It was a combination train made up of an engine under charge of engineer Jerre Nolan, three coal cars, a box car and one coach. The train passed Alto, which is the old Thompson stock farm, at a speed of about eighteen miles an hour only and when the curve just south of that place was reached the rear coal car left the rails, spreading them so that the box car and coach went off also. The cars ran along on the ties for quite a distance before the coupling of the coach broke and it careened off down over the bank into the hurt. Ollie Campbell, manager of the Bell telephone exchange here, was bruised slightly.

Frank Crosthwaite, the company's agent at State College, was hit on the head by a cushion, but it was soft-the cushion-and he wasn't hurt much.

Dr. George W. Atherton, president of The Pennsylvania State College, was in the baggage compartment at the time the car went over, but escaped unhurt.

The accident delayed traffic on the road for several hours.

--- "The American Girl." as presented at Garman's on Tuesday night by A. Q. Scammon's Co. headed by George Hall was about as clever and neat a comedy as has been seen here this winter. The play has a dash about it that is delightful and yet there is a touch of pathos, very prettily brought out by the work of "Prince Roy" and the "Little Lady." It is one of those plays in which there is no particular star, every member of the cast being of stellar qualities. "The American Girl" was deserving of a crowded house.
