

WILLIAM BEEZER MARRIED AT LOCK HAVEN.—The marriage of William Beezer, of this place, to Miss Mary Ryan, of Lock Haven, was celebrated in the church of the Immaculate Conception in the latter city Wednesday morning at 8 o'clock; the Rev. Father Codori officiating.

The bride party entered the church to the strains of Lohengrin's march as rendered by Miss Agnes Considine. The bride and groom were attended by Miss Katharine Ryan, bridesmaid, and Ferdinand Beezer, groomsmen. The bride was attired in a dress of navy blue, with white satin and liberty silk trimmings. The bridesmaid wore a dress of the same material, which was trimmed with white corded silk. Both bride and bridesmaid carried chrysanthemums.

The ceremony was followed by a nuptial mass, after which the bridal party was driven to the home of the bride, on Fairview street, where a wedding breakfast was served.

Mr. and Mrs. Beezer arrived in this place on an afternoon train and drove at once to the home of the groom's mother, Mrs. Ferdinand Beezer, of Spring Creek, where they were tendered an elaborate reception that evening.

The groom is a glass blower at the Bellefonte factory and is a young man with a wide circle of friends who will wish him and his charming wife a life of usefulness and joy.

A PRETTY WEDDING.—Seldom is a small home wedding so interesting and pretty as was that of Miss Elizabeth May, only daughter of ex-sheriff and Mrs. John P. Condo, and J. W. Lester Freely, which was solemnized at the home of the bride's parents in Millheim, yesterday morning at 11:30 o'clock. The house was beautified with chrysanthemums and greens and thirty guests witnessed the ceremony performed by the Rev. H. W. Buck, of the Evangelical church.

The bride, who is a tall, slender brunette, was girlish and beautiful in her gown of heavy cream satin. Her bridesmaids were Miss Bella Zerby and Miss Laura Buck. They were gowned in light blue satin made stylishly. The ushers were Harry Condo, the bride's only brother, and Thomas Buck, of Lewisburg. After the ceremony and congratulations a delicious wedding breakfast was enjoyed and the happy couple left on the afternoon train for a visit to Ohio. On their return they will stop in Pittsburgh 'till March, for Mr. Freely to look after his business in the western part of the State.

He is the state manager of a Starch company of Boston, with headquarters in Philadelphia, where they will make their home. His bride is a charming young girl, well known here, where she attended school during her father's term of office, and is a great favorite with all her associates who wish for her, abiding joy and peaceful contentment.

MARRIAGE LICENSES.—Following is the list of marriage licenses granted by orphan's court clerk, G. W. Rumberger, during the past week:

Frederick M. Heishey, of Williamsport, and Elsie M. Noll, of Pleasant Gap.

Wm. James Bower, and Ida Beaham, both of Haines Twp.

Oliver P. Bloom, of Pine Grove Mills, and Ellie G. Logan, of McAlveys Fort, Huntingdon, Co., Pa.

J. C. Glenn and Mary E. Brisbin, both of Lemont.

G. W. Lester Freely, of Wilkesbarre, and Lizzie May Condo, of Millheim.

George W. Mapledoram and Minnie B. Wright, both of Phillipsburg.

Walter J. Quirk, of Brooklyn, Ind., and Mary Alice Mitchell, of Howard.

Alfred J. Musser, of Peale, Clearfield county, Pa., and Estey K. Durst, of Spring Mills, Centre Co., Pa.

George W. Johnston, of Bellefonte, and Ollie Slotman, of Pleasant Gap.

Millheim.

W. L. Geelhart was in Bellefonte, Monday, on business.

Charles L. Freely, of Wilkesbarre, arrived in town Tuesday evening.

Ed. Brown Jr., of Bellefonte, registered at the Musser house last week.

Miss Margaret Evans, of Williamsport, has been visiting at the home of Miss Jennie Belfry.

Mrs. Frederick Catherman attended the funeral of her brother, James Musser, at Hartleton, on Saturday.

F. H. Musser, J. W. Musser and wife and Oleg Musser were to Hartleton, Saturday, to attend the funeral of the latter's brother, James Musser.

Miss Mary Mank and Mrs. W. K. Alexander left, Wednesday morning, to attend the wedding of the latter's niece, Miss Katharine Brumgard to Mr. George Merrels.

Protracted services began in the United Evangelical church on last Monday and will be continued for an indefinite period. The meetings will be conducted by the Rev. H. W. Buck.

J. W. Stover, one of Millheim's prosperous merchants, killed the prize porkers of this section, Thursday of last week. There were two of them, the largest weighing 613 lbs. and the smaller 558 lbs. making a total of 1171 lbs. for the pair.

E. B. McMullen, the Main street miller, is one of Millheim's prosperous and enterprising citizens. His property has changed wonderfully for the better since he has had possession and he contemplates further improvements.

The Burrell properties were sold at public sale Thursday of last week. The farm in Gregg township, consisting of 131 acres, was bought by Spear Burrell. Price per acre, $82. The property in Haines township, consisting of 71 acres, was bought by Calvin and Cyrus Meyer, both of Coburn, for $88 per acre. Part of the latter tract was wood land.

Centre Hall.

It can now more than ever be said that "Dewey did it."

Miss Mabel Zeigler, of Millheim, stopped with Miss Pearl Runkle for a week.

John Van Pelt, who recently returned from Hastings, is attending the Bellefonte Academy.

Thos. Bartges has concluded to sell his photograph gallery in this place and is awaiting a buyer. It is a good stand.

Rev. Bickle's sermon in the Reformed church, Sunday night, at this place, is highly spoken of by those who heard him.

While parting his hair in the middle indicates a "sissy" it doesn't entitle the freak to the courtesies due the fair sex.

Shoemaker John Martz moved into his new house near the Grange arcadia, and will now be more than ever attentive to business.

George Durst killed a hog Tuesday that dressed 537. The breed was Berkshire and shows what can be done with that breed when properly fed.

Mrs. W. A. Sandoe attended the funeral of her grandmother, Mrs. Knarr, at Laurelton, on Tuesday. Deceased was the great-grandmother of John Knarr, of this place.

Veterinary surgeon Riter finds business sufficiently strong to warrant the employment of a Commercial telephone, over which he is called from all parts of the county.

Mr. and Mrs. Aunsbaugh, of Michigan, are here visiting relatives. Mr. Aunsbaugh moved West with his parents when quite young. He is related to the Schols of this and Erush valley.

Miss Nellie Woods, of Boalsburg, was the guest of Miss Roxanna Brisbin over Sunday. Miss Woods is a graduate of Marshall college, one of the best medical institutions in Missouri.

Mrs. David Solly, nee Kreamer, paid her many friends in this place a visit this week. Rev. Solly, who had a charge at Harrisonburg, Va., when married two years ago, is now located at Roanoke, Va.

Wm. D. Strunk and son, Oliver, are saving shingles on the Loneberger tract on the mountain. They have a splendid portable mill and by doing work of this kind find employment after the threshing season is over.

W. O. Noll, of Pleasant Gap, is having the paper wood cut on the tract of timberland on the upper side of the pike, above town, belonging to S. W. Smith. Paper wood is in demand just now, and will be shipped to Lock Haven.

The Thanksgiving services held in the Lutheran church were well attended. Rev. Black delivered an able sermon and pointed out cause for abundant Thanksgiving. The music furnished by members of the various church choirs was excellent.

In excavating for a foundation for a large gasoline engine at Auman's mill on Tuesday Byron Gearis used a large charge of dynamite, and the explosion knocked a hole through the corner of the building and broke a dozen panes of glass.

The Commercial telephone exchange was fitted up recently and now presents a neat appearance. New furniture was secured and a railing placed around the switch board, all of which indicates that the home company is prospering. The operators pay close attention and answer all calls promptly and try to please even the surly over the wire.

The column of "Farm Notes" in the WATCHMAN is always full of interest. It is superior to any of a similar nature found in other country papers, because the articles are applicable to this immediate locality and not selected at random. There is a vast amount of information found in that column that can be put into practical use by the average Centre county farmer. That one department is worth the price of the paper.

Miss Blanche Boal gave hearty thanks because she is the daughter of Capt. Geo. M. Boal and holds the position of assistant postmistress of the Centre Hall post office. The patrons of the office gave thanks, too, because of the prompt and excellent service rendered there at all times. Post master Boal thanked Providence via lawyer Gray, Congressman Arnold, Quay and the fourth assistant postmaster general, that he wasn't born a Democrat.

The Howard creamery company gave thanks because that firm, of which Thomas G. Wilson is the head at this place, passed through its first year with continued success. The many patrons of that concern also gave thanks because Wilson deals fairly with them, and because the product of the dairy herd sold for a better price during the past year than heretofore, all of which will aid him in making up for his short crop of wheat.

Mrs. M. C. Steinback, of whose death a brief mention was made last week, died in confinement. The funeral took place on Thursday from her home at Scranton, where she had lived since her marriage about two years ago. Her age was thirty-two years. She was well known here having resided with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. N. P. Shope, in this place, prior to moving to Scranton. Her friends endeavored to relieve the sadness of her relatives by contributing flowers largely, some of which were furnished by friends in this place.

THEY WERE THANKFUL IN CENTRE HALL. Every resident in Centre Hall and those around it had reason to give thanks yesterday, but there are those who had special thanks to give for various favors and a few are noted below.

D. K. Keller offers thanks because he is endowed with strength and intellect sufficient to enable him to earn a living elsewhere than in the commissioner's office. Also, because the disappointment can not shake his Democracy.

W. B. Mingle Esq., cashier of the Penns Valley banking company, and his assistants, Messrs. W. Gross, Mingle and Charles Bartholomew, gave thanks because Thanksgiving was a legal holiday and permitted them to close the bank, lay aside business cares and enjoy the world with other people. Much of the success of a banking institution such as this depends upon the good judgment of its cashier and for this reason the stockholders gave thanks that their interests are in the hands of a thoroughly competent person.

Dr. G. W. Hosterman gave thanks because he is now living in decidedly the finest house in the town. He is also thankful because he personally supervised its construction in every detail; because his expenditure of money and time sizes up to his expectations; that he can, if he wishes, deed the home to his wife without a protest. The mansion, for such it is, is built of brown stone quarried from Nittany mountain, which are fine in texture and rich in appearance. The general design is the doctor's idea, and that idea carries with it massiveness, grandeur and elegance. More than ordinary ingenuity is displayed in the interior arrangements, and not a particle of space is unavailable, and abundant light sheds in on all sides. The hot water heating system is perfect, and the most approved plumbing apparatuses are used for bath and all. Ed. Foreman, who with his force of men, are deserving of mention for the skilled workmanship. The dentist office is complete and Dr. Hosterman will continue serving his patrons in the best possible manner with the latest patterns of appliances known to dental surgery.

The farmer gave thanks. He gave thanks for his hardiness which enabled him to eke out a living during the past year, for without this element in the average farmer, under the present condition, his goose would be cooked. The farmer didn't give thanks, however, because the school appropriation was reduced by one million, nor did he give thanks for sixty-cent wheat; neither because all he buys advanced in price and his own product is low; he had no thanks to give at all from a political point of view—he gets no share of the dividends of the agricultural department or census department that is sending out circulars to his class saying that he should aid in his power to make the agricultural returns as flattering and complete as possible; he did not thank because his favorite crop, which is wheat, is no longer the palladium twist him and the poor house; the extravagance in all the governmental departments, from county to nation, were no cause for him to thank. He did, however, give thanks for sunshine, rain and seasons; for the meal in the chest, the fallings in the stall, fowls in the pen, the fodder in the bays and when he sat down to his Thanksgiving dinner he thanked again because he wasn't sitting before a game old turkey, manufactured jellies, oleomargarine, cotolene, acid vinegar, etc., but that everything was pure, fresh and wholesome.

The citizens of Centre Hall had reason to give thanks and did give thanks because of the healthful condition of the town, there having no epidemic diseases decimated its population. The citizens gave thanks, too, because the men of the town have not prospered, which means more than the outside world can appreciate, but for a pointer it may be said that the water tax paid the old company in a number of instances was in excess of all other taxes combined—all borough taxes, county and State. Thanks it is giving, also, for the prospects of a shoe factory to be located here, which when materialized will be a concern of no small proportion. Enterprising citizens have made themselves responsible for the conditions imposed by the projectors, and if the shoe factory does not loom up some day in the near future it will not be because the men of the town have not prospered; they have prospered, and prospering encouraged the investors. The bright outlook for a cannery is also a cause for Thanksgiving. The writer has for some time been in communication with a foreign party who is seriously considering such a movement. Local capital may be combined, with that of those experienced in the business; at all events a cannery is more than a dream, but those who claim to have "suggested it first" have not even that "first suggestion" in it.

Pine Grove Mention.

The Modocks passed through our town last Friday evening with three fine deer, homebound.

Thanksgiving services were held in the Lutheran church on the evening of that day. Rev. Aikens officiated.

Tax collector Samuel Harper with his usual punctuality has placed to his credit a good round sum of the people's money.

Dr. and Mrs. W. P. Ard, of New Columbia, were royally entertained at J. B. Ard's home during their three day's stay in town.

H. C. Goss Esq., one of the employees of the Johnstown rolling mill, has pitched his tent over on old Tussey for a week's hunt and a big lot of savory meat.

Francis Rhodes, of Bellefonte, is arranging to build a skimming station in our town, near the mill. This will be a feeder to his Baileyville creamery and an excellent point for the plant.

On last Monday Rev. Aikens sent, by express, a box of corn fed gobbles that garnished the tables of the Lloydsville orphan's home at the Thanksgiving dinner there. The Gatesburg people were the donors.

Grandmother Lutz, one of Buffalo Run's most alert old ladies, who has passed three score and ten years, is as brisk as most women much younger in years. She is a visitor at Fred Meyer's, where the grandchildren always accord the old dame a royal welcome.

Banker Isaac Mitchell, accompanied by his son, J. Thomas, one of Bellefonte's young legal lights, were passengers on the Saturday morning train to this place, where they were met by Mr. and Mrs. John Lyon and were driven to the Lyon mansion where they spent Sunday among the tall cedars and evergreens that surround that beautiful old country seat. They returned home on a Monday morning train, delighted with the early morning drive.

Mr. Sunday is not improving. It will be remembered that early last September he was taken to a hospital in Philadelphia, where a partial operation was performed for the removal of a cancer in his throat. However, the doctors gave him but little encouragement. Since that time he has been treated by Dr. Schwartz, of York, Pa. It was thought for a time that an improvement was noticed by his family and friends, but in this their hopes have been blighted—as he is now unable to take anything but gruel and is growing weaker.

Rev. C. T. Aikens went to Lock Haven on the early morning train to preside at the installation services with which Rev. Ruple was made pastor of the Lutheran church at that place. Rev. Aikens stands high among the clergy and is a most thorough gentleman, that we feel assured the Lock Haven people will be duly impressed with his installation discourse.

QUETLY MARRIED.—On last Wednesday evening at twilight Mr. Oliver B. Bloom and Miss Ella B. Logan were ushered into the parsonage parlors and soon pronounced man and wife by the Rev. C. T. Aikens. The ceremony was performed in the presence of a few of their intimate friends but they were unattended by ushers or maids. The bride is a daughter of D. M. Logan, of McAlveys Fort, and is a most estimable young woman. The groom is the second son of W. Harrison Bloom, of Bloomsdorf, and is a sober, industrious young farmer. They have our best wishes for a thoroughly happy life.

Nittany.

John Smith, the coal dealer at Laman depot, is busily engaged in delivering coal to his many customers. He is nearest to Sugar Valley trade and many teams are loaded daily for that market.

Wendell Bartholomew and his sister Renie are seriously ill with typhoid fever. Renie had been waiting upon the Biery family, of Snyderstown, and in this manner has contracted the disease and is in a critical condition.

Wherever you find a number of old veterans residing there you can be sure there is always plenty of entertainment going on. Their stories of the war, told about the camp fires and in their homes, are always instructive and often amusing. For a little place Washington Furnace has a large quota of them and when Geo. Billet, Wm. Treaster, James Lockard, J. H. Fleisher, Col. Jas. Hayes, John Dolan and Geo. Wertz get together there is fun for everybody. They are as fine a set as ever wore the blue.

Books, Magazines, Etc.

It was one of the charms of Dickens as editor that he had a heart of the Christmas cheer. This is too little felt by the business-like editor of today, but the New Liberator, among its many new devices, has returned again to the celebration of the Christmas spirit, and the December number gives evidence of this in many features. The "Complete Novel" called "The Whistling Maid," is a romance to be read by the yule log. It is by Ernest Rhys, a master of weird adventure and mystery. "The Real Star of Bethlehem" by Julia MacNair Wright, speaks for itself. Mr. Howells contributes one of his amusing tales, always identified with the holidays, called "The Magic of a Voice." There are Xmas poems by Albert Biglow Paine, "The Little Child," and by Thomas Walsh, "At Nazareth."

Two important centenaries are celebrated in "The Return of Wm. Penn, December, 1699," and "Washington's Death and the Doctors, December, 1799." Flora Annie Steel has a matchless love-story of India, called "The Perfume of the Rose," and in "Daudet and His Immates," the author Russell gives some loving reminiscences of his great friend. The finest and most timely of all poems by Markham since "The Man with the Hoe," opens the number. It is called "The End of the Century."

THE FIFTEENTH YEAR OF HARPER'S MAGAZINE.—With the December number Harper's Magazine begins its hundredth volume, and enters upon the last six months of its fiftieth year. Half a century ago Harper's Magazine, as an announcement of the four Harper brothers reads, "was projected and commenced in the belief that it might be made the means of bringing within the reach of the great masses of the American people an immense amount of useful and entertaining reading matter to which, on account of the great variety of the books and periodicals in which it originally appears, they have hitherto had no access." The original plan of the publishers then was to make the new periodical simply a literary digest, and for the first six months it was filled entirely with material reprinted from English magazines and from current books. The success of the Magazine so far exceeded the expectations of the publishers, that at the beginning of the second volume they felt themselves in a position to institute a new feature. During the second year, in each number appeared at least one original article. This innovation proved so acceptable to the Magazine's readers that it was continued and developed, and in a few years the periodical consisted entirely of original matter. Half a century makes a vast difference both in magazines and the tastes they supply—different as they could be understood by a comparison of the first number of Harper's with the elaborate Christmas number which has just been received, and which, as has been said, opens the hundredth volume. The Christmas number, by the way, ought to be remembered for a long time for only one thing, that in Mark Twain's short story, "The Man that Corrupted Hadleyburg." The majority of readers will probably consider this the best tale Mark Twain has ever written; in any case, whoever falls to read "The Man that Corrupted Hadleyburg" will have missed one of the things that make life worth living.
