LITERARY NOTES FROM THE CENTURY CO.—The increasing interest in civic improvement will be reflected in a paper by Sylvester Baxter in the April Century entitled "The Beautifying of Village and Town," being an introduction to other papers of a more specific nature, presenting examples of good ideas well executed, and, for purposes of contrast, good ideas ill executed. These papers are to be illustrated by Jules Guerin, whose refined work is in keeping with the standard of beauty which the writer will advocate in the text.

In choice and printing of illustrations the monthly Magazine Numbers of The Outlook have greatly improved of late, and the April Magazine Number has pictorially both distinction and variety. The list of illustrated articles includes an elaborate presentation of the plans for beautifying Washington, by Mr. Albert F. Baldwin, with a dozen beautiful pictures from the artist's original drawings and maps of "Washington Fifty Years Hence," a thrilling account of experiences on the Antarctic Continent by Mr. Boeckgrevinck, the leader of the expedition of 1898, and the first man to set foot on the Antarctic continent, with reproductions of many of the explorer's own photographs; portraits and brief sketches of the new Secretary of the Navy, Mr. Moody, Admiral Kempff, and the Rev. Stopford A. Brooke; a notable article on "Education in the Philippines," by the Hon. Fred W. Atkinson, Superintendent of Public Education in the Philippines, with photographs taken for the purpose; a further installment of Dr. Edward Everett Hale's "Memories of a Hundred Years," and the Lambert Masterpieces," an account of the remarkable art collection made by Mr. Lambert, a silk manufacturer of Patterson, N. J., with reproductions of paintings by Lawrence, Romney, Reynolds, Botticelli and other great artists. In this, as in all the magazine numbers, the current history of the world and progress of literature are recorded and interpreted as fully as in the unillustrated weekly issues.
