Several weeks ago the WATCHMAN announced that Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Duggett, of the Bush house, having bought the Ardell property on Linn street, would move into it soon. It seems now that the announcement was a little premature, as they have come to no definite conclusion about moving out of the hotel.

Irwin, formerly of Julian, having spent the summer in building up his impaired health, has decided to continue the practice of his profession in Centre county and will locate at Unionville, where he has purchased the Rich home. The doctor's summer was not all play, either, for he improved a good portion of the time by attending special lectures and clinics in Philadelphia and Baltimore.

Last Saturday George Kossman, of Fairbrook, turned his two Virginia hounds loose to have a run. They had it, but when they returned home that evening their heads were swelled to enormous size because they had attacked a hedge-hog that had presented them with a few of his compliments. Veterinarian Fry was called to their relief and after etherizing the dogs had no trouble in extracting the pain causing quills.

A BEAUTIFUL WEDDING.—A great deal of social interest centered in the wedding of Miss Blanche Moran Hays and Dr. Hiram M. Hiller in the Presbyterian church last evening. It was the largest and most important nuptial event of the season and was, moreover, a brilliant and a beautiful affair.

Eight hundred invitations had been issued and it is safe to say that not many regrets were received. Quite a number of out of town guests were present and the church, which is the largest in the town, was more than comfortably filled. While the floral decorations at the wedding or the reception afterward were not elaborate they were very artistic. A screen of palms and tropical plants concealed the choir railing and great clusters of white chrysanthemums were massed about the chancel. Mrs. R. G. H. Hays was the organist and while the guests were assembling she entertained them with a fine musical program and for the professional played the march from Lohengrin. The officiating minister was Rev. Dr. Laurie, pastor of the church, and the ceremony took place at half-past seven o'clock.

The bride entered the church and was given away by her brother Dr. George Hays, of Pittsburg. She was beautiful and her gown was exquisite. It was of heavy old ivory satin with a full court train and the bodice and front of the skirt entirely covered with point de Venice lace. She wore a diamond brooch, the gift of the groom, and a little coronet of orange blossoms held her veil in place. She carried orchids and lilies of the valley. The maid of honor was Miss Mary Blanchard. She wore white dotted lace over white silk trimmed with Irish point medallions. Her bouquet was of maiden hair fern and her short veil was fastened with a wreath of green leaves. The bridesmaids were Miss L. L. Hiller, of Kahoka, Missouri, a sister of the groom; Mrs. W. F. Reynolds, Miss Louise Valentine, Miss Rebecca Blanchard, Miss Mary H. Linn and Miss Caroline Orvis. They were dressed alike in white point d'esprit over white, with green sashes and wore wreaths of small white roses. They carried white chrysanthemums. The groom and his best man, Alfred C. Harrison, Jr., of Philadelphia, met the bride and her brother at the chancel and the ushers were Robert G. LeConte, Francis D. Patterson, George C. Stout, John G. Clark, Archibald G. Thompson, all of Philadelphia, and John Blanchard, of this place.

Following the ceremony Mrs. William P. Wilson gave a large reception at her home on High street. The guests were received in the drawing room and the library was reserved for the bridal table, which was particularly dainty with all its decorations of white. Pink roses were used in the decorations of the dining room and at the tables at which the guests in general were served. Five members of Fiske's orchestra played in the conservatory during the reception and A. Laedlein, of Williamsport, served the supper.

Dr. and Mrs. Hiller departed on an special train via Tyrone for an extended journey, after which they will spend some time in Philadelphia before going to Cuba, where they will make their home. Dr. Hiller is a graduate of the University and shortly after getting his degree went to Korea on one of the scientific expeditions in the interest of the University. He is much of a favorite in University circles in Philadelphia, but has given up his practice there and is now superintendent of Alfred C. Harrison's sugar plantation at Cape Cruz, in Cuba.

The bride is a daughter of Alfred A. Hays, formerly of this place, but who has resided in Clark county Missouri for many years. Her mother, Elizabeth Moran Hays, a favorite member of one of the oldest families of this place, died when her daughter was quite small. She was then taken into the Wilson home and has always been regarded by Mrs. Wilson as her own daughter. She is endowed with many charms and the unusual interest displayed in her marriage attested, in some measure to her popularity.

Magnificent is the only adjective that will adequately describe the presents that the bride received. Among the many which completely filled a room on the second floor, was a massive silver pitcher and tray. It was the gift of the ushers. The groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Hiller, of Missouri, sent a splendid silver service in a mahogany case. The Harrison family, of Philadelphia, a silver dinner service, and Mrs. Wilson's gift was five thousand dollars in Pennsylvania railroad bonds. There was also silver by the dozen and handsome pieces of cut glass and china by the score.

The attending festivities of the wedding was a dinner on Monday evening, given by the bride for her maids. At it the decorations were all in pink and during the evening she presented the bridesmaids with gold brooches in the form of chrysanthemums. The maid of honor's gift was a pond lily brooch with a diamond centre. At the farewell dinner given by the groom to the ushers he was the recipient of a massive silver loving cup. Most of the out of town guests arrived yesterday, and after the rehearsal the men of the party were entertained at the Nittany country club at luncheon.

An idea of the completeness of the wedding in all its details is well emphasized by the fact that two special trains were provided for the departing guests. The second one took the guests from a distance to Lock Haven in time for them to connect with the through train on the P. & E. road.

The Moshannon National bank of Philipsburg is to inaugurate a savings bank department.

A MORNING WEDDING.—The marriage, yesterday morning, of Miss Lillian May Gebret youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Gebret, and Orian Alien Kline, was one of the most interesting nuptial events of the day. The ceremony took place at the home of the bride's parents on East Bishop street, at 11 o'clock with Rev. Dr. W. P. Shriner of the Methodist church officiating. Fifty guests were present and a delicious breakfast was served after the ceremony.

The bride wore a pretty girlish gown of white crystalline with the bodice elaborately tucked and the skirt trimmed with two deep pleatings. She carried a bouquet of white chrysanthemums. The maid of honor, Miss Jane Kooztz, was dressed in white Paris muslin and carried La France roses. Helen Love, a dainty little creature, was the flower girl. She was dressed in pink organza and carried an armful of white chrysanthemums. The groom's attendant was Jonas Elwood Wagner, as best man.

Amid much fun and the customary tokens of good will on such occasions, the young people departed on the 1:05 train for Niagara and Buffalo. Upon their return they will make their home with the bride's parents until spring. They are recent graduates of the High school, and are both favorites with a large circle of acquaintances. The groom is a son of Harrison Kline, former county treasurer, and is employed by the Potter-Hoy Hardware Co.

THOMAS-BEALE.—A wedding of interest to many Centre county people took place at half after six o'clock on the evening of October 8th, at the Chambers-Wylie Memorial Presbyterian church, Philadelphia. Miss Milly Milliken Beale, of Philadelphia, daughter of the late Rev. David J. Beale, D. D., was married to Dr. William Dunlap Thomas, one of the professors of the Southern Homoeopathic college of Baltimore.

The bride was given in marriage by her eldest brother, Dr. John C. Beale, of Philadelphia. Another brother, Rev. William Thomas Moore Beale, of the Rock and Zion Presbyterian churches, Cecil county, Maryland, performed the ceremony, assisted by Rev. J. Hervey Beale, of Philadelphia, cousin of the bride, and Rev. Charles J. Cameron Ph. D., of the Chambers-Wylie church. Miss Mary Riddle Beale, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, and Mr. Harry E. Waernicke, of Washington, D. C., was best man. The ushers were Prof. Charles Leslie Rumsey, and Dr. O. N. Duvalle, both of the Lutheran Homoeopathic medical college, Baltimore; Rev. Edgar F. Read, of Union Bridge, Maryland, cousin of the bride groom, and Dr. David J. Beale Jr., brother of the bride.

After a tour, Dr. and Mrs. Thomas will reside in Baltimore. Immediately after the wedding a reception to the near relatives of both families, living in or near Philadelphia, was given at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. David J. Beale, who was formerly Miss Mary Moore, of Centre county.

BAILEY-MOTHERSBAUGH.—The home of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Bailey, of Boalsburg, was the scene of a delightful event on Tuesday. It was the marriage of their daughter Nannie to Mr. Charles Mothersbaugh that attracted the large party of guests that filled the handsomely decorated home.

Rev. D. E. Hepler, of the Presbyterian church, performed the ceremony. Immediately afterwards an informal reception was held, the wedding breakfast following. The bride is the youngest daughter of the Bailey home and is a bright, winsome girl. The groom is a son of Owen Mothersbaugh and is known as one of the most efficient of the many teachers in the public schools of the county.

Mr. and Mrs. Mothersbaugh departed later in the day for a trip to Pittsburg and other points west.

Tonight a "Warm Match" will be seen at Garman's. It is another farce comedy but not so decidedly "bum" as was "Mr. Plaster of Paris."

The W. C. T. U. Star course for this season includes six entertainments to be given in Petriken hall. They will begin with "Maro," the prince of magic, on the evening of November 7th, and run through to March 3rd, when the Coit Novelty Co. will close the series. The entertainments are all of high class. Course tickets are being sold at $1.25, with an additional charge of 50c for reserved seats each night. Single admission to any of the entertainments will be 50c.

The advent of Rt. Rev. Eugene A. Garvey, Bishop of the Altoona diocese of the Catholic church, in this place on Sunday was an event of more than passing interest. It was the first official visit of the head of the new diocese in which Bellefonte is included and the Bishop was greeted with a large congregation. He delivered an inspiring sermon at the morning service, after which a class of ninety-three was confirmed; the sponsors being T. E. Hamilton, Michael Hazel, Mrs. Joseph Ceadar and Mrs. Michael Hazel. At 3 o'clock in the afternoon Bishop Garvey held special consecration services at the cross in the cemetery recently erected by Mr. and Mrs. Matthias Thal. The Bishop departed on an evening train for Altoona.

AN OLD, OLD STORY.—When you sit down and think the matter over it seems strange how quick people are to forget things. Often times a neat little story, cleverly told, would be just the thing to quicken the flagging interest in a little home entertainment and, nine times out of ten, you have heard just the story that would do it, but have forgotten how it goes.

Now there are plenty of ways to keep such things fresh in the mind and they are really worth the trouble. For instance, you jot the stories that impress you as being particularly good ones down in a note book, and then lay the note book away and forget all about it when you need it. That is one of the ways resorted to by some people. Others have other ways, but they all forget. After all it is only human to forget, for in this mad maelstrom of excitement in which we live one event crowds so fast on the heels of another that the brain is in a whirl continually and the wonder is that we have any faculties left to remember with.

This, dear reader, is probably the reason you forget so persistently to pay for your paper or to hearken unto our repeated calls for money. We need it now, so please don't forget to send what you owe along.

SUPPOSED TO BE IN A CAVED-IN MINE.—James Beatty, of Sington, has been missing since last Thursday and his friends are afraid he has lost his life in an old mine of the D. H. Parker estate near that place.

Last Thursday he visited Philipsburg to see S. B. Parker relative to re-opening the old mine and it is feared that upon his return in the evening he entered the opening to make an inspection. About that time the mine caved in, so that if Beatty was in it he is undoubtedly dead.

DEATH OF LUCY HOUSER.—Lucy, the 12 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Houser, of Grand Island, Nebraska, was summoned to her heavenly home, at 11 o'clock p. m. Thursday, October 9th, 1902. She had been ill but a few days with typhoid fever, and her death was very unexpected to all. She had been a strong, healthy girl, and gave promise of a long life of usefulness. Lucy being the youngest was especially petted and cherished by others of the family. She was an earnest christian girl, having early given her heart to her Saviour; and just four weeks before her death, became a full member of the First M. E. church of Grand Island, to which all of her family belong.

The funeral services were held Sunday afternoon, Oct. 12th, from First M. E. church. Rev. W. W. Carr, the pastor, took for his text the words of our Saviour, "the daisel is not dead but sleepeth." He said that the death of Lucy was not to be considered a thing of great misfortune, but as blessed sleep brings rest, reward, and a promise of a joyous awaking. He also dwelt upon the truth that the life she had led would be a sweet memory to her family, playmates and friends.

Six of her girl friends were chosen as honorary pall bearers; each leaving on the coffin a wreath of flowers, added to the many wreaths already given by the Sunday school, Epworth League, Mission band, and other friends.

The Housers are natives of Centre county and have many relatives living about here.

DIED ON THE TRAIN NEAR JULIAN.—G. M. Davis, chief car inspector of the P. and E. Div. of the P. R. R. died on the evening passenger train on the B. E. V., just as it was pulling out of Julian Tuesday evening.

He had remarked to a friend, shortly after boarding the train at Lock Haven, that he did not feel altogether right and it might have been better for him had he remained at home. As the train was leaving Julian Mr. Davis' head was observed to fall to the side slightly and his foot twitched. Then his head fell forward on the back of the seat ahead. Conductor Halligan and a physician who was on the train, ran to him at once, but he was already dead. Heart disease was the cause.

Mr. Davis was about 55 years old. His body was taken on to Tyrone, where it was prepared for burial and sent home Wednesday morning.

MRS. ROBERT CORLI.—After being in failing health for about six months Mrs. Robert Corli passed away at her home at Linden Hall on Saturday evening.

Deceased was the daughter of William and Sarah Williams and was born at Lemont April 21st, 1830. In 1853 she married Robert Corli, who survives her with these children: Mary and Annie at home; William, Robert and James, at Pleasant Gap; and Charles, at Boalsburg. Her one brother, James Williams, of this place also survives.

Mrs. Corli was a life-long member of the Presbyterian church, her entire life having been characterized by christian zeal and charity. As a neighbor and friend she was beloved by all and those who stood by her tomb on Tuesday afternoon will revere her as a blessed woman.

Interment was made at the Branch, with Revs. Hepler and Stonecypher officiating.

FORMERLY A RESIDENT OF BELLEFONTE.—Samuel Schmidt, who died at his home in Sandusky, Ohio, on Sunday morning, viz: Henry, of Philadelphia; Coleman, Houtzdale; Solomon, Misses Bertha and Rosa, of Philipsburg. He also leaves a family of three children, all married, his wife having died last February.

Interment was made in Sandusky on Tuesday afternoon.

Work was resumed at the Bellefonte furnace Monday morning, enough coke having been received to keep the furnace in blast, though not up to its full capacity.

Lyon & Co. have a new advertisement in this issue that will interest the ladies. It tells about the new fall styles in coats and ready-to-wear suits that they always sell so cheap.

A BIG BEET.—No doubt you have all had opportunities of seeing large beet in your time. Some of the "dead beat" variety and others of the kind that grow in garden and field. The largest one we have ever seen was brought into this office on Monday by Mr. Thomas Laurie and is the product of the little truck farm on which he spends many happy days, just east of town. It is the long red mangold wurzel and weighs 14 lbs. The beet is as solid as a rock and Mr. Laurie informs us makes most nutritious cow feed.

Inasmuch as it has been known to yield 86 tons to the acre and does not taint either the butter or the milk it seems to us that many of our farmers would find profit in growing some of these giant beets for cow food.

WHERE ARE THEY BURIED?—The recent state conference of the Daughters of American Revolution in this place has greatly quickened the interest in the part our ancestors played during the formative days of the Republic. Few realize how many veterans of the Revolution are sleeping some where in this county; some of their graves unmarked and almost forgotten. To prevent the latter possibility the Bellefonte Daughters have taken the matter up and are anxious to place markers wherever there are none.

The following is the list of the revolutionary soldiers buried somewhere within the county. If you know where any of the graves are to located—provided they are not distinctly marked—you would confer a great favor by communicating with Mrs. H. C. Valentine of this place.

- Capt. Thomas Askey, Wm. Kelley, Archibald Allison, John Keeton, Jacob Kehl, Gen. Philip Benner, John Krider, Lawrence Balthurs, Andrew Patton, Daniel Boileau, Mongo Lindsay, David Lamb, Capt. George Meek, John Boggs, Col. Henry Meyer, Jacob Brower, Philip Meyer, Anthony Bierly, Benjamin Carson, John R. Mason, Elijah Chambers, Robert Moody, James Dougherty, David Nelson, Daniel David, Anthony Peters, John Douglas, Charles McClain, Conrad Drimmer, John McLain, Joseph Davis, James McFarlane, Henry Dale, Jacob Miller, Col. John Patton, Andrew Graham, John Patton, Henry Gouginger, Peter Hosterman, Thomas Hinton, Tobias Pichek, Thomas Holt, Conrad Rimmy, Col. John Hill, John Hall, Michael Rhone, Andrew Hunter, John F. Shaffer, Michael Jack, Isaac Wall, John Jones Sr., Charles Wilson, Jacob Keller, Robert Young, Edward Quigley, Ambrose T. Mas, Nicholas Schaeffer, Cornelius Welch, John Turner, Joseph White.

THE DAUGHTERS DEPARTED.—Last Friday, the concluding day of the conference of the Daughters of the American Republic, was spent in a trip to State College and the Daughters were inexpressibly delighted with their visit. They left here on the morning train and, arriving at State College, were met by four hundred students and the cadet band, who escorted them to the chapel, where a short meeting was held. After that luncheon was served in the armory and the afternoon was spent sight-seeing at the big Centre county institution.

It is needless to say that the College was another revelation to some of the Daughters from the cities who imagined they were coming into a howling wilderness, infested with untamed savages.

Every detail looking to the comfort and pleasure of the visitors was so carefully looked after by the Daughters of the Bellefonte chapter that the conference in this place will always be remembered as having been a very delightful one and the impression will go abroad that Bellefonte is about as metropolitan in most things as some of her sisters of far greater population.
