THE COMING AND THE GOING.

- I heard a mother croon to her child A song as I wandered by, A song that would sing the stars to sleep In the cradle of the sky.
- I saw an old man close his eyes In restful s'eep-God send As sweet a rest for my weary frame
- When I come to my journey's end. And I thought of the years that lay between-

The Origin of Thanksgiving. Ancient Prototypes of Our Familiar Autumn Fes-

Most historians trace the first Thanks-giving to that drear time in 1621 when Governor Bradford and the handful of colonists who had survived terrible hardships, met together to feast as well as might he and to give thanks for such mercies as had been vouchsafed them. They are probably correct in so doing, for though thanksgivings had been previously held in other colonies, this one of 1621 seems to have been animated by the very same spirit which has remained down to our time; and yet the real origin of our beloved autumnal festival, dates many centuries before 1621. The Feast of Ingathering, or F east of Tabernacles, kept of old by the Jews, would seem to be the real prototype of our Thanksgiving. Students who have thoroughly informed themselves upon the subject, affirm that in all the years intervening no other nation except our own, has regularly set apart one day each year, for the acknowledgement of Heavenly mercy. The 22nd chapter and 10th verse of the Book of Exodus gives the command with which the Jews complied in the keeping of the festival.

They were painfully misunderstood it TO DOUBT THIS. seems, by the heathen philisophers. Plutarch sagely observes. "The Jews celebrate two feasts unto Bacchus. In the midst of the vintage they spread tables, spread with all manner of fruits, and live in tabernacles made especially of palms and ivy wreaths together. A few days later they kept another feast, which openly shows it was dedicated to Bacchus, for they carried palms in theu hand, with which they went into the temple, the Levites going before with instruments of

In the days of Grecian prosperity, when her sons and daughters rejoiced that their home was in the land of poetry and song, when plenty overflowed on every hand, and the rich spoil of her vineyards gladdened all hearts, the Greeks celebrated a feast very much resembling that of the Jews, and supposed to have been borrowed from them. They called it the Feast of Demeter, or the Eleusinian Mysteries, Demeter being the goddess of the cornfields. by whose especial favor good harvests may be expected. The celebration continued for nine days, and offerings were made to the goddess consisting of soil produce, to-gether with oblations of wine, honey and

With the same thought of expressing gratitude for bounteous yields of grain, the warlike Romans in their turn set apart a season each autumn, for the offering of thanksgivings to Ceres, their goddess of the harvest. They called this festival the Cerealia, and its observance is said to be as nt as the reign of Romulus. But this differed from the Jewish festival and from our modern one in this, that according to Roman ideas it could not be fittingly enjoyed within doors. They made gay processions to the open fields, music and laughter resounding through the air; and the daylight hours were beguiled with rustic merrymaking and other simple pleasures. The stately Virgil alludes to the joyousness which was universal at that time and also to the offerings made in the vari

George Elliot has made familiar to us the English Harvest Home festival. It was carried out with merriment only a little more boisterous and just as unfeigned during the reign of the Maiden Queen; for Elizabeth proclaimed that "on Thanksgiving Day no servile labor may be performed, and thanks should be offered for the increase and abundance of His fruits on the face of the earth." There was dancing on the village green, bonfires reddened the sky at even, and rural sports engaged the peasants. The same observances, differing but in the manners of the times, characterized the autumn festival in the days of good King Alfred and of Egbert and their lusty

Saxon subjects. As to days specially appointed for thanks giving, they were numerous, or at least not uncommon, in England. One of them was kept on the occasion of the destroying of the Spanish Armada; another upon the discovery of the Gunpowder Plot; another upon the recovery from temporary insanity of George III; and they were frequently commanded by Oliver Cromwell. Occasional Thanksgiving days have occurred in the history of all nations; but as he said, it remained for America alone among modern peoples to consistently acknowledge Divine mercy by an annual season devoted to thanksgiving.

Queen to Wear Koh-t-noor. Famous Diamond Will Grace Alexandra's Crow

King Edward, of England, has decided to have the celebrated Koh-i-noor diamond mounted on the crown of Queen Alexandra for the coronation.

The history of the gem, the finest in the possession of the British crown, is unsurpassed for romance by that of any other precious stone in the world. The egend is to the effect that the Koh-i-noor Mountain of Light) was found in one of the Golconda Mines, near the Kishna River, and worn 5,000 years ago by Karna, the Hindoo, one of the heroes sung of in the Mahabharata. It then passed through many hands until it came into possession of Baber, the founder of the Mongul dynasty, India, in the sixteenth century. Traveruier, the famous French traveler, saw it in 1665. In 1739 it passed to Nadii Shah, the Persian invader of India, and through his successors in 1813 to Runjet Singh, the ruler of Lahore. In 1849, on the annexation of the Punjaub to the British dominions, the diamond was also surrendered and was presented to Queen Victoria in 1850. The Koh-i-noor was one of the attractions at the first great international exhibition of 1851. It then weighed 1861-16 karats. It has since been recut-many lapidaries say a great mistake was made when it was decided to do this—and now weighs 106 1-I6 karats.

Possibilities.

- A little rift among the clouds. To let the sunshine through, And lo! the day that was so dark Is brightened and new giories mark The ways that we pursue.
- A smile that costs the giver naught A little word of praise,
- And some one, wavering, may take The way wherein his work shall make Him happy all his days.

Mr. A. B. Steel, of the Armory savs: "I have never had a bad back since I used Doan's Kidney Pills in Isse I procured them at that time from F. Potts Green's drug store and used them, but I have never had any occasion to use them since. I was so bad with lumbage them since. I was so bad with lumbago or soreness across my kidneys that I had to lay off work. I was hurt at a barn raising some years ago by a heavy timber swinging and striking me in the back. After that whenever I took cold it always affected my kidneys. This was the case for many years but Doan's Kidney Pills finished all that suffering. I can speak as highly of this valuable preparation now as I did then."

THE RIGHT THING TO PUT ON (BENSON'S PLASTER IS PAIN'S MASTER

From the natural impulse to "put something on" a painful spot all applications for the relief of pain have arisen. The most successful have ever been poultice or plasters, and the best of these is Benson's Porous Plaster.

No other has anything like the same power as a curative agent; it is highly and scientifically medicted, and its standard is advanced year by year.

Use Benson's Plaster for coughs, colds, chest diseases, rheumatism, grip, neuralgia, kidney trouble, lame back, and other ailments that make Winter a season of suffering and danger. It relieves and cures quicker than any other remedy.

Do not accept Capsicum, Strengthen ing or Belladonna plasters in place of Benson's, as they possess none of its curative power. Insist on having the genuine. The people of every civilized land have testified for years to the superlative merit of Benson's Plasters; and 5,000 physicians and druggists of this country have declared them worthy of public confidence. In official comparisons with others Benson's Plasters have been honored with fifty-five highest awards.

TMPORTANT ADVICE.

It is surprising how many people wake up in the morning nearly as tired as when they went to bed, a disagreeable taste in their mouth, the lips sticky, and the breath offensive, with a coated tongue. These are na ture's first warnings of Dyspepsia and Liver Disorders, but if the U.S. Army and Navy Tablets are resorted to at this stage they will restore the system to a healthy condition.
