

The annual sleigh rides of the students of the Pennsylvania State College have been occurring this week and every night the streets have been alive with College boys. It has been a matter of general comment how well behaved they have been. Several years ago it was necessary to arrest several of them before they could be made to realize that private property is not to be destroyed at the caprice of a college student and since then they have acted admirably on coming to Bellefonte. The police are instructed to give them every liberty consistent with good order and the result of it is the boys have a good time, are as hilarious as they care to be and the people of the town are not annoyed. We are glad to have them come and must congratulate the boys on their good behavior.

Hulersburg.

Miss Mary Lesh, of Zion, was a pleasant caller in town Tuesday.

Miss Margaret Sharp, of Loveville, spent Sunday with her parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Marris Minor, of Howard, spent Sunday at L. H. Yocum's.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Stover visited friends at Pleasant Gap over Sunday.

Lloyd Markle has been housed up for a few days, the result of a bilious attack.

Charles Cox, of Bellefonte, spent a few days visiting at the home of Harry Clevenstine.

A party of ladies from town were entertained at the Gentzel home one day last week.

Rev. Crow was third party at the wedding of Miss Clara Fulton and Herbert Dean, of Mingoville, at his home last Thursday.

The high school scholars contemplate holding an oyster supper Saturday evening Feb. 15th, to help defray the expenses on an organ for the school room.

On Tuesday the remains of Miss Julia Swartz, formerly a resident of this town, but lately of Bellefonte, passed through town on their way to their last resting place in Snyder town cemetery.

A party of Bellefonte young people were pleasantly entertained at the home of Samuel Hoy last Friday night. Also a party of old and young people from our town were entertained at the home of George Young at Heala last Friday night.

The Woman's Missionary Society will hold a union meeting the afternoon and evening of Feb. 20th. C. M. Bower Esq., of Bellefonte, and Rev. Warren Johnson, pastor of the Reformed church, of Lock Haven, aided by home talent will constitute the line of entertainers.

Pine Grove Mentions.

Mrs. H. M. Krebs is on the sick list but is improving.

Tuesday is election day. Get out the vote and vote straight.

Mrs. J. M. Kepler has been confined to bed for two weeks with a serious attack of the grip.

J. D. Nearhood has had another addition to his family. The latest one is a boy and he is number eleven.

Postmaster J. G. Hess is recovering from a week's illness with grip. During his indisposition his position was filled admirably by his deputy P. M. Smith.

The Odd Fellows of Penns Valley Lodge, 276 are constantly adding new members to the rolls. Recently ten young men were initiated into the mysteries of the order.

Clarence G. Milligen, of Reedsville, has been skinning around among the farmers in quest of fresh cows. He found plenty of them at low prices and bought a car load.

H. M. Snyder is arranging to build a barn on the site of the one that was burned last fall. W. B. Ward is the contractor and operations will begin as soon as the weather permits.

Mrs. Olie Bowersox, who has been under medical treatment in Philadelphia for the last four months, was brought home last week. She is some better but there is no encouragement that her life will be prolonged greatly.

Last week Will Corl and Olin Hoy journeyed to the sunny South to grow cotton and sweet potatoes in North Carolina. They have come home, though, very well satisfied with the climate and country but not with the darkeys.

A merry crowd of young folks sledged from Baileyville last Friday night and halted at the hospitable home of John G. Bailey. They captured it on the first charge and were served by Mrs. Bailey and her daughter, Mary, with ample refreshments.

Ruth Koch, while standing too close to the hot stove in the Kepler school house discovered her dress had caught fire. Some of the older scholars, with much presence of mind, smothered the fire and she escaped with only her dress burned and her hair singed.

Rev. J. C. Weisley, of Tyrone, ably filled the pulpit in the Graysville Presbyterian church last Sunday. Since the resignation of the former pastor, Rev. H. C. Love, the church has been pastorless. Rev. Lewis, of Osceola, will preach in the church at the usual hour on next Sunday.

Carriage maker W. S. Bailey, of State College, passed through town Thursday with a bran new wagon that is to be used on the free rural delivery route No. 3 in Huntingdon county. J. H. Black has been appointed route man and the distribution office will be at Alexandria. The route includes McConnellsville, Hatfield and the starting place.

Reed Randolph came over from Ennisville on Monday to view his new possession, the St. Elmo. Mr. Randolph is a pleasant, sociable gentleman and no doubt will make a first class landlord. He is a straight out Democrat and will be a valuable acquisition to the party. He will take possession of the hotel about April 1st.

Misses Kate and Emma Dale Sundayed at J. K. Dale's at the Glades. While driving home with William Fry behind a pair of prancing horses they managed to tumble out just at the very spot where Ira Holmes had his accident. The team ran about 30 rods dragging the driver through the snow banks. The sleigh was finally righted, and the trio went on their way rejoicing.

Mrs. Penina Davidson, wife of Stewart Davidson, died at her home at McAlevy's Fort on Sunday morning at 2 o'clock of heart disease. She was a consistent member of the United Presbyterian church and was buried in the churchyard at McAlevy's Fort on Monday at 2 o'clock with Rev. H. N. Freeman officiating. Her husband, four sisters and two brothers survive her.

J. D. and Jennie Neidigh are mourning the death of their little six months old son, Albert Leroy. He died Monday evening at their home at Pennsylvania Furnace after a short illness with pneumonia. Interment was made at Pine Hall on Wednesday at 3 o'clock with Rev. A. A. Black officiating. Mr. and Mrs. Neidigh have the sympathy of the community for it is only recently that they were called to part with their older boy who died from the effects of injuries received from a lime spreader.

Mrs. Sarah Fry, wife of Hiram Fry, died Monday morning at her home in Shingleton after a short illness of pneumonia and paralysis. Her age was 63 years and she had been a member of the Reformed church since girlhood. She is survived by the following sisters and brothers: Mrs. Jacob Herman, Lemont; Phoebe, Mary and Alexander, of Shingletown, and David W., John C., and George, of this place. Her children are, Mrs. John Cronmiller, of Centre Line; Mary, Nora, Alice, Sadie, Effie, John, Henry and Wilson Fry all at home. Interment was made in the Boulders cemetery Thursday morning at 10 o'clock, Rev. A. Black officiating, assisted by the Rev. D. A. Hepler.

Centre Hall.

Mercury is still hovering around the zero mark.

Frank Geary spent Sunday with his parents (?) at Millheim.

Edward Sellers is running his foundry full force at present, getting ready to supply the spring trade in corn planters, etc. The products of this plant are first class in every respect.

Spring Mills.

There will be quite a number of removals and changes in our village the coming spring.

E. B. Owen and wife, of Lewistown, made a visit here of a day or two last week, the guests of Mr. Charles Miller.

As the days lengthen, the cold strengthens, is an old proverb—it has been verified with a vengeance the past week. Too cold for even a sleigh ride.

The measles still prevail in this neighborhood. Nearly every family here have or had one or more patients. Fortunately the disease is of a very mild character.

Since the sleighing set in quite a large number of travelers have taken advantage of it. Edwin Rhul, the village landlord, reports an excellent business. While Wm. Rhul, the liverman, regrets his inability to supply his demand for sleighs. His half a dozen teams are out almost night and day.

On Saturday last, while Andrew Corman was grooming his horse, the animal suddenly kicked him in the face, rendering him unconscious. How long he was lying in that condition in the stable he hardly knows. Upon recovering he went to the house and discovered that he had received several ugly wounds from the kick and in falling but fortunately none of a very serious character.

A few evenings since, having some business in the neighborhood of the Loop, and having an idle hour or two on hand, I called upon a highly esteemed friend, Mr. D. L. Kerr, the well-known retired farmer of that locality, and of course met with a cordial reception. Mr. Kerr is a gentleman of very refined and polished manners, a brilliant conversationalist, highly entertaining and a prince of hospitality. During my brief visit he related many amusing anecdotes of his early days, and some quite lively incidents which occurred when much of that section was little better than a howling wilderness. Finally we drifted into politics. Mr. Kerr is a Jacksonian Democrat without any ifs or buts, and I soon discovered that he was a close observer, and well informed on all the leading political questions of the day, and in the classics, too, he is by no means a novice. I can scarcely recall a time when I passed a few hours so agreeably and intelligently as I did on this occasion, all the surroundings were so cheerful and homelike, that my visit was simply a delightful entertainment. On taking my leave, which I must confess I did very reluctantly, Mr. Kerr delivered quite a peremptory mandate—that under no circumstances should I pass his residence, but always to stop and have a friendly chat, and an exchange of views over a cup of fine old government coffee.

In Memoriam.

State College lost one of its best known and most highly esteemed residents in the recent death of Mrs. Margaret G. McKee who, while apparently in her usual health, was suddenly stricken with apoplexy on Saturday evening, Jan. 25th. She survived this shock for several days, receiving the tender care and loving ministrations of her family, but died without regaining consciousness. Mrs. McKee and her husband, Professor J. Y. McKee, came to the State College, or The Agricultural College as it was then called, in 1868; so that of all the families living in the village that had official connection with the College, hers was the oldest. Prof. McKee, who died ten years ago, was a man of great nobility of character, profound intellect, and varied attainments. His death was an irreparable loss not only to his family, but to the College and the community for he was a kind and affectionate husband and father, a fine teacher, a college official of superior executive ability, and a public spirited citizen. Mrs. McKee was especially fortunate in her domestic relations. During her widowhood the chief comfort of her life was her children, who were worthy of their parentage, and of whom she was justly proud. Mrs. McKee had a strong personality, and possessed many admirable qualities of head and heart, which were most appreciated by those who knew her intimately. She was an excellent neighbor, generous to the needy, a loyal friend, a devoted wife and mother, and a sincere Christian.

Emory Brumbaugh, a farmer near Williamsburg, made from thirteen cows, from January 1st, 1901, to January 1st, 1902, 3,405 pounds of butter; fed $80 worth of hogs on skimmed milk; sold $30 worth of calves; has $20 worth on hand, and sold $10 worth of drawn cheese, amounting in all to $991.25.
