

Bellefonte, Pa., Nov. 9, 1900.

home without them is not home at all, that a housekeeper is not practical and that he must solve the problem by taking unto himself another wife. He wants a good, sensible woman to take care of the house and train the children in the way they should go. He has in mind a woman he met in Chicago, knew an hour or so and remembers chiefly because he saw her holding a baby as if she loved it. So confident is he that this woman will favor his suit that he warms his friend to stead of coming to the exhibition she planprepare to act as best man. Then he writes the woman as follows:

My Dear Miss Maurice—I am, as no doubt you know, a widower with two children, a boy and a girl. My wife has been dead two years, and my children have been with my mother. My little girl misses me sadly, as I do her, and if you could make up your mind to marry me and make a home for us I would show my gratitude by being as good a husband as I know how. Hoping you will consider this favorably, I am, my dear Miss Maurice, sincerely yours,

JOHN HAMMERSMITH.

Those who know nothing about love will not be surprised that Miss Maurice responded in this wise:

Dear Mr. Hammersmith—Thanking you very much for the honor you have conferred upon me, I most respectfully decline your proposal. Very truly yours,

MARY MAURICE.

That would have settled most men, but it only served as a spur to John Hammer-

Meantime Miss Maurice takes occasion to "drop a line" to her chum, Helen Wells, in which she says things that, could he have read them, would have made the amorous Hammersmith fancy he had stepped on a redhot stovelid. She said she was burning to write him a scorcher,"-rather warm language for a practical bachelor maid—but exercised almost superhuman control. Still she had an opinion that "if he reads between the lines his eyeballs will wither." And yet this young woman "held a baby as though she loved it!"

Well, Hammersmith evidently did not read between the lines, but without the optical shriveling predicted, for he again addressed his inamorata in humility and with profuse apology and hinted that he was going on a journey to Japan and would like to take his wife and children along.

This bait failed to secure even a nibble. Indeed, it aroused all Miss Maurice's sarcasm-and being a school teacher she had plenty. She suggested that he was acting in this matter of selecting a wife with less care than he would in chosing a horse, and she said that her "present employer, the city," gave her a holiday of two months each year, which was more than she could hope to get from him.

Then John Hammersmith wrote his friend that he felt about a foot high and had a strong desire to kill Miss Maurice. But he took another track instead, wrote a responded as follows:

My Dear Miss Maurice—Thank you for your nice, long letter. I couldn't quite make out the last of it. I am going to Chicago to kill the other man. Determinedly,

JOHN HAMMERSMITH.

My Dear Helen—Well, I am going to Europe sure enough, but not on a cattle boat. I am going as Mrs. John Hammersmith, and I am so dazed that I can hardly believe it. Mr. H. came to school one day looking distinguishingly handsome. I looked tired to death and a fright. We went to the theater. Nothing was said. Came next night and John Bartlett appeared also. We played cards. I felt amused. Instead of a spinster 32—I told him that I was near 40—I felt like a gay young thing of 16 or thereabouts. with a gay young thing of 16 or thereabouts, with my two suitors. Comparisons are odious, but Mr. H.showed to so much better advantage than John, who was plainly jealous, that that queer organ called my heart took a leap in the New York man's favor. He came the next evening, and, well, he wooed me as a woman ought to be wooed.

wooed me as a woman ought to be wooed.

He was willing to live in a flat and let me housekeep to my own heart's content, and I think I am going to be quite happy.

Just think! I shall have a dear little boy and girl to take care of instead of a little dog. Come on for the "bachelor girl" dinner. Never thought I'd give one. We sail July 30th. With love, MARY MAURICE.

So the wooing of a bachelor maid is not different from the wooing of any other sort of maid. When Hammersmith dropped his semi-commercial propositions and wooed "as a woman of my age likes to be wooed" the citadel capitulated, the practical bachelor girl found she was vulnerstical bachelor girl found she was vulnerable to the shafts of Cupid. And John Hammersmith learned this old time lesson: 'When a man would win a maid don't write; go.—Modern Culture.

Cough Causes a Murder.

Father Shoots Child Because Her I liness Annoys Him. John Kremposker, employed in Congressman Thropp's coal mines at Kearney, in the lower end of Bedford county, was taken to jail Saturday by Sheriff Dodson and committed on the charge of marder. murder.

A number of Italians spent Saturday night at Kremposker's home, and early that morning the five year old daughter of the prisoner, who was intoxicated, pleaded with her father to retire. The girl was suffering with whooping cough, and her father became so angry at hearing her cough that he got his revolver and shot the child above the left eye. The tot died

Queen Wilhelmina's Courtship

Some interesting particulars of Queen Wilhelmina's courtship and betrothal are John Hammersmith, of New York, is a widower in whose care have been left some pledges of affection by his late spouse. These children are in immediate charge of his mother, and after returning from a visit to them he writes a friend that he must have the children with himself, that home without them is not home at all er they were mutually impressed, and so strongly that the queen would hear of no other suitor. She pleaded "a cold" as an excuse for not attending a dinner where she was to pass in review a number of aspirants. The queen's mother, seeing this, prudently curtailed the visit to Berlin. Inquiries were in due course set on foot about Prince Henry. All the reports received about him were favorable, and the queen arranged to have opportunities to become better acquainted with him. Inned an excursion to Schwarzburg. Rooms were taken at a hotel in a picturesque site for the queen, her mother and the duchess dowager, who was asked to be their guest.

Prince Henry was not disinclined to fall in with the little plan. He obtained a furlough to come and see his mother. got up excursions to the show places in the principality, and accompanied the two queeus in their walks, rides and drives. Wilhelmina was extremely happy in his company, and was sorry when it was time for the party to break up. As she was leaving she said to the prince, "What a happy tour! I never spent such a happy time in my life, and I feel I owe so much to you." Correspondence followed, and one fine morning the prime minister was at Denver 11 o'clock the next morning—only one night out. Pullman sleepers, superior service. For complete information address, J. She said she hoped gaged, and to whom. She said she hoped the council would give its consent to the marriage she had decided upon. The prince of Mecklenburg belonged to the oldest house in Germany, its international situation was high, it played no part in European politics, Prince Henry could play no part in German politics, his career had been highly honorable, and he was beloved in his family girale. "When you see ed in his family circle. "When you see him," added the queen, "you will, I am sure, he of the opinion that I could not make a better choice, whether for myself or my people."

Almost a Murder.

A Colored Boy Fires a Load of Shot into a Man With Whom He was Gunning.

Eli Smith, a colored man, whose home is near Rawlinsville, was shot and hadly day afternoon. Smith is about 23 years of men started out gunning together on Friday and exchanged guns Smallwood removed the shell from Smith's gun after a time, and handed it back to him, getting his own in the exchange. Smith asked him for the shell, and Smallwood said he did not have it so Smith said he would did not have it, so Smith said he would keep his shot pouch, which he was carry-ing, until the shell was returned. Smith started to walk away, and Smallwood said:
"Stop, G—d — you, or I'll shoot."
Smith turned to tell him to be more carerenewal of his proposal—and was requested to cease his endeavors that the decision to marry him was final. And as if in after-thought Miss Maurice told him she was considering "another man," Hammersmith considering "another man," Hammersmith has been seen frightened that at the constant of the proposal—and was requested wards Smallwood the latter pulled the trigger, and his gun went off. About seventy shot lodged in the left shoulder, face and neck. Smith fell to the ground, and considering "another man," Hammersmith has been seen frightened that at first he started to run. He suddenly turned, however, and coming back assisted to take Smith to the house of Jacob Stewart nearby. Fortunately Dr. Alexander, of There was a pause here in the narrative an old woman. The doctor succeeded in which fancy may fill.

Again Miss Maurice addresses her chum
Helen Wells, and her letter is so characteristic, so "eternally feminine," that it is extent.

It is said that Smallwood is a bad boy and has threatened to shoot different people. Among these was Smith' who, for that reason was afraid of him.

Dishonest Maid Was a Man.

J. H. Leddy, with offices at No 54 Wall street, New York, who lives in Jessup Place, High Bridge, reported to the police on Friday that "Ella" Davidson, employed in his house for two days, had robbed the residence of jewelry and clothing valued at page 150. ued at more than $800.

The police found that the "housemaid" supposed to be, was a man in the dress of a woman.

The "maid" is thought to have taken a train for Pennsylvania. The "maid" was train for Pennsylvania. The "maid" was a very ugly person, apparently about 25 years old, with a high, disagreeable voice. "Her" nose had been cut off almost entirely, and there is a deep scar on the back of the neck. The police have learned that a man in woman's clothes had been operating through Harrisburg and Norristown, for some months, getting a position in a house and the next day departing with all house and the next day departing with all the valuables in sight.

Boy of Eight Kills Robber.

Charles Parker, eight years old, living with his mother near Rockville, Md., leveled a shotgun at Bernard Lee, a colored boy, Friday morning, as the latter was attempting to enter the Parker home, and blew off the top of his head.

It is said that Mrs. Parker had suspected the colored boy of stealing several articles from her house. On Friday she left the boy Charles with his smaller sister at home, while she went away on an errand. Before going she told the boy, it is said, that if Lee came around to get the gun and shoot him. Lee, it is charged, observed Mrs. Parker leaving and went to the house, where he was warned away by Charles. It is alleged that he subsequently attempted to enter the premises when the boy defender of his mother's house fired at and instantly killed the intruder.

A THOUSAND TONGUES-Could not express the rapture of Annie Springer, of Philadelphia, when Dr. King's New Discovery cured her of a hacking cough that for many years had made life a burden. SOMETHING NEW

FOR GIRLS AND BOYS. DURING the past year "St. Nicholas" Magazine, which has been for nearly thirty years the leading children's magazine of the world (and now the only one), has introduced several new departments which have been extremely attractive and have greatly increased the circulation. One of these is

"NATURE AND SCIENCE" "Don't bother me—I'm too busy" is too often the remark from a grown-up person to a child who really wants to know. The editor of "Nature and Science" gives careful attention to every question asked by his young readers, and "We will write to '$t. Nicholas' about it" has become the motto of the department, which contains interesting short articles, beautifully illustrated, telling of four-footed animals, birds, insects, water animals, plants, and whatever pertains to Nature.

"ST. NICHOLAS LEAGUE"

is an organization of those who read the magazine (whether subscribers or not), without dues, and it offers prizes each month for the best drawings, photographs, ppems, stories, puzzles and puzzle answers. Some of the work sent in by young folks shows surprising talent.

No one who does not see "St. Nicholas" can realize what an interesting magazine it is, and how exquisitely it is illustrated: it is a surprise to young and old. Of literature it contains the choicest, and in art it has never been surpassed by any grown folks' periodical. The new volume begins with November, 1900, and the subscription price is $3.00 a subscription price is $3.00 a year. If there are children in your home, you can hard-ly afford to be without it.
