THINGS ABOUT TOWN AND COUNTY

—Tomorrow the great State-Lehigh game will be played at Williamsport. Are you going down?

—The Bellefonte football team will go to Altoona tomorrow to line up against the Three As of that city.

—Dr. C. C. Van Valin tumbled off his bicycle Sunday evening up at Unionville and dislocated his right arm at the elbow.

—Miss May Sprague, of New York, trimmer at Mrs. Yeager's millinery on Allegheny street, is quite ill at Mrs. Yeager's home.

—The first snow of the season fell in Bellefonte on Tuesday night. Wednesday morning the ground was white and a regular blizzard raging.

—Curtis B. Stover, of Bellefonte, and Miss Mary J. Wyland, of Milesburg, were married at the home of the bride's parents in that place Tuesday evening.

—Rev. George Stanley West, pastor of the Baptist church at Eagleview, recently held a service at which a $800 mortgage against the church was burned.

—The next Methodist conference for Central Pennsylvania will convene in Shamokin on March 26th. It will be presided over by Bishop John M. Walden.

—Edward Schofield, 16th U. S. Reg. Inf., has written his father that he expects to sail for home on January 17th. He has served three years in the Philippines.

—The friends of Will Keichline in this place will be pleased to learn that he has been promoted to the position of foreman in the machine department of the Tyrone foundry.

—Jas. Laws, a Philipsburg boy, who was hunting in the vicinity of Colorado mines last Thursday, was shot in the face and head by another hunter. It was purely accidental.

—Tom Caldwell's attractive little son James is one of the scarlet fever patients. He is a sturdy little chap and has the fever in a mild form, so there is every chance of his recovery.

—They all concede that the WATCHMAN is a great paper. Why don't you cut out one cigar a day for only twenty days and have it sent to you for fifty weeks?

—Miss Patty Lane's dancing class is going to have a masquerade this evening, instead of the usual dance in Bush Arcade. A prize will be given for the best costume and there will be special music.

—It will be football every second tomorrow afternoon when State will meet Lehigh at Williamsport. A special train will leave here over the P. R. R. at 8:45 a. m. and there will be a great crowd of college boys and their friends on it.

—George Showers was badly hurt at the Bellefonte furnace on Thursday. He was working under a scaffold about 30ft high when a block was knocked off of it and struck him on the head, rendering him unconscious for several hours. Showers is from Pleasant Gap.

—The Aid society of the Methodist Episcopal church will give one of their delicious suppers next Thursday evening in the rooms of the W. C. T. U. on Allegheny street. The bill of fare will include scalloped oysters, celery, hot biscuit, cold ham, cream potatoes and sweets.

—The shipment of cabbage alone over the Bald Eagle valley railroad from New York State to Pittsburg, since the season opened early in October, has averaged, daily, from thirty to forty loaded cars. On Sunday last the number ran up to seventy cars, the great bulk of it going to Heinz & Co., Pittsburg.

—John E. Homer has sold his grocery in Philipsburg and will move to Munson, Clearfield county, where he will manage the store of the Munson Supply Co. Mr. Homer will be remembered in the county as having been an aspirant for the Democratic nomination for county treasurer two years ago.

—The Star course of entertainments, for the benefit of Petrikin hall will open with the Fiske Jubilee Singers on Nov. 27th at the court house. This is the cheapest course ever given. Eight first-class entertainments, running from Nov. to March, and only $1.00 for a season ticket. Reserved seats 10 and 20c extra. Single admission 50 and 75c.

—Engineer Theodore Cherry, of the Lewisburg road, recently met with his first accident in an experience of twenty seven years on the road. He was taking an engine into the shops at Sunbury when the reverse lever suddenly flew back, striking him in the palm of his hand, lacerating it badly. The injury was painful enough to cause him to lay off work for a few days.

—If there is a family in Centre county that outnumbers Andy Tressler's of College township we would like to publish a picture of the family group. The baby of the family is about two weeks old and is down on the list as number twenty. Its mother is Andy's second wife and several of the older children of the family are married and have homes of their own. Their lack of earthly treasure has never troubled the Tresslers, but they manage to get along and be far happier than many smaller and more opulent families.

A CURTIN STREET MATRON'S FIRST ATTEMPT AT CHICKEN RAISING.—The incident actually occurred some time early in the summer, but only within the past few days have enough of the details leaked out to build the following amusing story.

A lady who has lived on Curtin street for a number of years woke up one morning last summer and announced to her husband that she was going to have a few chickens. "You know," she said, "they will be so handy to have, for they will eat up all the scraps, lay an occasional egg and then we'll have one if visitors unexpectedly drop in for a meal. Besides," she asserted, feeling that her argument was going straight home, "they need be no trouble to any one, for I purpose taking care of them myself." Her husband was thoroughly awake by this time, and, husband like, began to interpose all manner of objections, such as insistence that they would only be a nuisance, would scratch up all the flowers and they had no coop to keep them in and he knew who it would be who would have to run down in the back yard and shell corn for them when the thermometer was hovering around 0°.

The controversy came very near ending in a "scene," so they say, but the matron finally wrested a promise from her husband that he would send her home half a dozen chickens as soon as he went down town. He had no sooner left the house after breakfast until the good woman became a very fury of energy and excitement. She fairly flew about in the effort to get a coop fixed up to make the chickens feel at home. A large store box answered the purpose very well, but the neighbors flatly refused to tell how many times she pounded her thumb while getting it fixed up. It was scarcely completed when the grocer's boy appeared around the corner of the house with a big covered basket. The lady fairly ran to meet him and upon being informed that "Here are your chickens, Mrs.," she took the basket from him and started for her architectural pride, that would have made the leaning tower of Pisa dizzy.

Turning the basket over on its side, close up to a little hole she had left in the coop, and slipping the cover back a little she stood up and gently said: "Shoo!" The re was nothing doing in the basket. She tapped it lightly with her toe, waived her big apron and said, "Shoo!" a little louder. Still the chickens showed no inclination to trade their place in the basket for the home she had built for them. Of course she didn't get mad, but she just gave that basket a real vicious kick the next time and shook her apron so frantically that its flutter made wind enough to blow the chickens out and still they didn't move. Finally she stooped down and gave the basket a good shake, accompanying it with a prolonged "Shoo-o-o-o-o!" that turned into an aggravated "O-o-o-h!" as one of the chickens finally rolled out of the basket. It was dead as a nit. And so were all the others. They had no heads or feathers on, either, for the gentleman had bought them already for the pot.

No outsiders were present when he went home for dinner that day, so it is not known what happened then or what was the real denouement of the lady's chicken raising venture.

HIS SKULL WAS CRUSHED.—Howard Zeigler, single and aged 28 years, who lives with his parents on the Van Tries farm, near Linden Hall, is lying at the point of death as the result of an accident on Monday.

With a four horse team he delivered a load of corn fodder to his brother at Pleasant Gap and was homeward bound when the accident occurred. He was on the Brush valley road near Squire Ferguson Potter's when the end of the spring pole that had been lying in the bottom of the wagon evidently ran against some obstruction in the road. Mr. Zeigler probably did not notice it, as he was walking at the side of the wagon. The pole doubled under the pressure put upon it by the wagon moving on and when it sprung loose it is thought that it struck the young man at the base of the brain, crushing his skull and rendering him unconscious.

The team ran away home, though the driver was not found until some time later when he was picked up and carried into Squire Potter's, where he was given every attention.

As no one saw the accident it is merely conjecture we publish as to how it actually did occur. Every indication, however, points to the plausibility of the above theory. Zeigler was badly cut, also, about the face and shoulders so that some are of the opinion that he was knocked out by the horses' hoofs by the blow.

It was the intention to remove him from the Potter home yesterday but it was deferred on account of the bad weather. He is getting along nicely.

ALL WILL WISH IT SUCCESS.—On Wednesday afternoon John M. Dale Esq. went down to the Eagle Iron Co's. works at Roland, where he and Sup't. H. R. Curtin were present at the blowing in of the old Eagle forge. The forge was relighted after an idleness of twenty-one years and if the experimental work they are doing now proves a success it will be operated permanently, along with the Eagle furnace, that has been running so successfully since it was lighted some time ago.

They are making charcoal blooms that they hope will come up to specifications that will secure a large contract for them. If it is secured it will mean work for many more men about Roland and under such conditions we are sure that all will join in our wish for success for the experiment.

—Jerome Spigelmyer has been re-appointed postmaster at Millheim.

—Henry Southard, a well known Philipsburg, suffered a stroke of paralysis Friday afternoon. It is the second stroke within two years.

—An engine on the N. Y. C. ran off a cutoff switch at Gorton Heights, on Monday, and turned upside down. The crew escaped injury by jumping.

—F. T. Quigley has disposed of his hotel interest at Keating to Adam Streck, formerly of Beech Creek. Mr. Streck has also been appointed postmaster.

—J. Ross Springman, of Williamsport, who had his foot and leg badly burned by molten metal a few days ago, died on Monday from lockjaw.

—John McMahon, of Osceola, a track hand on the T. & C. jumped from a moving train at Powellton, a few nights ago, and was so badly hurt that he died in the cottage hospital, on Saturday.

—Invitations are out for the marriage of Will A. Gebhardt, of Lock Haven, and Miss Lulu F., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Murray, of Mill Hall. It will be celebrated Nov. 20th.

—At an adjourned meeting of the Philipsburg council the new Citizen's Water Co. of that place was awarded the contract for supplying water for the fire plugs at $15 each per year. The old company bid $10 per year, but owing to their failure to comply with specifications of council the contract was given to the Citizens. It is binding for a period of ten years.

—Another bear story aroused the natives of State College Wednesday until a whole battalion of hunters were in the field. The bear, which was feeding contentedly in a nearby cornfield, turned out to be a stray cow. No damage was done, except Ed McCallmont, in his anxiety to be in at the finish, drove his horse too fast and it gave up the ghost instead of the bear.

—Rev. Warren J. Johnston, of Lancaster, has accepted a call to the pastorate of St. Luke's Reformed church in Lock Haven. Rev. Johnston completed his work in Franklin and Marshall seminary in 1885 and has had wonderful success at Manheim, Baltimore, Lebanon and Norris-town. While at the latter place he broke down and had to retire from active work for a complete rest.

—McCallmont & Co's new advertisement, that appears in another column of this issue, is both timely and to the point. It is directed particularly to sportsmen and deals with the articles that they need most just now, that is, good guns, good ammunition and good apparel for the brush. McCallmont's have both hammer and hammerless guns, black and smok clear powder and all the accessories a hunter needs. Drop in there and look them over.

—The marriage of Miss Blanche Duck, of Spring Mills, to Mr. James H. Philips, of Hopewell, New Jersey, was celebrated at the home of the brides parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. B. Duck, on Tuesday. Rev. Dr. W. E. Fischer, of Shamokin, performed the ceremony in the presence of about sixty guests. An informal reception followed, after which Mr. and Mrs. Philips departed on a tour that will continue until Nov. 21st, when they will be at home at Hopewell. Among their many presents was $250.00 in cash.

—Christmas is drawing near and you are doubtless wondering what to send as a present to a friend whom you would like to remember with something that would be appreciated. Now don't spend your time knitting a pair of bed room slippers that will never be worn nor buy a tobacco pouch with so many tassels on it that no one would be seen pulling it out of his pocket, but send us $1.00 and have the WATCHMAN mailed to your friend for a year. It would be a very inexpensive present, yet one that would be a reminder of you every week and one that any person would appreciate. Bear this in mind when you are prompted to buy something to be knocked off the parlor mantle and broken or to be laid away in a bureau drawer until the moth riddle it.

—The Bellefonte Academy football team met with its first defeat of the season on Saturday, when the eleven from Dickinson Seminary at Williamsport trailed the yellow and white of Capt. McGee and his band of sturdy young warriors in the matted grass of the fair grounds and made a score of 15 to 5 against them. The visitors were heavier than the Academians, but in the first half the skill of one quite balanced the brawn of the other and the half ended with the score a tie. In the second, however, the preponderance of weight told on the light line of the Academy and two touchdowns were made, no goals resulting. The game was a very pretty contest and would have been quite interesting had the people who paid to see it had any kind of a chance. The police regulations were so poor that the crowd of boys and fence climbers crowded in until the players had little or no chance to play and the spectators were without hope of seeing. The season is about over here, but if it is to be carried on successfully next year this feature will have to be eliminated, as well as the young man on the Academy team who seems to think that the first essential of foot-hall playing is to fight. Unless the management can curb this vicious inclination to give someone a poke in every scrimmage he had better be dropped from future lineups, for his playing is not so brilliant as to eclipse this unsportsmanlike habit.

WHAT HAS DONE IT?—On Saturday evening Mr. Ad Fauble, junior member of the clothing firm that bears that well known name in this place, departed for New York on what might truly be called a trip extraordinary. Notwithstanding the fact that all the big houses send their best representatives here to offer every advantage to buyers and Mr. Fauble makes liberal purchases from them he followed his usual custom, at the opening of this season, of going east for a two weeks' trip. This trip is made especially to pick up the later novelties that have come out in the city, after the regular fall lines have been shown, and to add more to the lines, among those already purchased, that bid fair to be the best sellers.

This fall he made unusual purchases. His long acquaintance with the clothing trade in Centre county has given him an insight into the business that prompted him to pile the long tables in the clothing department of their stores higher than ever. In fact when the season opened it was generally predicted that he had over-bought and would fail in his effort to move such an immense stock. Then he began to advertise. The half page streamers that the WATCHMAN originated were called to his aid in both this paper and the Gazette, the Democrat columns were drawn upon heavily and the great clothing piles, began to move and banner days were frequently marked up in the Fauble stores. The movement has kept right up to this very moment and has forced the stores' buyer to make a second trip to New York before the season has gotten fairly started.

It is really not so wonderful after all, when things are taken into consideration. Faubles are the heaviest advertisers in Centre county by far, and we doubt if there is another clothing firm in Central Pennsylvania that does as much. But they make it a point to back their advertising with goods that are exactly what they represent them to be and are always careful to satisfy a purchaser before leaving him go, because they realize that in a small community the same person must deal with them year in and year out and he must be treated right, else he will not do it.

These then, are the reasons that Mr. Ad Fauble hurried off to New York on Saturday night to buy more goods. Who could have thought that when the Faubles opened their little place down on Bishop street in 1887 that in the short period of fourteen years it would grow to such greatness. Mr. Fauble does not hesitate to say that printers' ink has played a great part in the story of its progress. While he does not ascribe it all to advertising he does say: "What would be the use of our having good goods for the masses unless we tell them about it?"

Are there any other merchants in Bellefonte who might find a moral in this story that you all know is based absolutely on the facts?

SUPT. GRAMLEY ARRANGING FOR INSTITUTE.—County superintendent of instruction C. L. Gramley is busy making his arrangements for the fifty-fifth annual session of the institute of the public school teachers of the county. It will convene in the court house in Bellefonte, on December 9th to 13th.

The corps of instructors have been announced as follows: Hon. O. T. Corson, ex-state commissioner of education in Ohio and editor of the Ohio Educational Monthly, Dr. S. D. Foss, professor in the Ohio Normal University and Dr. Warren Darst, on board of control of Ohio Teachers' Reading Circle. Miss Elizabeth M. Crouch, of Philipsburg, will preside at the piano this year, and Prof. P. H. Meyer, of Boalsburg, has been selected as musical director.

The list of evening entertainments will include the following: Tuesday evening—Dr. Warren Darst, Ada, Ohio, will lecture on "I, the Heir of all the Ages." Wednesday evening—The Rodgers-Grillie recitals, a charming and unique entertainment. Thursday evening—Gov. Bob Taylor will lecture on the subject "The Old Plantation." He will be assisted by a superb male quartette.

Thursday, December 13th, the sixteenth annual session of the Centre County Directors Association will be held.

The officers of the institute are president C. L. Gramley; vice president, I. H. Manser; recording secretary, J. B. Strohm, Asst. secretary, Mame Bell; enrolling secretary, T. A. Auman; doo keepers, J. N. Moyer and A. J. Tate; ticket agent, J. C. Morris.

HAD TO GET AN AX.—At this season of the year hunting is all the craze. The vicinity of Nittany is an excellent locality to hunt in, but poor to find. Several employees of the C. R. R. of Pa., thinking game grew in abundance or on trees, stopped off at that station last week and meandered through forest and dell, all day, without securing any booty.

To go home empty handed they knew they would be held up to scorn and ridicule, and near the depot Mrs. Howard Zerby had a very attractive flock of turkey, which at once attracted the eyes of the "R. R. sports."

They bargained for two of them but to convert them into wild turkeys was the next question. Mrs. Zerby would not allow her handsome flock crippled so the two were caught and tied to the fence and the cannonading began. The noise attracted attention and upon inquiry our correspondent was told that two R. R. men were shooting tame turkeys. He then began to count the shots and counted twenty-two, when, like Sid Krumrine and Doc Fisher of old, they dropped their guns and had to finish the job with an ax.

News Purely Personal.

—Dr. W. U. Irwin, of Julian, was in town on Saturday.

—Robert Morris spent Sunday at the home of his parents in Tyrone.

—Sheriff Brungart spent Tuesday night in Philipsburg on business.

—Miss Blanche Smith, of Thomas street, is visiting in Altoona.

—Mrs. A. S. Garman, of Tyrone, spent Monday with relatives in Bellefonte.

—Mrs. Frank Sancerman, of Water street, is away on a visit to friends in Clearfield.

—Miss Emily Alexander, of Tyrone, is spending this week with her parents in Centre Hall.

—Post-master John W. Stuart, of State College, was a business visitor in Bellefonte on Wednesday.

—T. B. Biddinger, the prominent Snow Shoe coal operator and merchant, was a Bellefonte visitor on Tuesday.

—Will Weber and Claude Moore of Howard were in town on Monday and stayed over to see "A Cavalier of France."

—Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hess, of Massillon, Ohio, who were guests at the Harris home on Howard street departed on Tuesday.

—Mrs. Mary Schreyer, of Williamsport, is a guest at the home of her sister-in-law, Mrs. Minnie Harper, on Linn street.

—Harry Sando, of Pittsburg, who served with Co. B during the Spanish-American war, is visiting his parental home at Centre Hall.

—Frank Curtin, stenographer for the Potter-Hoy Hardware Co., spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. F. K. Lukenbach in Philipsburg.

—Hard P. Harris spent Tuesday night in Williamsport, having gone down as a guest at the Snyder-Harrison wedding in that city.

—Miss Cora Brungart, daughter of Sheriff Cyrus Brungart, spent several days this week visiting friends at their former home in Millheim.

—Mrs. and Mrs. Isaac Mitchell, with Miss Lyde Thomas, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. John Porter Lyon, at "Heart's Ease," Tenna Furnace.

—Mrs. John Noll went to Clearfield, Tuesday to visit her son Charles. From there she will go to Altoona to see the Van Dykes before returning home.

—Mrs. Henry Samsel, of Pleasant Gap, went up to Tyrone on Tuesday morning to spend a week with her daughter, Mrs. Venes Lucas, of that place.

—Miss Gertrude Irwin, of Reynolds Ave., left for St. Louis, Mo., on Monday afternoon, where she expects to make quite a protracted visit with friends.

—Mrs. W. H. Wilkinson and Henry Linn were in Philadelphia and New York buying holiday goods for China hall. They returned yesterday morning.

—Wm. Showers, whose duties at the Bellefonte furnace keep him so close that he is seldom seen, was a pleasant caller at the WATCHMAN office Saturday evening.

—J. H. Griffin, of Stormstown, was a business visitor in Bellefonte on Tuesday. He came down to attend to a little business pertaining to his late father-in-law's estate.

—Claire Williams, formerly stenographer of the C. R. R. Pa. offices in this place, but now of Jersey City, was in town to spend Sunday with relatives and friends.

—Joseph Runkle, inspector of rails in a Youngs, town, Ohio, mill, terminated his visit to his parents in this place on Monday evening and started back to work.

—D. C. Keller, of Centre Hall, Col. Jas. F. Weaver, of Milesburg, and Will Kepler, of Pine Grove, are well known residents of the county who were in town on Wednesday.

—Mrs. Sallie G. Mattern and her son Will, who have been enjoying a short vacation at the Keplarhart home at Fillmore, are in town for a few days on their way home to Philadelphia.

—Mrs. Morris Cowdrick, who was telegraphed for last week on account of the serious illness of her daughter, Mrs. Hamilton Otto, returned to her home at Niagara Falls on Monday.

—Sam'l Bron was in Bellefonte on Saturday and was a caller at the WATCHMAN office. His object was to order the paper sent to James Croft, a Centre county boy, who is getting along nicely in Pittsburg.

—William H. Baird, who had been home visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Baird, of Milesburg, for a few days, departed for Winter on Tuesday morning. He is deputy postmaster of that place.

—Ed. Wasson, of Waddles, was in town yesterday ordering his literature for next year. Incidentally he remarked that he has shot several wild turkeys in the twenty-five years he has lived on his farm along the mountain.

—S. Cameron Burnside, Geo. R. Van Dusen Esq., of Philadelphia, and Thomas Jones Esq., of Harrisburg, were among the interested from a distance who were in town to attend the meeting of the bond-holders of the Valentine Iron Co. on Tuesday.

—F. W. Dillon, of Julian, spent Saturday attending to some affairs that needed his attention in this place. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. William Dillon and is one of the successful young school masters of the county. At present he is teaching at the Roopsburg school in Spring township.

—Charley Kreamer, the expert scale builder at the Standard works and the man who is sent all over the country on their big erecting jobs, is just now at work on a set of special models for the company that when completed will likely open the eyes of some of the other scale makers of the county, as well as establish all the more firmly Charley's expertise.

—Mr. and Mrs. John Houser, of Pleasant Gap, spent Monday in town shopping. Mrs. Houser paid her first visit to the working department of a newspaper office and was very much interested in the "art preservative." Mr. Houser said that he wanted to be ahead for awhile and paid for his paper so far in advance that he will have a very hard time ever catching up again.

—Hiram Lee, one of the young farmers of the county, was in town on Saturday, and made a brief call at the WATCHMAN office. Mr. Lee farms on the Milliken farm below town and has a corn crop this fall that is hard to beat. It is of the white variety and over-runs so much in weight as to make it decidedly to his advantage to sell that way, though as a rule the weight buyer gains over the measure buyer.

—Former county treasurer John Q. Miles was in town on Friday and put up such a great kick about the WATCHMAN that we were really scared until he paid two years in advance, then it was our time to get gay. John is farming up in Huston. At least that is what he says he is doing, but someone is doing the work while he brings the cows and does such incidental stunts as shooting squirrels and pheasants.

—Among the influx of Methodist ministers in to the town last week were Rev. Morris Swartz and Rev. H. C. Pardoe. Morris was here primarily on private business but he did not fail to mention incidentally that big or little contributions would be thankfully received for the new church that is being built at Shippenburg to replace the one destroyed by fire the Sabbath that he preached here in August. Rev. Pardoe, pastor of the Methodist church here in '67 and '68 and who is now stationed at Renovo, was here lecturing for the Epworth League. His talk was on a recent trip across the continent to the Golden Gate and is said to have been instructive as well as entertaining.

—Robert Laws, one of Osceola's well known residents, was a business visitor in Bellefonte on Monday.

—Abner Alexander, Mr. James Alexander's right hand man on the farm at Centre Hall, spent Monday night in town with his uncle Cyrus Brungart.

—Mr. and Mrs. Burr Woods, of Scottsdale, who had been guests of Sheriff and Mrs. Brungart in this place, left for their home yesterday morning. They were accompanied by Mrs. Brungart, widow of the late Henry Brungart, of Rebersburg, who will make her home with them.

THE BOND HOLDERS WILL BUY IT.—The property of the Valentine Iron Co. is being advertised by the sheriff and will be sold on Saturday, November 23rd. In anticipation of this action the bond holders had a meeting at the office of J. M. Dale in this place Tuesday morning at which it was decided to purchase the property, provided it is not run up to an amount above the bonds they hold.

Col. W. Fred Reynolds, F. W. Crider and the Commonwealth Trust Co. of Harrisburg are the committee appointed and empowered to look after the business for the bond holders. They will probably purchase the property at the sale.

A FEW THINGS TO BE REMEMBERED.—For the benefit of those who contemplate going we publish these facts concerning the great Lehigh-State football game at Williamsport tomorrow.

The game will be played, rain or shine.

The special train will leave Bellefonte over the P. R. R. at 8:45 a. m. and run special clear through.

The fair will be $1.52 for the round trip.

There is a comfortable covered grand stand on the grounds at Williamsport so that no one need care what the weather conditions are.

The return train will leave Williamsport at 9:15 p. m.

Tickets will be good to remain over until Monday.

POMONA GRANGE MEETING.—Centre County Pomona Grange No. 13 will meet in hall of Progress Grange, Centre Hall, Pa., Nov. 22nd, at 10 a. m. There will be two sessions. Confering of 5th degree and election of officers for next year will take part of afternoon session. All 4th and 5th degree members are cordially invited to be present. All directors of the fire insurance company are wanted to attend this meeting. As it will be the last meeting of the year we should have a large turn out.

Fraternally yours
GEO. DALE, Master,
D. M. CAMPBELL, Sec.

A CLARENCE WEDDING.—A small, though propitious wedding, was celebrated Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Meek, in Clarence, when their daughter, Maybelle Grace, was united in marriage to Frederick Doyle Soulek.

The ceremony was pronounced at 2 o'clock by the Rev. T. S. Faus, of the Methodist church, with a number of guests present. Refreshments were served and the young people departed on a short wedding journey after which they will make their home at Woodland, Clearfield county.

LOST.—A carriage lantern on the road between Lock Haven and Bellefonte. Suitable reward if returned to Baum's livery.
