Typhoid fever is still raging at Chester Hill, near Philadelphia. The recent rain was not sufficient to improve the sanitary condition of the place.

Saturdays rain was the first one this section has had in six weeks. It wasn't near as much as we need, but all were thankful for ever so small a blessing.

Bellefonters have learned to expect the best in minstrelsy from Hi Henry and that is why everyone is looking forward to tonight's entertainment as one that will be clean, bright and a pot pourri of musical jems.

A notice has been posted at the Logan iron and steel works at Burnham, Millifield county, announcing a reduction for puddling of from $4 to $3 per ton. As a result of it the three hundred employees of the plant have quit work. Low prices and dullness in the iron trade is given as the cause of the reduction.

The announcement made in our last week's issue, having reference to the "Luther Entertainment," will be given in the opera house on the 13th and 14th of December. It will be a great attraction, and prove itself worthy of general patronage. Some of our Bellefonte people have witnessed it elsewhere and pronounce it superb.

Col. Amos Mullen returned from Columbia yesterday morning, where he was attending the funeral of his aged mother, Mrs. Mullen died in Philadelphia, at the residence of her son Harry, with whom she had made her home for the last year but her burial took place in Columbia, the family home. She was eighty-eight years old and had been sick about a month.

A LIVELY RUNAWAY ON TUESDAY.—There were highly exciting times near Morris Pike lime kilns shortly after eleven o'clock Wednesday morning and all because a big black horse, owned by George Green, of Milesburg, took it into his head to comport himself slightly different from what well regulated road horses are supposed to do.

Mr. Green, his little boy, and Mrs. Samuel Jarrett were driving along the pike in a spring wagon. When right in front of the kilns the horse took a notion to run and away he went. We have heard of the way greased lightning goes through a huckleberry bush, but such speed must have been a snail's pace when compared with the way Dave Kelly says Green's black horse went. At the dirt dump the little Green boy tried to climb over the end gate and was successful, so far as getting out was concerned, but when he picked himself up his mouth and eyes were full of dirt and his hands painfully scratched. The black horse didn't wait to extend any sympathy to the little Green boy, but headed straight for a three seated carriage, in which was seated a party of men who were on their way to aid and abet that terribly sinful (?) race track.

In the carriage were John Blanchard, John Olewine, Col. Jno. A. Woodward, Capt. W. C. Patterson, Dr. H. P. Armsby and Ellis L. Orvis Esq. They were driving down to the fair grounds to select a place to exhibit some big pumpkins, fat cows, etc., but this flying black satan overtook them, ripped a wheel off their carriage and there was anything but a Quaker meeting with that sextet for a few moments.

The wagon went up over the top of the carriage and Mrs. Jarrett promptly made several revolutions in mid-air, alighting on the pike without so much as a scratch.

The black horse continued his flight and Mr. Green went with him. Near the C. R. R. of Pa. engine house they overtook A. B. Gannon, a salesman from Chicago, who was driving along in one of George Beezer's buggies. Without as much as by your leave they struck Mr. Gannon and he flew over the bank; landing within one sixty-fourth of an inch of the cold waters of the canal. The buggy was badly demolished, but the black horse and the spring wagon and Mr. Green were still in the ring. The latter went up in the air, however, somewhere in the vicinity of Shoemaker's house and the black horse very promptly pulled the wagon out from under him.

Then it had things all to itself until the toll gate was reached and there a man pulled a load of match wood across the road. The black horse plowed into it worse than Cummings went into the W. U. P. line last Saturday, but he couldn't get through and had to give up the flight.

The horse was not at all injured and the shafts were the only things broken on the spring wagon.

JOHN CUMMINGS HANGS HIMSELF.—Wary of life and tormented into a condition of irresponsibility by the fear that he wouldn't be able to pay off the $1,800 remaining indebtedness on his farm, John Cummings, a well to do farmer, living two miles east of Linden Hall, committed suicide by hanging on Sunday.

His domestic relations were of the pleasantest and he lived happily with his wife and nine children. Last spring those with whom he was most intimate heard him complaining, more or less, about his poor success and the probability of his being unable to pay off obligations he had contracted in buying the old Ruble place. He had the debt nearly lifted, however, and was really getting along better than many farmers, but he brooded over his troubles until reason was dethroned and the rash act committed.

On Sunday, September 23rd, he took paris green, powdered glass and landanum, and was really getting along better than many farmers, but he brooded over his troubles until reason was dethroned and the rash act committed.

About noon last Sunday he said he would go up stairs to lie down awhile. It was only a short time later that his fifteen year old son Harry followed to look after him. Not finding him in any of the rooms the boy went on to the garret and there made the shocking discovery that his father had hanged himself.

A bed cord had been stretched in the garret to hang clothes on and at one end there were about two feet of it unused. Mr. Cummings had fastened this portion about his neck then dropped to his knees, holding himself in that position until he strangled to death. When found he was quite dead and his knees were scarcely off the floor.

Deceased was about 50 years old. Funeral services were held Wednesday morning and interment was made in the cemetery at Tusseyville.

AN INTERESTING CONTEST TO-MORROW.—There will be great sport at the new fair grounds on Saturday afternoon, when the Dickinson Seminary and Bellefonte Academy foot ball teams line up against each other. While the Seminary boys are regarded as being in a different class from the Academy team, yet they were never able to defeat Potts College by decisive scores and last season the Academy and Potts College played two tie games.

Whatever the relative strength, the wearers of the gold and white are going to give the Williamsporters a very hard proposition. It will be well worth the 25c admission and if you want an afternoon of good sport go down to the fair grounds Saturday.

Lyman H. Howe's moving pictures will be seen at Garman's on the night of Nov. 8th. When here in March the Howe entertainment proved highly satisfactory.

Remember that admission to the Centre county fair will be only 25 cts and children under ten, accompanied by their parents or guardians, will be free.

The ladies of the Lutheran congregation, of Bellefonte, will hold a "Needle Work Bazar" on the 8th and 9th of November. It will be a very interesting and attractive exhibition.

There will be a festival at the home of Burns Crider, on east Linn street, Saturday evening, for the benefit of the home fund for the deaf, aged and infirm. All should patronize it.

The court having declined to grant a new trial in the case of the city of Lock Haven will have to pay at least $5,000, and possibly $9,000, to Mrs. Hannah Quigley for injuries she sustained by a fall on a defective boardwalk in that place.

Congressman J. K. P. Hall has just presented the Ridgway public library with one hundred and twenty-one specially bound volumes of a valuable work on the war of the Rebellion, records of the Union and Confederate armies and a flag book.

At the seventeenth annual convention of the Woman's Home Missionary Society of the Huntington Presbytery, in session at Altoona last week, Mrs. James Harris, of this place, and Mrs. Geo. W. Atherton, of State College, were elected vice presidents. The treasurer's report showed contributions of $11,230.25, an increase of $132.76 over last year. It was agreed to assume the support of a teacher at Fairview, Utah, and to raise $400 toward the support of a school.

Notwithstanding the rain about eight hundred people went down to the driving park, on Saturday afternoon, to see the foot ball game between the Western University of Pennsylvania and The Pennsylvania State College. The game was very rough and punctuated with much slugging and wrangling. State finally won by the score of 12 to 0, having made one touchdown in each half. The Pittsburg boys were unexpectedly strong, and while much lighter than State's team they played so snappy as to give the blue and white about all it could handle.

CENTRE COUNTY FAIR, BELLEFONTE, OCTOBER 16th, 17th, 18th AND 19th. ADMISSION 25 CENTS. ONE FARE EXCURSION RATES.

Garman's will present a star attraction to-night. Hi Henry's splendid minstrel organization will be here.

Admission to the fair will be only 25 cts and there won't be a fake or a gambling scheme on the grounds.

Jimmy Reeder, the Altoona colored boy who rode Walter H. in the Centennial races here, was knocked out by Eddie Gardner, of Wheeling, at Youngstown, Monday night. The men were to have fought a 20 round go on 124 lbs, but Reeder went down and out in the sixth.

Samuel Myers, of Lock Haven, has returned from his second trip to the Klondyke. He got home on Sunday and is none the worse for the several months spent in the Cape Nome region, though he says all the gold territory is staked off and that there is no use in going there now. According to Mr. Myers the terrible tales about the people dying from small pox, pneumonia and measles are true. He says that the condition at Nome is awful.

Boyd Shoemaker, of Swissdale, met with quite a serious accident near Mackeyville on Monday night. With Samuel Shoemaker, of Salona, and John Probst, of Lock Haven, he went out con hunting. They had chased three up one tree and Boyd climbed it to knock them off. After two had fallen and he was just dropping the third he lost his balance and fell, himself, a distance of forty feet to the ground. Fortunately the limbs of the tree broke his fall somewhat, but he struck the ground so hard as to completely paralyze him from the hips down. He was carried to his brother's home, where he is slowly recovering the use of his legs.

COUNCIL AND ITS MEETING.—The regular semi-monthly meeting of council was held Monday evening with president Gerberich and members Walkey, Wetzel, Knisely, Houser and Derstine present.

Frank Galbraith was present and asked council, on behalf of Howard street residents, to appropriate $25 toward the cost of digging a cess pool on the property of Henry J. Tibbens into which the surface water on that thoroughfare would drain, thus possibly preventing the flooding of all the cellars along that street, as is the case now every time there is a heavy rain; the residents purpose bearing the balance of the expense. Council granted the request.

A bad pavement on east Lamb street was reported and the Street committee instructed to investigate. The committee also reported the completion of the new bridge over Logan's branch.

The treasurer's report showed a balance of $8,355.25 due him up to Oct. 1st.

Appropriations of $250 to the Logans and $200 to the Undines were ordered paid. New brick crossings were ordered laid from the Catholic parish house to the residence of Nicholas Bauer, on Bishop street, and one over Ridge street on the North side of Bishop. Water was granted to A. G. Morris, for a stone crusher at his Pike quarries.

After approving bills to the amount of $2,696.23 council adjourned.

OPENED A GENERAL OFFICE IN BELLEFONTE.—In order to centralize a rapidly growing business that has ramified all parts of the county, the Howard Creamery Co., has opened a general office on North Diamond square, with B. B. Wilson, W. Gross Mingle and Chester Moore, of Howard, in charge.

All of the company's business will be handled from this place and that it is of no small proportion will be seen when the number of enterprises under its control is considered. There are four large creameries: Howard, Coburn, Baileyville, and Centre Hall, with eight skimming stations, located at Beech Creek, Hubbersburg, Waddle, Pine Grove Mills, Lemont, Spring Mills, Feidler and Rebersburg.

The company has dropped the cold storage ware house that was proposed to be built in this place. It will more than likely be taken up and completed in the spring.

After next Monday private families will be supplied with excellent table butter, direct from the office here, where orders can be left in person or by telephone.

Phillipsburg has recently lost two very prominent residents by removal. W. H. Denlinger Esq. and his family are going to Paton and Hon. J. N. Casanova to Cuba. The latter expects, however, to spend his summers in Phillipsburg.

John Strouse, one of the young farmers of Bennett township, was in town on Monday and in speaking of Saturday's rain remarked that while it was greatly appreciated yet the fall was scarcely sufficient to moisten the ground. Miss Margaret Graham, of Pittsburg, Miss L. C. Finch and Mrs. Edward B. Rankin, of Harrisburg, and Mrs. R. A. Especially has this been the case in the vicinity of Woodward, which seems to have been in an exceptionally timely rain belt, and he said the corn and wheat in that section is giving the largest yield in years. Sheriff Condo's corn on his own farm ran as high as 125 bushels to the acre and some of his wheat reached thirty.

Col. Jas. P. and Mrs. Coburn spent Sunday at their home in Aaronsburg. The Col. has just returned to his desk in the First National bank after a two week's trip in the East. Of course he had to take in the great Allentown fair, for he had been going there for years and it would be about as much of a success without him as a Republican county convention would have been a few years ago. Colonel was one of the 95,000 attendees, but we'll bet there were few of them more distinguished looking.

Our old friend Samuel Sproul from Mingoville was in town yesterday and had his arms so full of bundles that had the train not left as early as it did we fear he would have bought the whole town out. He hasn't been engaged at anything in particular this summer, but lives happily with his brother on the fine Sproul farm there. He says it is very dry in Kittany valley, which probably accounts for the fact that during the hot weather the quail seemed to disappear effectually, though they are coming back now in great coveys.

Hirt's saw mill near Wolf's Store is shut down for a few days so that a new boiler and engine can be put in.

HELP THE LOCK HAVEN HOSPITAL.—The Ladies Aid Society of the Lock Haven hospital have undertaken a very elaborate entertainment which, it is hoped, will net a handsome sum for that steadily growing and useful institution.

It is a fair to help the hospital building fund and opened in the armory in Lock Haven last evening, to continue until Saturday evening, Oct. 13th. Among the many booths will be those for dolls, aprons, house furnishings, flowers and fruit, groceries, baby wear, bags, cigars, cushions, neckties, refreshments, candies, D. A. R. novelties, gypsy, gingerbread, Japanese, and Dalonahy, each presided over by a bevy of pretty girls, especially suited for the work. In addition to these interesting departments on Friday, Oct. 5th, there will be calisthenic drills by the school children, a cake walk and stereopticon views and on Saturday, Oct. 6th, at 2 p. m., the great baby show contest will be held.

Single admission is only 5 cts and a season ticket can be had for 50 cts.

The Central R. R. of Penna. will issue a special excursion rate of 25 cts for the round trip from Bellefonte to Lock Haven and return, for the benefit of those who want to go down to the fair. It is especially incumbent upon our people to do something to help the Lock Haven hospital. Frequently of late the doors of that institution have swung wide to receive emergency cases from this place and in every instance the patient has received the best possible treatment. In fact there are several Centre county cases in the Lock Haven hospital now and as that institution has to depend entirely upon the people of the town for its support—it receives no state aid—it seems that we should feel ourselves duty bound to do something. If you cannot go to the fair to help along in that way make a contribution to Mrs. Wm. Keiner, chairman of the executive committee. It will be thankfully received, no matter how small.

DANIEL O'LEARY BURNED.—Daniel O'Leary, employed at the Bellefonte furnace, narrowly escaped fatal injury by a gas explosion out there on Tuesday. As it was he was badly burned about the face and arms.

This is the story of the accident in the injured man's own words:

"After causing the blast is always shut off the furnace to stop up the iron outlet and then we put in a belly-pipe, through which the blast enters the furnace. As the foreman and I were putting the pipe in place there was an explosion of gas in the furnace, which shot through the tuyere and caught me pinned in between a column and what is called a pin-stalk. The force of the explosion caught me on the face, but by throwing up my arms I saved my eyes, though my arm got burned bad." "The mystery to everyone is how I got off so well. In a week I will be able to work."

A $5 PRIZE FOR PRIDE OF THE NORTH COLTS.—With the sanction of the Agricultural Exhibiting Co. Col. W. Fred Reynolds has decided to offer a prize of $5, for the best colt out of his famous stallion, "Pride of the North," exhibited at the fair. The entries must be made in regular form, through the fair association.
