Mr. Grove was born in Penns valley, Dec. 25th 1833. He was a harness maker by occupation and for many years was an employee of the McClures on Bishop street. After leaving here he resided for some years at McVevtown, but removed to Johnstown about seven years ago. His wife, Lydia Noll, who was a daughter of Emanuel and Pauline Noll, died July 5th, 1886. Quiet and unassuming he was a man respected by every one for he was genial and pleasant in manner and led an honest, upright life. In politics he was a loyal Democrat and in church affairs a good Methodist. Of his three children two are living, Mrs. Annie Johnstown. His son, Harry J., died April 4th, in Somerset.

MISS MAUD GLENN.-On Tuesday morning early, Miss Maud Lenore Glenn, daugh-Glenn was well known here where she frequently visited her cousin, Miss Mabel Woodring, and at one time stayed several weeks to substitute for one of the operators in the Bell telephone exchange.

She was born in Snow Shoe November 18th, 1876, and lived there until about eight years ago when the family removed to Altoona. There she attended school for a time, then worked in the telephone exchange until an attack of pneumonia in March seriously impaired her health. THE BELLEFONTE FURNACE TO BE

The big bridge built by the Phœnix Bridge Company for the Central Railroad of Pennsylvania, over Spring Creek, to connect that road with the Bellefonte Furnace was completed on Monday. To test it two of the Centrals heaviest engines were run over it, with engineer Edward Whittaker and firemen Will Royer on the first, and the second in charge of Lewis Lounsbery, as engineer, and Joe Cushing as firemen. The test showed, while the engine stood upon the centre of the bridge, a settling of but one-half inch for the long structure, a result which is highly satisfactory to both builders and owners. The bridge is 707 feet in length and at its highest point is 23 feet from the ground. Its spans vary in length from 30 to 111 feet, the long one being made necessary to cross the tracks and property of the Pennsylvania railroad. The entire structure is of rolled steel in what is known as the box pattern and is built to withstand the strain of two 100-ton engines coupled together and pulling a load of 300 pounds to the foot. The curvature is 12 degrees to a truss compounded to 5 degrees to completion, and was built at a cost of about $30,000.

From the bridge to the furnace the tracks were completed on Tuesday and shipments of coke, ore and lumber are already being hauled over it.

-----To the Philipsburg Ledger we give credit for the following snake story. It might be true, but since Miss Annie classed us with the Democratic papers in the county taking part in the Hasting--Love fight we seriously doubt her ability to tell the truth. "We have all heard and some of us know of reptiles swallowing toads, chickens, etc., but it remained for Mr. William Twiggs to discover the greatest wonder in this line that ever came to our ears. He recently ran across a big rattlesnake near his home in Rush township, which he killed. It had a very plethoric appearance and Mr. Twiggs opened it, when, to his surprise, he found it contained six good sized rabbits. From some sources this almost incredible story might be doubtful, but reliability of the narrator in this instance makes the veracity the tale unquestionable."

-By a new order which appears to have gone into effect only in time to catch the returns from the second quarter of the year, letter carriers now deliver matters pertaining to pensions, such as checks and vouchers, only to the pensioners themselves, or some one with written authority to receive them, as in the case of a registered letter. Heretofore the letters have been and use all the means in their power to left at places where the pensioners were known to reside, but it is not done any more.

---- The Standard Scale works cannot exactly be said to be booming now for it always has boomed and has never known the ups and downs of so many other industries in the town. The reason need not be long sought for, as with an alert, indefatigable hustler like Will Burnside at its helm even "scales" would have to go up. The large force of men will be soon augmented by Harry Valentine who will resign his position in the hardware store of James Harris & Co., to add his quota to this flourishing plant.

-Between six and seven hundred persons attended the picnic of the Reformed Sunday schools of Lock Haven, Nittany alley and Bellefonte at Hecla park last Thursday. The reunion was exceedingly pleasant and passed off without a disagreeable feature except a slight rain in the afternoon. In the forenoon addresses were made by Rev. ----Of the eight hundred visitors in attendance at the union meeting of organized railroad men in Tyrone, Sunday, two hundred and twenty-two went up over the Bald Eagle road on the special train Sunday morning. Not many were from town, however, but with the Snow Shoe contingency, that came in on a special train late Saturday night, numbered about thirty in all. W. M. Lucus, who was the prime mover and hustler in gathering up the Snow Shoe force, missed the fun entirely by going to bed too tired and wakening up too late. What all he missed we have not found out except a red hot wave and a roval time at the Garman House, where two hundred guests were fairly stuffed with a sumptuous dinner.

---- It is to be deplored that efforts must constantly be made towards correcting faults and wrongs in which our boys of all ages like to indulge-boys who should be growing up to be the manliest of men, for on their physical, mental and moral status, our town and country depend. Instead of realizing this they "loaf" around aimlessly and that ubiquitous gentleman, the devil, finds them most willing instruments. Scarcely has the new bridge been completed and yet it is a rendezvous for these mischief plotting youths; their latest diversion is dropping stones down upon the heads of horses being driven underneath and it is only the superior sense of the latter that has prevented some serious runaways. The matter should be looked into now and not allowed to develop until there is a serious accident and someone killed for if appeals are unsuccessful, the law should be resorted to.
