and family on Sunday,

Among the sick of our community are Mr. Henry Ziegler and Mr. Sellers, the latter having had a paralytic stroke. Dr. Kidder is in attendance at both places.

A crowd of about twenty young people from Linden Hall, Boalsburg, Pleasant Gap and surrounding country gathered at Penn's Cave last Saturday and picnicked together.

tensively, and we wish him abundant success, as this would add another industry to our already busy little village.

Thomas Coble left, last week, for California where he expects to secure work and remain for an indefinite length of time. This is not Mr. Coble's first trip to the far west and we should not be surprised if we should hear of his crossing the Pacific and taking up his abode in Honolulu or Manila, U. S. A.

The new grist mill at this place is doing good work which is shown by the fact that farmers from great distances come here to have their work done and Mr. Ross also ships large quantities of flour to distant cities and towns. We congratulate Mr. Ross on his success in the milling business and also on his wise selection of Mr. Rishel as miller.

I am glad to correct an error which appeared in these items last week, relative to the Linden Hall Lumber Co. Mr. Crissman, the efficient superintendent, says that the saw mill is not likely to be moved for a number of years and will continue its operation for years to come. It seems that the rumor that the saw mill was to be moved was originated by a few people who do more talking than thinking. Our citizens are to be congratulated that we

It is often that one finds a love-story which is absolutely satisfactory, and a fine love-story ending in renunciation is a still rarer thing. Such, however, is "Broken Toys" with its Roman set ting and its atmosphere of noble love and tragic renunciation. Another story which will interest readers of the August Cosmopolitan is "The Soul of Mozart" which centers in the time of transmigration of souls, a problem fascinating even to the ancients. It is a tradition that society stories are written by those who have never moved in society; but Mrs. Poultney Bigelow writes "The Story of a Scented Note" from within the charmed circle. The tale of Heine's passion for Mathilde by Richard Le Gallienne, and a pretty little Japan ese romance help to make the number an interesting one for reading on cool verandas by the sea or within the city's walls.
