A STUBBORN FIRE.—One of the worst fires to do anything with that has occurred in Bellefonte for a long time was the one that broke out in the pretty little brick stable at the rear of the Humes home, on Allegheny street, at 7:40 last Saturday evening. There never was a minute during the two hours that it took to conquer it that the firemen did not have it under control, so far as danger to adjacent property was concerned, but the peculiarity in the construction of the building made it almost impossible to get at the fire. It is a brick building with a slate roof, cut up by many hips and valleys. The loft was full of hay and straw at the time the fire broke out and it became a seething furnace. On account of it the firemen could not got get into the loft. Consequently the flames that kept swirling around the underside of the roof could not be reached. There was enough water not known. pumped into the little building to have floated the Deutschland, but the fire seemed to burn on notwithstanding.

Mr. Humes' beautiful young driving horse, that was valued at $250, was burned. The two cows were rescued, but the horse was in a hox stall, too far away from the door to be reached when the discovery was made. At that time the entire inside of the stable seemed to be ablaze.

The top was burned off a two seated carriage and considerable grain was lost. Mr. Humes carried $1,000 insurance in the Rankin agency. The building was valued at $3,500. The origin of the fire is unknown, though it is supposed to have been accidental.

STOLE HIS OWN BABY .- George Suyder, who hails from Tyrone, but who now seems to be happily content with Bellefonte, kept up considerable excitement about here on Sunday. Up to some time last week George lived with his wife and family in Tyrone. His habits were evidently bad for his wife left him and came to her home near here, bringing their two month's old baby with her. She was a McNeil, a daughter of the late Robert Mc-Neil, and her mother resides at Verona, near the Nittany iron works. After she had gone and left George to care for himself and their several other oldof ceremonies at the ninth annual banquet er children he began to realize that a woman is a mighty useful creature around where there is a house and family of Httle ones to look after. He got tired of his job by Sunday and came down here after his wife. Thinking that if he stole the baby she would follow him home he did that very thing. It would not have been so bad had he not been drunk, but he was so full that he imagined everyone to be after him, so he climbed over board piles, coal cars and tore about with that poor little baby in his arms until officer Mullen locked bim up.

> The baby was then returned to its mother and George was put on an afternoon crossing and returned, only to be locked up again. Next day he was hunting work about this place with the evident intention of making it his permanent home.

> name of a corporation that is proposed for the retailing and wholesaling of merchandise of all kinds.

While it will be in no sense a company store, yet the fact that several gentlemen interested in the Nittany and Bellefonte iron works are back of it will insure it at least a fair share of the trade of the employees of those two large concerns.

Among the gentlemen interested are T. Munson, F. H. Clemson, Col. J. L. Spangler, John Van Pelt and E. M. Griest. It is their plan to occupy the large rooms recently vacated by McCalmont & Co. where they will open about June 1st with a $5,000 stock of groceries. Later, if conditions warrant, all of the immense floor space of that building will be utilized and a general merchandise line put in.

Edward Griest will manage the busi ness. He is a son of A. J. Griest, the Unionville merchant, and besides having had the very best of training in his father's store has had a number of years of experience as a company store manager in the coal fields about Hastings and Spangler.

-Through the efforts of the W. C. T. Union the citizens of Bellefonte will be afforded, on Thursday evening, May 22nd, the rare privilege of enjoying a lecture under the title "Going in to Win," delivered in Petriken hall, by the honorable J. M. Belford, of Riverhead, L. I. He, in obedience to the persistent invitations of some of the ladies, has been induced to officiate, although at a considerable sacrifice to his large legal practice. For cogency of thought, elegance of style and the arts that go to constitute the polished speaker Mr. Belford has few equals, and it is to be hoped, that the initial entertainment under the auspices of the W. C. T. U. will be greeted by an audience such as its refreshing, and elevating character deserves.

-If you would like to know how far it is by wagon-road from Lamar to Bellefonte either John McGinley on George Weaver can tell you more accurately than anyone else we know of. They stepped it off a few nights ago. Returning from a fishing expedition on Fishing creek they missed the man named John Stonebraker, near Sandy night train home over the Central and had Ridge, last week and put him under $500 to walk the sixteen miles, arriving here about 3 a. m. In order to keep up their spirits Weaver whistled "the Czar of the "Tender-loin" until he couldn't spare any more wind and then his companion struck step in breaking up a bad gang who have up when "Johnny Comes Marching Home."

---Engineer Bob Miller, who runs the shifter in the Nittany Iron Co's yards and makes trips over the valley to the different mines for ore, met with an accident on Saturday that will lay him up for some time. About noon his engine was bringing a string of ore cars out of Taylor bank and they had reached the vicinity of the old Jackson operation, when his engine left the track. Bob, thinking that the heavy ore cars pushing behind would pile up on top of him, reversed his engine and jumped. In doing so he caught his left foot in a cattle guard in such a way as a break the left leg clear off between the knee and the ankle. Had he remained aboard his engine he would not have been hurt, as it remained on the ties and ran only a short distance before stopping. Dr. R. G. H. Haves reduced the fracture, which proved to be so serious that the splintered bones had to be wrapped with wire and there is grave doubt as to whether they will knit properly. In fact it may be necessary to amputate the leg.

ALMOST A CENTENARIAN. - The death of Mills, Clearfield county, on Saturday, when castle meeting in Shamokin. the venerable Ellis Irwin passed away. Remarkable, not alone for his longevity. for he was ninety-seven years old, but because of the useful and historically interesting life he lived in this section of the State. Born in Bald Eagle valley, not far from Bellefonte, on June 17th 1805 Mr Trwin's life might be said to have been conte mporaneous with both the indian and the white settler. He saw the entire development of the iron, lumber and coal interests of Centre county, the first railroads were built long after he had grown to manhood and sparsely settled villages of his boyhood days grew to be great towns while he visited and revisited them. It is doubtful whether there is another man living in Central Pennsylvania of equal intelligence and whose mind was stored with the same fund of local history.

He was educated at the Bellefonte Academy, and spent much of his time in his youth working upon his father's farm, and in a shoe factory also carried on by his father, John Irwin Jr., who came from Chester county. For four years he carried the United States mail through the mountains on horseback. On January 10th, 1827. he married Hannah Iddings, a lady of marked intelligence and worth, and they were the parents of eight children, viz Lewis, who died in 1882; John F., of Clearfield; Mary and Henrietta, at home; William E. Philipsburg ; Joseph, who died about one year ago in Curwensville : Mallissa, who died Dec. 11th, 1862, and James, who died January 3rd, 1853. His wife, after a wedded life of more than fifty years. died in Feb. 1881.

Soon after his marriage he began farming on his own account, and in 1829 moved to Clearfield county, buying a farm at or near Grampian, and four years later engaged in the hotel business at Curwensville, remaining three years. In 1835 he was appointed to the office of prothonotary, register, recorder and clerk of the courts in Clearfield to fill a vacancy, and at the end of the term was elected for a full term of three years. In 1838 he engaged in mercantile business in Clearfield. In 1840 he was appointed postmaster there; in 1843 he was elected sheriff for a term of three years. In 1850 he purchased a large tract of land in Goshen township, Clearfield county, which he improved and developed, and mainly through his efforts the post office at Lick Run Mills was established, of which he had been postmaster since 1872.

The remains were taken to Clearfield for burial, the funeral taking place Tuesday afternoon at 1 o'clock.

Haves was on the stand at the time and Mr. Harvey had just risen to interrogate him, when he suddenly flushed and, stepping toward the physician, exclaimed. "Doctor I'm fainting." Then he sank to the floor and in a few seconds all was over. Heart disease was the cause. Deceased was born in Lamar township, Clinton county, October 22nd, 1842. He was graduated from State College when it was known as the Farm School and read law with Orvis & Corss, being admitted to the bar in 1864. He was a man of wide influence in Clinton county, one whose death will be generally

Interment was made Sunday afternoon after services in the Methodist church.

-The death of Ambrose Milton Aults, which occurred at the home of his mother in Tyrone Monday evening, is fraught and was employed at that place sixty-eight years with the deepest sadness. Court's Concluding Session

One Case Last Week and the Only One Scheduled for the Third Week Settled

When the WATCHMAN went to press last week it contained a full account of all that was done at court except the one case that was then on trial. It continued until Saturday, when a verdict of $4,000 was brought in for the plaintiff, subject to points of law reserved by the court. The case was that of G. J. Confer vs. the Penpsylvania Railroad company summoned in trespass, plea not guilty. This case was from Howard and was brought by the plaintiff to recover damages from the derendant company for personal injuries on the 27th of October, 1900. On said day the plaintiff drove from the residence of his uncle about two miles north of Howard to go to Long's mill at Howard, and when he was opposite Lucas' store he observed that the local freight was on the warehouse siding and the wreck train on the middle siding, one car of the freight taking up about half the road way. The wreck train was on the east side of the crossing and while at Lucas' store he noticed the freight pull up a little. He then drove within twenty-five feet of the track and stopped, looked and listened and got up in his wagon and looked and saw nothing, but the cars obstructed his view. He then drave upon the tracks and was struck by a freight on the third track coming from the west, and the wagon was demolished and he was thrown under the wreck train and was injured over the left eye and temple, also his right arm and side and had three ribs broken. The plaintiff and his witnesses stated that they had heard no whistle blown or hell rung, while on the other hand the defendant company claimed that the whistle was blown and the bell rung. THE THIRD WEEK.

There was only one case on the cal-endar for the third, but after all the jurors had arrived here for duty on Monday and as much preliminary expense as would have been necessary for a full term involved, it was settled.

It was the case of Hough vs Kulp to try the title to some lands in the east end Miles township, being four cases in all, in two of which Emeline Hough was plaintiff; and in one Nathan Hough was plaintiff against Monroe H. Kulp & Company, incorporated; and the other Monroe H. Kulp & Co., incorporated, against Nathan
