THE HILLTOP.

Yonder the hilltop rises; were you there How opulent a prospect would unfold-Forest and field beneath the morn out rolled. And summit climbing skyward like a star! About you and above you lucent air; Around your feet the gleaming kingcup gold, And little vestal violets, snowy-stoled; And near, in shadowy nooks, the maiden-

In the adjacent boughs the boon of song-Bird harmonies with leafy interludes, Guides to content and calm, sequestered

And far, so faint and far you cannot ken, The oppressive city with its moiling throng, The clamor, and the ceaseless surge of men,

"He revised his will later, owing to the deaths of certain members of his entourage, principally those of Cardinals Galimberti and Monaco la Valleta.

"The pope enjoyed a yearly income of about $1,500,000, of which he kept for his own expenses only $200,000. Of the balance $140,000 was at the disposal of the ardinals bains given to the same of the among the poor dioceses; $360,000 went to the prefecture of the Apostolic Palace; $200,000 went to the office of the secretary of the state for foreign business; $300,000 mask of green in order to save their skins. of the state for foreign business; $300,000 was spent on salaries to the Vatican personnel, and $200,000 went to schools and charity. The money which the pope reserved for himself was used, not only for his personal expenses, but also for his private charities and for purchasing art treasures and the presents that he made to sovereigns and other rulers.

"On the day following the election of Cardinal Pecci to the pontificate his relatives and nephews came to congratulate latives and nephews came to congratulate him. 'You may rejoice,' he said, 'at the high honor conferred on a member of your family, but remember that I shall never be a nepotesta and that, if some popes have enriched those near and dear to them, I do not intend to do so. He kept his word; whatever he has done for his nephews they have had to earn by work and merits. He speut a few thousand lire in restoring the old palace at Carpineto, for centuries the birthplace of his ancestors, where he the old palace at Carpineto, for centuries the birthplace of his ancestors, where he was born; he gave much for the foundation of hospitals and asylum in the remote Vol-scian mountans, but the sums came from his own private purse and were not drawn from the donations of the faith—from the humble and obscure alms of Christendom.

"The simplicity of his life is best exemplified by the frugality of his table. His food did not cost him $50 a month." A Roman newspaper lately gave these particulars about the magnificent collection of jewels belonging to the pope:

"The distribution of the collection of jewels after his death is a subject of much attention and auxiety to the pope as his life draws to a close. The collection is of great value, with few in the world, even among those in the possession of reigning houses, to equal it.

"One of its notable treasures, curiously enough, came to him from the hands of one of the most stubborn Protestants since Luther—ex-President Kruger. It is a diamond cut of the Kimberley mines, and is valued at $4,000,000 is valued at $4,000,000.

"In the collection are 30 tiaras set in diamonds, emeralds, rubies and pearls and more than a hundred rings, one of the most magnificent being a present from the sultan. Of gold crosses the collection contains 318, set with all kinds of precious stones. The number of chalices and vessels used in the ceremonies of the church exceeds 2,000, and they are all more or less richly incrusted with jewels of every existing variety. The tiara actually worn by the pope, splendid as it is, is far from being more being the equal of a dozen others which have been worn at the vatican since the days of Boniface VIII, each of which colipsed its predecessor in cost and beauty.

Green Whiskers ? Sure.

Keswick, Shasta county, has gained fame and notoriety in more ways than one. In the first place, its great smelter has given California high rank among the copper-producing States of the nation, says the San Francisco Journal. Above the great hive where 1,500 men work in shifts through every hour of the 24 there hangs always a pall of black smoke which can be seen for many miles. With the glow of the furnaces and roasters reflected upon it this pillar of cloud by day becomes a pillar of fire by night, and the sight has few equals. Then Keswick is a Leafless Town, for the sulphur fumes have licked up every blade of grass and every hardy weed and caused the trees within a radius of nearly a mile to shrivel, die and quickly rot away. Black whiskers, red whiskers, white whiskers, pink whiskers—all the endless shades from umber to maroon-are common enough; but green whiskers will shower of gifts as a tribute of respect from startle you at a glance, that is if you go to all nations. When he celebrated the diamond jubilee of his entering the priest- go about everywhere else in the world and hood the total value of the jubilee gifts was estimated to be more than $25,000,000. The chief items were:

"un no danger of being startled in this most remarkable way. Keswick hardly appreciates its distinction. Keswick is so used to green whiskers; and it is not as if some human oddity had come, like a pur-ple cow into the herd, to Keswick, but there are scores of men there whose hirsuite appendage is absolutely and unmistakably

> You will meet an elderly man in overalls and jumper coming down to the smel-ter gate with his lunch pail in his hand about time for the whistle to blow for change of shift. He is an intelligent, evenly balanced workingman, anything but a freak, and yet his flowing beard is about as green as stage grass in a play. If you bow he will lift his hat to you, and you will further observe that the fringe of thin locks about his bald spot is almost of the 100,000 same emerald tint as his beard. Here 100,000 comes a husky fellow with red cheeks. Under his pudgy nose there flares a fine mustache, and it is so green that it makes a striking contrast with his cardinal jowls. He is the last man in the world whom you would expect to find in the dye-room of the hair-dresser's. These two green-whiskered workers are but the advance guard of a small army which begins to ar-

The fact that all the green-whiskered and green-haired citizens of Keswick file in at the same gate gives a key to the mystery. It is what happens after they pass in through the gate, before they emerge again eight hours later, which makes them green. Many members of that little army are "roaster stiffs," and all work about the open-air roasters and in places where the heavy calcine smoke is continually streaming over them. The calcine acts upon every man that the sage. The will is not only a personal, but that his whiskers and his hair are changing that the sage of course the dve shows also a political. testament, the executors ing their colors. Of course the dye shows named being Cardinals Oreglia, Rampolla and Mocasini. In it he bequeathed property to his three nephews and two nieces. This document also contains directions for his funeral and tomb, and points out which of the jubilee presents received by him shall remain the property of the See of Rome and which are to be otherwise distributed as part of his private property.

Oddly enough it is the workmen whose work keeps them where their whiskers will change color who seem fondest of wearing beards. The calcine worker, as a rule, has whiskers. No other department of the smelter has—or had before the strike—so great a percentage of whiskered men in it. ance $140,000 was at the disposal of the cardinals, being given to those who live in Rome, each cardinal drawing a yearly income of $5,000; $92,000 was distributed among the poor discesses $260,000 growth.

mask of green in order to save their skins. The green is a good deal less than a scar, because it is permanent only while the owner of the whiskers is working in the fumes. Let him keep away from the calcine for a month or so and sunshine and simple treatment will bring back the hue that nature meant, or he can shave the green crop and bring out a fresh lot of another color.

The Successful Man.

The real successful man must combine in himself good stock, physical health, education, mental penetration and concentration, persistency, energy, enthusiasm, cheerfulness of disposition and politeness of demeanor.

Moral qualities are indispensable to true Moral qualities are indispensable to true success. They are important in securing mere earthly advancement. There is a tendency in virtue to temporal prosperity. Not all good people prosper, but the rule is that virtue has an earthly reward. The healthiest, wealthiest and wisest nations of the earth are the ones where the standard of morals is the highest ard of morals is the highest.

Benevolence is an element of success. There is a law of benevolence which seems to run through all human endeavor. The man who tills the farm that his fellows may have food and raiment, who builds a house where a home is enshrined and a family raised, who founds a business where just wages are paid, who makes at any trade a needed article, who contributes to the natural welfare of men, is a real benefactor. There is not a learned profession which does not express a benevolent spirit. Generosity pays; there is a giving which gets, a throwing away of seed on the ground which comes back in an increased harvest.

In the arithmetic of life, subtraction is often addition and division is multiplication. He who most faithfully serves his customers, clients, patients, scholars, purchasers, employes, employer, will, as a rule, have the largest temporal success. He only is fit for mastery in any calling who serves best. The leader of a nation can have no royalty like that of serving the humblest of his realm.—New York American. -Fourth of July statistics as gathered patriotism is not an empty dream.

BRUTALLY TORTURED .- A case came to light that for persistent and unmerciful torture has perhaps never been equaled. Joe Golobick, of Colusa, Calif, writes. "For 15 years I endured insufferable pain from rheumatism and nothing relieved me though I tried everything known. I came across Electric Bitters and it's the greatest medicine on earth for that trouble. A few bottles of it completely relieved and cured me." Just as good for liver and kidney troubles and general debility. Only 50c. Satisfaction guaranteed by Greens, druggists.

How much we owe to the sympathetic side of womankind. When others suffer they cheerfully lend a helping hand. They tell you the means which brought relief to them that you may profit by their experience. Read the testimony given here by a Bellefonte woman.

Mrs. L. A. Miles, of High street says: "I was very much troubled with my back and with rheumatism. This latter affected my heart and besides I had neuralgia. My rest was very much broken from nervousness and the kidney secretions embarrassed me when my back was aching badly. I was told about Doan's Kidney Pills by a woman who came I'miles to get them and she was surprised that I was not acquainted with their merits I immediately went to the Bush Block drug store and got them. Well, they did any amount of good. I was astonished at the result of their use and for the pain and lameness soon left me. They also banished the tired feeling I had mornings. I can conscientiously recommend Doan's Kidney Pills."
