UNDER THE MISTLETOE.

Molly 'neath the mistletoe—standin' there at night—
Cheeks as red as roses—blue eyes shinin' bright!
An' who will come an' kiss her? Her lover standin' by;
He shouldn't be so bashful when Molly ain't so shy!

Molly 'neath the mistletoe, waitin' for a kiss,
(Never was a lover bashful than this!)
An' who will come an' kiss her? The time is 'nippin' by;
What lover would be backward when his sweet heart ain't so shy?

Molly 'neath the mistletoe—let her lover blush!
For the boys got tired waitin' an' they went there with a rush!
An' they gave her twenty kisses—though her lover gave her none;
But she don't know who to marry—for they kissed her every one!

—Atlanta Constitution.

Sins Visited on Mother.

Aged Woman, Whose Son was William C. Quantrill, the Famous Guerrilla Leader, in Poverty.

Bent with the weight of years and broken by a burden of grief, penniless and well-nigh friendless, Mrs. Caroline Clark Quantrill, mother of William C. Quantrill, the famous guerrilla chieftain, has been removed from Canal Dover, O., to the Old Fellows Home for Widows, at Springfield, O., where she will pass the evening of her life—the last living member of her race.

For 60 years Mrs. Quantrill has been a familiar character in Canal Dover. Her departure now to an institution of charity recalls her coming to this city with her husband on their honeymoon trip in 1836, and, to a few of the older inhabitants, the boyhood days of William Clark Quantrill, their first born. He was cradled in a humble home in that city and grew to manhood before he broke the ties of kinship and embarked on a career of warfare which ultimately led to his death.

WENT FROM MARYLAND.
Mrs. Quantrill is in her 82nd year, having been born the same year as Queen Victoria, in which coincidence she takes great pride. Her husband was Thomas Quantrill, and from Hagerstown, Md., the newly married couple drove overland on their honeymoon trip in 1836, and established themselves in a modest home there. Thomas was the first principal of the Canal Dover schools, which position he held until his death, in 1854.

Behind him were left the mother and four children. The oldest, William Clark was born July 31st, 1837. The youngest was Thompson. The son Thomas was 20 years old he ran off and turned up in the Southwest. The last letter came from him 10 years ago. Since then no tidings have been heard from him. It is one of the pathetic incidents in the mother's life that, with her other children dead, she yet clings to the belief that Thompson still lives and that he will yet come back to bless the evening of her life.

HATED HER FOR HER SON'S SAKE.
The fight for a livelihood on the part of the guerrilla's mother has been a bitter one and for the past year her condition has been one of dire poverty. Because her son, Clark, lost his life in the Southern cause, people at her home have always been lukewarm in their charity, and she has been told repeatedly to look to the South for help.

William Clark Quantrill, the man who sacked and burned the towns of Lawrence and Olathe, Kan., and left a trail of blood over the Southwestern States during the Civil War, was a changed man from the William Clark Quantrill, the modest, unassuming youth who secured his early education in that city, and later taught school in a country district near there.

In his young manhood Quantrill was aesthetic, almost effeminate. He eschewed companionship and spent his leisure time among his books. He also possessed some poetic genius, and there are yet some verses preserved there which he wrote before he entered upon a life of outlawry.

She Traded Wooden Legs

But the Court Compelled Neighbor Reed to Wear His Own Pegs.

An original and exorbitantly funny case came up before the court at Ebensburg, Cambria county, Saturday. George Reed resides near that city and wears a peg leg, and Sadie Baldwin, a neighbor, also uses a wooden leg as the result of an accident.

She alleges that a month or more ago Reed persuaded her to trade pegs with him. Afterward she became dissatisfied with her bargain and wanted Reed to trade back. This Reed positively refused to do, as the leg he had traded for suited him better than his old one.

Miss Baldwin then brought suit against him to recover her peg. Reed pleaded guilty to larceny, paid the costs and returned the artificial leg to her.

Passing Away of Mrs. Calvin Brice.

Death Occurred on the Second Anniversary of Her Husband's Death.

Mrs. Catharine Oliver Brice, widow of Calvin S. Brice, died Saturday afternoon at her residence in New York of Bright's disease. Her death occurred on the second anniversary of the death of her husband, and shortly before she died she had repeatedly alluded to this. She expressed her wish, since her disease was incurable, that she should die on the same day.

With the exception of her son, John Brice, who is now at the Harvard law school, all of her children were with her at the time of death.

Mrs. Brice was born in Mansfield, O., on August 15th, 1840.

Brief funeral services were held at the house on Monday and the body was taken to Lima, O., where her husband is buried.

Companions Saw His Terrible Death

Young Man Run Over By a Locomotive and Cut in Two.

Frank McKean, a prominent young man of Soranton, at an early hour Saturday morning was run over and was cut in two, his head and shoulders falling on one side of the track and the lower part of the body on the other.

McKean was in the act of stepping on the locomotive, when his foot slipped on the icy step and he fell. He was skating and the accident took place in full view of a party of girls and boys with whom he was walking home.

Instead of worrying how to increase his income, the average man would do better to reduce his outgo.

Imposing Ceremonies at National Capital

The Centennial Anniversary of the Founding of the Federal Government in Washington Was Celebrated at That Place Wednesday.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—With imposing ceremonies the national capital today celebrated the centennial anniversary of the founding of the federal government in Washington. The exercises combined a brilliant military parade, a review by the President from the east front of the capitol and orations in the hall of the House of Representatives, where a brilliant audience was assembled. By act of Congress the day was made a national holiday in the District of Columbia. The government departments were closed, business was suspended and the whole city gave itself over to celebrating the capital's natal day. President McKinley and the members of his cabinet took a prominent part in all the exercises, and with them were the executives of a large number of the States and Territories of the Union, the Senators and Representatives in Congress, the Judiciary of the United States Supreme Court, the Ambassadors and Ministers from the foreign countries, the heads of the army and navy and a great outpouring of the people of the District.

Although Washington is the scene of many celebrations, it is seldom that one has occurred of a greater brilliancy in its outdoor features or of more impressiveness in its ceremonial exercises at the capitol and at the White House. Early in the day the President received the Governors of States and Territories at the White House, and the model for a new and enlarged White House, to commemorate today's exercises, was unveiled, with suitable addresses. At 1 o'clock the President was escorted to the capitol, where he reviewed a parade, headed by Lieutenant General Miles and including the full military strength of the capital regulars and militia.

The ceremonies at the capitol began at 3:30 p.m. and included addresses by Senators Daniel, of Virginia, and McComas, of Maryland; Representatives Payne, of New York, and Richardson, of Tennessee, and a notable historic oration by Senator Hoar, of Massachusetts. A reception by the President to the Governors of States at the Corcoran Art gallery to-night closed the festivities.

Health Faddists.

It is doubtful if there is a more pernicious agitator than the health faddist. If the faddist happens to be a physician his pet idea is likely to do a great deal of harm. The Chicago doctor quoted as saying "exercise is detrimental for men past middle life"—that is, more than 35 years old—is a generalization that runs counter to common sense and almost universal experience. It is equivalent to saying that the creator, who fixed the duration of human life at three-score years and ten, did not intend that the vital organs and muscles of the body should be used actively for more than half a lifetime.

The doctor is unfortunate in the example to support his theory. He cites the "sad case of Senator Davis," whose kidneys failed to eliminate from his system the blood-poison which killed him. But Senator Davis was a man who did not exercise habitually, and his kidney troubles, it is said, were "reading and smoking." Of John D. Rockefeller, the doctor says: "He drives a fast horse; that gives him air, but it doesn't give him exercise." That there is no exercise in driving a fast and spirited horse will be news to horsemen and is rather an open secret that Mr. Rockefeller would give at least a week's income for a stomach as good as his gardener's or his coachman's. As for Mr. Evers, whose boast has been that he "never exercised," it may be said in all kindness that the executor, though still living, was set aside for usefulness at an age when the wood-chopping Gladstone was still vigorous mentally and physically.

It is not scientific to generalize in a hard and fast way on this question. A man past middle life does not need to "cultivate his muscles," and too much exercise may be as bad as too little; but if he is not a fool he ought to be enough of a physician to know the regimen required to keep him "in condition" and have the sense to stick to it.

Saw Wife Burn to Death.

From the top of the barn where he and his son were working, Frank Allen, of Wallingford, Conn., saw his wife burn to death in the rear yard of her home.

When screams from the house attracted their attention young Allen rushed for the ladder by which he and his father had reached the barn roof. It slipped and slid along the eaves, falling to the ground, leaving them helpless 25 feet from the ground, as Mrs. Allen rushed from the back door, her clothing in flames. Her screams for help, united with the cries from the barn top, brought neighbors, but by that time Mrs. Allen was fatally burned and lying on the ground with her clothing burned off and unable to speak.

A WOMAN'S AWFUL PERIL.

"There is only one chance to save your life and that is through an operation" were the startling words heard by Mrs. I. B. Hunt, of Lime Ridge, Wis., from her doctor after he had vainly tried to cure her of a frightful case of stomach trouble and yellow jaundice. Gall stones had formed and she constantly grew worse. Then she began to use Electric Bitters which wholly cured her. It's a wonderful Stomach, Liver and Kidney remedy. Try it. Only 50c. Guaranteed. For sale by F. P. Green.

The Boxes of China.

Are attempting to solve a gigantic problem, but they are going about it in the wrong way and will never succeed. Some people, in this country, seem to think that they have as great a puzzle on their hands in selecting a location for a home. They will certainly go about it in the wrong way unless they inspect the beautiful farming country on the line of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway in Marinette county, Wisconsin, where the crops are of the best, work plenty, fine markets, excellent climate, pure soft water, land sold cheap and on long time. Why rent a farm when you can buy one for less than you pay for rent? Address C. E. Rollins, Land Agent, 161 La Salle St., Chicago, Ill.

PAR VALUE GOLD MINING COMPANY

ONLY 50,000 SHARES AT 50 CTS.

PRICE WILL BE ADVANCED SOON

ORDER NOW?

We offer a limited amount of the full paid, non-assessable stock of the Par Value Gold Mining Company, at 50 cents per share for working Capital.

The capital stock of the company is only $250,000; ¼ of the usual capitalization of mining companies, on which basis this offer is equivalent to 12½ cents per share.

Its property is located in the richest section of the Cripple Creek mining district, which will produce $30,000,000 gold this year, and is surrounded by and near to the Independence, Portland, Gold Coin, Strong and other great producers worth $60,000,000 and paying millions of dollars in dividends.

Cripple Creek is the most prosperous and profitable mining district in the world, and thousands of merchants, mechanics, workmen and others have realized fortunes from thousands of dollars to millions within eight years, while the camp is only in its infancy.

The Par Value property is a working proposition, equipped with plant, and will be producing within ninety days, and earning money for its stockholders.

Over $100,000 has been taken from the veins within 300 feet of its shaft. It is a legitimate business proposition, managed by experienced mining men for the best results to the stockholders.

The company also controls the stock of a corporation, which owns 145 acres of valuable mining land in the Cripple Creek district, in addition to the property which it is now operating.

The Creston Lumber Co., operating on the same basis as the Par Value earned and paid $472,000 last year in dividends, or $15,750 to each of its 30 stockholders, who had paid in but $500 each, or $30 on each $1.00 invested.

Reliable estimates show that this company can earn $25,000 per month, net from the present property and an addition which it contemplates, equal to over 100 per cent per annum on its capitalization and 200 per cent on the present price of its shares (50 cents). One-half of this, or 100 per cent would yield an income of $50 per year, on an investment of $50; $100 on $100; $500 on $500; $1,000 on $1,000 and $5,000 on $5,000 invested.

The Elkton Company has paid $607,000; Gold Coin $540,000; Lottie Gibson $697,500; Portland $1,127,000; Victor $1,255,000; Vindicator $466,000; Stratton's Independence $276,000 and 45 other companies from $10,000 in dividends each and all are in the same district as the Par Value.

The following from the Baltimore American shows the possibilities for good Mining Investments:

"Fourteen years ago Mrs. F. P. Chase, of Bangor, Me., invested $100 in the stock of the United Verde Mine. In 1887 Mrs. Chase received an offer of $3,000, and, within two days, a second offer of $6,000.

In 1895 offers increased in number and price until, in 1898, she refused $15,000 for it, and she is now receiving, with regularity, $50, twice monthly, as the interest on her investment of $100, made fourteen years ago.

The Par Value is the best mining proposition for investors that can be presented: integrity of management, location and value of property, richness of ore, cheapness of mining and treatment, low capitalization, price of shares and other going on, considered. It is not a prospect or experiment, but a proven property.

As soon as the present allotment is sold, the price will be advanced to $1.00. Less than 50,000 shares at 50 cents per share.
