Finally its creation was formerly decreed and Rev. Eugene A. Garvey, of Pittston, was chosen as the see's first incumbent. The police arrangements at the city hall where Leon F. Czolgosz was to receive his sentence for the murder of President Mc-Kinley, were even more stringent than during the trial of the assassin. The members of the Catholic societies, according to program previously arranged, turned out to escort Dr. Garvey to the pro-Half an hour before the time announced for the opening of court the court room was filled and the doors were locked. Following the installation a number of addresses were made by priests, all of which were listened to with marked attention by the large audience. The arrangements for the installation and reception were well devised and executed and the new bishop begins his career as such under most favorable auspices. C. A. Wood, the only layman who gave an address, extended to the new bishop a hearty welcome.

Assassin Collapsed.

Czolgosz, President McKinley's murderer, in the custody of Sheriff Caldwell of Erie county, and twenty-one deputies arrived in Auburn, New York, at 3:15 Friday afternoon. The prison is only about fifty yards from the depot. Await-ing the arrival of the train there was a crowd of about 200 people. Either for fear of the crowd, which was not very demonstrative, or from sight of the prison, Czolgosz's legs gave out and two of the deputies were compelled to practically carry the man into the prison. Inside the gate his condition became worse and he was dragged up the stairs into the main hall. He was placed in a sitting position on the bench while the handcuffs were being removed, but he fell over and moaned and groaned, evincing the most abject terror.

As soon as the handcuffs were unlocked the man was dragged into the principal keeper's office. As in the case of all prisoners the officers immediately proceeded to strip him and put on a new suit of clothes. strip him and put on a new suit of ciontes. During this operation Czolgosz cried and yelled, making the prison corridors echo with evidence of his terror. #### Asia a Field for Gold Hunters.

Twenty-five millions of dollars in gold are annually produced and put into circulation by the miners who operate in the little-known regions of Eastern Russia and Siberia. To many this fact will doubtless come as more or less of a surprise. For some reason, while Africa, Australia, South America and Alaska have received a large share of the world's attention during the past 50 years, the vast territory of Central and Northern Asia have remained un-noticed and unexplored. It is not too much to say, although the statement may be received with considerable incredulity that it is only within recent time that Russia herself has paid much attention to
