There's just as much difference in RAINCOATS as in the man who wears them. Some men are just a little ahead in style; ditto Raincoats. You will find no Raincoats in any Bellefonte store such as we are showing—fresh this week from the tailor's hands, with a character that does well toward their makers. Broad, concave shouldered coats that have style and elegance, that look as well when unbuttoned as when buttoned. Its all due to the thoroughness of the making.

In heavy or medium weight; plain black, gray, tan, gray mixtures, brown plaids and mixtures, black and white effects in either material that is quite rain proof, yet looks no different from any other overcoat goods or the smooth finished material by which at a glance you may tell it is a Raincoat. Dressy as any overcoat and yet water-proof. $12.50, $15, $18 upwards, according to the material and tailoring.

Cooler weather enforces the demand for heavier Underwear and those who know the unvariable superiority of our assortment will not think of going elsewhere. Heaviest and medium weights in wool or cotton, or mixtures, at prices enough less to make you wonder if Underwear really has gone up in price.

Owing to early and heavy purchases we are enabled to say that our Underwear for this Fall and Winter has not advanced over last year's prices.
