar pile and wet again. Sow your seeds, cover lightly and keep the soil moist. Cover the frames during nights and cold days with glass sashes, if you have them, but if not, use the best covering you have.

-April is the month for making new strawberry beds, and in so doing the fol-lowing rules should be observed: 1. Plow the ground deep and harrow fine, first putting on manure or fertilizer before harrowing. 2. Roll the land after using the harrow. 3. Be sure and have at least one row in three of a variety that is both staminate and pistillate. 4. Have the rows about three feet apart, to admit of the horse hoe, and put the plants 18 inches apart in the rows. 5. Use only young plants of last spring's runners. 6. Keep the bed free of weeds and grass. 7. Mulch the rows before winter sets in.

—There is a gradual growth of a preference for leaner and better-flavored pork, and a breed of hogs—the Tamworths—have been introduced, the merit of which is that, while they grow rapidly and increase in weight like other breeds, they excel in lean meat. Farmers who have used boiled potatoes, crushed oats and peas are of the opinion that hogs receiving the varied diet will make more weight than when fed only on corn, while the meat is of much better quality and brings one or two much better quality and brings one or two cents more in the price per pound. —"The first spraying should be done early in the spring, before the buds open, and it must be done thoroughly. The second should be done after the trees are through blossoming, while the third may come 18 to 20 days later. The fourth spraying is due about three weeks later. A tree is sufficiently sprayed when the drops of the mixture are seen hanging from the branches and leaves. Many orchard trees besides spraying need a thorough scraping, as in the case of the elm trees. Then the brush and other waste matter, including all dead leaves and rubbish, must be removed from the grounds and burned. Do not leave it near the trees or in the roadway, for the eggs deposited therein roadway, for the eggs deposited therein will hatch in the spring. If there are dead trees or badly diseased ones here and there in the orchard, cut them down and burn them," says an Orange Judd Farmer correspondent.

-HINTS FOR APRIL.-A busy month in the garden. As soon as the ground can be prepared the hardy vegetables can be put in. The sowings of peas, onion and leek seeds should be promptly made, and lettuce seeds can be sown without delay.

Redich will come along without delay. Radish will come along quickly now in a wheat, graham or corn meal for the former coldframe; in the open ground, wait until and potato mashed and mixed with cream the soil is somewhat warmer before sowing for the latter. All fruit should be peeled in a well enriched bed, and with a good dressing of wood ashes, which will keep off the black fly. From the middle to the last of the month seeds of all but the very tender kinds of vegetables can be planted.

Sow cabbage, cauliflower and celery seed.

Most kinds of annual flower seeds may be sown at different times during the

—The potato scab has been the cause of considerable loss to cultivators of that crop but an experiment made by the Kentucky experiment station indicates that an effective remedy has been found for scab. A treatment of corrosive sublimate was given by soaking the potatoes for an hour in a solution of nine ounces of sublimate in 60 gallons of water, the disease in the seed begallons of water, the disease in the seed being thereby destroyed.—Vick's Illustrated Monthly Magazine.

FOR AND ABOUT WOMEN.

Miss Elizabeth Plankington, of Milwaukee, daughter of the late John Plankington, has made a gift of $100,000 for a Young Woman's Christian Association home in that city, to be built in memory of her father.

Many of the newest yokes, guimpes and blouse fronts to wear under basque bodices are made with minute tucks across the yoke or guimpe, a style very becoming to slender forms, but by no means favorable to those needing nothing to accentuate width. Horizontal trimmings are the most popular, but they are best suited to tall, slender

There are tailors and modistes who think that a large person looks better in a skirted three-quarter coat than in a postilion bas-que bodice. This is a mistake. The skirts of the coat may conceal in a degree the ungraceful curves of the figure, but they do not improve it, and, furthermore, the length a woman of ample proportions can select, an open-fronted polonaise above a plain or striped underdress, the back breadths of the polonaise arching down to the very hem of the underskirt.

A study in stripes. A dainty little Swiss frock in black and white, the one-piece skirt being cross wise in front. Round it skirt being cross wise in front. Round it were two bias ruffles, edged with narrow black Chantilly. The bloused waist had the stripes cross wise in front, but up and down in the back. Lest there should be no stripe effect in the pretty yoke and sleeves these were composed of alternate rows of narrow black satin ribbon and very fine black insertion over white. These went round the arms. There was a sash of the bias Swiss five inches wide, and much trimmed across the ends with ribbon and

The hair is being dressed lower on the neck at the back, sometimes in twists and sometimes in short curls-short and frizzy, let me add—forming a shapeless chignon covering all the back of the head. Not even a Venus could look a Venus with her hair screwed back, as some women will -women who look at a fringe or untidy hair (however natural it may be) as one of the arch-fiend's wiles to lure womankind to destruction.

The hair itself is a better teacher than even the shape of the face. Follow its teachings, and you will be pleased with yourself, and please others, too.

With summer gowns there will be ribbons everywhere. In fact the summer girl will revel in them. There is no limit to the craze. They will be worn on hats, and for belts and sashes. Every style and description of neckwear will be made of ribbon. All sorts of hair ornaments, bodice trimmings, edges of flounces, will be done in ribbon. Wherever a place can be made to parent and strangers.

A playroom is almost a necessity in these days of elaborate and expensive toys. But even there a mother's watchful eye must know when the play hours should be brought to a close, or a nervous and restless child will have to pay the penalty. A nap is a pleasant and beneficial finish to play, particularly for delicate children. When once the habit has been formed children like the daily nap, and the health and vigor obtained from it will appeal to every wise mother.

Children are unlike adults in one notable respect—variety in their daily diet is not to be recommended in the interest of health. A child under three years of age and cored and cooked when that is possi-

When old enough to exercise out of doors a child should be allowed to play freely in the open air and sing and shout and run as he pleases, thus developing the lungs and the muscles and strengthening the bones.

Don't is a good word to use to adults, but it is out of place in a nursery. There is a little streak of obstinacy in a child, which that fatal word, "don't," seems to bring to the surface. It is better to avoid it and turn the child's mind in another direction.
