THINGS ABOUT TOWN AND COUNTY

William H. Cain, of this place, has been granted a pension of $10.00 per month.

Former assistant postmaster Thomas Howley is laid up with the grip at his home on Bishop street.

L. C. Wetzel has rented a house on Seventh and Laurel streets in Philipsburg and will move to that place about Feb. 1st.

The ladies of the Lutheran church will serve an oyster supper in the W. C. T. U. rooms on Thursday evening, February 7th.

Word has come from the western penitentiary to the effect that James Connelly is ill in the prison hospital with appendicitis.

John R. Holter, of Howard, a soldier in Co. F, 51st Penna. Inf. during the Civil war, has been granted a pension of $8 per month.

Mrs. Jennie M. Jackson has been granted a pension of $15 per month for the late Lieut. Geo. L. Jackson. She received $84 back pay.

Winter looks like the real thing now, yet only ten days ago people were loafing about in the warm sunshine as if it had been a May day.

Councilman J. W. Houser, of east Bishop street, fell on the ice in front of Nagley's furniture store, Monday evening, and broke his right arm.

Among the many people who are ill in town are Miss Kate Hewes, Jno. F. Harrison and David Harshberger. The two former have grip and the latter pneumonia.

The rural mail delivery in Ferguson township is proving a great success and the farmers along the route are very much pleased with the workings of the system thus far.

Mrs. John L. Kurtz of Curtin street, tripped and fell down the stairs of her home a few days ago, injuring her spine so that it is feared she will be permanently crippled.

If you have ever listened to the delightful music of the Coleville band you will certainly feel like patronizing their concert in the opera house next Tuesday night.

The company that presented "The Real Widow Brown" at Garman's, Monday night, was inferior in every way to the one that gave the initial performance of the pleasing comedy in this place.

Don't forget the afternoon meeting in the Y. M. C. A. Sunday. It will be led by J. Kennedy Johnston Esq. and you are cordially invited to it, as well as to the Bible reading in the morning at nine thirty o'clock.

Mrs. Lousia Bush fell on the sidewalk near P. P. Anderson's residence, on North Allegheny street, Thursday evening, sustaining painful injuries. She was returning from the library party at Mrs. Reeder's.

We are very sorry to learn that Wm. B. Mingle Esq., of the Centre Hall banker, is not enjoying the best of health. He has been troubled with dyspepsia lately and any person who has personal knowledge of that nerve-racking trouble will sympathize with him.

The disgraceful acts of drunken habits of the gallery continue to mar the pleasure of every one at Garman's opera house. Just why the management tolerates such things to any extent at all we are at a loss to comprehend, for they are certainly hurting the business of the house.

Whatever is said of burgess Blanchard's effort to detect the man who assaulted women on Linn street he must be given credit for having the courage of his convictions and displaying a determination to suppress crime in Bellefonte, which is far more than some of his predecessors have done.

The tenant house on the S. C. Bathgate farm, near Lemont, was totally destroyed by fire on Tuesday night of last week. The tenant, a Mr. Holderman, had just moved out that morning. The origin is supposed to have been accidental. Mr. Bathgate had a small insurance.

Supt. S. E. Finegan, of Morris' line operations along Buffalo-run, has been forced to reduce his working crews owing to the impossibility to work the quarries to their capacity during this weather. He says it was particularly hard on the men on Monday and Tuesday.

At the annual meeting of Group 6 of the Pennsylvania Bankers' Association, held at Tyrone last week John P. Harris, of this place, was made president, and F. K. Lukenbach, of Philipsburg, secretary. The group comprises the bankers of Blair, Bedford, Cambria, Clearfield, Centre and Huntingdon counties.

Will Larimer, manager of the Palace livery, feed and exchange stables, in this place, is prouder than ever of his private driving horse "Sport." Charley Larimer, Will's son, drove "Sport" to a sleighing party over at the Old Fort, on Monday night and on the return he got into a snow bank and when Charley got out to help him out "Sport" knew best how to do it himself and sported off towards home, arriving here without having lost as much as a hitching strap. Charley came home on a sled later.

A FATAL WRECK BELOW THE NAIL WORKS.—Two engines on the Bald Eagle Valley division of the P. R. R. ran together at the big turn, just below the nail works, about 8 o'clock Monday morning and a few moments later the dead body of Charles William Borman was lifted out of the wreckage.

Engine 479, known as the Bellefonte yard shifter, conductor Joseph Kelleher; Claude Thompson, engineer, and John Nolan, fireman, had stopped at the nail works siding to put in a car, and was dropping on down to the siding to Morris' gap quarries, where a car was to be placed for the chain works. They were going at a right smart speed, head on, and were just about to strike the big curve around the end of the mountain when fireman Nolan saw another engine speeding towards them, not 200 feet away. He shouted, "My God, look there coming," and dived headlong through the cab window. The warning was none too soon for engineer Thompson, for he had barely time to reverse his lever and roll out the window on his side, before there was a deafening crash, the grinding and smashing of heavy irons and timbers, the hissing of steam from broken pipes and then an instant of awful silence, as once broken by the cries of startled men.

479 had plowed into engine 1499, which was drawing the valley work train up to the Bellefonte round house for a load of ashes. The engines came together with such force as to almost completely telescope them. Pilots, headlights and stacks were gone and the broken ends of their boilers were jammed into each other as tight as if they had all been one piece. The tenders of both engines were tilted up as if they had tried to go on over top of them when they stopped and that of engine 1499 had plowed clear through the caboose of the work train, which had been thrown crosswise on the track. The position of the caboose would indicate that the trains went together with considerable force, as it was tilted completely off the rails and thrown crosswise against the end of the tilted tender and smashed into kindling wood. The long tool car immediately behind the caboose was derailed and careened over the embankment, with only the coupling of the cars behind it holding it from rolling into the creek. There were a number of other cars on the work train but none of them left the rails.

On the engine of the work train was Mal. Parsons, the engineer; Edward Woodring, the fireman, and Charles Borman, a crew laborer who had walked out onto the engine after leaving Milesburg so as to be able to wave to his sister who lives near the tracks somewhere in that vicinity. They were all unconscious of their danger until it was too late to save themselves. They were on their engine when the crash came. Neither Parsons nor Woodring can tell exactly how they did get out, but poor Borman was not so lucky. He was in the act of putting a shovel of coal into the firebox and was crushed under the tons of coal that slid forward when the tender tilted. His feet were pushed into the open door of the firebox and it was the agony of their burning that caused him to cry out several times before he expired. His head was crushed into an unrecognizable condition, but otherwise he seemed very little hurt.

The most marvelous feature of the wreck was the fact that there were forty work men in the caboose and tool cars and not one of them was seriously hurt. The caboose was reduced to kindling wood and as it appeared after the collision it seemed impossible that any human being could have been in it and escaped, yet there were eight. Fireman Nolan struck the snow on the side of the mountain and was not hurt at all. Engineer Thompson fell to the side of the track and rolled into the water; seeing the shower of head-lights and other debris falling about him he scrambled to his feet and ran clear across the stream into the fair grounds. Fireman Woodring was painfully hurt about the head and shoulders. He was taken to his home in Tyrone on day express.

Emanuel Ravenstine, of Tyrone, a laborer, had a deep gash cut in his throat and was bruised about the body. George Garber, laborer, Tyrone, head and side cut. C. William Borman resided with his mother and brother at 1463 Logan avenue. He was born in Snyder county. The family lived in Bellefonte for some time, and thirteen years ago they removed to Tyrone where they have since resided. The unfortunate young man had been employed as a laborer on the wreck train crew for over eight years past. The deceased was aged 28 years, 4 months and fifteen days. Surviving him are his mother, Mrs. E. Eleanor Borman; two brothers, John H. and David Borman, of Tyrone; and two sisters, Mrs. John A. Haupt, of Tyrone, and Mrs. J. O. Noll, of Milesburg. He is also survived by three step-brothers, Jonathan, of Philadelphia, and Lincoln and Emerson, of Snyder county; and one step-sister, Mrs. Harvey Lutz, of Bellefonte.

The funeral services were conducted at his late home by J. D. W. Deavor, Ph. D., and Rev. F. L. Bergstresser at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon. Interment in Tyrone cemetery.

No cause for the accident is assigned. The shifter crew were clearly running under orders, since they were not outside of the Bellefonte yard limit in which they have right of way and are only ordered to look out for regularly scheduled trains. Conductor Kelleher said that he was at the station at 7 o'clock and heard nothing of the work train coming in here.

The work train was under orders to run into Bellefonte special, which it was doing but the question arises as to whether the engineer had his train under full control, as it is his duty to have it when entering a yard limit. Of course the point at which the collision occurred is one at which the engineers could not possibly have seen each other until within 200 feet.

Conductor Kelleher was standing on the rear of the box car they were taking down to the Morris siding. He said the jolt was severe enough to knock his head against the end of the car and when he looked about to see what caused it Thompson was flying into the creek and the air was full of wreckage. His brakeman was with him on the car.

The road was blocked up until noon, when trains were running as usual. Mrs. Mollie L. Valentine entertained a few ladies on Monday evening. They played cards.

Fred Blanchard gave a stag dinner for a few of his friends on Monday evening. It was served at his home on east Linn street. The Ladies Aid Society of the Methodist church held a social at the parsonage last evening. Light refreshments were served.

John Harris Hoy will give a sleighing party to his country place at Rockview this evening, in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Hickok.

The Senior class of the High school had a sleighing party to Lemont on Friday night and while there were guests at the hospitable Evey home.

Miss Anna Sechler will give a dinner to night, at her home on East Linn street, in honor of Mr. and Mrs. George Mitchell, of Lemont, whose wedding last fall was one of the pleasant events of the season.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Curtin entertained a party of Bellefonte ladies and gentlemen at their home at Curtin's Works, on Wednesday evening. The guests went down in sleighs, arriving there for supper.

The Aid Society of the Bellefonte Evangelical church will serve a chicken and waffle supper in the basement of the church Feb. 8th and 9th, 1901, from 5 until 9 p. m. The public is cordially invited to patronize the supper.

Hon. A. O. Furst will lecture on the "Passion Play at Oberammergau" at State College this evening. The lecture will be given in the chapel and is for the benefit of the Ladies Aid Society of the Presbyterian church.

Sleighing parties have been extremely popular during the past few nights. Sled loads of young people have been going in all directions and the liverymen are not able to supply the demand for horses and sleighs.

The members of the Centre county bar association will "eat, drink and be merry" at the Bash house on Friday evening, February 8th. Their banquet is to promote gastronomic feats of which some of the members are already past masters.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross Anderson Hickok, of Harrisburg, were guests at a dinner given by Governor and Mrs. Stone, at the Executive mansion, Saturday evening, in honor of Dr. and Mrs. Hermanus Baer, of Somerset, nephew and niece of President McKinley.

Col. W. Fred Reynolds entertained a party of gentlemen at the Country club on Tuesday evening. Major domo Brower served them with a delicious turkey dinner. In the party were Col. Reynolds, Judge Love, Col. Reeder, John M. Dale, James Potter, John Blanchard, Harry Keller, John M. Shugert, Joseph L. Montgomery, J. Harris Hoy, and H. C. Quigley.

A farmer's institute will be held at Beech Creek on Thursday and Friday, February 7th and 8th. It will be held in Williams' hall and everyone is invited.

The "Theopians," the dramatic organization of The Pennsylvania State College, who were to have appeared here in "David Garrick" and Lend Me Five Shillings," on February 26th, have canceled their date.

The Rev. Reginald S. Radcliffe, of Harrisburg, Archdeacon of the Diocese of Central Pennsylvania, is in town assisting Rev. Geo. I. Brown, rector of St. John's Episcopal church, conduct a ten days mission. It commenced on Wednesday. Afternoon and evening services are being held, to which everyone is invited.

The teachers of the Methodist Episcopal Sunday school met at the home of Rev. W. P. Shriner, on Linn street, last Friday evening to talk over plans for a great revival of Sunday school work. Prof. M. J. Babb, the new superintendent, has taken hold with great enthusiasm and is inspiring his teachers to more earnest work. Addresses were made by Rev. Shriner, Professor Babb, W. I. Fleming, Victor Royer, H. H. Harshberger Esq., and J. P. Smith.

The annual class sleighing parties from The Pennsylvania State College to this place began on Saturday night, when the Sophomores and Seniors were here. On Monday night the Juniors and Freshmen came down and it is in the nature of a significant coincidence that the display windows of both the Mallory & Taylor and Moore photograph galleries were robbed that night. All the attractive pictures were carried away, leaving nothing but those of a few men.

REV. GEORGE PENNEPACKER PREACHED WHILE THREATENED WITH A HEMORRHAGE.—Rev. George D. Pennepacker, formerly pastor of the Methodist church of this place, but at present located at Williamsport, had a peculiar experience on Sunday, says the News of that city. He awoke about 4 o'clock in the morning with a slight headache. Having been sleeping on the right side the entire night, and feeling that a change of position would be restful, he reversed himself in bed. Instantly blood gushed from both nostrils. He hastily made his way into the bath room, where, notwithstanding the efforts of himself and Mrs. Pennepacker to stop the flow, he bled profusely for over an hour. Finally plugging was resorted to and the hemorrhage checked. Mr. Pennepacker then returned to bed and fell asleep, only to be awakened again to undergo the same distressing ordeal. He bled that time fully as long as on the first occasion and the hemorrhage was stopped in the same manner.

Although very nervous and greatly weakened from loss of blood, he was determined to occupy his pulpit, and did so. He preached one of the finest sermons of his life, and few knew that he was talking with his nose stopped with cotton and in fear and dread of a plug bursting out, to be followed by a flow of blood that would saturate everything before him. But the expected did not occur, much to the delight of the minister. No further trouble was anticipated, and, with the exception of the weakness and nervousness previously mentioned, he is undergoing no serious effects of the bleeding.

THE BOROUGH PRIMARIES.—The caucuses of the respective political parties passed off very quietly on Saturday night and tickets were named without much of a contest on the part of any one. For the Democratic nomination for poor overseer John Trafford and Daniel Eberhart were both aspirants, but their contest was conducted so fair that Mr. Eberhart has bowed gracefully to the will of the majority and will ask Mr. Trafford's friends to do something in his behalf later.

The Republicans named Sam Diehl over Wm. Clark, which was a slight miscarriage in a well laid scheme. Charles F. Cook, for borough treasurer, will have no opposition; Col. Reynolds was named for council by both sides in the North ward and Col. W. C. Heiple will have no opposition for school director in the South.

The tickets named were as follows: DEMOCRATIC OFFICE. REPUBLICAN. Jno. Trafford, Overseer-Poor; Saml. Diehl, Wm. Leibel, Assessor; S. A. Bell, Jos. Rightmire, Council; G. V. Hicklen, NORTH WARD. L. A. Shaeffer, Judge; S. B. Miller, Jno. N. Lane, Inspector; Rodger Bayard, Wm. Leibel, Assessor; S. A. Bell, W. Fred Reynolds, Council; W. Fred Reynolds, J. C. Meyer, School Director; H. C. Quigley, SOUTH WARD. Joseph McMahon, Judge; Thos. Donahy, Harry Walker, Inspector; Henry D. Brown, Thos. Howley, Assessor; W. C. Cassidy, J. M. Cunningham, Council; G. W. Sherry, C. C. Heiple, School Director.

WEST WARD. Jonth. Miller, Judge; Edw. T. Tuten, Jas. K. Barnhart, Inspector; A. V. Smith, L. H. McQuiston, Assessor; Jas. H. Rine, Oscar Wetzel, Council; Edw. Whitaker, A. V. Wagner, School Director.

Among the constables from over the county who were in town on Monday was P. C. Frank, of Potter township. Constable Frank has made quite a reputation for himself as a fearless official and his services are called upon for many of the most dangerous and intricate cases on the other side of the mountain.

J. Norris Bogle, secretary of the Jenkins Iron and Tool Co. at Howard, with his sister Miss Sara, sailed for the south of France on Saturday. Some time ago he under-went an operation for appendicitis and has never fully recovered from its effects. It is hoped that the sunny climes abroad will restore him to full vigor.

Mrs. E. A. Ives and her daughter Miss Julia, of New Haven, Conn., who have been here for the past six months visiting Mrs. Laurie and stopping at Miss Magill's, left for Philadelphia yesterday. Miss Jessie Laurie, Mrs. Ives' grand-daughter, went with them for an extended visit in Philadelphia, New Jersey and Connecticut.

From all indications the Grange is the busy organization of the county these times for the Hon. Leonard Rhone, Col. James Weaver, David M. Campbell and others of the high dignitaries have been frequent visitors here of late. Their appearance always indicates business of importance, for they are not given to unnecessary excursions.

J. W. Kepler, of Pine Grove Mills, and J. W. Sandoe, of Centre Hall, were Bellefonte visitors during the week. Both gentlemen were doing duty as jurors, but during the time they were off duty found opportunity to call on some of the many friends they have here. Mr. Kepler reports that his venerable father has been much improved in health since going to Hot Springs, Arkansas.

B. H. Arney, of Centre Hall, so much in a hurry that he could only pitch us a dollar and ran, was in town on Wednesday afternoon. Of course he wasn't running to get away from the police or from anyone else but realized that railroad trains are often very provoking and start fast on, whether you are there or not, when it is time to go and he was trying his best to get there.

H. D. Rumberger, with that same little curl in his blonde moustache and that same old smile peeping out from under it, was in town during the forepart of the week, serving as a juror and they must have considered him a very competent one, for he was challenged nearly every time he was called. You know it is an old saying that "smart men are never (1) allowed to sit on a jury." But we've been on one or two—Strange, isn't it?

Mrs. John Noll and her daughter, Miss Roberts, who have been out in Ford City, Armstrong county, since before Christmas, enjoying a visit with Mrs. VanDyke and that winsome little grand-daughter, returned home Saturday night. To join in the reunion and fittingly observe the occasion Mr. Noll stopped his work over at Alexandria and has been here all week celebrating, visiting his old haunts and getting re-acquainted with his friends.

John F. Miller, of Ferguson township, and A. W. Geist, who farms the Miles Gray farm in Patton, Twp., were among the jurors who were in town this week. In speaking about the rural mail delivery recently inaugurated in west Ferguson Mr. Miller states that he thinks it will be a great success. He says that they now get Philadelphia daily papers about 10 o'clock on the morning of publication and have about as prompt a mail service as we do here in town. Mr. Geist is going to give up farming in Centre county in the spring and move to Altoona.

Friday and Saturday didn't seem to be particularly busy days in town yet there were a great many strangers on the streets. Among them we recognized A. F. Hall, of Fleming; G. N. Wolf, of Spring Mills; D. H. Krebs, of Pine Grove; Geo. W. Gates, of Nitany; J. A. Hoy, merchant and station agent at Wadley; Chas. Snyder, of Ferguson township who came down to bid on the Ross farm that was sold on Saturday; Wm. M. Hall, of Fleming; Chas. Lucas, of Runville; and Geo. W. Homan, of Pine Grove. Of course this doesn't begin to include all who were here, but they represent the most prominent ones we noticed. It was probably the fact that there was the first sleighing of the season that made the streets appear so lively and everyone in a good humor.

A mischievous boy with a snow ball wrecked the glass sign which directs patrons to Cruse's cigar store in the Bush house.

News Purely Personal

Miss Mary H. Linn is in Altoona visiting Miss Anna Baker. She went Monday.

Wm. P. Duncan, banker and coal operator of Philipsburg, was an attendant at court during the early part of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Gephart were two of the many travelers who left here yesterday morning for Philadelphia.

Thos. H. Hill, of Philadelphia, is here on a short visit to his wife's mother and brothers, the Richards of east Linn street.

Miss Rose Dushing, of Willowbank street, returned from a visit to Philadelphia and New York friends, on Saturday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Green, of Altoona, spent Sunday in town at their parental homes, the Greens of Water street and O'Brien's of Logan.

Mrs. Barbara Rankin, who has been in Philadelphia and Harrisburg for the past month returned to her home in this place on Monday evening.

Al. S. Garman, proprietor of the Garman house in Tyrone, was in town on Monday for a few hours on his way to Philadelphia to attend the automobile show.

Mrs. Edward Willink, of New Orleans, is in town visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Campbell, of Water street. She expects to remain a month or more.

Thomas Hutchinson, of Williamsport, with his little daughter Margery, spent a few days recently with his mother, Mrs. Margaret Hutchinson, of Howard street.

Mac Curtin, of Pittsburg, was in town for a few days the latter part of last week. He was here visiting his parents during a short vacation he had from his work in the Westinghouse shops.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross Anderson Hickok, of Harrisburg, are expected here to spend Sunday at the Hastings home. Miss Adaline Harris, who has been visiting them for some time, will return with them.

D. A. Booser, Centre Hall's enterprising liveryman and one of the progressive young men of that place, was in town on Wednesday; having come over to attend the trial of the case of the Bible estate against Centre Hall Boro. for water privileges.

Miss Mary Thomas, whose visit here was the cause of many of the pleasant little social gayeties which have distinguished the past month, returned to her home in Philadelphia Tuesday. Her sister, Mrs. Isaac Mitchell, accompanied her for a two week's stay.

J. D. Miller, of Hubersburg, who was an aspirant for treasurership honors two years ago, was in town until Wednesday evening serving as a grand juror. Mr. Miller is one of the active Democrats of Walker township and makes friends wherever he goes.

Harry Robb, of Pittsburg, who gave up his position as driver of the Meese grocery wagon to become a locomotive engineer, is here on a visit to his father, Erastus Robb. Harry's ambition is being gratified, for he is already a freeman and is getting along even nicer than he expected himself.

Among the constables from over the county who were in town on Monday was P. C. Frank, of Potter township. Constable Frank has made quite a reputation for himself as a fearless official and his services are called upon for many of the most dangerous and intricate cases on the other side of the mountain.

ALL THINGS COME AROUND TO HIM WHO WAITS.—The beautiful new art rooms of Berenice Moore, in Crider's Exchange, are now open for the inspection of the public and for business. Miss Moore is the daughter of the late J. W. Moore, of this place, whose ability as an artist will be remembered by many of the town and county. In his young days he was a student of the Academy of Fine Arts, in Philadelphia, and afterwards worked with the well-known firm of Gutekunst, in that city, and renowned artists in other cities.

Miss Moore will be assisted by her mother, whose success in this line cannot be questioned by her former patrons.

Have you ever wondered, when listening to the frequent free concerts the Coleville band gives on our streets, how the boys manage to pay for their music. They invariably have something new to delight the public with and take pleasure in playing it, without being coaxed or paid. In fact, all summer long, for a number of years, they have given at least one and sometimes two concerts a week on Bellefonte streets, for which they have charged nothing. They are going to get new uniforms now and would like you to help it along by patronizing their concert and variety show at Garman's on Tuesday night, February 5th. Seats are on sale at Parrish's drug store and a pleasing entertainment is guaranteed.

Last evening the Logen Engine Co. gave the first of a series of small dances they intend holding during the winter. They are to be informal little affairs and purely for the social pleasure of the members of the company and their ladies. J. M. Cunningham, Jas. Harris and Robert Montgomery comprised the committee for last evening's dance.
