INQUEST YIELDED LITTLE.

The Burdick inquest has served to de-velop several theories relative to the crime that had been suggested many days ago, but it would be hardly correct to say that the investigation has added anything more than an appearance of reasonability to any of these theories.

of these theories. The efforts of the authorities to fix the crime upon some one, will uot end with the inquest, but there is now little hope of success in this undertaking, and the mur-der probably will go down in criminal history as one of the great unsolved mys-terice

Judge Murphy stated after court ad-journed this afternoon that his judgment in the case will not be handed down until Monday, or perhaps later in the week. He may issue warrants for the arrest of "John Doe" and "Jaue Doe," and then the Dis-trict Attorney would be obliged to submit the whole case to the Grand Jury.

Three new witnesses appeared on the stand to-day. They were Rev. L. M. Powers, of the church of the Messiah, where the Burdick family and Mrs. Hull were regular attendants, and detectives Cornish and Coughin, the first police offi-cials to arrive at the Bardick home when cials to arrive at the Burdick home when the crime was discovered. The report of City Chemist Hill was read by the District Attorney. It stated that no poison was found in the cocktail bottle or the stomach of the dead man, thus disposing of the theory that Burdiok was and stronger flame.

On December 3, the day Mrs. Burdick was ordered from her home, Pennell tried to see Burdick, who told his wife never again to darken his door. and she went to Niggar Falls where Bennell wet her again to darken his door. and she went to Niagara Falls, where Pennell met her, and together they talked over Burdick's action. After this Mrs. Burdick went to New York. Pennell met her there; she went to Atlan-tic City; Pennell met her there also. He returned to Buffalo after each of the visits and endesyond to see Mrs. Burdick Ho and endeavored to see Mr. Burdick. He was refused an audience. He demanded that Burdick see him; he met with repulse;

he pleaded and was scorned. Penuell might have called at the Bur-dick house that fatal night, but if he did and rang for admission, it is almost certain that Burdick would have ordered him from the door. Lizzie Romance, the maid, saw Pennell in his own house at 10 o'clock. He was fally dressed and reading a news-paper. If he went to the Burdick honse it must have been after that hour.

MAY HAVE HAD AN ACCOMPLICE.

The police are continually forced to the conclusion that if a man killed Burdick— and they now believe it was a man's job— that he had a woman accomplice, and some woman who knew Burdick. It may have been that there was no writt the may have been that there was no evil thought in Bur-dick's mind when he admitted the woman, who may have represented that she came to plead for Pennell and for the reputations of others who were likely to be involved in

A dramatic situation is promised when the inquest into the death of Edwin L. Burdick is resumed. Alice Burdick, his widow, will be forced to sub-mit to an examination which is intended to hav bare her life. Alice Burdick the 48-14 not to an examination which is intended to lay bare her life. Alice Burdick, the police say, is "the woman in the case." It is know positively that she was in Atlantic City at the time her husband was murder-ed, so that there is no room for suspicion that she participated in the actual deed.

MOTIVE OF THE CRIME.

The police and the District Attorney are convinced that the motive which inspired the assassin had to do with Mrs. Burdick and Arthur Pennell. They are further convinced that the tragic ending of Pennell's career and that of his wife may be traced to the same source-Pennell's infatuation for Mrs. Burdick.

Mr. Coatsworth will delve particularly into the circumstances surrounding Mrs. CITY RESTAURANT.

first one was at Burdick's office, about three weeks prior to the murder, when he called voluntarily to talk with Burdick about matters which the witness said "had become common talk at that time." Mrs. Hull also had discussed it with him once during a call the minister made at the house. Asked to repeat the conver-by F. Potts Green, druggist.
