Wonders of the Yukon.

Great River Sixty Miles Wide at One Point.

The Yukon river has some peculiarities of its own that are interesting. The size of that great river may be misapprehended by our geographers that the "Missouri to the sea" is the longest river in the world, being 4000 miles in length; that the Amazon is the widest, being 40 miles across at its mouth.

Those of us who have been out of school for some years never heard much about the Yukon, says a correspondent of the Chicago Record-Herald.

We have heard much also about the difficulties of its navigation in the summer time. The two big companies in the early days, even as late as two years ago, used Indian pilots, changing every 200 or 300 miles, because the Indians knew the channel, and no one Indian knew it for more than the distance in the vicinity of his own native haunts.

These pilots were paid as high as $30 a day for their services, and often a steamer was obliged to spend the night at the bank to allow the pilot to go home to see his family.

The white men were invariably deep-sea sailors who were pressed into service. The fact was that the Indians knew absolutely no more about the river channel than one who had never seen it, excepting where it happened to be floating about the low, wooded islands.

For Christmas shopping the Fauble Stores will meet with your approval. Everything that man or boy can use.

A POOR WAY.—It's a poor way to sit down to one's table, with the pains of dyspepsia in one's stomach.

It is remarkable what a salutary effect this medicine has on the stomach and other digestive organs. If you are dyspeptic take this medicine, and take it now—in advance of the Christmas dinner.

Let the Fauble Stores be your Santa Claus. You will be sure to please him—man or boy.

No More Gifts to Teachers.

At a meeting of the Allentown, board of school control a protest was made against the practice of pupils presenting gifts to teachers around the holidays, and the superintendent was directed to see that the laws forbidding the practice be enforced.

Eel Created Consternation.

Specimen Captured for Exhibition at the World's Fair Frightened Women and Eluded Men in Depot at Pittsburg, Pa.

There were large doings at the union station, Pittsburg, a few days ago. A rough house was caused by a monstrous eel getting loose and wriggling amongst the legs of bystanders.

When the eel broke jail, fish attendant, baggagemen, brakemen, and other attaches of the station all made grabs for him.

Terror was added to the excitement by some one raising a cry that he would bite. Women grabbed their skirts and screamed, and men looked foolish.

Twenty-Three in one Grave.

In one large trench in St. Bridget's cemetery at Lilly, Friday afternoon, were buried the bodies of 21 of the Italians who were burned to death last Saturday morning, together with the bodies of the two men who died in the Memorial hospital from the effects of burns.

Three of the men now in the hospital are in a very serious condition and their death is said to be only a matter of hours.

Grocers' Bills on the Doors.

York has a grocer who has set out to collect some of his old bills by posting them on the outside of his store, and thus getting officers of the law after him.

TRUSTS GOING OUT OF BUSINESS

That is a head-line you don't see in the new columns of this paper. The trusts are not breaking up into the smaller concerns that were merged into them.

There is only one trouble with the trusts. They enable men to produce more wealth with less waste of energy than was ever possible before but they take most of the wealth away from those who do the work and give it to those who do the owning of stocks and bonds.

Suppose that we work for a living should decide to do the owning ourselves, and to run the trusts for the benefit of all.
