Root Accepts.

The Well Known Lawyer the New Secretary of War—He Attained Prominence at the Bar Shortly After His Admission—He Refused to Wear Piatt's Collar. Elinh Root, of New York, has been tendered and accepted the secretaryship of war. The telegram of acceptance was received shortly after noon Saturday, while Secretary Long was with the President. Secretary Alger had just left. The tender of the war portfolio was made to Mr. Root Friday night after the conference at the White House. As the President leaves for the Adirondacks Wednesday or Thursday of next week, it is hardly probable that Mr. Root will come to Washington to confer with him before that time. It is regarded as more likely that Mr. Root will meet the President at Lake Champlain the latter part of the week. Elinh Root is the son of Oren Root, for many years professor of mathematics in Hamilton college, and was born at Clinton, in Oneida county, New York, on February 15th, 1845. By teaching school he secured the means of paying his way through Hamilton college while his father was still professor in that institution and was graduated in 1863 as valedictorian of his class. He also studied law at Hamilton, and completed his preparations for the bar, to which he was admitted in 1866 at the University law school, in New York. He attained prominence at the bar at an uncommonly early age, and by the time he was 30 had already such a standing in his profession as to be counsel for a number of large corporations, the Bank of North America and the Hannibal & St. Joseph Railroad company among others. Mr. Root early became interested in politics first attracting attention in that field by his connection with the municipal reform movement in 1871. In 1879 he was nominated by the Republican county convention for judge of the court of common pleas, but was defeated. He was appointed by President Arthur United States district attorney for the southern district of New York, and held that position for two years, when President Cleveland's appointees succeeded him. In 1886 he succeeded the Hon. Levi P. Morton as chairman of the Republican county committee. From this position he was deposed by Senator Thomas C. Platt because of the decided stand which he had taken against the latter's onslaught upon the Chicago World's Fair. He still continued to antagonize Mr. Platt, and in the famous triangular contest for the mayoralty of Greater New York in 1897 was one of the most active supporters of Seth Low. In January, 1898, he was elected to succeed General Horace Porter, as president of the Union League club, of New York city. This position was given to him, it was said at the time, in the expectation that he would use all his influence to bring about union and harmony among the different factions of the party in New York city, so as to pave the way for the triumph at the polls which resulted in the election of Col. Theodore Roosevelt to the governorship in the following autumn. Mr. Root's career at the bar has brought him into intimate relations as counsel with many contradictory interests. This years ago he acted as counsel for Tweed and Ingersoll at the time of the exposure of the frauds perpetrated by the Tweed ring. As counsel for Jay Gould he effected the arrangement by which the enormous claims of the Erie railway against that bold speculator were compromised. He also acted as counsel for Judge Hilton in the Hoyt and Havemeyer will cases and for the contestants in the Hammersley will case. He has also been one of the counsel for the sugar trust in its various litigations. Mr. Root is a member of the most prominent clubs of New York city including the Union League and the swell Metropolitan club, and ranks next after Senator DeWitt as an orator in demand on public occasions.

Fighting Bob at Church. Fighting Bob Evans dressed in citizen's clothes, went to church on a Sunday night long ago. Upon entering the house of worship he seated himself in a vacant pew about midway up the aisle. Soon afterwards a lady and gentleman walked in and seated themselves in the same pew. The gentleman looked ugly at Bob and the lady partly turned her back on him. The gentleman stood it as long as he could and then passed a card over to Bob which read as follows: "I pay $2,500 annually for this pew." Bob glanced at the card and then passed it back with the following written on the other side: "You pay too damned much." The preacher then announced his text, "It's Blessed to Dwell Together in the House of the Lord," or words to that effect.

He Coughed Up a Pin. For thirty-five years or more Mr. P. I. Eek, a prominent citizen and merchant of Carrolltown, has been troubled by pain in his lungs, for which no cause could be found, until one day recently. Upon this occasion, Mr. Eek was engaged at sitting out the corner of a hay field with a syringe, when he was suddenly seized with a coughing spell, which continued for a while. Later the cough came on again, and in the midst of a violent effort, something flew up out of his throat and rested against his palate, which on being removed, proved to be a brass pin that he had swallowed in some unknown way, probably when he was a child, and which, undoubtedly, had been the cause of his trouble.

A Lucky Deprivation. A schoolmaster in a village school had been in the habit of purchasing pork from parents of his pupils on the occasion of the killing of the pig. One day a small boy marched up to the master's desk and inquired "if he would like a bit of pork." The schoolmaster replied in the affirmative. Several days having elapsed and hearing nothing of the pork, the master called the boy up to him and inquired the reason he had not brought it. "Oh, please, sir," the boy replied, "the pig got better."

Beeding to Death. Ralph Gibson, 18 years old, was riding his bicycle up Heppburn street hill, Williamsport, a few evenings ago, when he collapsed. He was removed to his home where it developed that he had ruptured a blood vessel. He has internal hemorrhages, and is slowly bleeding to death. This is the hill on which Mrs. George W. Owen, a bride of three weeks, met death in exactly the same manner one week ago.

Hero's Bones in Potter's Field.

That Fate Said to Have Befallen the Body of John Paul Jones.

Inquiry was recently made at the State Department in regard to the grave of John Paul Jones, the great naval hero of revolutionary days, who died in Paris July 18th, 1792. He was buried there with the highest honors by the French government, but it appears that the present location of his grave is not known. The Secretary of State recently addressed a letter to Henry Vignaud, of the United States Embassy, in Paris, asking whether the grave of John Paul Jones in Paris is known and marked. He has received a reply from Mr. Vignaud saying that although he has made earnest and frequent inquiries of the city authorities in regard to the matter, he has been unable to discover the whereabouts of the grave. One thing established by his inquiries, however, he says, is that John Paul Jones was not buried in the cemetery where the remains of Lafayette lie, as has been supposed by some people. In another quarter it is intimated that, owing to a custom prevailing in Paris, the remains of John Paul Jones were deposited in a rented grave for a term of years, and that upon the expiration of the lease, a great many years ago, the bones of this distinguished American patriot were thrown into the potter's field.

Millions from Klondike. Director of the Mint George E. Roberts has made the prediction that this year's gold yield from the Klondike will reach $18,000,000 or $20,000,000, and that most of the amount will go to the banks in New York and Philadelphia. The receipts from the gold region thus far this season amount to $11,000,000, which Mr. Roberts says, offsets the gold that has been exported to Europe.

In the Director's opinion there is plenty of gold to meet all needs. There has been an increase in the product of some of the Western States, Washington being a large producer and Oregon increasing its output. Mr. Roberts is expected to remain a couple of days in Philadelphia.

Fruit Rolls. Sift in a bowl two cups of flour, two teaspoonfuls of baking powder and one-half teaspoonful of salt. Rub in lightly two teaspoonfuls of butter, or half butter and lard. Add three-quarters of a cup of milk; it should be soft. Roll out in one-half inch thick. Spread over with softened butter. Sprinkle with one-half cup of sugar and one-half cup of currants. Roll up as for a jelly roll. Cut in thin slices, lay them on a baking pan, put them in the oven and bake 20 minutes. Nutmeg or cinnamon may be sprinkled over the currants before rolling up.

Was Shooting at Birds. The mystery surrounding the alleged attempt to kill Annie Rice, the 15-year-old girl, while she was gathering berries on a mountain side, South Williamsport, Saturday, was cleared up Monday. John Kuntz, of DuBoistown, informed county detective Munson that he is the man who was alleged to have shot at the Rice girl. He stated that he had been in the woods shooting at birds, and that he had seen the Rice girl when he fired the shot that was said to have passed through her dress. Mr. Kuntz bears a good reputation and no one doubts his story. No arrest will be made.

Sewed Up His Heart. There have been some remarkable surgical acts performed during the last quarter of a century, but the most remarkable of any we have ever heard about was performed at Binghamton N. Y. According to press reports Louis Ginsburg, a Hebrew rabbi of that place, was stabbed in the heart by a negro. A physician was summoned who injected saline solution to replace the blood. The ribs were parted and the heart exposed. Between pulsations, with lightning rapidity, a needle and thread were passed through the left ventricle, several stitches being taken to close up the gash, when the patient rallied and the prospects for his recovery are encouraging.

An exchange says: Raising the left arm as high as you can will relieve choking much more rapidly than being thumped on the back. Very frequently at meal time and when they are at play children get choked while eating and the customary manner of relieving them is to slap them sharply on the back. The effect of this is to set the obstruction free, so that it can be swallowed. The same thing can be brought about by raising the left hand of the child as high as possible and the relief comes much more rapidly.

Girls Strike at Williamsport. Twenty-seven girls, finishers at the Lycoming pants factory, at Williamsport, struck Friday against a reduction in the price paid for finishing pants. They were paid off and discharged. The proprietors claim that with the aid of improved machinery, just introduced, the finishers could even at the reduced rate make much more than before.

—Appendicitis is not the surely fatal disease it has been often regarded. Professor Notbagel of Vienna finds that not less than 80 per cent of the cases run a simple course and recover under purely medical treatment. He states that opiates should be given, but no purgatives. There need be no uneasiness if the patient has no movement of the bowels for six or eight days.

—The National Guard of the State is to be equipped with the new red bayonet, which has found favor wherever it has been used. The improved bayonet is round in shape and sharp at the end, and is very different in appearance from the old-fashioned triangular bayonet which has been in use so many years.

—Mrs. Croaker—"The young girls of to-day are lacking in charm and freshness." Mr. Croaker—"Well, I don't know about charm, but I know lots that are pretty fresh."

Slaves of the Street. Butts—What a hard life those barrel organ men lead. Billees—Yes; a ceaseless grind.

—John Wanamaker's advertising bills for 1898 are said to be $625,000, of which $325,000 was spent for his New York store and $300,000 for the one in Philadelphia.

—Teacher—"Now, Tommy, what does the month of June call for in great plenty?" Tommy (a jeweler's son)—"Weddin' presents, mum."
