ADRIFT.

Thou and I, and the hissing wind, Shrilling across the night, Surge of waters beneath our b Spindrift, flying white; Sickly gleams of a yellow moon Pale in an inky sky, Wild o'er the howling of the gale Echoes the seabird's cry.

Bright eyes stung by the angry spray, Cheeks that are wet with brine, Small hands clinging within my own. Brave little heart of mine. Sweet! we are happy, you and I, Daring the Fates above,
Thrilled with the swing of the plunging foam

Danger and life and love Silent the voice that cried "Return!" Hushed is the parting wail; High in the rigging sings the breeze, Hard strains the swelling sail. Leaps our bark to the freshening wind, Merrily thus shall we Drift to the shores of Shadowland. Over an unknown sea.

In Nuts There is Much Nourishment.

speaking, a nut, but is more like a pea. However, as it is popularly considered a nut, it seems fitting to discuss it here.

The United States is said to produce annually 4,000,000 bushels of peanuts. The nutritive value of the peanut is high, and as it is so cheap it seems strange that more housekeepers do not take advantage of the many delicious combinations which can be

Some experiments have been made in the German army in which bread has been made, from peanut flour. Peanut oils have been made some of which are said to be fair substitutes for olive oil. Some of the most delicious dishes may be made from peanuts, such as peanut cookies, peanut salads, peanut loaf, sandwiches made with peanut preparations almost too various to mention.

A nut long used in Germany is the sweet almond, with which every good cook is familiar. The peculiar, bland flavor of this who use it in all their pastry cooking, sometimes in soups and in many desserts and candies almond paste is used.

The salted almonds which have been so long used on our tables may have been somewhat superseded by the brown unsalted almonds, which are most delicate. Unfortunately almonds are usually quite expensive in this country.

In Spain and southern France chestnuts are a staple article of diet.

Every year large amounts of chestnuts are gathered by the peasants, ground into meal and stored for Winter use. In the United States the chestnut is coming into prominence as a food; formerly French dishes made of chestnuts were considered beyond the reach of most households, but as French chestnuts have grown cheaper and are now obtainable in all the larger places their use is more extended. Chestnut stuffing for turkeys has long been in use here, but some of the more palatable purees, sauces and other combinations are little known.

Chestnuts are better if cooked; uncooked, they may cause severe indigescakes and confectionery.

The butternut and black walnut have many warm friends, the former makes a cious foundation for ice cream.

Both of these nuts contain large quantities of oil and are considered rather hard to digest. The hazlenut is the American filbert; it is much used in candy making and makes a good salad when combined with other things. The hickory nut is a great favorite in New England, it makes a piquant addition to mince pies and a candy made of maple sugar and hickory nuts is good enough to make one long for it years after eating.

We all know of many ways of preparing the cocoanut, but how many are aware that an excellent soup is prepared from the pulp with the cocoanut milk? The Eng-lish walnut is an old friend and improves any dish where it may be used.

English walnuts with cut-up celery hearts and salt are a new relish; almost any nut could be served in this way. Brazil nuts are very oily, usually considered indigestible, but nevertheless, are highly prized as a dessert nut.

As nuts are a concentrated form of food it would be better not to serve them after a heavy dinner, as is the custom now. TO BE PREPARED-For war is the surest way for this nation to maintain peace. That is the opinion of the wisest statesmen. multitudes are learning, and at this time, when the blood is sure to be loaded with impurities and to be weak and sluggish, millions begin to take Hood's Sarsaparilla, which purifies, enriches and vitalizes the blood, expels all disease germs, creates a good appetite, gives strength and energy and puts the whole system in a Mysterious "White Death."

Fearful Adventure of Tourists in a Colorado Ice Fog. Of all the natural phenomena peculiar to the Rocky mountain region none is more strange or terrible than the mysterious storm known to the Indians as "the white death." Scientific men have never yet had an opportunity of investigating it, because it comes at the most unexpected times and may keep away from a certain locality for Well-read men who have been through it say that it is really a frozen fog. But where the fog comes from is more than anyone can say. This phenomenon occurs most frequently in the northern part of Colorado, in Wyoming and occasionally in Montana.

About two years ago a party of three women and two men were crossing North park in a wagon in February. The air was bitterly cold, but dry as a bone and motionless. The sun shone with almost startling brilliancy. As the five people drove along over the crisp snow they did not experience the least cold, but really felt most compretable and rether enjoyed the trip.

Suddenly one of the women put her hand up to her face and remarked that something had stung her. Then other members of the party did the same thing, although not a sign of an insect could be seen. Wormwood Flends in France. Absinthe is Transforming Thousands of Workmen In-

As whisky is the curse of Scotland, abunadulterated whisky is slow and relatively harmless in its effects, absinthe is a deadly poison and exacts a terribly rapid retribution. Pass along the Paris boulevards any evening at the "absinthe hour" and remark the beverage in three fourths butter, cakes, candies, soups and other of the glasses before the men sitting outside the cases. You will know it by its pungent odor of aniseed.

The habitual absinthe drinker, though as a rule he confines himself to one "Per nut is most highly praised by the Germans nod" at a sitting, is not content with one per day. Before dejeuner, during the afternoon, before dinner and in the evening after work is over, absinthe is the favorite drink with thousands of workmen in Paris. What is the result? Not so much that they get hopelessly intoxicated as that they gradually become besotted and brutalized, and finally, when the insidious, relentless poison has finished its work, lose their rea-son and end as criminals or madmen. What is true of the Paris workman-indeed of the workman in all large French towns—is doubly true of the Paris loafer. Constantly worshipping at the shrine of the wormwood fiend, he invariably succumbs in the end. and when a man has be slave to absinthe there is nothing of which he not capable. Of course Frenchmen also consume other varieties of alcohol. Rum, brandy, vermouth and numerous similar and dissimilar digestievs are freely taken. The Parisian seems to be always drinking, yet he seldom gets drunk.

Trust Raises Prices.

The advance of $2 per ton in the price of wire products, announced in Pittsburg on Wednesday by the American Steel and Wire company, caught jobbers with low stocks. An official of the company said the change was made because of the excel-lent demand and bright prospects for spring. In the West wire will be in great demand, and building operations will be on a scale that will increase demands for nails. The change is the first made since April 23, 1900, when President Gates cut April 23, 1900, when President Gates cut prices $10 a ton, and at once closed ten of the mills, causing a temporary panic. The cut nail pool will advance its prices to meet those of the wire combine. Cut nails are now $1.95 a keg. They will go up 10 cents. The wire combine on Wednesday gave out the new rates as follows: Wire nails to jubbers in car load lots, $2.30 per keg, an increase of 10 cents; to jobbers in less than car load lots, $2.35; to retailers in car load lots 5 cents is added, and 10 cents additional is added to retailers who buy less than car load lots. Plain barb wire is advanced from $2.50 to $2.60 per hundred pounds to jobbers, and gal-vanized barb wire from $2.80 to $2.90. Plain smooth wire, which has cost $2.15. goes up 10 cents, and galvanized smooth is increased from $2.55 to $2.65. Wire nails go up from $2.48 to $2.58 at New York.

Sore Distress in Nome.

Creat Majority of Men Are Unemployed and III-Federal Help Proposed.

Eighty per cent of the men in the Cape Nome district, according to the declaration of Dr. Rininger, one of the physicians of the Nome City Hospital, are without work and without money, absolutely dependent upon charity. Three-fourths of those out of work, the doctor told Senator Mason, of Illinois, are sick, so that the conditions in the mining camp are appalling.

"Men out of work walk the streets until they are nearly starved," said the doctor, "when they fall, they roll into the gutter and they are so near dead that they can't even raise their heads. Then they are taken to the hospital. This institution, when I started for Washington, was full to overflowing and the treasury was nearly empty. It costs $4 or $5 a day to support a sick man, and we cannot keep under the strain. The men come there from every party of the earth." Senator Mason, after hearing the doctor's story, introduced a bill appropriating $25,-000 for the care of the indigent sick. He will try to have it passed immediately.

Eagle Steals a Boy.

Toney Giovanni, two years old, was seized and carried off by an immense gray eagle on Wednesday while the child was playing in the yard of his home in a Denver, Col., suburb. The child's screams brought the father and two other men to the door of their home in time to see the sinthe is the curse of France. And while bird and child disappear over the bluff of the Platte river.

The men gave chase and saw the eagle alight on a small island covered with undergrowth, half a mile from the child's home. When they arrived at the island the bird attempted to rise again with the boy, but his clothing caught in a bush and the eagle seeing the men close at hand drop ped his prey and flew away.
