

A NEW IDEA ADVANCED.—The discussion that has been going on at intervals ever since the Curtin memorial and soldier's monument became more than an ideal in the minds of its promoters has brought out many suggestions as to what would be the most lasting and appropriate manner of memorial to erect.

Some have urged a monolith or shaft, others a hospital, others a public library and museum and of late there has been considerable sentiment crystallizing around a thought dropped by Gen. Beaver at the last annual gathering of the Veterans' Association, at Pine Grove Mills, in which he suggested the future purchasing of the home of the late War Governor and converting it into a soldiers' retreat, museum, library and home for the D. A. R. A gentleman has continued the discussion by injecting an entirely new idea into it, which we publish below for your consideration. Whatever else may be said of it, in theory it is ideal.

EDITOR OF THE DEMOCRATIC WATCHMAN:

Dear Sir: As an humble reader of your worthy paper I have noticed a number of suggestions relative to the best method of investing the funds raised for a monument in honor of Gov. A. G. Curtin and the soldiers. The suggestions have been commendable ones and worthy of consideration; but as I view the matter, the thought occurs to me that there is still another way of investing the money that will prove more beneficial than those that have been suggested.

The monument towering to the skies teaches many useful lessons to those who are capable of grasping the higher meaning, but for us to learn the aesthetic lesson of pure, lofty and noble lives from the sculptor's art, as depicted in the massive structure of granite, we must first have the ability to have and to hold lofty ideals and pure motives. These may be inherited, but their true beauty can only be fully realized by a systematic development, which may be partially obtained through our surroundings, and by educational advantages.

No new principle is formed in the mind of a person by observing the skill of an artist; it only has the tendency to bring forth that which already exists.

No alleviation for a single individual can be found in a cold marble monument; it only touches the emotions through the eye, as appreciated by some, condemned by others, and is of necessity of short duration, while that which starts a new desire for a more noble life, and enables one to grasp higher ideals not only assists one to appreciate the aesthetic side of art and nature, but it implants in a human being the only true and substantial monument in memory of him who was the cause of planting the new seed from which lives for generations are lifted from degradation and made the bulwark of the Nation.

It is true that Gov. A. G. Curtin has left his memory in the hearts of a grateful State and Nation in being instrumental in founding a more perfect free school system and a home for the soldier's orphan; but there are today thousands of neglected and homeless boys in the towns and cities of Pennsylvania who, through lack of proper employment, become vagrants and eventually menaces of society.

To my mind there is a wide field in which to work, and in which to build a grand, lofty monument which will last while the ages roll, and who knows but that it may form the bridge over which many may reach eternity? Build it in the hearts and lives of the neglected and homeless boys of our land; teach them to be men of lofty ideals through industry and example; teach them to expand and exercise the intellectual and physical powers that have been entrusted to their own resources, and thereby enable them to be true, upright, conscientious American citizens: This to my mind is not an impossibility, but may be fully realized, and by so doing a perennial monument will be constructed in honor of the late Gov. A. G. Curtin which, I believe, the Governor, if living, would heartily approve and commend.

Why spend thousands of dollars for that which gratifies the eye of a few? Why invest in that which will not only please the passer-by but will as well satisfy the physical and intellectual lives of the neglected youths of the rising generations?

Why not purchase a farm in the vicinity of Bellefonte, and erect there on a home and retreat for the boys of our towns and cities who without proper training and employment are drifting into channels of vice and vagrancy?

In a home of this kind the boys can be provided with employment, and with all that is necessary for fully developing their intellectual and physical powers, and be taught that independence comes through industry, and that industry, with economy, leads to wealth, power and influence. A boy who is taught to be industrious and upright will not in after years be an inmate of a penal institution; for such persons, as a rule, come from the boys of our towns and cities who spend their time loafing on the street corners.

An institution of this kind will be self-sustaining, to say nothing of the hundreds of boys who can look back with pride and say "I am a man because of the lessons received through the honor and name of Gov. A. G. Curtin," and the soldiers of Centre county.

Our thanks are due Hon. J. Will Kepler for a copy of the latest edition of Smull's Hand Book.

On Tuesday night Luther Sunday, of Fairbrook, found one of his good horses dead in the pasture field.
