The Bamboo Fair.

The young shoots of the bamboo are covered with a number of very fine hairs that are seen under the microscope to be hollow and spiked like bayonets. These hairs are commonly called bamboo poison by the white men resident in Java for the reason that murder is frequently committed through their agency. When a Javanese woman takes a fancy to a European, according to an official Dutch report, she will either have him or poison him if she gets the chance. She seeks any and every opportunity of mixing these infinitesimal hairs among his food, and they serve the purpose of irritating the whole length of the alimentary canal and setting up malignant dysentery. It may take a long time and many doses of this so called poison to effect the purpose, but the native woman does not tire, and death will surely result. The male native will also try this method of revenge for an affront.

The planters know all this and dread the bamboo hair, but it is always difficult to determine whether the dysentery is caused by the poison or comes about naturally. When a planter finds himself a prey to attacks of that complaint, his best course is to take a voyage to Europe.-Pearson's.

Assorted Voices.

It is a well known fact that voices differ greatly according to nationality and geographical position. Thus, in Russia one hears male voices which are absolutely unique in the lowness of their compass. The Italians on the other hand, are notable for their fine tenor voices. Some Asiatic nations. according to Engel, sing in shrill notes by straining the voice to its highest pitch. Others delight in a kind of vibrato or tremolando. Some sing habitually in an undertone, others in a nasal tone.

Lichtenstein, in describing the singing of a Hottentot congregation in South Africa, observes that among all the singers, consisting of about 100 Hottentots of both sexes, there was not one man with a bass or baritone voice. All the men had tenor voices. The Chinese voices seem to bear some resemblance to the weak character of the people. A military man who had three years' service in the country declares that he never once heard a Chinaman sing from his chest.-Gentleman's Magazine.

The Laird's Last Drink.

The remark of counsel in a will case the other day that there were two peculiarities about highlanders, their great devotion to the national drink and their power of absorbing whisky without apparently getting the worse for it, recalls the old story of how the laird of Garscadden took his last draft.

A considerable number of lairds had congregated in the clachan of law for the ostensible purpose of talking over some parish business. They talked well and drank still better, and one of them about the dawn of the morning, fixing his eye on Garscadden, remarked that he was "looking unco gash" (very ghastly).

Upon which the laird of Kilmardinny coolly replied: "He has been wi' his Maker these twa hours! I saw him step awa', but I didna like to disturb guid company!"-London Chronicle.

Benevolent.

There was not long since a venerable and benevolent judge in Paris who at the moment of passing sentence on a prisoner consulted his associates on each side of him as to the proper penalty to be inflicted. "What ought we to give this rascal, brother?" he said, bending over to the one upon his right. "I should say three years." "What is your opinion, brother?" to the other on his left. "I should give him about four years." The judge (with benevolence)-Prisoner, not desiring to give you a long and severe term of imprisonment. as I should have done if left to myself. I have consulted my learned brothers. and I shall take their advice. Seven years!

New York's Tall Men.

Why are there so many very tall men in New York? is a question often asked by visitors to the city. The peculiarity is so patent that it very soon forces itself on the attention of every casual observer. The men are not the ordinarily tall men of six feet or so that one sees quite as many of in Pittsburg or Chicago as you do in New York, but the men whose heads rise up noticeably out of the crowd wherever they are. What brings them here or what grows them here are questions. They are so plentiful that one can scarcely k a block down town without meeting several.-New York Letter in Pitts-

The Earth's Motion.

burg Dispatch

A public demonstration of the earth's retary motion is given every Sunday in the building that was formerly the church of the Conservatoire in Paris A large pendulum hung as high as possible swings with a sweep of about sixty feet. The plane of oscillation remains absolutely invariable in space, and the displacement produced by the rotation of the earth is so regular that a watch can be set in this way.

Incentive to Haste. Dusty-When I came into the yard, the bulldog showed his teeth.

Wraggles-And what did you do? Dusty-The proper thing. I showed my heels.-Boston Transcript.

A Story of Forrest.

Many years ago Edwin Forrest, the celebrated actor, when in New York. was in the habit of dining at Windust's, a noted restaurant on Park row that was a favorite resort of actors and literary men. It usually happened that Forrest would be joined by friends and that the little group would sit together at one table. On one occasion it chanced that an Englishman with a reputation for conceit and impertinence, who had scraped acquaintance with the tragedian, was one of the group. Early in the course of the dinner the Englishman began to make criticisms which he considered pleasantries about Forrest's conception of certain roles. Encouraged by his own appreciation he gave full play to his humor and concluded each of his impertinences with,

"Pardon my freedom, sir; it's my way." To the astonishment of all who knew Forrest's irascible disposition he bore as possible. When, however, the nuts were brought in by the waiter, he took disease."-Syracuse Herald. several cracked walnuts in his hand and, walking over to the Briton's place, jocularly snapped them successively in the face of that individual, lightly saying after each shot, "Pardon my freedom, sir; it's my way," and snapped him out of the restaurant

Grewsome Football Legend. Where did football originate? Some people give ancient Chester, in England, credit for bringing the great winter pastime into existence. There is a record of football playing in that city in the year 1540, but Chestrians believe in a legend of much earlier date.

In the tenth century, it is said, a Dane was captured and beheaded by the citizens. Some one began kicking the head about the streets, others followed, and it was discovered that this formed a new and decidedly fascinating sport. This was repeated whenever possible, but as enemies' heads became scarcer and the entertainment of kicking them more difficult to procure it was at last arranged "for the shoemakers yearly on Shrove Tuesday to deliver to the draper, in the presence of the mayor of Chester, one ball of leather, called a football, of the value of 3s. 4d. or above."

There is evidently a fine precedent for those concerned in the game "losing their heads."

Miracles of Warfare. Until war ceases, which will be the greatest miracle of all, it will always be the exhibition ground of miracles. How can a bullet puncture a man's coat behind and before or piece his boot and sock and be gravely shaken out of both without wounding him? And what mysterious channel does this human body contain which leads a bullet dexterously around the heart, a hair's breadth from the seat of life, yet never rending it—a phenomenon vouched for by more than one army surgeon?

course of Munchausen.

A story is told in a neighboring town. says the Troy Press, of the well meant efforts to do his duty of a hostler employed by a local doctor. It so happened that the doctor was attending two cases on the same street, one house which had just been blessed by an heir and in the other existed a slight case of scarlet fever.

The doctor instructed his man to take a "contagious disease" card and tack it up on the house where lived the fever patient. Unfortunately the messenger made a mix up in the location of the house, and what was the astonishment of passersby to read on the house where cooed a lusty newborn infant: "Contagious Disease. Keep Out."

A Thousand Million Suns. Lord Kelvin once made some interesting calculations of the probable total amount of gravitation matter in the visible universe. He showed that if 25,-000,000 years ago 1,000,000,000 masses, each equal to our sun, had been distributed through a sphere about 18,-000,000,000,000,000 miles in radius they would now have acquired velocities about equal to those known to be possessed by the stars visible to us. Therefore it is probable that the total amount of gravitational matter in the visible universe does not differ much from that of 1,000,000,000 suns.

Sounded Familiar. "You wretch! You miscreant! You worst of villains!" exclaimed the heroine at rehearsal. The heavy villain, who had just joined the company, looked patiently aggrieved and said:

Not So Sudden. "Amelia," faltered the young man, "I love you."

The Building of a Life.

Life is a building. It rises slowly day by day through the years. Every new lesson we learn lays a block on the edifice which is rising silently within us. Every influence that impresses us, every book we read, every conversation we have, every act of our commonest days, adds something to the invisible building .- J. R. Miller.

Not Put Out.

I was not successful in the attempt to eject the cook from my house. But what nettled me was the unruffled demeanor of the woman. "You might at least have the good breeding to act 'put out,' " I cried and left the kitchen, slamming the door behind me.-Puck.

The Forbearing Dog.

"A good dog is the best friend a man can have," remarked the tobacconist to the wooden Indian. "When you get the Briton's offensive remarks patient- sick, he doesn't tell you what to take, ly and seemingly ignored them as far and when you get well he doesn't tell you how much worse he had the same
