

Ink Slings.

All of our roosters flew the coop. Quite early Wednesday morn. They knew they'd all be in the soup. The news was so forlorn. --All signs fail in dry weather. --Look out for the big crops next year. MCKINLEY'S elected. --Hurrah for FREDERICK ROBB. They didn't beat him anyway. --There must have been something in that harmony deal after all. --We still have the consolation of knowing that we are not alone in our sorrow. --It costs money to run the Republican organization, but then it must be run. --The world is full of people who say they will when they mean they won't. --"Accidents will happen in the best regulated families." We had ours last Tuesday. --Did you ever try to throw a bull by the tail. Or some other stunt, as funny. It's like being up against the fall dinner pail And Mark Hanna's trusts and money. --ALLISON will vote against QUAY in the General Assembly, but what will THOMPSON do? --Silver seems to be dead in a large territory of the country, but we are still receiving it on subscription. --It is evident that chairman REEDER is a more sagacious political manipulator than ex-chairman GRAY. --RICHARD CROKER has decided to leave for Europe. How lucky. The rest of us have to stay here and grin and bear it. --HALL is the only oasis in this great political desert in which Democrats in this county find themselves stranded today. --Now watch "Me and Taisy and Tash" trying to get their "hooks" onto all the credit for the Republican victory in Centre county. --WANAMAKER'S $50,000 in Philadelphia must have been used to buy votes for the machine, rather than to detect its frauds. --It will be the right thing now when you want anything about Harrisburg to make your application to ex-Governor HASTINGS.

Democratic Watchman

STATE RIGHTS AND FEDERAL UNION.

VOL. 45 BELLEFONTE, PA., NOV. 9, 1900. NO. 44.

OFFICIAL RETURNS OF CENTRE COUNTY FOR NOVEMBER 6th, 1900.

Table with columns: Boroughs and Townships, President, Auditor Gen., Congressmen-at-Large, Congress, Legislature, Jury Com. Lists candidates and their vote counts for various offices.

What We May Look For.

The inside pages of the WATCHMAN tell all there is to tell, at this writing, of the result of Tuesday, so far as presidential and congressional elections go. Boiled down it shows that the Republicans have re-elected their President, secured control of the next Congress and can fairly be held responsible for the policy, actions and work of every department of the Federal government for the next four years.

No Easy Job.

It is to be hoped, now that the election is over, that the interests of the people and the preservation of the honor of the government will dominate the efforts of those who have been successful. There is room and a pressing necessity for much to be done and it is no light load of responsibility that rests upon the shoulders of those who are shouting over their success of Tuesday.

Greatly to His Credit.

A lecture on close-fistedness and an attempt to ridicule the people of the county who were born of German parents, would come with a much better grace from one who had shown some signs of liberality and could speak the English language better himself, than from the thick-tongued, niggardly individual who controls the Gazette.

The New Battle for Democracy.

The re-election of President McKinley in the face of the general condemnation of the battle the Democracy has made in defense of popular rights—a battle that defies age and will continue until it is won.

Alaska add to the disturbed conditions

Alaska add to the disturbed conditions that the incoming administration must meet, and when we consider the seriousness of any one of the problems arising out of these questions it can readily be understood that it is not a bed of roses that awaits the jubilant host of Republicanism.

People with short memories

People with short memories will imagine that the result of the election in the county was a great Republican victory. When they come to think back a little and remind themselves of the fact that since 1877 the Republicans have carried the county almost as often as the Democrats have, and at two general elections since then have had much larger majorities than on Tuesday last, the result will not seem so overwhelming after all.

Imperialism in government goes hand in hand with this tyranny of money.

Imperialism in government goes hand in hand with this tyranny of money, that finds expression in the trusts. The people have not approved; they have been overruled. The false cry of danger to "business interests" has terrified and coerced men against their judgment, against their interest, against their convictions of principle, and the concentrated power of a great political organization controlled the money power alone, that has tyrannized over the popular judgment and, whether by fair means or foul, has prevented the free expression of the popular will.

Spawns from the Keystone.

While John Logue and family were absent from their home in Lock Haven, Saturday night watching a parade, some one broke into their house and stole nearly $500, four watches and two suits of clothing. A dwelling house and store-room occupied by John Cain and merchant D. M. Buterbaugh, of Buffington, Indiana county, were destroyed by fire about 1 o'clock Friday morning. The origin of the fire is unknown.

Thousands of barrels of apples

Thousands of barrels of apples have been shipped during the past few weeks from the Somerset railroad station to points in the coke region. Several dealers claim that the shipments this season will be the largest in the history of the county.

At Hughesville Monday night

At Hughesville Monday night Mrs. Charles McCarty was thrown out of a buggy in a runaway. The wheels passed over the lady's body. The horse turned a short distance away and running back dragged the overturned buggy over the unconscious form of the lady. She is seriously injured.

At Clearfield

While a party of young men from Clearfield were hunting on the mountain near that place Saturday, Paul McCool was accidentally shot and killed by Jerry Hockman. The body was taken to Clearfield and Hockman was placed in custody, pending the coroner's inquest, which was held Sunday.

Saturday last in Juniata township

Saturday last in Juniata township, Huntingdon county, Dorsey Corbin, accompanied by his little brother aged about 13 years, and George David, a neighbor, went to the woods where they hunted a rabbit. Dorsey mounted a log and in an attempt to drag his gun after him the weapon discharged the charge striking him on the under side of the right arm and entered his arm at the armpit, taking a diagonal course through his body, severing the artery of the heart and lungs and causing his death in a few minutes. The young man had been married only 48 hours before the accident occurred.

At Clearfield

At Clearfield, Pa., a civil engineer in the employ of the Pennsylvania railroad company, and who has charge of the extension of the Crabtree and Hermine branches of the Pennsy. in Westmoreland county, has made the discovery that Big Bald Knob in the Allegheny mountain, on the line between Somerset and Bedford counties, is the most elevated point in Pennsylvania. Big Bald Knob is 3,000 feet above the sea level, and is about eight miles from the Cambria county line. Until Mr. Matley's recent survey, whereby he proved the height of Big Bald Knob, the highest point in Pennsylvania was near a peak reaches the elevation of 2,708 feet. Mr. Matley has furnished his surveys and calculations to the government engineers having in charge the new geological survey of the State, and the latter have accepted Big Bald Knob as the culminating point in Pennsylvania.
