Don't Tell Anyone.

A Simple Calculation Shows How a Story Grows.

One never knows how fast and how far a rumor may fly. A shrewd and keen observ-er once said, "the second deadliest weapon known is a dynamite gun—the most dead-ly a human tongue." A simple little mathematical calculation may serve to show how easy it is to blast a reputation, break a heart or wreck the life of a sensitive human

If you by chance have come into possession of a disgraceful, discreditable or slightly dubious fact about your friend or neighbor and carelessly repeat it to two friends that day, three persons will know it. Not very many but if each of these two persons tells it to two more seven persons will know it. If a thing of this kind could be kept within these mederate bounds, each person who heard it telling it to only two others and not telling those two till the day after it was heard, 32,735 persons would know it at the end of the second week. There would not be enough people in Centre county to hear it—it would be necessary to take in several miles of the surrounding country. This may seem exaggerated but it is a moderate estimate—the first impulse of the average person who learns a bit of news is to tell and very seldom does the telling stop when two persons have been inform-

The change of a word, an inflection, lift of the eyebrows or a shrug of the shoulders may give an entirely different meaning to a story—be careful not only what you say, but how you say it.

There is a story told of a woman who was addicted to repeating unpleasant and unnecessary things about her neighbors and Mr. Otey, of Virginia, recalls many details of the journey of the state militia, made to Harper's Ferry when John Brown was executed. realizing that it was not the right thing she resolved to stop it but found the habit was too strong to be broken easily. In her extremity she appealed to a friend for as-

> She Got it in Drinking Water. Doctors Thought it Was Appendicitis, But it Was

A large frog was removed from a woman's stomach in St. Catherine's hospital, in Williamsburg, L. I, the other day. The woman is Mrs. Charles Burtis, of Hopewell Junction, near Matteawan, N. Y. She had been suffering from a trouble which baffled her physicians for some time. It was finally decided that an operation for appendicitis would be advisable and she was taken to the Williamsburg hospital.

A Fishkill, N. Y., doctor performed the operation, which revealed that she was not suffering from appendicitis. But the doctors did discover and remove from her stomach a live frog, said to have been five inches long. It is supposed that she swallowed the frog when it was very small, while she nent lawyers, one of whom was a judge. All his officers belong to the highest classes of twas drinking water.

This item is for the fifteen year old boy who thinks it is a smart thing to act so mean at school that he wears out the life of his teacher and destroys the good work which the school was intended to accomplish. This sort of heathen are found in country as well as town schools. They are too big for the little woman to thrash and seem to have no moral sense which may be appealed to. Now, boys, you are architects of your own fortunes. You can improve the educational advantages given you and become useful and worthy citizens or you can raise Cain, as you do at school, graduate from there into a brake beam tramp and die a dirty bum. You can make your choice. The sure way to get into plenty of trouble when grown to manhood is to make lots of trouble in the public schools. You ought to have the meanness well licked out of you, but the teacher can't do it, your father 'won't and the school board had rather fire you than lick you. Fun and plenty of it is a birthright of the American boy, but your type of meanness is not fun; it is the outcropping of the heathen in you, and you ng with the Moros or Tagals of the Philippines rather than with the people of civilized North America.
