All our teachers attended institute in Bellefonte this week and in consequence the youngsters were turned loose for a good time.

Amos Koch is down at Penn Hall working at cabinet making. Look a leetle out for the furniture market will surely take a tumble.

Little Ralph Heberling has been quite sick with nervousness and indigestion. He is under Dr. Woods' care and is somewhat better.

William Tressler, one of Benner township's able business men, spent Tuesday viewing his brother-in-law's broad and fertile acres at Fairbrook.

J. A. B. Miller and his two wholesome looking little ones from Bellefonte visited at his parental home in the Barrens on Christmas week.

The festival under the auspices of the Pine Grove Light company was well attended and brought into the treasury of the company a neat little sum.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Irvin Keller and their little son Jacob were in from Pittsburg during the holidays visiting at Squire Keller's on Main street.

John E. McWilliams, superintendent of a large stock farm and creamery in Dauphin county, spent the holiday season with his parents at Fairbrook.

Captain Jacob M. Kepler went to Tionesta on Tuesday to attend to some financial affairs before taking his annual pilgrimage to the Hot Springs in Arkansas.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Frank, two of Rock Springs' heavy weights, enjoyed the sleighing to town last week. While here they were guests of Mrs. Mary Remy.

Miss Catharine Heinle, daughter of former Senator Heinle of Bellefonte, was pleasantly entertained at the home of Miss Kate Dunlap, on Chestnut street, recently.

Messrs Milligen and Taylor, Reedsville's extensive stock dealers were bustling around here last week buying fresh cows. They secured quite a number of them.

While out in the yard last Saturday evening Mrs. Jonathan Shuey fell on the ice and fractured her left hip. As she is well up in years the accident is a serious one.

Mrs. Mary B. Gates arrived home last Friday from an extended visit at the home of her son, Ira, near Orangeville, Ill., and with her son-in-law, Harry Erb, in York state.

Rev. C. T. Aikens is to officiate at the installation of Rev. Stone-chypher, of the Lutheran church on Sunday morning and consequently will be absent from his own charge.

G. Washington Ward, of Pittsburg, and his wife enjoyed their Christmas at the old Ward home on Main street. Mrs. Gustie King, of Altoona, also spent the holidays with her mother.

Harry Wagner and Al Knepp our popular hunters disposed of their large stock of poultry at Phillipsburg and hid themselves off to Pittsburg to blow in their money and see a holiday crowd.

Daniel Keller Mothersbaugh was showing his bride about town on Wednesday and while here he combined business with pleasure by having a new set of grinders put in place by Dr. Krebs.

Dr. Frank Bailey enjoyed the holiday season with his parents here, but his little venture in huxtering poultry for the Christmas trade was not so remunerative as to tempt him to abandon dentistry.

Robert Meek, of Altoona, has been spending a week among his old friends here. He was in quest of a load of corn to take back to the Mountain City and other supplies for his commission house.

Rev. and Mrs. W. C. Dunlap and family, of Montoursville, visited friends here recently on their way to Centre Line, where the Reverend tied the matrimonial knot for his brother-in-law on Christmas.

Mrs. William Graham is very sick at the home of George Graham at State College. She is suffering with paralysis and is neither able to move or speak. She will be remembered as Sallie Eckle, of this place, and has many friends who hope for her speedy recovery.

This (Friday) evening the C. E. D. society of Pine Hall will hold a sociable at the hospitable home of M. P. Corl. Choice refreshments will be served and a good time is promised to everyone who attends.

Hon. J. W. Kepler with Mrs. Kepler and their two little daughters are visiting his sister in Tionesta. Mr. Kepler went from there to Harrisburg on the 1st but Mrs. Kepler will extend her visit for several days.

Neither Ray Albert nor Fred Roush missed one day at Sabbath school last year, and as a reward the superintendent of the Presbyterian school presented each of them with a beautiful gilt edged bible on last Sunday.

John Breen, of the Branch, bought at private sale last week the William Beck property at Shingletown, which consists of a good dwelling and store house. Whether Mr. Breen intends to become the Wanamaker of Shingletown we do not know but the indications are very suspicious.

A delightful and enjoyable dinner was given at the home of W. E. McWilliams, at Rock Springs, on Christmas day. John H. Bailey and his bride were present, and the guests thoroughly appreciated the elaborate menu served by Mrs. McWilliams and her daughter, Sara, as well as the entertainment in the afternoon.

Stine Walker has had considerable practice with that ancient implement the axe and yet, the other day, in beheading a chicken he chopped Mrs. Cottle's finger off. Mrs. Cottle is keeping house for him and she was holding the chicken while Mr. Walker did the chopping and as a result she is minus her thumb finger. Dr. Woods patched up the stub which is healing nicely.

Frank Bowersox and Walter Woods have returned to their medical studies in Philadelphia after spending the holidays with their parents here. George Meyers, who is taking a theological course at Franklin and Marshall, and H. Clay Campbell, who is learning to be a veterinarian at the University of Pennsylvania, were both home to eat their share of the fatted gobbler served in their honor.

THE BAILEY RECEPTION.—On Tuesday evening, the 23rd, a large reception was given at the home of county commissioner J. G. Bailey for his son, John H. Bailey and bride, who had just arrived home from their wedding journey to Pittsburg. It was quite an event, with most of the young people of the valley present and very elaborate refreshments. Among the guests were Miss Anna M. Clerck and Dr. Frank Bailey, of Milton; Lois Russel and R. J. Wigton, Elizabeth and Harry McCracken, Henry C. Esther and R. P. Campbell, E. W. J. W., Harry, Nancy, Sue and A. S. Bailey; M. E. Heberling and sister; Anna, Nora L., Lottie, Bella and H. B. Goheen; J. A., Sara A., Mary and Henry McWilliams; W. H. Roush and wife; Kathryn Roush; D. H. and Mary Ewing; N. T. Krebs and wife; W. M. Krebs and wife; J. W. and Arabella C. Fry; Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Reed; Ada and H. N. Koch and wife; Margaret G. Thompson; James J. Markle, and D. K. Mothersbaugh and wife.

CHRISTMAS FESTIVITIES.—The Christmas entertainments in the different churches were fully up to the expectations. Good cheer, the Christmas spirit and evergreens prevailed. At the Lutheran church a great big tree was in evidence, resplendent in tinsel and gifts. Boxes of candy and fruit were provided for the little ones and a good program rendered. At the Presbyterian church the entertainment was not nearly so elaborate but there was a treat for the children, some recitations and music by the choir.

It was at Gatesburg, though, that Santa Claus upset his budget and left his choicest gifts. There a splendid astrakhan coat lined with silk and finished with an otter collar awaited the pastor. Old St. Nick is always generous if provision is made for the gifts and Rev. Aikens' congregation were only too glad to hand over the means to get the $75 coat. Rev. Aikens has labored in this field for fourteen years and in that time he has ingratiated himself to the entire community, regardless of denomination, by his kindness and courtesy. No effort or favor is too great for him, so far as he can be of service to anyone and in consequence his services for the Master are thoroughly appreciated as attested by the coat and the growth of the churches.

Books, Magazines Etc.

The feature of the January Everybody's is a new "Arabian Nights" story found recently by Dr. Seybold, of the University of Tubingen among the Arabic manuscripts of the late Consul Wetzstein of Damascus. Mrs. Bessie Van Vorst describes her experience in factories in Chicago, being the last article of the series of "The Woman that Toils." Juliet Wilbur Tompkins contributes a most interesting study of "The Personality of Helen Gould." In "Tragedies of Steamboat Histories," G. W. Ogden tells some dramatic stories of life on the Mississippi. "Mrs. Dazzedick's" story, the third of the "Unemployed Rich" series, describes the typical New York society woman on the sensational entertainment. There is a vivid account of the personality of Andrew Jackson and the scene at Calhoun's supper party at "The Indian Queen" in Washington, in "Great Days in Great Careers," by Alfred Henry Lewis. David Graham Phillips describes "How Roosvelt became President." There are a number of good vital short stories of real interest.
