MRS. MARY HULL-Mrs. Mary Hull, relict of the late Samuel Hull, died at the home of her daughter, in McKeesport, on Wednesday, and her body was brought here last evening. It was taken to the home of her son John on Bishop street, where funeral services will be conducted this afternoon at 4 o'clock.

Mrs. Hull was about 70 years old and left Bellefonte several years ago, since which time she has made her home with her daughter, Mrs. Krick. Her death must have been quite sudden as her children here knew nothing of her being ill. She was a conscientious, christian woman whose virtues were apparent in her every day life. Rev. Wood of the Methodist church, of which she was a devoted member, will officiate at the funeral this after-

Her children are : Benjamin, Lewistown; John, James and Mrs. William Rhinesmith, Bellefonte; Mrs. Frank Westcott, Reynoldsville; Mrs. Todd Massey, New Kensington, and Mrs. James Krick, of McKeesport.

MRS. AMOS GARBRICK. - Elizabeth Stover, wife of Amos Garbrick, the wellknown Coleville ice man, died at their home at that place early Friday morning. She had been suffering for five months with dropsy and while her death has caused an irreparable loss to near and dear ones it was not unexpected.

KILLED ON THE RAILBOAD. - Daniel Bowers, aged 25 years, a son of Bowers, of Julian, was killed on the Pennsylvania railroad at Irwin on Friday evening. The young man was a brakeman on the Pittsburg division and fell from his train while it was running and. rolling onto another track, was struck by a way passenger; his body being frightfully mangled. He was picked up and taken to Greensburg where an undertaker prepared the remains for burial and sent them to his late home in this county. His parents and two brothers survive. A strange fatality has followed this family. One brother lost his life on the railwoods, and a third has only one leg as a result of a railroad accident.

KILLED NEAR PHILIPSBURG .- Walking on the railroad track to carry her husband's dinner to him Mrs. Charles Long, of Philipsburg, was run down by a train, on Monday morning, and almost instantly killed. She was on her way out toward Graham, where Mr. Long was at work, when the accident occurred. Witnesses of it placed her in a passing wagon and hurried to the Cottage hospital, but she was dead before she reached that institution. Mrs. Long was quite hard of hearing and it is supposed she did not notice the train approaching. She was a very nice woman and her death has thrown the pall of gloom over a large circle of friends in Philipsburg. Surviving her are her aged husband and several chil-

-The Milesburg band is going to hold a festival in the fire company building in that place on Saturday evening, August 22nd, and among other attractions advertised is a high dive act. Anyone familiar with the place will recall the high iron bridge that spans Bald Eagle creek between Milesburg and Central City. It is from that structure that a boy will dive on the evening of the festival, a feat that will doubtless attract a great many people to the place.

-During the storm that passed over that section last Thursday evening lightning struck J. H. Miller's barn near Rock Springs, while several of the family were in it doing the work. The barn was filled with dust and sulphur fumes but all of the persons escaped without serious injury. Miss Miller was knocked down, Sumner Miller was also badly stunned. For awhile there was consternation among the inmates, but when the dust had settled and the sulphur cleared away it was found that no one was hurt and there was general rejoicing at their fortunate escape.

----In making mention of the fifty gowns made for the hospital by a party of Bellefonte ladies, in our last issue, we inadvertently missed Mrs. John N. Lane who was really the prime mover in the whole thing. In fact it was Mrs. Lane, herself who gave us the information and the list of those who aided in the work but modesty evidently prevented her telling the true story and even placing her own name among the list of sewers. We know that she will even be very much displeased at this notice of our over-sight, but the WATCHMAN is determined to place credit James Snodgrass, died at her home at Par-
