The New Year's Customs

Gift Making Has Always Been a Feature of the Day. The Old Bourbon Kings Expected to thus Replenish Their Treasuries-The Wassail Bowl in England.

New Year's Day, the day when the sun's light began to increase again and so promise the return of plenty, has always been a day of joy and present giving.

Among all peoples the priests of old got the lion's share. The old Teutons gave the spoils of war and of the chase. Rotel to separate them, but gave it up, and palmed off the hopeless job on me. Hence my man knights yielded their most beautiful slaves. The Christian era somewhat modified the custom, but still it was a day of robbery by priests and monarchs, and New Year's day rather than Christmas was the day for the exchange of gifts. The old their street of the late George Rodney Owen, younger son of the tenth baronet of Orielton, half we have their of the present baronet and great their street of the present baronet and great t treasuries replenished then, and woe to the baron who did not give generously. A twentieth of one's income was thought to be the proper amount to give to king,

In fact, no country in the times past made more merry on New Year's day than merry old England. It was the time of ROBERT BURTON RODNEY, wassail bowl, the old Saxon "wes hall" (do well) being the drinking pledge. There was much eating, deep drinking and pranks and games peculiar to the day. Many of these were not overnice. "Lamb's was the drink of the day, and it was made of ale, nutmeg, powdered bay leaves, roasted crabs and toast, and a queer mixture it would seem. No one slept on New Year's eve. It was a time of 'most ungodly wantonness," so the later Puritans said. But at the time he when it But at the time he who did not get drunk for four days together was deemed "a most ungleesome churl." It was the custom to form processions and bear the wassail bowl about as long as anyone was sober enough to carry it, compelling all to drink. Pretty maidens might escape by paying the forfeit of a kiss. Who would not have preached abstinence to the fair in those days? 'Twas Bacchus or Venus for days. Here's how a contemporary bard sings the tune:

No sounds but sounds of joy salute the year, The blashing maids are binding up their hair After the romp, the laugh, the hearty kiss of his money on her.

Their lips, and the wassail bowl is borne In village, grange and town to make

The good man feel the New Year well awake. At the midnight stroke of the bell all the maidens were kissed ten times, all the mugs were filled, and those who could stand (so states a precise writer) drank a good health and happy New Year to each other. They joined hands and danced around the wassail bowl and sang the songs of the times. Here is a specimen :

Wassail, wassail, over the town : Our toast is white, our sle is brown, Our board is made of the maplin tree. Bacchus! Bacchus! We drink to thee

CHORUS, Love and joy come to you, And to our merry wassail, too, And may one pretty maid be true

Through all the coming year. The modern loving cup is said to be reflex of the New Year wassail bowl. All the poetry of the so called good old time was not as bad as the above, however. Sweet Robert Herrick lived in that boister ous time, and no bard quite equals him in catching the pastoral spirits of those reckless days, neither has any poet por-trayed the images and conceits of merry England as she was two centuries ago with so sweet a truth. Though he did sing wantonly of the wassail kiss, he was musi-

Herrick has sung many of the customs of the time. One little stanza we find among his melodious numbers fitly con-cludes our sketch, and who is there that cannot say "amen" to it on New Year's day:

O sweet child Christ who from thy stall Bring'st in thy blood a balm that shall Be the best New Year's gift to all.

The Age of Trees.

The age of trees has been under discussion for some time past in the scientific journals. The giant "red woods" of the Pacific slope are often assumed to be at least five thousand years old. One which was twenty-five feet in diameter and three hundred feet in height was shown by actual count to be one thousand one hundred and forty-seven years of age by its rings. Historically, the famous Bo tree of Ann-radhapura Ceylon likely holds the record. It was planted in the year 288 B. C., being a slip of the tree under which Sakya-Muni became a Buddha. Literary texts numbering twenty-five or more acurately trace it down to the present day. At present the trunk is surrounded and supported by masonry, and the branches which extend beyond the enclosure are supported by solid props. To this tree journey each year pilgrims who deposit offerings of fruit and flowers on the altars under its mighty branches.

Mary, a little nine year old daughter of James Aitkin, of Morrisdale mines, was drowned on Monday evening in the reservoir near that place. She and a little boy were skating on the ice, and thought-lessly want too near the point the lessly want too near the point the less of the les lessly went too near the point that feeds the reservoir where the ice was very thin, going down and drowning before assistance could be rendered.

She was placed on the 100,000. table at 3:15 o'clock, and within three minutes she was in an hypnotic state. Her pulse ran from 74 to 114, and her temperature was raised and lowered. Insensible to pain she showed her sensibility to heat and cold. The moment she felt the hot water touch her body she complained that it was too hot. Such proved to be the case.

After the operation Mrs. Stewart tried to describe her feelings. She said she felt the hypnotic influence come over her and the fear that she would suffer pass away.

As she saw the knife cut into her flesh she said there was a peculiar sensation, not unlike a tickling feeling. What eemed most strange to her was the sewing with the peculiar shaped needle. She felt it pierce her flesh and the stitches being nade, but could not understand why that had to be. She tried to reason it out, but could not keep her mind on it long enough to come to any conclusion. Among the physicians who attended the operation was Dr. J. Gartenstein, of Philadelphia. The operation was performed by H. L. Mahin. The operation was an bdominal one.

Although probably 250 veterau employes of the Pennsylvania lines will be retired the begining of the new year in accordance with the pension plan, yet this is a small number as compared with the army that will have to go within the next eight

The actress retired to her room about 11 o'clock.

About 2 o'clock the people in the hotel were awakened by the woman's screams, followed almost immediately by two shots. While the door of the room was being forced, another shot was heard. Metzgar's body was lying against the door and that of the woman was lying near the bed. No reason is known for the tragedy, as the couple had no trouble that any members of the company knew of, other than that on Monday Metzgar tried to persuade the woman to quit the stage and go home with him, but this she refused to do. Senate Tears House Measure to Pieces and Prepares

WASHINGTON, Dec. 31 .- The sub-committee of the senate committee on military affairs to-day completed its work upon the army reorganization bill, and late this afternoon its action was endorsed by the full committee.

The bill will be reported to the Senate to-morrow. The bill is a complete substitute for the House bill. The House canteen provision was changed so as to permit the sale of beer at the canteens. This exception was made by omitting the word "beer" from the prohibited articles. The new bill continues the rank of major general to General Corbin so long as he may serve as adjutant general, but reduces the rank afterward to brigadier general. The maximum strength of the army is fixed at 100,000 men. A provision is inserted in connection with the provision for the enlistment of Filipinos, which provides that when in his opinion the conditions in the Philippine Islands justify such action the President is authorized to enlist natives Mrs. Stewart Was Forty-Two Minutes on the Opera- of those islands for service in the army to be organized as scouts, with such officers For forty-two minutes Mrs. M. # Cudahy Gets Another Message

E. A. Cudahy, the millionaire packer, of Omaha, Neb., has received a second communication from the men who kidnaped his son. This time, as formerly, the letter contains a threat, and says in substance that unless he withdraws his offer of $25,-000 reward for the arrest and conviction of each of the three bandits they will kidnap another of his children.

The letter refers to the failure of the police to get anything like a tangible clue as to the identity of the kidnapers, scoffs at the idea of Pat Crowe being one of them mentious the case with which the "first job was pulled off," and concludes by saying that if Mr. Cudaby is as wise as he showed himself in the first instant be will comply with the request and withdraw the rewards at once. This letter was found by a servant of the Cudahy household in the yard of the house. It is written on the same kind of yellow paper as the first and evidently by the same person. Mr. Cudahy twrned the letter over to Chief of Police Donahue. He says he has not withdrawn the reward, nor will he do so.
