AFFECT COMMISSION OF THE PARTY

The Ship Subsidy Bill.

The ship subsidy bill is practically certain to become a law at this session of Congress and present indications point to its passage at an early date. The Senate has agreed to a vote next Monday with the certainty that it will have a safe majority and under existing rules it can be railroaded through the House of Representatives within a few days of the time it reaches that body. If ROOSEVELT were the same independent and courageous man that he was before the ambition to be President seized him he could be depended on to veto so palpably a vicious measure. But under the influence of the party machine he, too, will be dragooned into the support of the bill and his signature will make it a law.

Reports from Washington are to the effect that the Democrats of the Senate have allowed the measure to pass that body with the idea of making it a political issue in the coming congressional elections. A bill which deliberately robs the treasury of $270,000,000 in order to bestow that vast sum on a trust organized for the purpose of taking the bounty, it is reasoned, an active and uncompromising opposition to the party responsible for it. No doubt sage of such legislation to the full extent of its power and the failure to do so may temper the indignation against the majori-

To our minds, therefore, it would have been infinitely better for the Democrats in the Senate to exhaust every available expedient to defeat the bill. That probably would have been impossible under the circumstances for the full pressure of the party machine has been brought to bear in behalf of the monstrosity. But in that event the onus of the evil would have been on the majority and the credit of the resistance on the other side so that the full force of the issue would have been felt in the impending campaign. Besides, in that event the measure might have been delayed long enough in the Senate to have given a chance to defeat it in the House and Howard charge and added to Nittany cirthat would have been a most substantial vietory.

The Grangers on a Few Public Questions.

Grange held a meeting at Harrisburg last C. Winter.

Revs. W. E. Detwiler, A. H. Irvine, U. their views on various public subjects, in a manner that leaves no doubt as to where the Grangers think they stand on these questions. That an expression of these views will do any good we have very grave doubts. It is not the views but votes of Abdera, Pa.; J. S. Austine, Baltimore, the kind to which reference is made. They reading this fall when plenty of people belonging to the organization for which this executive committee speaks and acts, are whooping it up for the very men and measures that are so freely denounced to day: granted his credentials.

Rev. E. C. Basom received his creden-The official heads of the Grange now talk as follows :

"The severity of the recent freshets and the immense damage done thereby call forci-bly to mind the needs for the preservation of our forests and we recommend that farmers and others plant forest seeds and trees on hill sides and rough and waste lands, which in time would hold the snows and rains from sudden flow and prevent soil from being washed away. In this connection we desire to specially commend the good work done by WASHINGTON. our forestry commissioner, Dr. J. T. Roth-rock. And we would urge upon people gen-erally greater care and assistance in preventing forest fires. "We respectfully call the attention of the creating the Department of Agriculture wherein provision is made requiring the presentation of the subject of taxation, and regret the requirements of the law in refusing to department.

We also call the attention of the Governor and the Secretary of Agriculture to the act of the Legislature appropriating $35,000, of which $5,000 was set aside for a state agricultural exhibit at the Charleston exposition, and would inquire why this provision of the act has not been carried into effect, thereby showing the agricultural resources of the State. We condemn this negligence and inefficiency as being on a par with the failure of the enforcement of the oleomargarine

"We hereby enter our protest against the expenditure of the $5,000 for any other purpose than that provided for in the act. we urge the United States Senators from Pennsylvania to use all honorable means to further the passage of the House measure providing for the election of United States Senators by a direct vote of the people.

"We hereby thank the Members of the House of Representatives from Pennsylvania

House of Representatives from Pennsylvania who voted in favor of the Henry oleo bill and urge its passage through the Senate.
"We again enter our protest against the passage of the irrigation and ship subsidy bills. We insist that the grange platform of a tariff for all or a tariff for none, be carried out in the adjustment of our import duties on our new foreign possessions, and a reduc-tion of duty on farm products shall be fol-lowed by a corresponding reduction on manu-factured products."

Conscience and the Trust.

The struggle between the beet sugar trust and the conscience of Congress still continues in Washington and with varying prospects. One day the information comes that the monoply is certain to win and the next day it is contradicted in circumstantial detail. At this writing conjecture is the best that can be offered, though the chances are that if the patronage of the government is thrown on the side of conscience it will turn the scales. Such a turn of affairs appears probable now.

The honor of the government, as well as the conscience of the country, is involved in this contest. When this country voluntarily assumed the guardianship of Cuba it was with an implied pledge that the obligation would be discharged with due respect to justice. But when the fulfilment of that pledge touched on the greed of ern section of the city, was one continuous fore them but the plain sailing of the transthe beet sugar trust it was soon sent scurrying through space. The trust has neither honor nor compassion and the wail of factories and residences were lined with the starving thousands in Cuba had no in- spectators. Prince Henry was thoroughly fluence on its actions.

The Republican caucus has held three sessions on the subject but thus far has and forty minutes in going through the reached no conclusion. The latest reports indicate that the President proposes to take an active part in the fight, however, and if that promise is supported by action, there is still hope. No agency is quite as potential as "the offices," as FLANIGAN of Texas calls the patronage of the executive, and when the post-offices and the revenue collectorships are thrown after threats of presidential disfavor, there is likely to be a revelation.

Prince Henry's Last Day and Departure | Prince Henry Bids Goodbye to America

PHILADELPHIA, March 11.-On Prince Henry's last day in America it was only fitting that he should visit the birthplace of the nation's freedom. Thrice before he had stolen through in the dead of night, and only a few had caught a glimpse of a flying palace on wheels. The Prince's train left Jersey City at 8:20 o'clock, and the special made a fast run across the intervening country. Its dis-tinguished passenger had often declared that he liked speed and lots of action and he got it. The train had a clear track and and almost flew over the 90 miles or so separating the two big cities. The mayor of the city and the reception committee were waiting on the station platform, and when the train had stopped they were immediately ushered into the royal presence. There was a pleasant interchange of greetings. Then between long lines of policemen the city's guest and his suite were escorted to carriages awaiting below.

The streets through which the Prince passed from the municipal building to Independence Hall were thronged with cheering people, and the right hand of the royal was kept constantly in motion acknowledging the welcome ovations. On the wide plaza in front of the historic old structure stands a statue of George Washington. A roar of applause greeted the action of his royal highness, when he, on and proceeded to the assembly room. He was informed that it was in this room the Declaration of Independence was signed, and he displayed much interest in the colonial and revolutionary relics exhibited in the adjoining room. The Prince was presented with an illustrated album containing a history of Independence Hall. In the corridor of the building ten veterans of greet the Prince. In taking his leave of Mr. Cramp, who escorted him through the yard, the Prince said : "I could stay here all night." The Prince was first taken into the department where marine engines are built, and from there he was escorted to the battleship Maine, which was launched last summer. Mr. Cramp then took the Prince to the Russian battleship Retvizan, which will leave for Russia as soon as the ice white, with her sides lined with hundred

The fight in which General Methuen was captured occurred before dawn on March 7th, between Wynburg and Listhenburg, Orange River colony. The British force numbered 1,200 men. The Boers captured all the British baggage. General Methuen is retained as a prisoner.

The text of Lord Kitchener's dispatch announcing the capture of General Methuen is as follows:

"PRETORIA, Saturday, March 8. I greatly regret to have to send you bad news of Methuen. He was moving with 900 mounted men, under Major Paris, and 300 infantry, four guns and a pom-pom, from Wynburg to Litchenburg, and was to meet Grenfell, with 1,300 to-day. Yester-day morning early he was attacked by Delarey's force, between Twebosch and Palmietknill. The Boers charged on three sides.

In a second dispatch, dated Sunday,

March 9th, Lord Kitchener says: "Paris has come in at Kraaipan, with the remainder of the men. He reports that the column was moving in two parties. One with the ox wagons, left Twebosch at 3 a. m. The other, with the mule wagons, started an hour later. Just before dawn the Boers attacked. Before reinforcements could reach them, the rear guard broke. In the meantime a large number of Boers galloped up on both flanks. These, at first, were checked by the flank parties, but the mule wagons, with a terrible mixture of mounted men, rushed past the ox wagons.

All efforts to check them were unvailing. 'Major Paris collected forty men and oc cupied a position a mile in front of the ox wagons, which were then halted. After a gallant but useless defense, the enemy rushed in to the ox wagons and Methuen was wounded in the thigh. Paris, being surrounded, surrendered at 10 a. m. Methuen is still in the Boer camp."

Figures are Significant

From the Altoona Times.

When William A. Stone was elected Governor of the State of Pennsylvania four years ago, he did not receive a majority of all the votes cast. There was in 1898 an overwhelming perponderance of Republican voters in this Commonwealth. Stone is a minority Governor. Figures which show how rapidly a large Republican plurality in this State can be reduced are significant. In 1900 William McKinley was the choice of the people of this State for the Presidency. He had a plurality over William J. Bryan of 288,433. One year afterwards there was a fusion opposition to the machine ticket. The immense plurality received by McKinley was reduced to 45,570 votes. There are nearly a million and a quarter of voters in this want to State. A margin of 45,570 is not very down. much to wipe out.

The Best Telephoned City. What is the best telephoned city in the world? San Francisco seems to be the answer. In that city, with a population of 342,782, there are 21,324 telephones, or sixty-two per thousand. In Europe, Copenhagen is probably the best telephoned city, with 15,311 telephones to its 312,859 of population, equal to forty-nine per thousand. In Copenhagen, too, the best conditions for the public exist, although the rates are relatively as high as those in American cities. London compares very unfavorably with these figures. At the beginning of this year there were 41.-111 telephones to a population of more than 5,500,000, or a proportion of seven to every thousand people. New York, with a population of 2,350,000, had 54,647 instruments, or twenty-six to a thousand.

Husbands' Motto a Bible Verse. The Husbands' Protection society of London has as its motto the naive verse found in what is known as the Wife Beater's Bible, published in 1549, museums and libraries. This verse is as follows:

"He dwelleth wyth his wyfe accordinge to his knowledge and taketh her as a necessarve healper and not as a bonde servant or a bonde slave. And if she be not obedient and helpfull to conditions. hym he endeavoureth to beate the fear of God into her heade that thereby she maye be compelled to learne her dutie and to do it."-London News.
