During the electric storm Saturday, a bolt of lightning struck a walnut tree near Mrs. Thomas Williams' house. Miss Maud Williams was sitting on the porch with a pair of scissors in her hand. The shock almost paralyzed her as well as caused a slight wound in her hand by the scissors.

Col. Stewart's front yard at State College was a most attractive spot in the beginning of the week. Daniel Stewart and Prof. Surface had been rambling over old Tussey mountains, above Boalsburg, where they captured a four foot rattler that they brought home in a bag and placed it on exhibition in a cage. With its seven rattles it made lots of music for passers-by.

Last Wednesday was the scene of a pleasant gathering at the home of Samuel Coble, near Linden Hall. The house was crowded with old and young folks who rallied there to gladden the good heart of his wife as she has been in rather poor health for the past year. It was her forty-third anniversary. Her maiden name was Julia Page. She was born on the old Page homestead near-by and has passed her entire life in that neighborhood. Twenty-four years ago she married Samuel Coble, and five of their children, are living. Mrs. Coble is of a gentle disposition, generous and kind hearted, which has endeared her to a wide circle of friends who sincerely hope for her good health and a long lease of life. After an elegant dinner was served the guests spent the evening in social chat.

Sunday evening was the 12th anniversary of the Epworth League, and it was fittingly observed in the M. E. church by appropriate exercises, followed by the installation of the officers elect for the ensuing year.

It certainly would be a charitable act and one much appreciated if the town's policemen, (?) would clear Crissman's corner, of the loafing element and permit people who have to pass along this part of town to go unmolested. It is a disgrace to the town.

Rumor has it that one of our "sports" actually fainted in the street when his girl, the girl he was so sure of, announced to him that his place had been filled by another more successful suitor, and that he was no longer a welcome visitor at her house. How sad!

Books, Magazines Etc.

CALENDAR "K" A ROMANCE OF THE GREAT WHEAT CORNER.—Wheat speculation, love and business are the motives of a great serial story by Merwin Webster, author of "The Short Line War," which will be begun in the Saturday Evening Post of May 25th. Ex-President Cleveland will contribute to the following issue (June 1st) an able paper on "The Waste of Public Money." In this article Mr. Cleveland sounds warning note against National extravagance and the criminally reckless expenditure of public money.

People are still talking about the excellence of the May issue of Everybody's Magazine. The June number is even better. It contains a variety of articles of first-rate interest and has nothing within its covers that is not able and cleverly written. There are ideas in the magazine, but the style is not sacrificed to material. Nor are the illustrations inferior to those of the most expensive monthlies. In a brief period Everybody's has come to the front of the "ten centers" and it is prepared to maintain that position by the publication of vivid and original matter on a series of topics as wide as the world.

The June number starts off with A. Badeloff's "Along up Mt. Katahdin," illustrated with the author's fine photographs; L. O. Howard writes of "Fighting Pests with Insect Allies." Capital articles are Eugene P. Lyle's "Shooting away Hall Storms," and Maximilian Foster's "Photographing the Sun," in which he tells how and why astronomers study the sun's corona. No one has higher authority to speak about Christian Science than Thompson Jay Hudson, who writes on the subject. Dr. Arthur MacDonald, of Washington, contributes a series of interesting facts on "The Study of Children."

There are also stories by Maximilian Foster, Charles Major, and Theodore Waters, poetry by Andrew Lang, W. J. Lampton, and Howard Weeden. "Jocelyn Cheshire," the serial by Sarah Beaumont Kennedy, is concluded. In "The Making of a Country Home," J. P. Murray employs his hero and heroine garden making. Altogether this is a particularly readable number.
