The Flowers of May.

How to Distinguish Some that Seem Alike. May and June are the royal months for wild flowers. There are no such showy masses of color as come in July with the daisies, or in August with the goldenrod, but all the wonderful world of the woodswhich later sobers down to the cool sum, mer greenness, is twinkling with countless delicate flowers, and flowering trees-shadbush and cherry and hawthorn-are breaking into blossoms overhead. Most of these beautiful little wild flowers can be easily distioguished by striking color or shape—the violets, purple or yel-low, the rose-pink fringed pologala (some-times given the name "lady's-slipper," to which it has not the smallest resemblance); but there are five or six small white flowers, blossoming at about the same time, that are enough alike to be often mistaken for one another, though when you once know and love them you will never confuse them. Last spring a little girl-quite a big little girl-asked me to tell her the name of "that little starry white thing that grows in the woods." Going out to look for it. I found she was not quite sure which of four flowers she meant. The best known of these small white blossoms is the anemone (Anemone nemorosa crowfoot family), which nearly every child has seen and picked. The plant, which grows for the most part in open pastures, forming little colonies about old stumps and sunken boulders, is from four to six inches high. It has a straight, slender stem, crowned with a whorl of three very smooth, trifoliate (that is, having three separate leaflets), deeply notched leaves, from the middle of which springs the still more slender flower stem. They Contain Everything Necessary to Supply the Waste of the Body and in View of the Present High Price of Meats Should Be Eaten, He Thinks.

Protessor.

WASHINGTON, May 5.-Prof. H. W. Wiley, chief chemist of the Department of Agriculture, in a discussion to-day called forth by the present prevailing high price of beef. earnestly advocated the more general use of cereals as food. Prof. Wiley said that without going into the question of price, Indian corn, wheat, oats, iye and rice contained, so far as actual nourishment was concerned, everything necessary to supply the waste of the body and give the necessary heat and energy of the system, and said it was well known that men nourished on cereals were capable of the hardest and most enduring manual labor. Meats were quickly digested and furnished an abundance of energy soon after consumption, but were not retained in the digestive organism long enough to sustain perma neut muscular action. On the other hand, cereal foods were more slowly digested.furnished the energy necessary to digestion and the vital functions of a more uniform manner, and were thus better suited to sustain hard manual labor for a long period of time. The workingmen of the country, Prof. Wiley said, should consider this point and accustom themselves more and more to the use of cereals in their foods. When properly prepared and served they are, he said, palatable as well as nutritions, and their indicious use would tend to diminish the craving for meats, which, however, it was not advisable to exclude entirely from the diet.

Prof. Wiley said it seemed probable that the prices of meat. now abnormally high, would never again descend to as low a point as was reached a few years ago, and that the condition which now confronted the American people was, therefore, one of considerable permanency and should be met and considered as such.

Thought to Verify Rumor of Merger.

BOSTON, May 5.-New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad stock made a phenomenal record on both the Boston and New York stock exchange to-day. A net gain of 20 per cent on the face value of common stock, backed up with a volume of trade such as has not been apparent since the memorable coup of '88, was again in force and the stock went to $254 per share.

The sky-rocket manipulation is believed in State street to be an actual verification of the story current for six months past that Pennsylvania, New York Central and New Haven interests were planning an amalgamation. It was announced during the day that President Cassatt, of the Pennsylvania company, has been in conference with Mayor Low at New York over the terminal proposition and it developed that the New Haven property was to be granted special privileges and advantages in the proposed terminus.

This is taken by State street capitalists and those identified with New England railroad affairs to mean that the Pennsylvania people propose to secure a propor tionate percentage of New Haven stock with a view to later assuming such control as will warrant them in handling the Boston end in connection with their southern and western business. It was noticeable on the local exchange to-day that the transitory movement in New Haven stock received due support from Pennsylvania

Sausage Envelopes of Paper.

Those fond of the sansage will perhaps be interested to learn of the very latest innovation in the bologna and sausage making industry. One of the largest bologna man-ufacturing concerns in New York has just received its consignment of the new envelopes, which had been ordered a short time ago from a firm in Germany for its sausages and bolognas. The new envelopes, made entirely of paper, are to supersede the skins, which never have been entirely satisfactory from a hygienic standpoint. The new pa-per envelopes are cheaper, cleaner, and, of course, not liable to fermentation, and hence are greatly to be preferred to the use of the skin. They are made in Wurtemburg.

Intend to retain prisoners until two or three small adjacent forts occupied, then, with your consent, to retain as hostages eight or ten of the principals and release the others. The force in line of advance consisted of four mountain guns, 470 rifles. This fully sufficient. Could not have used more men advantageously. Had we sent strong column it would only have swelled the casualty list. One neighboring datto has already presented himself as a friend and I expect a general coming in shortly when the weight of the blow is known. The dead sent to Malabang for burial. In light of present knowledge, could have besieged the principal forts and in time forced surrender, but that would probably have resulted in a sortie for free-dom and escape for many. A tragic accident occurred at Port Royal A tragic accident occurred at Port Royal Friday evening in which August, the 2 year old child of Lewis Copett met a terri-ble death. A paling broken from the fence made an opening large enough for the child to crawl through. While alone for a short time the little fellow discovered the appetture and arounded through to the the aperture and crawled through to the railroad tracks just outside of the fence and was struck by a fast train and instantly killed. The father discovered his child on the tracks and hurried out to take it from the tracks and was quite seriously injured in his futile attempt to rescue it. The parents had a small amount of insurance on its life.—Greensburg Tribune.

Mr. Palmer retired from mercan-tile in 1865 and so liberal had been his policy in meeting public requirements during the war that the government was indebted to him to the extent of three quar-ters of a million dollars. On disposing of his dry goods interests, Mr. Palmer invested largely in Chicago real estate and began the erection of business buildings. When the fire came in 1871 he owned thirty-two old structures on State street, every one of which was destroyed. His losses were very heavy, but his faith in Chicago was unshaken and he borrowed money to enable him to reconstruct enough the buildings. He had already commenced the construction of the Palmer house hotel and after the fire the work of building was resumed. It was completed at a cost of $2,000,000, and resulted in the handsomest and most substantial hotel in the country at that time. His real estate holdings continued to increase in value until to day his fortune is estimated at $25,000,000. Mr. Palmer was married in 1871 to Miss Bertha M. Honore, daughter of H. H. Honore, a Chicago capitalist of that day. In politics Mr. Palmer was a Democrat.
