THINGS ABOUT TOWN AND COUNTY

The colored people of Central Pennsylvania will picnic at Hecla park on July 26th.

The Lutheran Sunday school of Bellefonte will picnic at Hecla park on Wednesday, July 18th.

The Harrison Hosiery Co., of Millheim, with a capital of $15,000, was chartered on the 2nd.

The reopening of Yearick's church near Madisonburg will be made on Sunday, July 22nd.

Mrs. C. U. Hoffer, of Phillipsburg, who has been seriously ill with nervous prostration for some time, is recovering.

Liveryman George Beezer dealt his fast pacing horse "Rocky Pete" to an Osceola hotel keeper, by the name of Dunkle, on Tuesday.

The marriage of Mr. Joseph Lose and Miss Bridget Curry, both well known young people in Bellefonte, has been announced for July 17th.

Many of the leading citizens of Coburn have endorsed the project to pipe water for town supply from a mountain stream about a half mile distant.

Mrs. Wm. B. Bitner, her son Bright, Frank Kennelley and D. M. McCool, all of the vicinity of Spring Mills, have typhoid fever in a mild form.

The ladies of the Reformed church will give a social at the home of Oscar Wetzel, corner of Willowbank and Reynolds Ave. this evening.

Col. D. J. Dunham, the veteran newspaper man, suffered a stroke of paralysis, while at the home of his son Fred in Howard on Thursday afternoon.

The home of county treasurer W. T. Speer, on west High street, is being improved by the building of a much wider front porch than the old one was.

Former Governor D. H. Hastings has promised to deliver one of the addresses at the reunion of the Clinton County Veterans' Association picnic on August 16th, at Hecla park.

The plan of closing all stores in Bellefonte at 6 o'clock in the evenings has been proving quite successful. The clerks, especially, are pleased with it and we have heard no complaints from the public.

A bar keeper at the Potter house in Phillipsburg threw a drunken Hungarian out on Memorial day, breaking his leg. A suit for damages followed and it was settled last week by the payment of $65 and costs.

Robert F. Hunter has moved from the Zeller property on Howard street, into the Joseph house on east Curtin, recently vacated by Mrs. Breese and Miss Eliza Thomas. Malcolm Laurie will take the house vacated by Mr. Hunter.

At a recent meeting of the Lock Haven school board the Snow Shoe Mining Co. was given the contract for supplying 300 tons of coal, provided the coal is as good as that supplied several years ago. The price is to be $1.80 per ton net.

The rumor that Sam'l Meyer, of Pleasant Gap, was killed by a falling tree on Nittany mountain, Wednesday afternoon, is untrue. Inquiry at his home yesterday revealed the fact that he was alive and well then and helping to raise a barn.

Congressman H. B. Packer, of the Clinton-Lycoming-Tioga district, has appointed L. C. Furst Jr., of Cedar Springs, a cadet to the U. S. military academy at West Point. He won the appointment in a competitive examination recently held at Wellsboro.

A little colt owned by Dr. M. A. Kirk, of west High street, got separated from its mother Wednesday evening and jumped into the mill race near the Pennsylvania freight depot. It created quite an excitement in that end of town, but the colt was rescued without injury.

The Coleville band is taking up a subscription for the purpose of giving one evening concert a week in the Diamond during the summer and a Sunday afternoon concert on the North ward school grounds. The project is a most excellent one and the boys should be given the heartiest encouragement.

The parade committee for the Centennial is very anxious to have all the industrial of the county represented in the industrial parade. Chairman G. W. Kees, of that section, is working hard for a complete representation and if you have not already done so advise him as to whether you intend having a float or not.

Dr. A. W. Hafer, who is enjoying his summer vacation at Mountain Lake Park, Maryland, expects to return home by the 16th inst, prepared to continue his professional work at his present place of business. The doctor, we understand, has been having a most enjoyable season off, and only returns at this time because of pressing professional engagements.

A special civil service examination for the office of clerk or carrier in the Bellefonte post office will be held here on August 1st, beginning at 9 o'clock. A. M. The examination will be in spelling, letter writing, copying, arithmetic, geography of the United States and reading addresses. All persons not less than 18 yrs. of age are eligible for clerk and for carrier they must be between 21 and 40.

THE BURIAL OF A SOLDIER.—The body of Lieut. Geo. L. Jackson arrived at his home in this place yesterday morning, after its long journey from the Philippines, where he died with Bright's disease on the 21st of May. Word was received here last Thursday of its departure from San Francisco and arrangements were at once begun for the funeral. It was expected that the remains would reach here by Tuesday or Wednesday and that they should lie in state in the armory until the time of the funeral, last evening, but while the delay in arrival or short the period during which his comrades and friends would like to have paid tribute at his bier there was every manifestation of sincere sorrow that could follow a gallant soldier to his grave.

The body was met at the station by a detail from Co. B, 5th Reg. N. G. P. of which organization George was First Lieutenant until he resigned when he departed as a Second Lieutenant of Co. I, 47th Reg. U. S. Vols., for the Philippines last November. In the detail were Seg. S. D. Gettig, Corp. Sam'l Taylor and privates Abram Houser, Clarence Osmer, John Brachbill, Victor Royer and J. C. Newcomer. A new American flag covered the box as it was lifted from the car and borne to the armory, guarded by his former comrades.

A bier had been erected in the centre of the great drill hall and there the body was tenderly laid. Beneath it were rugs and flowers, at the head was a table fairly smothered with the sweet floral offerings of the friends of the dead officer. At either side stood the military guards at present arms and back of all an immense flag was draped in graceful and solemn folds.

The members of the family remained at the side of their soldier son and brother from three until four o'clock and then the public was permitted to view until the time of the funeral at six.

Before this beautifully patriotic shrine passed hundreds of saddened friends who remembered the Lieutenant with nothing but thoughts of kindly and endearing association.

The guards at the armory were in four reliefs as follows: Privates Clarence Osmer, and J. B. Royer, Abram R. Houser and H. A. Taylor, J. C. Newcomer and Jas. G. Taylor, W. H. Brown and Jas. G. Bridge.

The hour for the funeral arrived Co. B, assembled under command of Capt. H. S. Taylor, and Lieutenants Chas. and Philip Garbrick, with the Undine band at their head. The march was made to St. John's Episcopal church, where the beautiful service was impressively read by the Rev. Geo. I. Brown. The church was crowded to the utmost and the crowd, eager to make some slight devotion to the honored dead, extended both ways on Allegheny street for nearly a square.

At the conclusion of the service in the church the body was born out, the band playing "Nearer My God to Thee," and the march was resumed to the cemetery. And there in the family lot of the Jacksons, by the side of the lamented father, the eldest son was laid. Rev. Brown read the brief burial service of the Episcopal church, the body was lowered into the vault, three volleys were fired over the grave and Toner Hugg, the Fifth Reg., bugler, sounded taps, just as the slanting rays of the setting sun cast their last flood of crimson light over the brow of the majestic mountains among which the soldier had been nurtured and the sight of which he had left forever when he went forth at his country's call.

The band and the soldiers marched away, but there lingered, by the mounds of rhododendron and fern that so beautifully concealed the new made grave, many a friend whose hearts' pity could have found no more sincere expression than the touching silence that fell over all.

In life Lieut. Jackson was a soldier of the finest type. What more can be said? In death he is the revered son of a people whose sorrow will continue for all time to come.

No more fitting tribute could be paid him than is found in the sentiment of the following letter to his mother from Edgar S. Stayer, Quarter Master of the 29th Inf., who was with him when he died.

Madam—I wish to convey to you the deepest sympathy I can possibly have in this year of bereavement for your son, Lieut. Geo. L. Jackson, who was my very dear friend. He died like a soldier—away from those he loved, but in the hands of true friends. All who knew him, even his new friends here, have but one verdict: He was a man, true, and a soldier to the last.

The carriers were Serg. Jas. R. Alexander, corporals Wm. Barnes, Harry Rine, Jno. O. Keeler and privates N. B. Spangler, B. F. Lucas and Frank Wallace, all of whom served with Lieut. Jackson's company during the Spanish war, and Serg. Victor Gray, of Co. I, 5th Reg.

The honorary carriers were Edward Richard, Chas. Richard, Geo. R. Meek, Wilbur F. Harris, Robert Morris, H. E. Fenlon, F. C. Williams, Ad. Fauble, Jno. M. Dale, Jno. M. Shugert, Harry Keller, Jno. M. Bullock, John J. Bower, Geo. D. Bayard, all of Bellefonte, and H. D. Dunham and Harry Shively, of Philadelphia; J. R. Rose, Pittsburg; Dr. Christy, Altoona, and Capt. Wm. Simpson, Lock Haven.

Lieutenant Jackson's body was encased in an iron bound box, inside of which was a mahogany casket containing an hermetically sealed metallic coffin. It was remarkably well preserved and was easily recognizable. The features above his mouth were natural as life, but the close cropped mustache that he usually wore flowing changed the appearance of the rest somewhat. He was dressed in his full dress uniform of 1st Lieut. of the 5th Reg., N. G. P., which he had taken with him. While on the casket was engraved "1st Lieut. Geo. L. Jackson, 47th Inf." which shows that the promotion he had anticipated had come, but too late to do anything more than bestow the deserved rank in the memory of his friends.

The floral offerings were profuse. A beautiful flag, with the inscription "Comrade," bespoke the feelings of his former comrades in Co. B. The Phillipsburg boys of the old company sent a harp. A. J. Graham, of Phillipsburg, sent a large wreath and flag in memory of his son, the late Sergeant Sam. Graham, and there were many other emblems from friends in other parts of the State.

FORMER COMMISSIONER JOHN C. HENDERSON DIES.—John C. Henderson died at his home at Julian, this county, about 5 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, from the effects of dropsy, superinduced by heart trouble. While he had been a sufferer for some time with his heart it was not until a few weeks ago that he was compelled to give up business pursuits and was confined to the house.

He was perhaps the best known man in upper Bald Eagle valley. His various business enterprises and long participation in the Republican politics of the county made him a man known far beyond the confines of his home circle. He was radical in all things, and was consistent in that after once espousing a cause he lent his every effort to its success.

Deceased was the fifth child of Rev. Wm. B. and Rachel Conner Henderson. He was born at Pond Bank, in Patton township, December 6th, 1832. His early education was very meagre and he worked hard as a boy; living under the parental roof until his marriage to Miss Elizabeth J. Cooper, March 27th, 1855. Ten children blessed their union.

After his marriage Mr. Henderson rented a farm in Bald Eagle valley for two years, which he operated during the summer season, in the winter working in the lumber woods. For the following two years he lived on a rented farm in Patton township, and then removed to a rented place in the lower end of the county, but while there purchased a farm in Huston township.

He next conducted a hotel for three years at Julian Furnace, and on selling out there purchased the large "Hotel Ellsworth," at Osceola, Clearfield county, which he conducted from 1867 to 1875. On the 20th of May of the latter year it was destroyed by fire, which also reduced to ashes eight other buildings belonging to Mr. Henderson, entailing a heavy loss. The previous January he had been appointed by President Grant, postmaster at Osceola, which position he held for three years and a half, when he resigned and began the cultivation of his present farm in Huston township. Here he made his home from May 1877 until 1894 when he went to Julian where he had opened up a store in 1889 now conducted by his son. The building was destroyed by fire in May, 1896, but he immediately started up at another location. In 1897 he lost heavily by the big flood of that year. He lived retired during the last years of his life.

Mr. Henderson served his fellow-citizens as school director twenty-eight years, mayor of Osceola one year, tax collector of Huston township and county commissioner six years, the duties of which he discharged with credit to himself and to the satisfaction of his constituents. Although an ardent Republican and the county Democrat, yet he was elected county commissioner by a majority of 739. For 20 years he was the efficient president of the school board and was treasurer two years. He was a Christian man.

His wife preceded him to the grave in 1893 but the following children survive: Mrs. W. P. Parsons, of Huston Twp.; Mrs. S. J. Taylor, of Berlin, Somerset county; Elmer E., a merchant, of Julian; Mrs. L. N. Fleck, of Stoystown, Somerset county; Mrs. G. F. Stevenson, Patton Twp. Ollie M., and Verrus G., at home.

The funeral took place yesterday morning at 10 o'clock from his late residence at Julian. Interment in Gray's cemetery.

MRS. MATTHEW DOOLEY.—For many weeks Mrs. Mary E. wife of Matthew Dooley had been so seriously ill that her death on the morning of the 4th, at the home of her parents on east Bishop street, was not a surprise to anyone. About a year ago she had an operation performed in a Philadelphia hospital for a tumorous growth on her side and came home much benefited, but it soon developed again and her health failed rapidly.

The eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Bauer she was a lovable and unselfish woman of pleasing personality and gentle, quiet ways. A native of this place she was born in the old stone house, where Joseph's store now stands, June 19th, 1853, and with the exception of a few years in Snow Shoe her entire life was spent in this place. She was a faithful member of St. John's Catholic church and from there she was buried on Saturday morning at 10 o'clock.

Her husband, her parents, and the following sisters and brothers survive her. Katharine, who is Mrs. Hugh Taylor, Josephine, Vincent and John.

Mrs. EMORY McAFEE.—After an illness that had extended over a period of several years and during which she was a continual, though very patient, sufferer with cancer, Mrs. Emory McAfee died at her home in Stormstown on the morning of July 4th. Her husband and two sons, Hugh and Gibson, survive to cherish the memory of her lovely life and mourn the day that carried her away from them.

Deceased was Sarah, a daughter of the late William Cross. She was 54 years old and for many years had been an earnest member of the Methodist church. Rev. G. W. Runyan, her pastor, officiated at the burial, which was made at Stormstown on Friday.

WAS IT ELECTRICITY OR THE SHOCK THAT KILLED HER?—During the heavy storm that passed over this section Saturday afternoon lightning struck the home of James Gray, located about a mile and a half northeast of Milesburg, shattering it badly and rendering many of the occupants unconscious. When some of them had regained consciousness aged Mrs. Sarah McKinley, Mrs. Gray's mother, was found dead on the cellar stairs.

The storm was very angry looking when it was gathering in the west and when it broke in all its fury, about 3 o'clock in the afternoon, the roar of the wind and rain was made awful by the sharp claps of thunder that rattled fast after the lurid glare of lightning that flashed everywhere.

The Gray home is situated on the top of a hill. It is a log house weather-boarded. At the time of the storm Mr. Gray was at home with his wife and children and Mrs. McKinley. Mrs. Gray was in bed with an infant three days old at her side. The storm was apparently over and they were trying to raise a window in the sick room. As it struck Mrs. McKinley said she would fetch a chisel from the cellar. She started to get it, and was followed by Mr. Gray, who had a child in his arms. Suddenly there was a blinding flash, three frightful reports, showers of electric sparks seemed to be falling in every direction and the house quivered like an aspen leaf, then all was quiet again. Singular as it may seem everyone was more or less shocked by the bolt but Mrs. Gray and her new born babe. They were not affected in the least and the room they were in was the only portion of the house not shattered.

Mr. Gray and the child he was carrying were knocked over, his daughter and her cousin who were standing in the front door were knocked out onto the porch on their backs and others were more or less effected. On coming to Mr. Gray's first thought was of his wife. Running to her room he found her all right then, procuring a pail of water, he hastened to the garret whence the smoke had already warned him of fire. It was put out without trouble. He next went to look for Mrs. McKinley who had not appeared. She was found sitting on the cellar steps, dead. Not a mark was to be found on her body and as she was known to have had heart disease it is believed that her death was caused more from the shock than anything else.

Mrs. McKinley, whose maiden name was Sarah Kreamer, was a native of Centre county, and was 63 years of age. She was the widow of John McKinley, a veteran of the civil war. She took a great interest in the work of the Woman's Relief Corps, of the G. A. R., of which she was a member. One child a daughter, Mrs. James Gray, with whom she made her home, survives her; also a brother Edward Kreamer, of Boalsburg, and a sister, Mrs. Helen Koush, of Altoona. She was an aunt of Mrs. Henry Harris of this place. Interment was made Tuesday morning.

The Gray house was very badly shattered by the stroke. Rafters were splintered and twisted, weather boarding torn off and the plaster perforated until it looked as if it had undergone the cannonading of a battery of Gatling guns.

During the same storm lightning struck the P. R. R. station at Milesburg, playing havoc among the telegraph wires and instruments and also hit a tree in front of Charles Caldwell's house, jumping from there onto a clothes line and following it into the house, where the plaster was knocked off in several places.

MILTON BOYER GONE TO HIS LAST REWARD.—An illness with stomach trouble that has lasted over 3 years culminated in the death Milton Boyer, at his home at Pleasant View, on Friday evening.

Deceased was the son of Mrs. Emma Boyer, of this place, and was born at Washington Furnace 32 years ago. Surviving him are his wife, who was Ella Murray, of Milesburg, and three children, his mother, brother Harry and sister Mrs. Kate Derr.

There was little of brightness in this life for poor Milt and we trust that in the great unknown there was something more in store for him.

DIED IN ALTOONA.—Mrs. Ada M. Cornelius, wife of Jesse H. Cornelius died at her home in Altoona early Monday morning. She had been ill but a short time with catarrh of the stomach.

Deceased was born August 19th, 1867, in Pine Grove Mills, this county. She had resided in Altoona a number of years and was a member of the Broad avenue Presbyterian church. She is survived by her husband, her mother, Mrs. M. J. Hickernell, and three sisters, Mrs. J. T. Morley, Mrs. Sharp Cameron and Miss Minnie V. Hickernell, and one brother, George R. Hickernell, all of Pittsburg. The funeral took place at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. Interment in Fairview cemetery.

A. H. Smith, of Phillipsburg, died in the Danville asylum on Tuesday morning. Deceased was born in Bucks county, in 1834 and located in Phillipsburg in 1872, where he sold sewing machines until six years ago, when his health and mind both failed. He served with honor throughout the civil war. A widow and family of adult children survive him. The funeral will take place at the family home at Cold Stream this afternoon.

Mrs. Isaac Shaver died at her home at Pleasant Gap on Wednesday from complication of diseases. Deceased was about 60 years old and is survived by a family of adult children. Interment will be made in the Lutheran cemetery at the Gap this morning at nine o'clock.

News Purely Personally.

—Miss Lillian Crittenden, of Linn street, is visiting Miss Alice Robinson in Spring Mills.

—Miss Maude Harper has returned to her home on Linn street, after a visit of several weeks with relatives in Rebersburg.

—Miss Mary Kreamer, a daughter of T. N. Kreamer, of this place, is visiting her uncle, A. S. Stover, in Aaronsburg.

—Mrs. W. L. Main and her son Ogden returned, Saturday evening, from quite an extended visit in Chester county.

—Charley Lukenbach, of the Kurtz book store, spent the Fourth in Phillipsburg visiting his brother F. K. Lukenbach.

—Miss Blanche Hayes returned, Saturday evening, from a visit of several weeks with the family of H. S. Cooper, at Ithaca, N. Y.

—W. F. Nichols, of Philadelphia, came up, Saturday evening, to spend a few days with his family. They are summering here.

—Miss Mary Thomas and Miss Bertha Shaffer, both of Philadelphia, are in town to spend the most of the summer with relatives here.

—Mrs. W. B. Dix, of Dayton, Ohio, arrived in town yesterday for her annual summer visit with her relatives, the Gepharts and Munsons.

—The Misses Maud and Minnie Schreyer, of Chicago, are guests at the home of their aunt, Mrs. Minnie Harper, on west Linn street.

—Mr. and Mrs. John Porter Lyon drove down from Penna. Furnace, Sunday morning, and spent the day with Mrs. Lyon's parents in this place.

—Mrs. W. L. Musser, of Lamb street, is in St. Louis, Mo., visiting her son Horace, his wife and their young daughter, her first grand-child.

—Mrs. Edwin F. Garman was a guest of her sister, Mrs. Gertrude Lingel, in Phillipsburg, during the past week. She returned Tuesday evening.

—Miss Jeanie Hull, of Aaronsburg, who has been spending the past month in Huntingdon, is visiting her uncle, T. C. Bell, on Allegheny street.

—Mrs. Geo. W. Jackson and Mr. and Mrs. Geo. T. Brew, of Oakland, Md., are at the Bush house, having come up to the funeral of the late Lieut. Geo. L. Jackson.

—Miss Myra Holliday, of North Allegheny street, returned Wednesday evening from St. Mary's where she was a member of a house party at the home of Senator Andrew Kaul.

—Dr. J. E. Ward has just returned from "Neversink," the famous resort near Reading, where he spent a week in attendance at the annual meeting of the State Dental Association.

—Mrs. Walter Morris, her two grand children, Margaret and Morris Wood, and her retinue of maids left Wednesday for the Adirondacks, where they will spend the remainder of the summer.

—W. H. H. Walker Esq., has returned from Atlantic City, where he spent several weeks for the benefit of his health. From his appearance he got all that was coming to him in the way of tan.

—Miriam and Rosalie Graner, the vivacious little daughters of William Grauer, of east Linn street, left for Altoona, Thursday afternoon, to spend some time visiting friends in that city.

—Albert Canfield, of Wyncote, was here to spend Sunday with Mrs. Canfield and her children, who have been in town for some time visiting. Mrs. Canfield's mother, Mrs. Caroline Orriss, is here.

—Mrs. Mary Burchfield, of Phillipsburg, was in town the latter part of last week visiting her brother J. D. Shugert. Mr. Shugert has been ill at his home on Linn street for some time, not having been down to the bank for quite awhile.

—Miss Margaret Sechler has returned from Johns Hopkins training school for nurses in Baltimore and will spend the summer at her home on Linn street. She has finished her course of training and expects to locate in Baltimore in the fall.

—Mr. and Mrs. James Palmer, of Sunbury spent Sunday at the home of Asher Adams, on Reynolds Ave. Asher had been quite ill for some time with blood poisoning, in fact so severe that he had been pronounced by his friends to be in a hopeless condition but his friends became alarmed.

—Among our callers last week, when the office was so badly torn up that we were almost ashamed to invite people in, was our old friend Shuman Lyon, of Spring township. Indeed if Mr. Lyon keeps on looking as young as he does for a man of 66 we suppose we'll soon have to stop calling him an old friend.

—If E. Johnson has so far recovered from the effects of the injuries he received from an accident in Pittsburg last fall, as to be able to return to his work for the electrical department of the P. R. Co., in that city. Happily his injuries, instead of rendering him a helpless cripple for life, as was first feared, were so skillfully treated as to leave scarcely any ill effects.

—D. J. Koch, one of the young school masters from up in Ferguson, was in town on Tuesday taking the teachers' examination. He was away from home at the time the examination was held up there and had to come here to take it. He had few qualms over the outcome of it and was not the least bit frightened about the possibility of failure. Mr. Koch will teach the Keppler school next year.

—Dr. and Mrs. Robert Grier, of Butler, were in Bellefonte and State College during the fore part of the week, spending part of their honeymoon. Dr. Grier is a graduate of The Pennsylvania State College and is well known in this place. He was married on July 4th to Miss Walker, of Butler, a sister of State's former famous ball back. During their stay in town Mrs. J. P. Harris gave a little picnic at Hecla for them.

—A very delightful house party which Miss Louise Calloway gave for some of her girl friends from Dr. Gardner's school in New York, broke up on Wednesday, when the guests left for Pittsburg to continue their visit in that city. Her guests were—Miss Genevieve Richardson, of Bath, N. Y.; Miss Margaret Foreman, of Williamsport; Miss Edith Anthony, of Buffalo, N. Y.; and Miss Isabel Hipple, of Lock Haven.

—Andrew Jackson Griest, of Unionville, was in town on Tuesday and the most startling bit of information he dropped was that he will have to vote for Bryan in the fall. "You know," he said, "there is no other way out of it. This 16 to 1 talk is all a bugaboo. There is no possible way for the currency question to come up again for six years and I am for Bryan and against imperialism." Four years ago there were 93 gold Democrats in the county. Since ANDY JACKSON has hopped there will be only 92.

—Capt. J. A. Hunter, of Stormstown, was in town on Monday and seemed to be very highly pleased with the result of the Kansas City convention. The Captain is such a good old Democrat that one could hardly expect him to be anything but pleased. There was a time, however, when he got switched off a little and the incident proves a very amusing proof of our oft expressed belief that it takes more than a sincere Prohibition candidate to wear a temperance Republican away from his ticket. Several years ago two very honorable and life long Republicans were named for an office having a direct bearing on the license granting privilege by the Prohibition party. Capt. Hunter had faith in the integrity of the nominees and believed them to be consistent temperance men—which they are to this day. Knowing such to be the fact he proposed to support them and approached some of the loudest talking temperance Republicans in his community to the same end. They agreed with him as to the sacredness of the cause, the honor of the Prohibition nominee and the need for prohibitive officials, but when election day came they all marched up and voted the old line Republican ticket. It was a case of talk temperance but vote Republican with them and so it is with many.

—Jas. B. Noll, of Milesburg, has been in town several times this week making arrangements for the big festival the hook and ladder company will hold in that place on the evening of the 21st.

—Miss Isabel Hipple, of Lock Haven, who was a guest at the home of Mrs. Louisa Bush, on Spring street for the past week, left for her home last evening. She is a daughter of T. C. Hipple Esq., a prominent Democratic attorney of that city.

—Capt. W. A. Simpson, of Lock Haven, was in town during the fore part of the week. The Captain and his company expect to participate in our Centennial parade and in the entire line there won't be a more dignified nor soldierly looking organization.

—Geo. H. Hile, of DuBois, was here to spend Sunday at Pleasant Gap. Though about as busy as young men who are successful usually get to be. Mr. Hile still can find time to make frequent visits to the home of his mother at Pleasant Gap.

—J. B. Alexander, of Union township, was in town yesterday, on business pertaining to the settlement of the estate of the late Irvin Way, of which he is administrator. Mr. Alexander always was a good business man and that accounts for the satisfactory way he is getting the estate settled.

—William Gibson and his bride were in town Monday between trains on their way from State College to Oil City, where Will is employed on one of the newspapers. They were married in Dayton on the 8th and came east to spend their honeymoon with his mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Gibson, at State College.

—J. A. Grove was in town on the 3rd making a few patriotic purchases for his children. He lives on the farm of his father, Daniel Grove Esq., in Benner township and is what you could truthfully call a wide-awake young husbandman. Mr. Grove has been supervisor of his township and is well up in matters of politics as well as agriculture.

—Al Braschdel, who figures quite prominently in Benning's political doings in town, was in town on Saturday on a mission of interest to most everyone. He is going to be a candidate for jury commissioner and let it be known right here that he is a very popular man and will make it decidedly interesting for any one who goes into the Republican convention against him.

—Dr. Lee B. Woodcock, who has been in Vienna since last summer practicing and studying at the government hospital, arrived in New York Tuesday and will spend the months of July and August at Ashby Park before locating permanently to practice medicine. His mother, who has been in Chambersburg for several months and whose old home was burned there on Sunday morning, and his brother Jay, who is going with the Morrises to the Adirondacks for the summer, are in Philadelphia with him now.

—On Saturday afternoon a very pleasant young gentleman walked into this office to make some inquiries and before he left we learned that he was Walter Klepper, the oldest son of Emanuel Klepper, of Philadelphia. He had just arrived to spend his vacation of two weeks from duty in the Philadelphia Brass Spigot works with relatives in this place. Walter's mature looks made the writer feel more antiquated than ever, for it does not take a very old man to remember his father, Emanuel, who lived out at Coleville.

—He moved to Philadelphia some years ago and has been prospering in the electrical business ever since.

—Talk about people being sought after. There was a man in town last Friday, who, if he was at all concealed, might well be "swelled up." It was John Workman, of Hecla park. He runs the pleasant little eating house just outside the grounds there and it was on the Fourth that John had thousands of people after him. The crowd had eaten everything eatable on the grounds then they finished up the great stores he had laid in and when it was all done pestered him away into the night for more. John and his good wife know what such crowds are and held the evenness of their tempers beautifully throughout it all. Of course you understand they made quite a little money that day.

—While running after the mower in the field of his uncle James Sheehy, near Penn Hall, on Friday, June 29th, seven year old Franklin Worrel stepped over the outer bar and had his foot nearly cut off. The heel bone was cut clear into the ankle. Dr. Letzler called Dr. Musser, of Aaronsburg, into consultation and they dressed the wound. The little fellow is doing nicely now.

—Invitations have been issued for the marriage of Dr. William Frear, professor of agricultural chemistry at The Pennsylvania State College, to Miss Julia Reno, of Greenville, Ky. It will be celebrated in the Presbyterian church at Greenville on Wednesday morning, July 18th, at half past eleven o'clock.

—Huckleberries are reported to be scarce in the vicinity of Wolfe's Store. They are selling at 80¢ per qt. there.

—Geo. W. Wiley, of Bellwood, has entered his $1,000 blank team for the races in this place during the Centennial.

NOTICE.—All persons are hereby prohibited from pasting or tacking any notices whatever on the telephone, telegraph, or electric light posts in or about Bellefonte according to the Ordinance of 1885. This ordinance, hereafter, will be strictly enforced. EDWARD BLANCHARD, Burgess.
