THINGS ABOUT TOWN AND COUNTY

—It costs only $1 when paid in advance.

—Don't forget the great Howe pictures on Monday night, Dec. 30th.

—Mrs. Sarah Hoover, of Stormstown, has been granted a pension of $8.

—Dr. A. Hiebler is seriously ill at his home on north Allegheny street.

—We are putting many new ones on at $1, couldn't you do something for the cause?

—The attraction at Garman's the night before Christmas will be "The Village Parson."

—Earl Aiken arrived from Pittsburgh on Sunday, threatened with typhoid fever. He had been working in that city.

—James Duff has quit butchering for Lew Gettig and become a brakeman on the Pennsylvania railroad.

—Little Margaret Bauer, daughter of Vincent Bauer, is very ill with pneumonia at her home on Bishop street.

—Mrs. Sarah A. Rishel, of Millheim, has been granted a pension of $12 per month and Mrs. Agnes A. McCulley, of Bellefonte, $15.

—Gen. James A. Beaver will address the men's meeting at the Y. M. C. A. building next Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock. All young men are invited.

—At the annual meeting of the State Dairymen's Union, held at York recently, Prof. Harry Howard, of State College, was re-elected secretary for the ensuing year.

—Rails spread and caused a freight wreck on the Beech Creek, above the town of Beech Creek, Monday morning. One car went over an embankment. No one was hurt.

—The time-tables appearing in the WATCHMAN have been corrected according to the latest schedules issued by the railroad companies and can be relied on as being correct.

—There will be a meeting in the Spring Mills Academy on Dec. 30th, to talk over plans for celebrating the golden anniversary of Prof. D. M. Wolf as a teacher and of the old Spring Mills and Penn Hall Academies.

—The work done by Durno compares more than favorably with that of the late Herrmann and the now existing Kellar and Hartz.—San Francisco Call. He will be seen at the court house next Thursday night and he is worth seeing.

—Com. A. J. Graham, of Philipsburg, who has been suffering with blood poisoning for a few days, was taken to a Philadelphia hospital on Tuesday, where we trust he will receive such skillful attention as will speedily restore him to health.

—Mr. and Mrs. John G. Uzzle, Mr. and Mrs. George Uzzle, W. R. Haynes and a large party of Snow Shoe people were in town last Thursday night to attend Gordon's minstrels. They held the regular train until eleven o'clock before leaving Bellefonte.

—Harry Green, of this place, marked his last hunt this season down in his memory by fetching home a 25 lb. wild turkey last Friday. He got it on the mountain above Briary and after running his legs nearly off to get within range he was actually a little skeptical as to its wildness.

—Alexander G. Davidson and Miss Carrie B. Hughes, a daughter of Edward Hughes, of Centre, were married at the Methodist parsonage in Philipsburg last Thursday afternoon. The groom is a son of M. H. Davidson, a Union township farmer, and they expect to make their home in Philipsburg.

—Miss Phinetta C. Jones, daughter of J. C. P. Jones, of Milesburg, and a recent graduate of the High school in this place, was married in Altoona Tuesday evening to Walter H. Reese. The groom is a clerk in the office of the Adams express company there and is an energetic, well-to-do young man.

—Mrs. Taylor Walker was walking from the barn on their farm near Howard early last Thursday morning, when she made a misstep and fell down an embankment into the old canal bed. She was carrying a pail of milk and a lantern at the time, so that she had little chance to save herself. One of her legs was broken and she was otherwise injured.

—Mrs. John McDonough called on Wednesday to state that she lost a small black silk muffler while on her way to church Sunday morning and would be very thankful if the finder would return it either to her or to this office. The muffler was not so valuable in itself, but was the gift of a niece she holds very dear. It was lost somewhere between her home on Willowbank street and the Catholic church, taking the "Old Town Road" route to Pine.

—It is not often that Gregg post asks you for anything that they do not repay. This time they invite you to see Howe's great moving picture show at Garman's Monday night, Dec. 30th, feeling that you will be more than repaid by the time and money spent, as well as adding something to their treasury fund. The entertainment will be strictly high class, you may depend upon that, for we would not say so if it were not the case, even for Gregg post.

DEATH OF MRS. SHOEMAKER.—Mrs. Ellen Collins Shoemaker, wife of Edward Shoemaker, died Saturday evening at 8 o'clock at the family home, just north of town, after a short illness of pleural pneumonia. Though Mrs. Shoemaker's death was not so suddenly expected yet it was not surprising to those who knew her well.

She had not enjoyed good health for a year and more and at times suffered so intensely with neuralgia that during the summer she had consulted several specialists and spent some time in Atlantic City and Baltimore with the hope of getting relief. She allowed no one, though, to see her depressed and she resolutely refused to lay aside any of the responsibilities of her useful life until ten days before her death. Then she had a chill, the effects—-it was thought—-of a cold she had taken while out driving, several days previous, with her grand children to whom she was devotedly attached. And while no unfavorable symptoms developed until Thursday evening, and there seemed every chance of her recovery until that time, her family were alarmed about her from the first and a trained nurse or physician was with her constantly.

She was one of the Collins family who are well known throughout the State and who have been prominent factors in public affairs from 1834 when Thomas Collins, then a lad of ten years, guided Father Lemki through the Alleghenies to Loretto to Father Gallitzin, the Russian prince and missionary. She was born and raised in Munster, Cambria county, and she was a daughter of Peter and Sarah Collins, whose eleven children were all remarkable for their fine presence and splendid characters. She was about 63 years of age and most of her life was spent in Ebensburg until 1855. That year her brothers, Philip and Thomas, and her only son, Thomas A., came here to build the Buffalo Run railroad and the Bellefonte furnace and since then she has resided here with her family at their beautiful country place down on the pike. Gifted with rare intelligence, much personal charm and a most charitable disposition Mrs. Shoemaker was a fine representative of the best type of womanhood. In personal appearance she strikingly resembled her distinguished brothers—she was unusually tall and stately looking—and in intellect and disposition she was still more like them. Though eminently fitted for leadership and with means and the very best social opportunities at her command she was pre-eminently a home woman.

There she was the practical woman of affairs, the quiet, beloved friend and the gracious, generous hostess. She was a true christian and gave much of her time and means to the services and interests of the Catholic church. Her private charities, too, were innumerable. She was constantly doing and caring for the needy and distressed and she did it so quietly and unobtrusively that it was never displayed for public applause.

She is survived by her husband, her only son Thomas A. Shoemaker, the well-known railroad contractor and financier, her two sisters, Miss Elizabeth and Miss Sarah Collins, to whom her death is an irretrievable loss, and one brother, Mr. Peter Collins now a resident of Philadelphia.

Funeral services were held on Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock and interment was made in the Catholic cemetery. The body with its pall of flowers was taken to St. John's Catholic church and there high mass was chanted by the pastor Rev. P. McArdle, assisted by the following priests, Rev. John Boyle, of Johnstown, vicar general of the Altoona diocese; Rev. J. J. Deasy, of Gallitzin and Rev. Philip Bohan, of Tyrone.

The pall-bearers were H. E. Fenlon, A. J. Cook, J. L. Ceadar, John M. Shugert, C. M. Parrish, J. M. Dale, John Blanchard and P. Gray Meek.

JOHN M. PARKER.—John M. Parker, merchant and post-master of Roland, this county, died at his home on Friday evening after a short illness with pneumonia. While at all appearances Mr. Parker was a very robust man previous attacks of pneumonia had left him in such a condition that he was quite susceptible to cold and when out driving during the stormy period of two weeks ago he contracted a cold that soon developed into another case of that dangerous trouble. Notwithstanding the most attentive work of physicians and nurses he sank rapidly until the time of his death.

He was born at Jersey Shore in Nov. 1851, and was the son of A. T. Parker, a leading resident of that place. Soon after his marriage to Alice Hale, in 1874, he located at Roland—commonly known as Cartus Works—where he became agent of the Pennsylvania Railroad Co., serving with efficiency in that capacity until about a year ago, when the large mercantile business he had built up meanwhile demanded his undivided attention. He was also post-master of the town for years and had been repeatedly honored by election to the office of Justice of the Peace.

Mr. Parker will be greatly missed in that community. His own success in life had inspired the confidence of all about him so that he was their counselor and friend. He advised them in their moments of indecision, comforted in trouble and helped in need. Though a Presbyterian he was constant in his attendance at the only church there—a Methodist. Rev. Wharton of that denomination preached at his funeral Monday morning and that afternoon his remains were taken to Jersey Shore, where they were interred on Tuesday.

Surviving him are his wife and the following children: Mrs. W. Galer Morrison; of Bellefonte; Mrs. Rebecca Glenn, of Howard; Kate, Trade and Paul, at home. His father and mother and five sisters and one brother also survive, namely: Mrs. H. M. Bidwell, of Bellefonte; Mrs. Oliver Glosier, of Linden; Mrs. Eva Snyder, Kate, Martha and William, of Jersey Shore.

MRS. JOHN HOUSMAN.—Mrs. Catharine Housman, of Gregg township, died at her home near Penn Hall, Saturday noon, after a short illness of bronchitis.

Mrs. Housman was 83 years, 1 month and 14 days old and had lived at her late home since 1836, when she was married to John M. Housman, who died in 1888. She was of the noblest type of women, intelligent, charitable, cheerful and energetic. In disposition she was gentle and lovable, and she was most gracious, alike to poor and well-to-do. She was an earnest and active member of the Evangelical church until called to her reward.

She is survived by one daughter and three sons; Mrs. Bany, of Howard; Samuel, of Potter township; John, of Millheim, and Chas. at home, who took the best care of his mother since his father's death, and one sister, Mrs. Samuel Goble. Rev. Koontz, of Spring Mills, conducted the funeral service in the Green Grove Evangelical church. Interment was made in the Green Grove cemetery.

GEORGE RHYMESTONE.—One of Millheim's good old citizens passed away at 4 o'clock Monday morning from paralysis of the heart, superinduced by a stroke of paralysis he had suffered at midnight Saturday. Deceased was 77 years of age and for a long time had been keeper of the toll-gate south of that place, though the later years of his life were spent in retirement at his home north of Millheim.

Deceased was a highly respected resident of that community and is survived by his son George, of Selinsgrove, and a daughter who is married and lives in the State of Indiana. His wife died fifteen or sixteen years ago.

Interment was made Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock.

MRS. DANIEL CONDO.—Mrs. Daniel Condo, of Walker, died at her home in that place about 1 o'clock Sunday afternoon, from the effects of old age. She was 83 years and 2 months old and for fifty-six years had been a resident of that section.

It is not to be wondered at then that she was regarded by all as a Mother in Israel, for she lived among them a peaceful, christian life.

Surviving her are her son, a daughter, three grand-children and two great-grand children. Interment was made at Jacksonville on Wednesday.

Mrs. Eleanor Morrow, relict of James Morrow, died at her home in Tyrone on Monday morning at the age of 78 years and 5 days. Pneumonia was the cause of her death and she is survived by four daughters, two sons and two brothers.

Mrs. Eliza Flannigan, wife of J. S. Flannigan, died at her home at Mill Hall on Friday evening, leaving her husband and four children to mourn her death. Interment was made at Cedar Hill on Monday afternoon.

Mrs. Margaret Eldred, of Muckeyville, suffered a slight stroke of paralysis a few days ago and in falling fractured her right arm.

Richard Harriott, awaiting sentence for stealing from his fellow workmen at Oak Grove, escaped from the Clinton county jail. He got into the cellar and then crawled out of a coal hole.

The proceeds of the Howe moving picture show that comes to Garman's on Monday night, Dec. 30th, will be for the benefit of Gregg post, No. 95, G. A. R. It is the greatest show of its kind on the earth and you should see it.

George Gross, a lumberman in the Sootoak region, was chased up a tree by three large bucks during the recent cold spell and would have perished from exposure had not fellow lumbermen heard his cries for help and chased the vicious deer away.

The Christmas examinations closed at the Academy on Thursday of this week and the many students are now enjoying their needed vacation. All of the boarders returned to their homes but two. The term just ended is generally considered the most successful in studies and athletics in the history of the Academy. The winter term opens on Tuesday, January 7th.

Council met on Monday evening with P. H. Gherity presiding in the absence of president Gerberich but very little business was transacted. Upon motion of Col. Reynolds it was decided to order the board of health to fumigate the school buildings, owing to the prevalence of scarlet fever and diphtheria in the town. Bills to the amount of $409.25 were also ordered paid.

The property of "Our Book Club," an organization that has used room in the Presbyterian chapel on Spring street ever since its organization nine years ago, has been moved to the Y. M. C. A. building on north Allegheny street and henceforth the fine library will be located there. "Our Book Club" was conceived by Gen. James A. Beaver. It is an organization to which any one can belong by the payment of $3 per year. All of the funds are expended in the purchase of books and the club now has a library of more than a thousand volumes, covering all the latest works of reputable novelists.

SHE SHOOK HER SECOND HUSBAND QUICK.—Last week Charles W. Ingram, of Brownsville, spent in Bellefonte looking for a wife who had quite upset his dreams of matrimonial contentment and long drawn out felicity. Charles had a long tale of woe to tell and, of course, found no trouble getting listeners by the score.

His story was one of simple gullibility; but he told it in such a serious way, and we know he felt badly over his loss, that one could not help but sympathize with him. Ingram, having failed in all other attempts, resorted to advertising in the effort to get a wife. His plea for a mate some how reached the attention of Mrs. Annie Gebret, of Bellefonte. Now Annie was Annie Tipton, of Howard, until she married Samuel Collins Gebret, of this place. They lived happily together until her husband began to run away and leave her then she sued for a divorce and it was granted on Oct. 7th. Once more free to bestow her affections where she pleased she made up to Charley as warm as a mail courtship would permit. Accordingly they agreed to meet in Altoona and look each other over, then if all was satisfactory they would be married.

They met there on November 14th and the next day the following marriage notice appeared in the Altoona paper:

Married.—At the Methodist parsonage, by the Rev. Horace Lincoln Jacobs, Charles W. Ingram, of Brownsville, Ohio, and Annie Tipton, of Bellefonte.

Immediately after the ceremony they started for Brownsville, but before reaching Pittsburgh Mrs. Ingram looked Charley over more critically and came to the conclusion that he must have thrown dust in her eyes when she got off the train at Altoona. And that wasn't the worst of it, either, for she told the unhappy groom that he wasn't as pretty as she had thought he was. Then Charley tried to fix it up, but it wouldn't do. Nothing he could say or do would make it right with the other half of him until he suggested that he give her $10 and she should stop off in Pittsburgh for a little tour of her own, while he journeyed on home to get things fixed up for her reception. This pleased the new Mrs. Ingram very much and while Charley didn't like the idea of giving up his bride of a few hours so soon he was willing to make any sacrifice in order to get her more thoroughly charmed.

Accordingly, he continued the trip home, leaving Annie in the Smoky city and he never heard of her afterwards. He had learned that she had returned to Bellefonte, so he came on to get her or the ten, but to be honest we think he would sooner have had the woman, even after all the trouble he had been put to. When one of the persons to whom he had told his story here asked him if Annie had seen him before she married him he didn't see anything significant at all in the question.

Wednesday night he went to see Arthur Deming in "Don't Tell My Wife" and forgot his own troubles in those of William Green, the unhappy victim of that play, but he left for Annapolis, Md., a day or so later without hearing anything at all concerning her whereabouts.

FRANCIS ATWOOD TO JOIN THE WORKERS IN THE LATIN QUARTER IN PARIS.—Lately a great deal of interest has been manifested in the movement to carry evangelical work into the great student settlement in Paris, where the Bohemian lives led by the young men of art and letters is gradually sinking to a level of degradation from which many of them are utterly incapable of ever rising again. The crusade is to be carried right into the Latin quarter and, if possible, the grisette and the tankard will be driven out.

The people of this vicinity will watch the progress of the work with more than usual interest because Rev. Sylvester W. Beach is going to organize and lead it. Rev. Beach is a son-in-law of Mrs. N. D. Orison. He has just resigned the pastorate of the first Presbyterian church at Bridgeport, N. J., to move to Paris, where he will settle in the midst of the three or four thousand American students there.

Rev. Mr. Beach's work will be among those young men and women. His family will be with him, and a home will be established where students will be always welcome. A service of song, with a short practical address, will be held every Sunday evening, but the main influence will be sought through personal contact. As a friend and brother Mr. Beach will mingle with the students and identify himself as far as possible with their work and recreation.

"The habits of most of the students," Rev. Mr. Beach explained, "render them difficult to reach. Many of them are skeptical and immoral. They care nothing for religion, and a minister of professional manners and methods would repel them. But they are among the choicest youth of our land and are as susceptible as are all young men and women to the influence of sympathy and kindness."

Many Americans who visit the Latin quarter are impressed with the opportunities for usefulness a tactful counselor would possess. Great results, such as figures will tell, are not expected. But the reward attending any quiet, humble, loving work for Christ is confidently looked forward to.

Francis Atwood, the only son of Mrs. Emma C. Atwood, of this place, went with Mr. Beach to help in the work for six months. While Francis is quite young he has had some experience in Y. M. C. A. work and is so earnest and enthusiastic that he will doubtless sow some seeds of goodness that will bring forth rich harvest in due season.

Francis left here on Tuesday and they sailed on Wednesday.

Thomas Flack has left the U. T. & T. Co's pole line crew to assist in the art of mixology at the Grant house.

The meeting of the Henry Pool heirs at Herald hall in Tyrone Saturday was largely attended, there being fifty or more present from the Clearfield region, the Bald Eagle valley, Huntingdon county, Altoona, Johnstown, and a sprinkling from the State of Ohio. There was not a great deal accomplished, but some progress was made in the direction of tracing the title of the estate from Henry Pool to the descendants of the present day. The claim is against the United States government, and the heirs claim that it amounts now to $100,000.

It will be a nice little holiday diversion for you to go to see the Durno-Emmett combination in the court house on the night after Christmas. The Plainfield, N. J., Daily Express has this to say of Mr. Emmett and as he is only part of the entertainment you may imagine what the whole will be: "Just previous to the final number, Hugh J. Emmett, the prince of entertainers, gave his side-splitting, saw-ripping, unconventional, ventriloquial, funnynisms, and kept his listeners screaming with paroxysms of laughter, for twenty minutes, and then he was not allowed to go. This artist certainly scored a greater success than any that has recently appeared in Plainfield."

A COMING ATTRACTION.—On the night after Christmas the ladies of the W. C. T. U. will offer you one of the best of the attractions in their season's entertainment course. It will be the Durno-Emmett combination in which Durno, the eminent magician, has united his bewildering talents with those of Hugh J. Emmett, the clever violinist, to make an entertainment that is full of both mystery and art.

Remember this combination will appear at the court house on Thursday evening, Dec. 26th.

NEWS PURELY PERSONAL.

Joseph B. Ard, of Pine Grove, was in town on Monday.

Mr. H. E. Fenlon spent yesterday in Williamsport with friends.

Former postmaster James Stewart, of Boalsburg, spent Saturday in town on business.

Edna Meyer, of Curtin street, spent part of the week with her grandmother in Rebersburg.

Mrs. George C. Butz, of State College, was among the shoppers in town on Tuesday morning.

James A. McClain Esq., of Spangler, was in Bellefonte on Tuesday to attend the funeral of Mrs. Shoemaker.

Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Mitchell spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. John Porter Lyon, at Hearts Ease, Penna Furnace.

Miss Stemm, of Boalsburg, is spending a few days in town, a guest at the home of Ruth Larimer, on east High street.

Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Schaeffer and their daughter Helen are going to Scranton to spend Christmas with Dr. Coolidge and his family.

James S. Swabb, youngest son of Mrs. James Swabb, of Aaronsburg, has enlisted in the navy and is now on the training ship Franklin at Norfolk, Va.

Mrs. Barbara Rankin and her daughter Miss Bella left for Harrisburg and Philadelphia, on Saturday afternoon. They expect to be gone two weeks.

Harry T. McDowell, of Abdera, was looking around the stores in town on Wednesday and that means that there will be some Christmas in a pleasant home down in Marion.

The Misses Agnes and Gertrude Steinkirchner, of Newton, Kansas, who have been visiting relatives and friends in the county since early in the fall, expect to return to their homes shortly after the holidays.

Allan Schreyer, who was indeed a stranger at his old home here, was in town over Sunday, having brought his two little boys up to visit their grandma, Mrs. Mary Schreyer, who is the guest of Mrs. Minnie Harper, on Linn street.

Ericksmith M. L. Emerick, of Centre Hall, who is one of that fortunate class of men that makes hay out of dry roads, was in town on Wednesday evening, but he was so busy that he didn't have much time to tarry anywhere.

Recorder Nelson Robb spent Sunday with his family in this place. According to a change that is soon to be made in the U. T. & T. Co. Mr. Robb will have more time in Bellefonte than he has had since accepting his new position.

Mrs. Wilbur F. Reeder returned from quite an extended visit to her sister, Mrs. Joseph Irvine Borshes, of Knoxville, Tenn., on Saturday afternoon. They have opened their home on the hill, but for the present are taking their meals at the Bush house.

A. P. Zerby, of Sober, who came up to attend the meeting of the school directors last Thursday, remained over night in town and was an appreciative listener at the Taylor lecture. Like everybody else who was there Mr. Zerby voted it a brilliant production.

Col. Andrew Jackson Gries, of Unionville, was in town on Monday and wanted to talk politics instead of good things to eat and, of course, there was nothing doing in the conversational line, for Christmas and politics go about as well together as oysters and sugar.

E. C. and Johnny Beezer passed through town yesterday afternoon on their way from Scotia to Snow Shoe. They were driving and it was very cold, but Ed had business on hand and he is one of the kind who isn't going to let a little discomfort stand in the way of success.

Mr. E. B. Roan, of Fillmore, who is one of our regular ante-Christmas visitors, was in town yesterday. He has been reading the WATCHMAN for the last thirty years and from the excellent health it appears to be enjoying now he will continue to do so for many more to come. A little grayer 'tis true, but with a very hale gentleman.

Albert Hoy Esq., of State College, who carries his 71 years very much better than the average gentleman, was in town yesterday and his many friends here were delighted to see him. Mr. Hoy has been ill with asthma for a long time and we hope that the improvement that is noticeable will continue until he is entirely recovered.

FATHER NEVIN FISHER ELECTED FOR LIFE.—Rev. Nevin F. Fisher, who was born at Boalsburg, this county, in 1856, has just been appointed by Archbishop Ryan, to the charge of St. John's Roman Catholic church, on Thirteenth St. below Market, in Philadelphia. The position is for life. Being irremovable it was only attained through a competitive examination in which six candidates for the honor contested.

At the age of 16 he began to study for the Episcopal ministry, but shortly before the time set for his ordination he decided to embrace the Catholic faith. He studied at the theological seminary at Overbrook for three years and in 1883 was sent to the American college in Rome to complete his theological course. In 1883 he received minor orders; in 1885, deaconship, and in 1886 was ordained to the priesthood by Cardinal Parichi at St. John's Tateran's. Father Fisher celebrated his first mass in the Borghese chapel of Santa Maria Maggiore.

On his return to this country in August, 1896, Father Fisher was appointed professor in St. Charles' theological seminary, Overbrook, where he remained until 1890, when he was made inspector of parochial schools. The same year he was placed in charge of the Catholic High school of Philadelphia. He is a brother of Dr. P. S. Fisher, the well known physician of Zion.

BANQUET AFTER A SUCCESSFUL SEASON.—On Friday evening, Dec. 13th, the principals of the Academy, Rev. J. P. Hughes and his son James, tendered a delicious banquet to the members of the foot ball team at Harrison's bakery. The orchestra of the Presbyterian Sabbath school, of which Mr. J. R. Hughes is superintendent, and Mr. H. B. Heylman, the assistant superintendent, and Capt. Hugh S. Taylor, who is very popular with the Academy boys, were the guests of the evening.

Thirty-four sat down at the tables and enjoyed such a good time as only charming music, witty toasts and plenty of delicious edibles can produce. A vote of thanks was tendered to the orchestra, the guests, Mr. Harrison, and Mr. Gephart, the piano dealer for their contributions to the success of the banquet.

The record of the foot ball team of 1901 was a brilliant one. Roy McCandless, of Butler, Pa., was elected captain of the eleven for 1902.

THE WEST SUSQUEHANNA CLASSIS.—The West Susquehanna Classis of the Reformed church met in special session in St. John's church in this place last Monday to receive Rev. Ambrose M. Schmidt from Allegheny Classis and to make provision for his installation as pastor of the Bellefonte charge, to which position he was unanimously elected a few weeks ago.

Rev. Schmidt was received and enrolled as a member of the West Susquehanna, while Revs. A. A. Black, of Boalsburg, Frank Wetzel, of Rebersburg, and Warren J. Johnston, of Lock Haven, were appointed a committee to install him. The formal installation services took place Monday evening, conducted by Revs. Black and Wetzel. Rev. Johnson delivered the sermon. It was a masterful effort and aroused the most earnest attention of the large congregation present.

MUSIC INSTRUCTIONS AND TUNING.—Theodore Wahrensdorff, the piano and organ tuner and German music teacher, is stopping at Mrs. Cox's boarding house and will probably locate here.
