The 22nd of February instant, as is well known, has been, by resolution of the school directors and teachers of the schools in the county, set apart as Memorial Day. The purpose of its observance will be specially to call to the minds of the pupils the sacrifices made and the services rendered by the citizen soldiers of Centre county that we might enjoy the blessings of liberty and a united country, and at the same time to ask all the citizens and pupils to contribute whatever they might feel able to do toward the erection and construction of the soldiers' monument.

All the expenses connected with gathering this money have been provided for in other ways, so that not a dollar of it will be used for any other purpose than for the monument to the soldiers of Centre county proper. The name of every donor will be preserved, together with the amount contributed, and it is hardly necessary for us to assure our fellow citizens that every farthing will be fully accounted for and judiciously expended, with the view of securing the very best results possible with the funds provided. We appeal to all our citizens to lend a hand in making this Memorial Day a great success in every way. Let the results of the day make the soldiers' monument a certainty.

----- A most disgusting and disgraceful scene was permitted at the passenger station of the Pennsylvania railroad on Wednesday night when a cowardly scoundrel viciously assaulted his daughter and kicked her flat onto the brick pavement and hit her again and again as she tried to get up. A policeman was there, but of course no one expected him to interfere, for ours never do and the authorities don't demand it of them and even the bystanders looked on, unmoved, until the girl crawled up and started away. THE FRANKLIN AND MARSHALL GLEE CLUB .- A propos of the coming of the Franklin and Marshall college glee and mandolin clubs on Wednesday evening, February 21st, we publish the following clipping from the Martinsburg, W. Va.,

Evening World. The glee club of Franklin and Marshall College gave their concert in the Central opera house last night. One of the largest the boys. The boys gave the best concert that has ever been given in this city by a club of this character and the audience showed their appreciation by frequent and enthusiastic applause.

The Club is exceptionally well trained and Mr. Guthrie the leader deserves great credit and shows conclusively by his arrangements and selections that he is a musician of ability.

The club is well balanced and to particularize would be an injustice to any of the boys who are not mentioned.

The solos by Messrs. Guthrie and Harr were well rendered and met with a warm were well rendered and met with a warm reception from the audience. The quartette and trio more than came to the expectations of the audience. Mr. Curtis' readings were good and the several encores that he was compelled to respond to proved his ability as an entertainer. The mandolin club was of the same standard as the glee club and were encored several times.

The audience was pleased beyond their expenses the same standard as the glee club and were encored several times.

The audience was pleased beyond their expectations and were not slow to express their delight at the close of the concert. About ten days ago Miss Carrie Spicher was leisurely rocking at her home about two and one half miles west of town, when all at once the chair gave way from a break. She fell to the floor pretty hard, but at once got up and thought all a joke, at least she had not the slightest idea that she was injured. Wolf & Crawford, of Centre Hall, the well-known and active firm, dealing in general merchandise for the past eight years, sold the entire stock and business, without reservation, to Wm. H. Meyer, a resident of this place. Mr. Meyer is a gentleman of considerable experience in the mercantile business, a man of good credit, business qualificátions and citizenship. His son-in-law, R. V. Musser, of Lancaster, will be associated with him, but the firm name will be W. H. Meyer, which is of sufficient stability. April 1st is the time set to assume charge. The old firm of Messrs. Wolf and Crawford retires with business honors. Their store has always been better stocked than is usually found in a town of this size, and their methods of dealing with customers of all classes is above suspicion. Their patrons ioin with the writer in wishing them success in whatever place and business they embark, after their successor is installed.

For a term of fifty-four years the name of Wolf was either directly or indirectly associated with the leading mercantile firm of Centre Hall. This is said with no discredit to other merchants of this place, because to be second to this firm is highly creditable. Henry Whitmer opened the first general store in Centre Hall in 1846, where the late Wm. Wolf, a son-in-law, was a clerk. On March 22nd, 1852, Mr. Wolf began business in his own name with a stock valued at $2,400. His place of business was in the hotel stand, which D. A. Boozer now oc cupies as saddler. His first customer, as his books show, was John H. Keller, deceased. During 1877 Mr. Wolf's store was moved to where it now is, and in 1882, J. Witmer Wolf. the senior partner of the firm of Wolf & Crawford, was admitted into partnership which continued until 1892, when the firm changed to the present owners, namely Wolf & Crawford.

The eighteen years of active business life Miss Margaret Evans, of Williamsport, was which J. Witmer Wolf engaged in was spent from choice mainly at the books of and buying for the concern. His books look neat and tidy, and besides as an accountant he holds a reputation for correctness. F. M. Crawford, the junior partner, is yet a young man but ripe in experience in every detail concert in this place that was so artistically delightful as to presage something far above the ordinary when the entire club appears.

—Thos. Buck, who is employed in a planing mill near Lewisburg, came home last week with his arm in a sling. While doing some work near the rip saw he was struck of the mercantile business. He is counted "one of them," and has been honored by ballot and filled the position of mayor and other local offices.
