

Trusts and Politics.

The Only Hope for the People Lies in Democratic Policy.

It is a well established fact that Republican administrations have been practically controlled heretofore by the beneficiaries of a high tariff. Millions of money are spent at each session of congress in the work of maintaining or increasing tariff duties which are intended to benefit the few at the expense of the many, and it will continue to be so. Let a proposition come before the next congress to reduce or abolish duties on any American manufacture, and Washington will be crowded with the paid lobbyists of the protected industries, as well as with the owners and managers of those industries. Enterprises which control not only millions but billions of dollars will be represented in the halls of legislation, each selfishly working for its own interests, but also working for the upholding of the entire pernicous system.

The protective tariff system is one of the main pillars upon which the Republican party rests. It is both the "Jackin" and the "Boez" of the Republican temple, which will tumble down when they are removed. Occasionally one of them, like Washburn, is able to see the injury which their work has done and is doing the country and the people, but when they undertake to recede from their position they will find themselves confronted, impeded and handicapped by the immense money power which they have built up. The only hope of relief lies in Democratic success, executive and legislative.—Montgomery (Ala.) Advertiser.

—Mr. and Mrs. Dave Kelly have returned from their wedding tour and are at their home on east Bishop street.

—Mrs. T. R. Everett died at her home in South Philipsburg, on Tuesday afternoon. She was 54 years old and is survived by her husband and a number of children. Bright's disease was the cause of her death.

S. D. Ball Esq., and E. H. Welsh, civil engineers of Lock Haven, were at Lamar last Monday surveying for Washington Furnace Co.

A. Spade, one of our master mechanics, has been confined to his residence for several weeks by neuralgia of the eyeball. His sight was impaired and suffering extremely. At present he is improving.

Two of our young maidens, between the ages of 16 and 40, attended Lewisburg fair and while driving through seven mile narrows became very religious and alternately offered up a prayer. Grace did nobly for an amateur.

S. Peck Esq., has returned to his former residence and is now a citizen of Hunton. Nittany silver cornet band met him at the train last Saturday evening and escorted him to his residence and gave him a grand send-off for which, it received an X. It would be well for the band boys to look up a citizen like this every night in the week.

Bertha Yearick, aged 12 years, 10 months, died of congestion of the lungs on the 8th inst. The death of this dear young girl was a shock to the entire community. Her sickness was for but a short time and few knew that she was ailing. She was one of the sweetest and most affectionate children in this locality. Teacher and schoolmates are deeply affected by her loss. Parents and relatives mourn her sincerely and wonder why death has chosen such a shining light for its victim.

Pine Grove Mention.

It is now Pap Reed and the baby should be named Davy George Dewey.

Our old friend West Meyers is laid up under the doctors care with inflammation of the bowels.

James C. Hammer, of Altoona, is enjoying a few days rest and recreation of his annual vacation at his old home here.

Miss Lydia Houseman, looking well as ever, is down from Altoona for a short visit with her old friends.

F. W. Bailey has returned to Philadelphia to resume his dental studies at the University of Pennsylvania. He left Tuesday.

J. B. Fry, a Freshman at State College, spent Sunday at the parsonage here and thoroughly enjoyed his drive behind Rev. Aikens new team of fine sorrels.

F. W. Thomas has moved up from Erbtown into the mill house here, where his wife will bake the fritters for Miller-Tressler while Frank looks after the odd jobs that appear.

J. T. Kaufman, of Nittany valley, purchased the C. H. Struble farm, at Struble station, last Tuesday, at private sale for eleven thousand dollars or about $60 per acre.

Dr. J. Baker Krebs has located at Northumberland and while he is a little too far from us to be of any service in the grinder line we know the people down there will soon find out what an excellent fellow he is and patronize him accordingly.

Rev. John Houseman, of Lairdsville, spent the early part of the week here ere he departed for State College to sell the real estate of his brother Edom, who died some time ago. At the sale on Wednesday the up town property was bought by Joseph Hoy for sixteen hundred and twenty-five dollars, while Will E. Gray secured the down town property for fourteen hundred and fifty dollars.

D. G. Meek transacted business in Huntingdon county Tuesday and yesterday afternoon left for Marshalltown, Ia., to dispose of some property which his father, the late George W. Meek, bought there many years ago and for which his heirs have had several advantageous offers recently.

After an absence of twenty-five years Harry Erb son of Joseph B. Erb, now of Elkton, W. Va., is hunting up his boyhood associates in this section. He is a railroad engineer and some of his experiences over the Rockies are thrilling in the extreme. His home is in Kansas and in addition to being well healed as the saying is, is a genial good natured gentleman.

Centre Hall.

Mrs. Sallie Kline spent some time at Lewisburg among relatives.

Miss Blanche Durst expects to go to Tyrore to be absent for some time.

Forest Ocker and wife were in Rebersburg Wednesday looking after personal interests. Superintendent of public schools Gramley paid the borough schools a visit on Friday last.

Among the farmers who were fortunate to have a good crop of corn and potatoes is the Hon. Leonard Rhone.

At Miss Shelley's entertainment, Saturday night, Miss Lutz recited "Kentucky Bell" in a creditable manner.

J. A. Reesman is a busy man these days getting stones in shape for the winter. The stones this year are very pretty.

W. H. Bartholomew is actively engaged in the life insurance business. He represents a good company in a good way.

Samuel Snyder, one of the good young carpenters of the town, is working on a dwelling being erected by Samuel Kaup at Boalsburg.

John Bitner, who had a severe attack of asthma, is recovering. His daughter, Mrs. Shadle, of Williamsport, came up on Saturday.

The hunting season is at hand, and the sporting (?) man who hunts with a grubbing-hoe and dogs will again bob up as the "boss" hunter.

Forest Bible, who learned telegraphy under F. W. Bradford at this station, but now located at Lewisburg, came up from that place on Saturday to see his old friends and acquaintances.

W. B. Mingle Esq., who is the sole representative of the Commercial telephone company on this side of the county, attended a meeting of that corporation in Bellefonte on Tuesday.

W. A. Sandoe's cabbage crop is a very fair one. The late rains caused many of the heads to burst, which is being made into sauerkraut by the wagon load. Sandoe always does things on the wholesale plan.

Joseph Spangler, who two years ago moved on the Wilson farm, better known as the Foreman farm, from Brush Valley, will go to Illinois in the spring, locating near Cedarville, Stephenson county, to continue tilling the soil.

Hon. W. A. Murray, of Boalsburg, surveyed the Wilson farm on Saturday and cut off one hundred and twenty acres from the west end of the farm at the station, which part was recently purchased by Samuel Durst.

Since the hay crop was below the average fodder shredding will be more generally done this fall, and taking this condition into account George Emerick will be ready with a good outfit to do that kind of work when the time comes.

Mrs. Elizabeth Barber, of Lewisburg, who many times visited in this section, died last week and was buried Saturday. Her maiden name was Shannon and she was an aunt of the senior Boals about here. She was well advanced in years, and her death was caused mainly by the wear of time.

James Durst, who last spring quit farming and moved to town, will again follow the plow next season, having leased his brother's (Alfred Durst's) farm near Pottery Mills. Alfred Durst will become a citizen of the borough and contemplates the erection of a new house on Hoffer street, opposite the picnic grounds. In the mean time he may move into the Brishin homestead at the Old Fort.

Harry Emerick, of Owensboro, Kentucky, arrived in town, Friday, to see friends and relatives. Mr. Emerick went to Freeport, Illinois, fourteen years ago and secured work in a large carriage shop at that place and six years ago went to his parents home and engaged in the same work. He is an expert body-maker and has a number of men under him. Friday he and his brother Luther, of this place, drove to Unionville to his brother Samuel's and from there returned to the Blue Grass State.

The apple crop is a very fair one in this section, although there are localities where there are no apples at all worth mentioning in some orchards. The quality varies but as a rule the fruit is large in size, though the apple worm is much in evidence. There seems as yet to be no established price, and none have been shipped to market. A great mistake was made by many who planted orchards during the last half century in investing in so large varieties of fruit instead of selecting a few standard winter sorts. Many orchards in the valley have from a fourth to a half almost useless summer and fall apples, where good winter varieties might be grown with a profit.

Potato growers who had an acreage above the usual potato patch, all say that the yield was very modest, usually running below one hundred bushels per acre of marketable tubers. The local market affords a price ranging from thirty to forty cents, as to quality. Many farmers who do not farm potatoes for a money crop will barely have sufficient for their own use and seed. Brush Valley and the lower end of Penns Valley have a yield of potatoes possibly above the average and an excessive acreage. The large white grub worm did much damage to some potato crops. The pest is plentiful and possible ravages in the future are feared by many. Notably among those whose crop was injured by this worm was D. W. Bradford, who states that at one place forty bushels were raised and every potato was gnawed at by the grub.

A horse hitched to a buggy driven by Andy Mcnitz down the Fort Hill began kicking and smashed things up in general. The horse was also considerably hurt by getting its leg fast between the axle and spring of the vehicle.

Butchers Stahl, Condo, From and Swabb are whetting up their knives for the approaching hog killing season. Home butchering is not largely practiced in town; most of the killing is done at the slaughter houses and the pork and sausage delivered at a very reasonable rate.

Rev. Christine, who for several years was being pastor of the Sinking Creek Presbyterian church, tendered his resignation to the Presbytery in session at Millroy last week, to take effect on February 1st. Messrs. G. L. Goodhart and J. T. Potter were the commissioners who represented this charge at the Presbytery.

George, a son of James Herring, of Altoona, was buried beginning of this week. He had enlisted in the American-Spanish war, and when discharged was physically wrecked. He afterward went to New Mexico for his health, but came home feeling that a mother and father's care would do more good than change of climate. Mr. and Mrs. John T. Lee and Mrs. B. H. Arney attended the funeral. Young Herring spent many summer days with his relatives in this place and was well known here.

Since the mule sale of last week there have been many inquiries for the long-eared quadrupeds, and W. H. Runkle, the proprietor of Centre Hall's popular hotel, has made arrangements to have another car of mule colts shipped here from Kentucky about the twentieth of this month, which will be offered at private sale. Landlord Runkle contemplates the erection of additional shed room and if favorable terms can be secured horse and mule stock will be constantly on hand. In that event there will be more than the usual braying about the hotel stables.

Messrs. B. H. Arney and D. P. Houser were two unfortunate men during the last week. Mr. Arney, on Monday noon, had climbed a ladder to reach the top of his hay mow, and while stepping from the ladder to the hay a bunch of loose hay caused him to lose his foot hold. Realizing that he had a drop of more than twenty feet below him, he made a desperate effort to catch hold somewhere and prevent broken bones, if not sudden death. In this he was successful, and before falling less than six feet he swung his body around and grabbed a round of the ladder which many times proved faithful to bear his weight. In the language of the Irishman, it was the sudden stop that caused the mischief, for the falling only excited the nervous system. The result was that Mr. Arney had the ligaments surrounding the socket of his arm at the shoulder badly sprained and, perhaps, torn, which proved very painful. The right arm has been bandaged and strapped to his body, which leaves him able to be around.

In Mr. Houser's case there was also a ladder, but it was leaning against an apple tree, and in some manner he fell from it receiving a serious shaking up, but no bones were broken.
