"Poor Bride" An Heiress

ding-Then Told Him She was Worth $500.000.

Monday afternoon of last week William J. Marshall, a young Washington business man, and Miss Emma B. Nixon, a prominent Cincinnati society girl, were quietly married at Washington, Pa., Marshall, who is a man of moderate means, had made preparations for a wedding trip of two weeks to the East.

After the ceremony he was informed by his wife that she was the possessor of $500,-000, and that she had made arrangements for a trip around the globe. She had kept her wealth a secret from her fiance, who compared with 97 last year and a nine year

December average of 96.

The newly seeded area of winter rye is provisionally estimated at 98.0 per cent. of the area sown in the fall of 1902. The condition of winter rye on December 1, was 92.7 compared with 98.1 on December 1, 1902, and 96 6, the mean of the averages for the last nine years.

Pennsylvania shows a per centage of 99 in acreage sown as compared with December, last year, and an average condition of 94, compared with 96 last December and a nine year December average of 97.

The final estimates of the total acreage, production and value of the principal crops of 1903, will be issued on December 58.

Cuts Tooth at 84. Aged Woman Regains her Euesight and Her Hair is

Mrs. Rosa Perkins, 84 years old, who has been a resident of Huntingdon, Mass., for the last thirty-two years, is renewing her youth in reality. She has just cut a tooth, in spite of her advanced age, and says she finds it a great help in eating.

Mrs. Perkins has worn eyeglasses for many years, but of late her sight has improved to such an extent that she has discarded them and says she can see as well as when she was young. Her hair has also started to grow in many places, and it is as black as when Mrs. Perkins was a girl.

This is considered remarkable by her friends, for her hair has been almost snow white for many years. Mrs. Perkins is in excellent health and is very active for a 48-41. Faults of Our Education

"Education and Religion" was the sub-Hadley, president of Yale University, who was the speaker at the special auniversary services held on Wednesday night in the Second Presbyterian church, Twenty-first

Mr. Hadley dealt principally with the two parties who are at present sharply divided on the educational question; those who believe that education should be strictly restricted to mental training as op-we shall see that this conflict is a great exaggeration, and if men were what they or about half the amount that had been ought to be there would be no difference of opinion. The advocate of purely secular intelligent description of the thieves. instruction says that a very large part of the poverty, vice and crime in the world is the result of ignorance, and that if ignorance is removed crime will disappear. That there is a great deal of truth in this every thinking man will admit. But much of the poverty of the world is due to idleness, and vice and crime to perverseness rather than to ignorance.

"Thus it is clear that something more than mere knowledge is necessary to make than mere knowledge is necessary to make a good citizen. I agree with them as to the evil, but disagree as to the remedy. The idea of adding religion to secular instruction seems to me fundamentally wrong. The two should go hand in hand. Education should be spiritual.

"In the present day too much stress is laid on the element of imparting knowledge and too little on the habit of forming ideals. This comes from the fact that there are so many things to be known in these days. The ill-ordered system of electives in our colleges, the desultoriness of the disciplinary studies in our high schools, the ill-judged methods employed in our kindergartens, all lead to the gradual diminution in the necessary teaching of habits of regularity and pertinacity which our fathers enjoyed. Knowledge is a good thing, but we want to add discipline to knowledge."

She came to Washington a few week ago to visit a sister, and then became engaged to Marshall. She desired to have the wedwill cost you double postage. Be sure and put your name and address on the outside of the package as well as that of the person to whom it is sent. The name of the ding quietly celebrated, and there were no guests present but the members of the two families. sender should also be placed in the package but nothing else, the name being all that is allowed by Uncle Sam within the package at the merchandise rate of one cent per ounce. Write the address plainly, for the carriers and postoffice clerks will have all the business they can attend to without warring over an illegible address. Marshall, when informed by his wife that she was a wealthy woman, was al-most dumbfounded. The couple will leave in a week for San Fraucisco, and will sail for the Orient. They will tour the globe and be gone several months. They will then reside in a mansion owned by Mrs. Marshall in Cincinnati. without worrying over an illegible address.
