They admit that they attempted to rob the bank and fired several shots at the cashier and other attaches in their efforts to escape after they secured the mon-ey in the vanlt. Neither will tell, though, who fired the shot that caused the cashier's death, or where they secured the dyna-mite found in their satchel.

Breezy Methods of American Salesmen Resented in France.

Successful trade with Frenchmen is to a large extent dependent on a question of manners. For this reason an American salesman has much to learn here, says a Paris correspondent of the New York Sun. Although, like the United States, France is a Republic, although her motto is "Liberty, Equality and Brotherhood," the breezy freedom of individual manners characteristic of the United States is a thing unknown here and is very apt to be misunknown here and is very apt to be mis-taken either for impudence or lack of breed-ing. The French remain as courtly and effusively polite as when a King lived at Versailles. Their Republicanism is all political, and even there its sincerity is open to suspicion. It in no way enters in-to cheir social and commercial relations. One enters a show here as though it more One enters a shop here as though it were a One enters a shop here as though it were a private drawing room, one salutes a shop-man at his counter, a clerk behind his desk, with the same deference as an Eug-lishman would have shown to the late Prince of Wales; a gentleman leaving his club, a Minister of State his bureau, in-variable returns the solute of the fer variably returns the salute of the footman in the ante-chamber or the hall by remov-ing his hat; even schoolboys have been seen politely bowing to one another and speaking of each other as "Monsieur Charles" and "Monsieur Jacques." Where this outward and superficial polite-ness is so general as to be practically univer-rest is the analysis of the the series.

sal it may well be imagined that the easycome, easy-go American commercial traveler greatly resembles the proverbial bull in the china shop. The agonized Frenchman whose tenderest feelings are being mo-mentarily outraged has but one desire—to get rid of him as soon as possible.

Facts Abont Easter.

Easter will fall on Sunday, April 7th. Easter may come as early as March 22nd, aud as late as April 25th. It depends as every one knows on the phase of the moon. Easter Sunday is always the Sunday that follows full moon immediately following the spring equinox, March 21st. If the moon falls on Sunday, Easter, is the next Sunday following. The latest date upon which the day may fall is April 25th. In Sunday following. The latest date upon which the day may fall is April 25th. In 1761 and 1818 Easter fell on March 22nd, 1 but that will not occur again in this or the next century. In 1886 it fell on April 25th, and will do so again in 1913.

The ship subsidy measure, that has been deferred but not abandoned, will cost $180,-000,000 more, to say nothing of the lesser

Mistaken Terms,

The following are a few mistaken terms which mean anything but what they seem to mean.

Cayenne pepper, for instance, is prepared not from a pepper plant, but from capsicum. Jerusalem artichokes do not come from Jerusalem. The plant is not even a native of the Holy Land.

Turkeys do not come from Turkey. The bird is a native of America.

Camel's hair brushes are made from the soft, bushy tail of the common squirrel. German silver is not silver at all, but an alloy of various of the baser metals, which was invented in China and used there for centuries. An injustice is done to Ger-many in calling the cheap, but useful, wooden-cased clocks she has so long pro-duced Dutch. The mistake arises from the German word for German—"Deutsch." Cork legs are not constructed of cork, neither did they come from the city of that name. The usual material for a cork leg is weeping willow covered with some the

An Absent-minded Minister.

Some few weeks ago a noted minister went to one of the local railroad stations to meet a friend. Upon entering the station and looking around, he saw an elegantly dressed woman, who apparently was about to board a train.

to board a train. She was carrying a number of parcels in her arms, and, besides, had with her three or four children that with great difficulty she was trying to help along. The clergy-man approached the lady and offered his assistance, which she accepted, afterward thanking him very graciously for the kind-ness.

The train moved out of sight and he went on his way thinking of the endless opportunies one has for doing good, when all at once he discovered he was carrying a beautiful silk umbrella with pearl and gold trimmings.

Since that time the reverend gentleman has very little to say on the subject of "Courtesy to Strangers." And the umbrella is still unused.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.
