The result of the collision was one platform wrecked on a Bellefonte Central coach and the passengers well shaken up.
- -Hard P. Harris had a bit of bad luck last week that has caused him keen disappointment. In January he ordered a fine new funeral car, built specially for himself and designed for Bellefonte and it was promised early in the spring but was not shipped until last week. Then the train that was bringing it to Bellefonte was wrecked and the car broken to pieces. It will now be late in October before he receives another one.
- -White black berries will doubtless sound very much like an anomaly to most readers and there will be some who will scarcely believe that such things exist. But they do, for the window of the WATCH-MAN office has displayed a cluster of them for about a week and they have attracted no end of attention. The white berries are almost identical with the black ones in semble a white mulberry very much.

A SAD DROWNING AT HANNAH FUR-NACE.-Early Tuesday morning John W. Beckwith, a prominent citizen of Taylor township, was drowned in a little stream of water that flows by his home. The circumstances of the accident are very sad. Mr. Beckwith was suffering with an attack of typhoid fever at the time. His condition had been so serious that he couldn't even be told of the death and burial on Sunday of his friend, George McGrady, who died of the same disease. Monday night he seemed better and Mrs. Beckwith, who was with him, was very much encouraged by his condition. But he became seized with a desire to take a bath in the cooling waters of the stream evening. near their home. When he told his wife of it she remonstrated with him, saying it would never do. The matter was apparently dropped then and towards morning he said he felt so much better that he thought he could sleep and suggested that Mrs. Beckwith lie down on a couch in but upon awaking only a few moments iing by entertaining a party of friends at later she was borrified to find her husband | tion. gone. The family was aroused at once -On Saturday evening the Milesburg and a search organized, but it was some U. O. A. M. will hold a festival in their time before a trio of neighbors, George M. Walk, Daniel Hardy and A. C. Williams, discovered his dead body in the stream

> He had nothing on but his shirt and stockings and was lying crosswise in the his back and the top of his head on the surface, his arms and feet downward as if he had been walking and fell forward. Mr. Williams jumped down into the water and fastened a line about the body by which it was pulled around the north abutment and carried to the home he had left only a short time before. While some will say "it was suicide" there is very little ground for such a conjecture. Mr. Beckwith was well off financially, his family relations were extremely pleasant, he occupied an honorable position in his community and was a working member of the church of which he was a trustee and treasurer of the building committee. In fact there is nothing to give loft in their barn on Friday and broke his credence to a suicide theory and everything to encourage the belief that in the delirium of the fever he thought a bath in the cool water of that stream would relieve him. In fact when a boy he had the fever in the West and by eluding his father and mother got into a stream. They thought, of course, it would kill him, but he recovered and ever since he had recalled the incident. With this in his mind he probably went to try it again and died from exhaustion, for when taken out there was not a particle of water in his body.

John W. Beckwith was a son of Edward and Harriet Beckwith, both of whom are yet living in Taylor township and are about 80 years old. He was born in this county, also survive.

Interment was made yesterday morning at 10 o'clock, after services had been held at his late home.

A VERY ACCEPTABLE DONATION .- Recently a party of ladies in Bellefonte effected an informal organization to make a comreorganized lately and is fast getting into bination donation to the hospital. > NEW FIXTURES FOR THE POST-OFFICE. -The new fixtures for the Bellefonte postoffice have arrived and are in place; giving the interior of the new location and entirely different appearance from what the temporary equipment that has been in use since July 1st, gave it.

> The furnishing is in light oak and covers casements for 297 boxes, a window for the carriers, general delivery, money orders, stamps and Registers. The last four are side-by-side, giving the clerks inside observation of all of them at the same time. To the front of the office is a small apartment set aside for the postmaster's private use. The boxes are locked with Yale combination locks, thus doing away with the necessity for keys. The effect of the fixtures is very pleasing, though the amount of space left for patrons of the office is noticeably smaller than it wasin the old quarters. However that may not cause much inconvenience at any other times than on Sunday morning, everything but color and in that they re- when there is no delivery and a large crowd gathers to lift the mail personally.

THE PENNSYLVANIA FISH COMMISSION HERE.-Yesterday six distinguished gentlemen representing the Fish Commission of the Commonwealth were in Bellefonte to formally receive title to the property which they had previously selected as a site for the new hatchery for brook trout, which was provided for at the recent session of the Legislature. The ceremonial attending the transfer was entirely impromptu, but it proved so pleasant that it will long be remembered as quite an innovation in the official lives of the gentlemen who have in charge the work of keeping the streams and lakes of Pennsylvania stocked with fish.

The visitors were Hon. W. E. Meehan, of Harrisburg, Fish Commissioner of Pennsylvania; Hon. Henry C. Cox, of Wellsboro; Hon. Andrew R. Whitaker, of Phoenixville; Hon. Charles L. Miller, of Altoona; and Maj. Barton D. Evans, of Harrisburg; who is secretary of the Commission. After dinner at the Bush house they were taken in carriages, headed by a band, to the court house, where a fine audience had assembled to witness the transfer. Judge Love presided at the meeting and after briefly recounting the incidents leading up to the final location of the hatchery at this place he turned over the deeds to the property to Commissioner Meehan. The latter then accepted them in the name of the Commonwealth and for the use of the fish commission; highly complimenting the public spiritedness of our community in raising so quickly the funds needed to purchase the site for the hatchery. In the course of his remarks Commissioner Meeban stated that with the acquisition of the new hatchery here they hope to increase the annual output of trout fry from four to ten million. At the conclusion of his remarks secretary Evans read a resolution which the Commissioners adopted yesterday morning in which they formally thanked the citizens of Centre and adjacent counties for their interest in the work of fish propagation and also decided to name

the new hatchery, the Bellefonte Hatchery. Immediately after this ceremony the local committee, with a few invited guests, took the visitors for a drive out to the site of the hatchery near Pleasant Gap and went from there to the Nittany Country club, where a chicken and waffle supper was served last evening.

The committee that raised the funds and pressed considerable surprise at finding it arranged for the entertainment comprised Hon. John G. Love, Col. W. F. Reeder, Joseph L. Montgomery, Jno. M. Shugert, Hard P. Harris, Jno. L. Knisely, T. H. Harter, S. Kline Woodring, Robert L. Montgomery, Jos. Rightnour, James C. Furst and Geo. R. Meek.

> The guests for the drive and supper were Hon. A. O. Furst, Chas. M. McCurdy, Hon. Fred Kurtz, E. C. Tuten, John P. Harris, Capt. H. S. Taylor, W. H. Noll Jr. and W. Harrison Walker.

The gentlemen present at the meeting were P. P. Rittman, G. W. A. MacDonald, Geo. W. Mason, James H. Rothrock, Frank Kinsloe, D. I. McNaul, Torrence Shearer and R. H. Stewart, of Lock Haven; T. J. Smull, of Mackeyville; Capt. S. H. Bennison, of Abdera; O. E. Miles, of Milesburg; Hammon Sechler, Frank Warfield, J. D. Sourbeck, J. Will Conley, Fred Heaton at the store in Roland. A greater Kurtz, W. Harrison Walker, A. C. Mingle, portion of the household goods were saved. | Jno. I. Olewine, Jno. M. Bullock, Francis Speer, Roger T. Bayard and Geo. R. Meek, of Bellefonte.

After vice president Rittman had called the meeting to order the acting secretary, J. Will Conley read the minutes of the meeting in Lock Haven. They were approved, after which the committees made heir report.

The only matters in which the public are interested are the entertainments that are to be provided for them and from present indication they will be many. First of all the Harrisburg and Williamsport state league base ball teams will play at the park, there will be running races for horses, fine fire works, a minstrel show and cake walk, the Germania orchestra of Lock Haven and the Bellefonte orchestra will play for dancing and two bands will be present at the park. All of the minor amusements of former years have been abandoned in order that more pretentious implement that was standing there. Upon ones might be secured. She is in Pennsylvania now and the committee hopes to secure the notorious Kansan for an address at the park.

It is only fair to the public to state that all of these entertainments will be free, except the ball game and the circus-if it is accepted as an attraction by the committee. Such a larg guarantee has to be paid to these league ball teams that an admission of 25 cts is necessary to defray that his friends. When they get to writing nearly a million in six months then the home office gets to hauling them around in automobiles, six-in-hands and presents with diamond watch charms. Next mor and Mrs. Grauer will take a trip to Colorado Springs, Col., as one of the prizes he has won for hard work.
- -On Saturday that veteran Democrat J. A Swartz, of Hublersburg, was in town pointing out the improvements about the place to a gentleman who on first glance appeared to be a stranger, ye a second look recalled a face and a name that were familiar here over a quarter of a century ago. It was H. S. Emerick, of Chicago. He hadn't been here for thirty-two years and it was no wonder every thing looked changed but the hills. Mr. Emerick is one of the Nittany valley family of that name and once worked in Brown & Cook's store in this place. In fact they wer the primary cause of his leaving this country, for in the Lincoln campaign they told him that if he would vote for Lincoln they would continue to have work for him. If not they could not tell what the consequences would be. It is needless to say that Mr. Emerick did not vote for Lincoln, so the day after the election he discharged him self and went West and from his apparently else, hence the solitary peach is just as ac- found next morning.
