THE OLD-FASHIONED BOY.

Oh, for a glimpse of a natural boy-A boy with freckled face, With forehead white 'neath tangled hair

And limbs devoid of grace. Whose feet toe in, while his elbows flare; Whose knees are patched all ways; Who turns as red as a lobster when You give him a word of praise.

A boy who is born with an appetite, Who seeks the pantry shelf

To eat his ''piece'' with sounding smack— Who isn't "gone" on himself. A "Robinson Crusoe" reading boy, Whose pockets bulge with trash;

Who knows the use of rod and gun,

And where the brook trout splash. It's true he'll sit in the easiest chair, With his hat on his tousled head :

That his hands and feet are everywhere, For youth must have room to sprerd. But he doesn't dub his father "old man."

Nor deny his mother's call, Nor ridicule what his elders say. Or think that he knows it all. A rough and wholesome natural boy

Of a good old-fashioned clay; God bless him, if he's still on earth, For he'll make a man some day. -Detroit Free Press

Mystery Terminated.

The Body of Miss Nellie Cropsey Was Found Friday Floating in River.

The body of Ella Mand Cropsey, missing since Nov. 20th, has been found in the Pasquotank river, not far from Justice Cropsey's home. The indications are the girl was drowned. Whether it was suicide or murder is not positively known. There is much excitement in Elizabeth City, N. C.

Nothing in years excited the residents of Elizabeth City as did the disappearance of Miss Cropsey, who after a quarrel with her lover, left her house late at night and was swallowed up in the darkness. Miss Cropsey lived for many years in the old town of New Utrecht, N. Y., just outside of Brooklyn, and was very popular in Brooklyn society. Four years ago her father moved to Elizabeth City, where he purchased a farm, and there Miss Cropsey had lived ever since. Recently she came north and visited her aunt in Brooklyn, returning to Elizabeth City accompanied by her cousin, a woman of about her own

QUARRELED WITH HER LOVER.

Miss Cropsey had received attentions from James Wilcox, a young and prosperous resident of this place, and the couple was considered engaged by the village gos-Then came a quarrel, and for many days the couple avoided each other. But on the evening of Nov. 20th Wilcox called upon his sweetheart and passed the evening in the company of herself and her

When at a late hour he arose from his chair togo, he asked Ella Cropsey if she would accompany him to the veranda, as he wished to speak with her. She readily assented, as the friendship which had existed between the couple had again apparantly been resumed, and she walked out to the veranda in his comn half hour passed before Miss Cropsey's cousin thought of looking for her, and then she walked out to the veranda and looked about, but the young woman was Searching the grounds and finding no trace of the girl, her cousin returned to the house and alarmed the family. No trace of the missing girl was found, and finally bloodhounds were brought to the house and were placed upon the scent. They led the searching party to the Pasquotank river, and the river was dragged for the body of the girl, but without result.

The search was continued unceasingly from that day. Feeling ran very high against Wilcox, who was arrested, but denied knowing anything of the girl's disappearance, saying he had left her on the porch crying over a quarrel.

Business was practically suspended Saturday which was observed as one of mourning. Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock the remains of the unfortunate girl were taken from the Cropsey home to the little Methodist Episcopal church, where simple services was held in accordance with the wishes of the family.

With each hour the sentiment against Wilcox, the girl's lover, is growing, and open threats of lynching have been made.

It is feared that an attack will be made on the jail. It is the intention of the authorities to withdraw the naval militia after its service. If this is done the citizens say that Wilcox may be lynched Sunday

"I am confident that Nellie Cropsey was murdered," said Solicitor Ward to-night. "I shall do everything in my power to have the offender punished for his crime."

Potatoes Being Imported.

Price, Including Freight and Tax, Far Below Cost of Home Product.

For the first time in seven years, says the New York "Commercial Advertiser, New Yorkers are eating imported potatoes. The Red Star line steamship Southwark, which arrived last week with a consignment of 90,000 bushels of Belgium potators, will be followed this week by a Rotterdam ship and a Glascow ship, both potato laden.

The explanation of the exportation is simply that potatoes have reached a price at which it is more profitable to import them than to purchase them from home growers. Time was when this farinaceous vegetable could be bought at 60 cents a barcel. To-day they command from $2.30 to $2.40 a barrel.

When this price is reached the purchasing agent of the American importer buys potatoes in Belgium, France or Scotland at 75 cents a barrel. The duty on potatoes being 25 cents per bushel of sixty pounds, the importer is taxed another 75 cent for his barrel. Another 25c for freight brings the cost of potatoes up to $1.75 a barrel on the pier at New York The fact that the growers in Michigan, Maine and New York demands more than this on the ground is inducement enough for the importer to run the double risk of a slump in the market or of his potatoes spoiling on the way. The total estimated quantity of imported potatoes this year is fixed at 500,000 ils, a mere? drop in the bucket when it is remembered that Gothamites consume 25,000 bushels of this fruit per day.

U. S. Senator Sewell Dead.

Expected End Came Friday Morning. His Family by His Bedside. Sketch of His Career

United States Senator William J. Sewell died at his home at Camden at 9:30 a. m. Friday. He suffered from diabetes, com plicated with stomach and heart trouble. Senator Sewell's illness had extended over a period of two years, but his condi- der tion was not considered serious until about one year ago. His constant attention to the Millheim. duties devolving upon him in his official capacity resulted, in 1899, in a collapse. A trip to Europe was beneficial, and he soon recovered sufficiently to resume his duties.

Toward the end of the last session of Congress he developed a complication of diseases, and, acting on the advice of his physicians, again visited various health resorts in Europe. Upon his return, his condition showing no improvement, he went to Asheville, N. C., where he remained two months. He returned to his home about four weeks ago, and for a few days a slight improvement in his condition was Within the past two weeks a succession of sinking spells greatly weakened him and compelled his physicians to abandon the hope of prolonging his life. When death came the Senator's family was gathered about his bedside. He had been unconscious for some time before the end.

William J. Sewell, of Camden, N. J. was born in Ireland in 1835 and came to America at an early age. He engaged in mercantile pursuits. At the outbreak of the Civil War he was commissioned as Captain in the Fifth New Jersey Volunteers and served during the War. He was brevetted Brigadier General for distinguished services at Chancellorsville and Major General for gallant services during the War. He was wounded at Chancellorsville and Gettysburg.

After the War General Sewell became connected with the railroads of the New Jersey branches of the Pennsylvania Railroad system. He was elected as a Republican to the New Jersey Senate from Camden county in 1872; reelected in 1875 and again in 1878, and was President of the Senate in 1876, 1879, and 1880, when his party was in power. While yet a member of the Legislature he was elected to the United States Senate in 1881, as the successor of Senator Theodore F. Randolph, and served until the close of the term in 18-87. He was elected as a delegate to the Republican national conventions of 1876. 1880, 1884, 1888, 1892, and 1896, and on each occasion he was made chairman of his delegation. He was one of the national grief, and told him I could send a man commissioners for New Jersey of the World's Fair at Chicago and was vice president of the board of managers for the national home for disabled volunteer soldiers. General Sewell was in command of the National Guard of New Jersey and was also connected with the management of various banks, trust companies, and philanthropic societies. On the breaking out of the Spanish-American War he was appointed a Major General, but at the unanimous request of the Republican members of the Senate he did not take the field. General Sewell had been again elected to the Senate in 1895 to succeed the Hon. John R Mc Pherson, Democrat, and was chosen to succeed himself last year.

Tired of Office.

Governor of Nebraska Would Rather Be Back on the Farm.

Governor Savage of Nebraska has troubles of his own, even in the magnificently appointed chambers of the Executive Mansion of Nebraska. "I would rather stand and look at a piglet squealing for a place at the trough," he said one day, "than sit in a luxuriously appointed office and hear the chronic office seekers squealing for some sort of a snap. There is something soothing and restful about a barnyard. It is pleasure to lean against a haystack and converse with a hired man who has no axes to grind, whose highest ambition is to borrow a chew of tobacco. I take more pride in my ability to guess the weight of a fat hog than I do in my capacity to hold the helm of the ship of state."

That't just it. A man nearly breaks his neck trying to get loose from his farm, and after he has accomplished it and gets what the world calls "way up," he is just as anxious to get back on the land again. The contented man on a good farm, with a little money in the bank, has this world beaten to a finish .- Minnesota Journal.

Missouri River Leaks

Engineers and River Men Think Wells Lessened The Stream

Civil engineers and river men who have been watching the course of the Missouri river for some time, endeavoring to account for the extremely low stage of water, believe that some subterranean waste of the waters that were formerly drained by the Missouri river is gradually lessening the volume of water.

ally dwindling, until now the river is so low that it has much the appearance in places of a sluggish creek, with only a narrow stream of water between its banks. It has been suggested that the opening of artesian wells through the Dakotas and the great combined flow of these wells is the cause of the lessened volume of water in the river. - Detroit Free Press.

Governor Shaw a Temperance Man.

It is said that Governor Shaw, of Iowa. who is to succeed Secretary Gage in the Treasury Department, is a very strong temperance advocate, who absolutely re-fused to allow the use of drinkables in connection with his inaugurations as Governor. He even would not permit dancing at the first induction into office, but loosened up enough to allow it the second time. He is a member of the Methodist church.

One Grave for Three Men.

Families of Explosion Victims Could Not Identify

The remains of the three men who were ourned to death in the explosion at the Sharpville blast furnace, at Sharon, Friday were buried in one grave. Although the names of the victims are known, identification was impossible, and the families de-cided to hold but one funeral. The men being of different religious faiths separate services were conducted by two ministers

Miners Who Sheltered a Stranger Bequeathed Small Fortune

George Adams, a miner living in the vicinity of Shaner, Westmoreland county, has fallen heir to a fortune of $5,000 under peculiar circumstances. One cold night several years ago a stranger, quite old, appeared at his door and begged for a night's lodging. The man told a sad story. He was taken in and given supper and lodging. The next morning the man was too. sick to proceed and he lay for a week, at-tended by Adams and his wife.

Last week Benjamin Craig died near Denver, Col. He had considerable means, but few relatives. Among the bequests was one of $5,000 to Mr. Adams. A Denver lawyer is the administrator of the will, and has just notified Mr. Adams that the amount will be duly forwarded to him.
